

When Evil Confronts You

When Evil confronts you, what do you do?
Sit on the sidelines, watch strife abound,
Or stand up for the Truth although no one is around?

When Evil assaults you without warning and you are put off your guard,
Yet your forgotten grit suddenly wells up within you,
What army do you field that surrounds?

When Evil confounds you, surreptitiously attempts to console you,
Then swiftly abandons you alone and cold,
What choice do you make---To cower or go bold?
What do you do in that split second decisions would rather be dismissed than occur?
What commitment do you make---Raise your flag and advance, or deny and stand down?

Seek His Peace! Proclaim His Name!
Dispel the pain Evil insidiously seeks to inflame!
Hold your head up high; allow Hope and Faith to renew your heart!
Then, No Thing can shake you, for you are steeled,
Wrapped in Jesus Holy, Loving Arms!
