

JAMEK

Ried Klaus Riesling

This wine is usually referred to as "Federspiel". As nature does, this wine from the 2021 vintage has become a little too strong. With an alcohol content of 13% vol, the designation Federspiel has to be dropped this year. This was the case recently with our 2012 vintage from Ried Klaus. The Klaus is, so to speak, the continuation of the Achleiten, but is separated from it by the path that serves as a border, which also represents a geological fault line. The name can be traced back to the old term "Kleyss" and describes a bottleneck, which is self-explanatory by looking at the old Wachauweg, which leads along the Klaus.

TASTING NOTES

Colors of medium green-yellow with silver reflections. Aromas of honey blossom, peach, mango, tangerine zest and quince. The flavors are juicy and taut with well-integrated acidity and minerality. This wine has notes of white stone fruit on the finish. It's good to pair with food and has excellent aging potential.

FOOD PAIRINGS

Crab, sole, sushi, bass, and fish tacos.

VARIETAL

Riesling

ALCOHOL

13%

95 Points | Robert Parker

95 Points | Falstaff

92 Points | Wine Enthusiast

91 Points | Wine Spectator