The 42 albums that make up the iconic Matchbox Bluesmaster Series were released on vinyl by Saydisc Records between Nov 1982 and June 1988. The originating 78 rpm records (many of them extremely rare) were provided by several collectors under the editorship of well known Austrian collector, Johnny Parth who had already created his extensive Roots Records label which Saydisc distributed in the UK and the Matchbox Bluesmaster Series was a carefully sculpted edition of black blues roots music giving a broad spectrum of the genre. Putting this music into perspective are the very valuable notes by Paul Oliver who was a world authority on early blues and travelled in the US extensively to try and trace any remaining details of these sometimes obscure people. With these early recordings we gain a rare insight into the world of black musicians of the day illuminated by reading Paul's notes alongside listening to the music they performed.

This sampler has excerpts from the sixth set of 6 CDs and features more goodtime 'hokum' music than on previous sets, with offerings from banjo playing Papa Charlie Jackson, wild jug band renditions from the Memphis Jug Band and happy-go-lucky songs from the Mississippi Sheiks, Leecan and Cooksey and Barbecue Bob. All this tempered with some deep blues from piano playing maestro Roosevelt Sykes and his friends.
