

Sankofa Speakers Bureau Call for Speakers

The Our Authors Study Club (OASC) invites members and community partners to join the Sankofa Speakers Bureau, a dynamic initiative designed to expand public engagement and advance the teaching and preservation of African American history throughout the Los Angeles region.

Through this program, speakers will help:

- Increase community awareness of OASC's mission and legacy
- Educate audiences about the significance of Black history year-round
- Inspire dialogue on issues impacting the African American community
- Strengthen partnerships with schools, civic organizations, and cultural institutions

We welcome individuals interested in speaking about Dr. Carter G. Woodson, the origins and evolution of Black history commemorations, Our Authors Study Club, and topics of importance to the communities we serve.

Establishing a formal speakers bureau allows OASC to broaden its educational reach while cultivating leadership, scholarship, and community connection.
