Our Authors Study Club, Inc.
A 501(C)(3) AFFILIATE OF ASALH · LOS ANGELES

History Needs You.

At the Root of it all, Who will tell our stories...

Help keep Black history, literature and culture alive in the Southland and beyond. When you join OASC, you automatically become a member of ASALH, the world's oldest learned society for African American history, founded by Dr. Carter G. Woodson in 1915. You join a community of readers, writers and history-keepers, and your dues go to work right here at home.

BONUS

Join by November 23 and see your name in print

Members who join or renew by 11/23 are listed in the city-wide 2027 LA DCA Black History Month Calendar & Cultural Guide.

What you gain

- Free digital access to the Journal of African American History, Black History Bulletin & Fire!
- Early access to the Black History Month Bus Tour
- Invitations to members-only author talks, cultural celebrations & mixers
- 10% off at Malik Books · 20% off OASC lapel pins
- Discounts on events, merchandise & ASALH conference fees
- Spotlight your book or business in our member directory
- A vote in local elections and ASALH's national Executive Council

What your membership makes possible

- Scholarships for local youth
- Preserving local history by documenting Black life in the Southland
- A stage for Black authors and the stories they tell
- Year-round celebrations of Black history and culture
- Dr. Woodson's mission, carried forward for the next generation

2027 National Theme: From Black Print Culture to Digital Blackness (get full executive summary at asalh.org)

Two easy ways to join

Scan to join

1 · Online (fast & secure)

Join or renew and pay by card at oascla.org/membership or on Zeffy: zeffy.com/en-US/ticketing/our-authors-study-club-of-los-angeles-inc-membership-application

2 · By mail

Send the application with a check or money order to: Our Authors Study Club, Inc., PO Box 361454, Los Angeles, CA 90036