Why Do Catholics Use the Sign of the Cross in Mass and Everyday Life?

Catholics use the sign of the cross daily in Mass and prayer. Not merely saying, "amen" but sending the holy prayer before the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit in declaration and action. Mass is a service filled with prayers, tradition, and remembrance of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. Mass is an intimate service of connecting with God, and the use of the sign of the cross outwardly recognize each Person of the Trinity, and lastly confirms within the believer. It is a holy service with a holy action of uniting with the Lord.

What Can We Learn from This Tradition? Much can be learned from the use of the sign of the cross. Paul spoke in 1 Thessalonians 5:16 that believers should pray without ceasing, and we should recognize that such prayers are not memorized chants to flow from our mouths, but are prayers that are sincere and connected to the heart of the Creator of all. When using the sign of the cross we should also align our hearts in such a posture that we are invoking and interceding before the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit. We are connecting with the Holy Trinity outwardly and inward in soul. May this day connect your heart with the reminder to recognize that your prayers go forward to the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, but also that your prayers are heard and cherished.
