Commitment

Since 1984, LARCO medical has taken pride in providing a full line of home medical products and equipment and offering the most compassionate and caring service in the region. Our philosophy originated from the name our founders, Grover and Geneva Miller, gave to the company; Love And Respect Caring for Others. Grover and Geneva's grandson Randy Chaffin, President/CEO of LARCO Medical, continues to use this motto to guide the company.

For generations of families, LARCO has been a trusted health care partner providing a broad range of products, services and equipment. We view home medical care as an enduring relationship between our company and you.

Personal Care

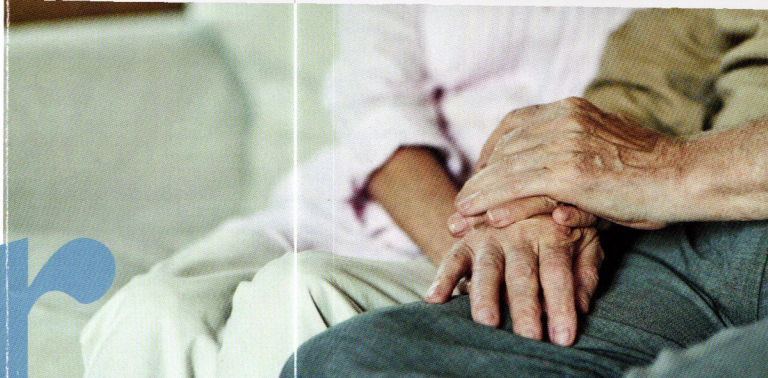

Grover and Geneva Miller started LARCO Medical as a very small business in 1984. Even through inclement weather, they delivered their products with loving care from the back of their family stationwagon.

Today a team of LARCO employees manages that same quality service. Your equipment is not drop-shipped to your home by an outside vendor whose warehouse is hundreds of miles away. Nor are you required to assemble and install your own equipment - we do it for you. We test it to ensure it functions as designed. Then we show you how to use it.

Caring Staff

Each of our trusted LARCO employees is insured, and submits to a rigorous background check. Be assured that the LARCO employee who delivers and services your equipment, products and supplies has our complete confidence. We believe the person you invite into your home should be someone you like and trust.

We are dedicated to providing families in our region with the best possible equipment and with products and supplies that are delivered and serviced by compassionate LARCO professionals. Our goal is to always treat you the way we would want to be treated.

Insurance Assistance

LARCO Medical is one of the few home medical providers in the region that offers direct billing to your insurance company. Whether you are insured through Medicare, Medicaid or a private insurance carrier, often the requirements for billing are complex and unfamiliar for the average customer.

Insurance requirements are constantly evolving. We at LARCO understand that you need all the guidance we can provide so you can choose the best equipment at the most affordable price. We consider it part of our service to help you and your family understand the best options available under your insurance plan.

Quality Products

We don't just provide health care equipment, products and supplies; we provide a better quality of life. When you require high-quality, durable home medical equipment, products and supplies, LARCO is here. We strive to bring the hospital home to you, so you and your loved ones can achieve the highest level of independence and functionality in the privacy of your own home.
