Dear Parishioners: We extend a warm welcome to regular parishioners, family members, and visitors during Masses. Our hope is that everyone may find a spiritual home with us. We are blessed to have four vibrant parishes in our local area. May God bless and protect everyone who is traveling during the summer.

In the Gospel, Jesus continues to teach about the Kingdom of God in parables. A person sells all they have to purchase a single pearl; another finds a treasure, hides it, and buys the field in which it is buried. What are we searching for in life? What has lasting value? In both parables, the person gives all they have to possess one thing, the Kingdom of God. The final parable about the good and bad fish is similar to the parable of the weeds and wheat. God will come to judge us. In conclusion, we are called to employ God’s wisdom, discern what is good, and serve as good stewards of God’s many blessings.

May God bless you.

Sincerely in Christ, Fr. Greg

Dear Parishioners: We extend a warm welcome to regular parishioners, family members, and visitors during Masses. Our hope is that everyone may find a spiritual home with us. We are blessed to have four vibrant parishes in our local area. May God bless and protect everyone who is traveling during the summer.

In the Gospel, Jesus continues to teach about the Kingdom of God in parables. A person sells all they have to purchase a single pearl; another finds a treasure, hides it, and buys the field in which it is buried. What are we searching for in life? What has lasting value? In both parables, the person gives all they have to possess one thing, the Kingdom of God. The final parable about the good and bad fish is similar to the parable of the weeds and wheat. God will come to judge us. In conclusion, we are called to employ God’s wisdom, discern what is good, and serve as good stewards of God’s many blessings.

May God bless you.

Sincerely in Christ,

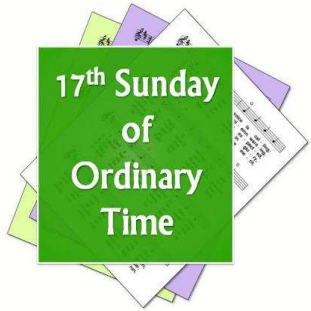

Fr. Greg

In the Gospel, Jesus continues to teach about the Kingdom of God in parables. A person sells all they have to purchase a single pearl; another finds a treasure, hides it, and buys the field in which it is buried. What are we searching for in life? What has lasting value? In both parables, the person gives all they have to possess one thing, the Kingdom of God. The final parable about the good and bad fish is similar to the parable of the weeds and wheat. God will come to judge us. In conclusion, we are called to employ God’s wisdom, discern what is good, and serve as good stewards of God’s many blessings.

May God bless you.

Sincerely in Christ,

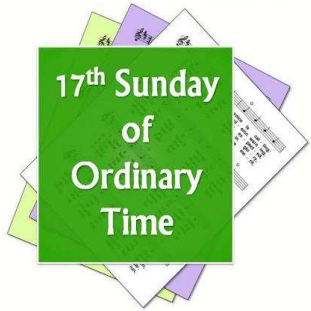

Fr. Greg

Dear Parishioners: We extend a warm welcome to regular parishioners, family members, and visitors during Masses. Our hope is that everyone may find a spiritual home with us. We are blessed to have four vibrant parishes in our local area. May God bless and protect everyone who is traveling during the summer.

In the Gospel, Jesus continues to teach about the Kingdom of God in parables. A person sells all they have to purchase a single pearl; another finds a treasure, hides it, and buys the field in which it is buried. What are we searching for in life? What has lasting value? In both parables, the person gives all they have to possess one thing, the Kingdom of God. The final parable about the good and bad fish is similar to the parable of the weeds and wheat. God will come to judge us. In conclusion, we are called to employ God’s wisdom, discern what is good, and serve as good stewards of God’s many blessings.

May God bless you.

Sincerely in Christ,

Fr. Greg
