

The Homeless Solution

Homeless that have not committed crimes

First the State should attempt to find family or friends that would be willing to have them live in their homes, and if required pay for transportation to reunite them. If the first option is not possible provide facilities where they can get temporary housing, where no illegal drugs or alcohol are allowed, where being under the influence of illegal drugs or alcohol is not allowed, and if they have an addiction treatment is required and mandatory.

Drug addicted Homeless that have committed Crimes

Crime must be stopped and not allowed to spread. The State must provide facilities where drug addicted persons that commit crimes like significant shoplifting, assault, use illegal hard drugs, etc., can be detained, gotten off drugs, given mandatory treatment, and attempt to reunite them with family or friends that will house them. If the person is released early into the care of family or responsible friend and they go back on drugs, at the request of either if there is still time left in their required detention time, they can be taken back to the State facility.

Homeless who are a mental loss cause because of drug addiction or for other reasons after treatment has failed that are a danger to themselves or others may have to be housed in a facility for the rest of their lives. It is inhumane to have mentally ill people that cannot be cured wondering around our street.
