The First Philadelphia Mint: 1792 by

Jack Klein

The Mint Act of 1792, whose full title was "An Act Establishing a Mint and Regulating the Coins of the United States" was signed into law by President George Washington on 02 April 1792. The mint was to be built in the nation's capital which, at the time, was in Philadelphia.

It authorized the minting of several denominations of gold, silver, and copper coins. They ranged in value of the ten-dollar Gold Eagle all the way down to the copper half cent.

The Mint Act of 1792 required American Silver Dollars to be minted at 416 grains in total weight, with a silver content of 89.25%. This standard of silver purity equaled the level of the Spanish Dollar, whose coins were accepted and being used in the United States before the mint was created. The remainder of the 416 grains of weight in each American Silver Dollar, consisted of copper or nickel alloy to enhance its sturdiness and durability.

Maintaining its overall weight requirements at 416 grains, American Silver Dollars produced in 1794 and 1795, were interestingly minted at 90% silver purity, in violation of the Mint Act! *

The total weight of these dollar coins remained the same, but the percentage of silver increased. Each Silver Dollar had an excess of precious metal content: 416 grains x 90% = 374.4 grains versus the legally required 416 grains x 89.25% = 371.2384 grains. Thus: 374.4 grains minus 371.2384grains equals an excess of 3.1616grains per coin! Since the value of the coin was determined by its face value, this excess precious metal content was essentially wasted.

The most immediate effect of this practice was that depositors ended up paying for an additional 3.1616 grains of silver bullion (almost 1% extra) for every dollar they received! Merchants and bankers were reluctant to bring silver bullion to the Mint because of the disclosure of the illegal silverpurity percentage that had been in effect. When this became widely known, bullion deposits brought to the mint declined significantly in 1796 and 1797.

Additional requirements for coinage under the original Mint Act mandated that coins must contain the following markings:

- 1. One side was to have an impression emblematic of liberty, with the inscription "Liberty", and the year of the coinage.
- The reverse side of each gold and silver coin was to have the figure or representation of an eagle with the inscription "UNITED STATES OF AMERICA".
- 3. The reverse of the copper coins was to have an inscription expressing the denomination.

The Act defined the proportional value of gold to silver as 15 units of pure silver equal to 1 unit of pure gold. The U.S. Mint utilized Standard Gold and Standard Silver purity levels in its coinage practices.

Standard Gold was defined as 11 parts pure gold with one part alloy composed of silver and copper.

Standard Silver was defined as 1485 parts pure silver with 179 parts copper alloy. See the list below for the coins affected by this purity grading.

The Mint Act also specified the "dollar" as the "money of account" for the United States, and directed that all accounts of the federal government be kept in dollars, dismes, cents, and milles. A mille being one-tenth of a cent or one-thousandth of a dollar. Some current local tax rates are still measured in millages or milles.

The coins authorized by the original Mint Act include:
Eagle: $10 @ 270 grains Standard Gold purity.
Half Eagle: $5 @ 135 grains Standard Gold purity.
Quarter Eagle: $2.50 @ 67.25 grains Standard Gold purity.
Dollar: $1.00 @ 416 grains Standard Silver purity.
Half Dollar: $.50 @ 208 grains Standard Silver purity.
Quarter Dollar: $.25 @ 104 grains Standard Silver purity.
Disme: $.10 @ 4.16 grains Standard Silver purity.
Half Disme: $.05 @ 20.8 grains Standard Silver purity.
Half Disme: $.01 @ 11 pennyweights of copper.
Half Cent: $.005 5.5 pennyweights of copper.
