Have you ever wondered what the American Martyrs Church insignia represents? Below is a brief but rich history of those who gave their lives for Christ.

In honor of the six dedicated French Priests and two lay brothers who gave their lives as Martyrs on the North American Continent for our Lord, A Coat of Arms, symbolic of the history of the eight American Martyrs, has been established as an ecclesiastic shield for "The Church of the American Martyrs" in Kingsford, Michigan, symbolically representing historic facts concerning these, Martyrs.

Within a heraldic shape, representing an Indian Teepee, surmounted by a Cross, their work and martyrdom for and by the North American Indians, is exemplified through a Pine Tree in the form of rising fires, enshrining within the fire tree, eight crowns as a symbol of their heavenly reward on account of their suffering for Christ.

To the right of the Tree, a tomahawk, and an arrow, together with the fire, are symbolic of how they gave their lives for the Gospel.

Also, to the left of the tree, amidst the rising flames, a closed book representing the Holy Scriptures, inscribed with a heraldic concept for the Cross Fleuree and through four Fleur-de-lys ending of the cross, the four Gospels of Christ, also representing through Fleur-de-lys ending of the cross, their French ancestry.

Under the leadership of St. Isaac Joques, the remaining seven Saints, all of whom have been •canonized in 1930, are: SS John de Brebeuf, Anthony Daniel, Gabriel Lalemant, Charles Garnier, Noel Chabanel, Rene Goupil, and John Lalande. The Feast Day of the American Martyrs in October 19.
