Presents

Liberty Kifer

Liberty is a life-long lover of card games, word games, logic puzzles, and brain-twisters of all kinds. She fell into tabletop game design thanks to her kids, who inspired her to make her first card game. That first idea led to another, and eventually crowdfunding that second game on Kickstarter, and finally publication of that game into retail, including mass market placement in Barnes & Noble. She is currently wrapping up development on her second game with a co-designer and beginning the process of pitching to publishers. Liberty will briefly discuss and answer questions about the game design process, design contests, prototyping, artwork and graphic design, and publishing. She will also have her games to demonstrate to anyone interested in learning more about them.
