Notes for Christian Friedrich Gauss:

Biography of Christian Gauss, born on February 2, 1878, in Ann Arbor, Michigan, Christian Gauss was the son of German immigrants. Gauss attended the University of Michigan and later became an instructor there after graduating with an A.B. in 1898. In 1901, Gauss left Michigan to become Instructor of Modern Languages at Lehigh University. Gauss moved to Princeton in 1905 and became one of Woodrow Wilson's original preceptors. Two years later he was promoted to full professor. In 1912, Gauss became chairman of the Department of Modern Languages, a position he held until 1936. As a professor, Gauss became known for his lectures. He often drafted several versions, honing them to the point where he felt they could be delivered.

In 1925, he was appointed Dean of the College. Gauss, the professor and dean, was often described as being firm but fair. Students described his courses as being both rigorous and rewarding. He often invited students to his family's home to discuss intellectual or personal matters they may have been dealing with or simply to listen to sports on the radio. In 1929, Gauss was named first incumbent of a chair in modern languages endowed by his friends in the Class of 1900. Gauss was committed to Princeton University throughout his career, even beyond his professional responsibilities. He edited the Princeton Alumni Weekly, served as trustee and vice president of Princeton University Press, was chairman of the University Council on Athletics, and helped found and served as first chairman of the Creative Arts Council. He eventually retired from Princeton University in 1946 but remained active in alumni affairs until his death in 1951.

Gauss became one of the foremost voices on liberal education while at Princeton. He published articles and essays on the subject throughout his career. He also wrote extensively on literature, penning numerous critical essays and reviews, and he authored several books, including Life in College and A Primer For Tomorrow. Gauss also edited several works, such as The Teaching of Religion in American Higher Education, a collection of essays by prominent commentators on higher education.

Christian Gauss (1878 – 1951) was an influential literary critic and professor of literature.
Biography

Gauss was born in Ann Arbor, Michigan. His father had fled Württemberg when Prussia began to dominate it in the 1860s. The son graduated from the University of Michigan at 20, worked as a newspaper correspondent in Paris, taught at Michigan and Lehigh University in the United States, and in 1905 became a first preceptor at Princeton University, where he remained until his retirement in 1946.

At Princeton, Gauss became a full professor two years after his arrival; he was chairman of the department of modern languages for a time; and he served as dean. After retiring from Princeton, he was president of Phi Beta Kappa.

Though he was not a prolific author or a public figure, Gauss left a mark on literary scholarship: Princeton University's semiannual series of Christian Gauss Seminars in Criticism (founded in 1949 by R.P. Blackmur), and Phi Beta Kappa's annual Christian Gauss Award (est. 1950) for a book of literary criticism are named in his honor. Gauss influenced and corresponded frequently with F. Scott Fitzgerald and Edmund Wilson.

Gauss, Christian (1878-1951), one of Woodrow Wilson's original preceptors, first Class of 1900 professor of modern languages, and third dean of the college, had, in Edmund Wilson's phrase, "an imaginative gift of entering into other people's points of view." It was this quality that made him a great teacher of literature and an illuminating critic. It had much to do as well with his becoming, in his time, one of Princeton's most beloved figures and perhaps the best known college dean in America.

Gauss was born and brought up in a community of South German immigrants in Ann Arbor, Michigan, "the lovely little town," in his words "with the name like the title of a song." His father had come there from Wuerttemberg in the late 1860s to escape Prussian domination, and when he had saved enough money to buy a house, had chosen one on Liberty Street instead of a more desirable one on Main Street, so that all their lives "his children would have the satisfaction of knowing that they had been born in die Freiheitsstrasse." Growing up in Ann Arbor, then a quiet village, Christian Gauss developed "a deep sense of belonging" to his community, which stayed with him all his life.

Gauss worked his way through the University of Michigan in three years. He had begun working after school early in life, and when he graduated from college at the age of twenty, he could already look back on a versatile career -- as baker's boy, grocery clerk, farm hand, drug clerk, bill collector, bank clerk, tutor, and barkeeper at county fairs.

After college Gauss worked for a time as a newspaper correspondent in Paris (where he wrote about the Dreyfus case and talked in cafés with Oscar Wilde), taught at Michigan and at Lehigh, and was called to Princeton in 1905 as one of the youngest of the University's first preceptors. Two years later, at the age of twenty-nine, he was promoted to full professor. He became chairman of the Department of Modern Languages in 1912 and served until 1936. In 1925 he was appointed dean of the college and in 1929 was named first incumbent of a chair in modern languages endowed by his friends in the Class of 1900. He occupied both positions until his retirement in 1946.

Along the way he also served as literary editor of the Alumni Weekly, reorganizer and adviser of the Press Club, guide and friend of the Nassau Literary Magazine, trustee and vice president of Princeton University Press, chairman of the University Council on Athletics, and founder and first chairman of the Creative Arts Program. He was made a Knight of the Legion of Honor by the French Republic and received honorary degrees from half a dozen universities.

TEACHER OF LITERATURE

Christian Gauss was a great teacher whose courses on Dante and on French writers of the Romantic Period profoundly influenced many Princeton students of literature in the first half of this century.

His memory was remarkable, and he brimmed over with literary allusions. Two of his favorite quotations were Ernest Renan's La verité est dans la nuance, which he translated: "The truth lies in fine distinctions," and Dostoevsky's "We were all born on purpose to be together."

The eminent federal judge Harold R. Medina '09 said it was Gauss who first taught him to think. "He led and guided with so gentle a touch that one began to think almost despite oneself," Medina recalled. In a similar vein, Edmund Wilson '16, the literary critic, spoke of "how the lightly dropped seeds from his lectures could take root and unfold in another's mind."

Wilson also described the influence Gauss exerted on him, John Peale Bishop '17, F. Scott Fitzgerald '17, and other undergraduate writers for the Nassau Literary Magazine through the reading of Dante and Flaubert: "He made us all want to write something in which every word, every cadence, every detail, should perform a definite function in producing an intense effect."

Gauss brought to his teaching a breadth of learning that was matched by a wide interest in the affairs of the world, both historical and contemporary. This quality was celebrated in a verse of the Faculty Song sung by the seniors in 1915:

"Here's to Gauss, called Chris-ti-an
A most encyclopedic man.
He jokes and lectures, rhymes and teaches,
And raves about the Kaiser's speeches."

(This last line referred to Gauss's anti-Prussianism, inherited from his father, which led him to champion the Allied cause before the United States entered the First World War.)

Wilson, who dedicated one of his books of literary criticism (Axel's Castle, 1931) to his old Princeton teacher, thought Gauss himself a brilliant critic -- "by far the best," so far as he knew, "in our academic world of that period." "Gauss's special understanding of the techniques of art," Wilson wrote, "was combined, as is not always the case, with a highly developed sense of history, as well as a sense of morality."

Donald A. Stauffer '23, who while an undergraduate was Gauss's secretary, and was later chairman of the Department of English, described Gauss's essential quality as a teacher in this way:

"He had respect for mind wherever he found it. He supported alike the specialized research of scholars and the wildest outbursts of nineteen-year-old aesthetes. He was as good with grandchildren as with dignitaries. In the exchange of opinions, in the inquiry into values, he practiced liberty, equality, and fraternity."

DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

The announcement of Gauss's appointment as dean of the college in the spring of 1925 elicited a new verse in the Faculty Song:

"Oh, here's to Gauss, who knows his stuff
We liked him though his course was tough.
But when he's Dean we shall delight
In hating him with all our might."

Though written with tongue in cheek, these words did suggest the dire possibilities of any deanship, and especially one in an era plagued by Prohibition, the Depression, and the Second World War, but in Gauss's case the opposite came to pass. At the beginning, his determination that the eighteenth amendment (which he publicly opposed) should be strictly enforced because it was the law, brought some resentment, but most undergraduates learned to respect the integrity of his position.

There were riots, too, in the Prohibition era, to which Gauss reacted variously. One in the spring of 1926, which involved a good deal of noise and jostling and some jeering of volunteer firemen, but no violence to any person or property, he played down when called by the newspapers. "It was nothing but a Poler's Recess," he said, "complicated by a false alarm." But when, in the fall of 1930 after a football rally, excited students tore down the statue of the Christian Student and rushed out onto Nassau Street and rocked an interurban bus with women and children in it, he invoked the language of Swift's Gulliver's Travels and publicly castigated them for their "Yahooism." (The ringleaders were subsequently suspended for a year.)

It was particularly as dean that Gauss came to be appreciated for his sympathy and human understanding. "Through many trying meetings of the discipline committee," Nelson P. Rose '31, who was chairman of the Princetonian and of the Undergraduate Council, recalled, "you could not fail to sense his own pain at having to cause pain. . . . On campus issues you could not fail to realize that he was looking for a helpful middle ground."

Some of his most ardent admirers were those who had frequented the mourner's bench outside the dean's office. Archie Murray '34, later a sports writer for the New York Evening Post, who had "practically made a career of getting into trouble" when he was an undergraduate, said he nevertheless looked up to Dean Gauss as a father -- "he was so eminently fair and his sense of humor never deserted him."

Dean Gauss, for his part, showed his regard for those he had had to discipline in the early years of his deanship by dedicating his book Life in College (1930) to them. "In nearly every case," he wrote, "the frankness, honesty, generosity and sportsmanship of these undergraduate 'malefactors' was such as to make me conceive a higher opinion of mankind."

Life in College was made up of a series of articles that had appeared in the Saturday Evening Post; articles by Gauss frequently appeared also in the New York Times, the Saturday Review, and the New Republic. During the Depression, when seniors were worried about getting jobs, they sang:

"Professor Gauss he teaches French;
Dean Gauss he judges on the bench;
Mister Gauss don't write for fun;
He's got three jobs and we've got none."

As chairman of the University Council on Athletics, Gauss was impressed by the wholesome influence of football, "properly coached and conducted," and was a concerned follower of all the games. "We thrived on his love of victory," said Gilbert Lea '36, an end on the championship team of 1935, "but we were gratified most by his loyalty in defeat."

In the latter years of his deanship, Gauss commanded the same respect and admiration he had won at the beginning. "As a dean he was still in the best sense a teacher," John N. Brooks, Jr. '42, the writer, who in college was chairman of the Princetonian and a member of the Discipline Committee, recalled:

"An argument with him [at a meeting about extracurricular activities] was a profoundly educational thing. . . . Dean Gauss always took us and our point of view seriously, entering into every debate as vigorously as if the issues were all new to him. . . . For his disciplinary role . . . he might conveniently have become the gentle sentimentalist or the martinet, but Dean Gauss did not choose easy roles. He did not even exude an air of infallibility, which must be the easiest and safest of all airs for a dean to exude. . . .

He somehow succeeded in making his office at 205 Nassau Hall, by its nature the most formidable precinct in all Princeton, into a place that even many of those who came there under duress remember with real affection."

Dean Gauss was a courageous champion of freedom, both within and without the University. "The first obligation of the undergraduate is to think without let or hindrance," he declared in reply to charges of radical tendencies at Princeton, Yale, and Harvard by Colonel McCormick in the Chicago Tribune, "and the first obligation of the professor is to make him do so." He was a member of the National Committee of the American Civil Liberties Union and an outspoken critic of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. After the Second World War he frequently spoke to black audiences in the South, and took quiet satisfaction in having been responsible for assembling for the first time a mixed black and white audience in a white church in Richmond.

In retirement Gauss worked on two projects for philanthropic foundations, one on religion in higher education, the other on promotion of the study of the humanities. He also served as president of Phi Beta Kappa. One autumn day in his seventy-fourth year he went to New York to deliver the manuscript of his introduction to a new edition of Machiavelli's The Prince and to attend a memorial service for the Austrian novelist, Herman Brock. That evening while he was waiting in the Pennsylvania station for the train to take him back to Princeton, his heart failed and he fell dead.

"One had always still expected something further from Christian, had hoped that his character and talents would arrive at some final solution," Edmund Wilson wrote in his memoir of Dean Gauss and then concluded:

"But . . . one sees now that the career was complete, the achievement is all there. He has left no solid body of writing; he did not remake Princeton . . . he was not really a public man. He was a spiritual and intellectual force. . . . His great work in his generation was unorganized and unobtrusive: and Who's Who will tell you nothing about it; but his influence was vital for those who felt it."

Notes for Barbara Jane Chamberlain:

With great sadness the family of Barbara Jane Chamberlain of Regina, Saskatchewan, announces her passing on the morning of March 18th, 2009, at the age of 64. Born December 19, 1944. Barb is predeceased by her parents John (Jack) and Hazel Chamberlain and her Aunts Kathleen Chamberlain and Eunice McBride.

She is survived by her sister Margaret (Robert) DeMarco of Edmonton; brother Doug (Colleen) Chamberlain of Regina; Niece and Nephews Christine (Dan) McDonald of Victoria, Richard (Milena) DeMarco of Ottawa, Paul (Jolyne) DeMarco of Leduc, Dean (Leanne) Chamberlain of Toronto, David (Jayne) Chamberlain of Dublin.

She will be remembered by her Aunt Margaret (Kenneth) Jamieson of Saskatoon and several cousins. Moving out to the coast after High School, Barb made many lifelong friends and developed an appreciation for ocean-scapes and mountain views. She returned to Regina in the mid-seventies where she worked for the Dept of Health until retirement in 2005. Barb was an avid Rider fan with season tickets since 1976. She volunteered with the Riders helping with the season tickets and for the past few years was the secretary of the Plaza of Honour Committee. Barb also volunteered over the years with the MS Society helping with their walks, runs and bike tours. She also helped with the Downtown Dash, Dragon Boat Races, Regina Little Theatre and Government House Teas. Barb's outgoing friendly manner attracted many good friends in all areas of her life. We want to thank all those friends and family who visited and sent supportive thoughts during her illness.

There will be no funeral as per Barb's request. A private family graveside interment will put Barb to rest with her parents. A Memorial Get Together for Barb's friends and family will be announced at a later date. The family would like to thank Barb's caregivers on the Palliative Home Care Team at the Pasqua Hospital, the staff of Wards 4C, 3B and 4D, and the staff of the Allen Blair Cancer Clinic and Wascana Grace Hospice. In lieu of flowers please make a donation to the charity of your choice.

Frederick)<sup>5</sup>, Johannes<sup>4</sup>, Johannes<sup>3</sup>, Johann Wendel<sup>2</sup>, Jacob<sup>1</sup>) was born 09 Nov 1915 in Talmage, Saskatchewan, Canada, and died 15 Mar 2013 in Saskatchewan, Canada. She married Kenneth

Hadden Jamieson 18 Aug 1945. He was born 28 Nov 1915 in Nokomis, Saskatchewan, Canada, and died 2011 in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada.

Notes for Margareta Mabel McBride:

The family of Margaret Mabel Jamieson (nee McBride) deeply regrets to announce her passing on March 15, 2013, with her family by her side. She was predeceased by her loving husband of 65 years, Ken Jamieson. She was also predeceased by her sisters Eunice McBride and Hazel Chamberlain, niece Barbara Chamberlain and brothers-in-law Lloyd, Bert and Jack. She is survived by her daughters Lynne (Ches) Wells, Susan (Cam) Fraser, Patti Jamieson (Dwight St. Amand); her grandchildren, Curtis (Mackenzie) Fraser, Brent Fraser, Brian St. Amand, Heidi St. Amand, Matthew (Maggie) Wells, Erin Wells; her great-grandchildren, Reid and Tucker Fraser and Kaitlynn and Jackson Wells, as well as many nieces, nephews and special friends.

Margaret was born November 9, 1915 on her parents farm near Talmage, Saskatchewan. In her early years, the family moved to a farm near Elrose where Margaret took her schooling. After Margaret's father died, the family moved to Michigan for a short time and then to Saskatoon. Margaret trained at Saskatoon Business College and worked at John Deere. During the war years she was active as President of her Sorority and CGIT and enjoyed downhill skiing. Ken and Margaret were married 10 days after he returned from World War II in 1945.

After raising their three daughters, she did secretarial work for the University of Saskatchewan. Margaret was an avid crossword puzzle fan and enjoyed writing poetry for special events in the lives of her family and friends, and earning recognition from the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix in a limerick contest. She was very organized at keeping scrapbooks of events throughout her life and they are full of wonderful information and memories for the family. She enjoyed curling, bowling, bridge and their Pike Lake cottage. Margaret had uncommon common sense. She was a great seamstress and was often "inventing" solutions to problems. She would go looking for something in the store and, not finding it, would invent it and then a few years later, there it would be in the stores, invented by someone else! Margaret and Ken went on vacation to many destinations. She was a faithful long-time supporter of live theatre including Persephone and the Saskatoon Symphony. She was an accomplished pianist particularly enjoying accompanying Ken. Throughout her church life at Mayfair, Knox, Westminster and Grace Westminster United she was fully involved in many groups and activities. Notes for Kenneth Hadden Jamieson:

The family of Kenneth Hadden Jamieson regrets to announce his passing on Friday, July 1st, 2011, with his family by his side. Born November 28, 1915. Ken was predeceased by his biological mother Mina Alexander in 1923; father James in 1955; step-mother Mabel Taylor in 1964; brothers Lloyd, Bert and several close in-laws.

He is survived by his loving wife of 65 years, Margaret; daughters Lynne (Ches) Wells, Susan (Cam) Fraser, Patti (Dwight St. Amand); grandchildren, Curtis (Mackenzie) Fraser, Brent Fraser, Brian St. Amand, Heidi St. Amand, Matthew (Maggie) Wells, Erin Wells; great grandchildren, Reid and Tucker Fraser, Kaitlynn Wells, as well as many nieces, nephews and special friends.

Ken was born on November 28, 1915 in Nokomis, Saskatchewan where he took his primary education. He went to Saskatoon Business College and also took Business Administration at the University of Saskatchewan. He was the Rural Municipal Administrator for the Rural Municipality of Cory (later called Corman Park) for 40 years, retiring in 1979. He took a leave of absence from the job for 4 years when he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force in 1941, in World War II with his twin brother, Bert. They travelled overseas as Radar Technicians and saw action in India, Italy, Burma and North Africa. Ken was involved with his church his entire life first in Nokomis and then in Saskatoon at Knox, Westminster, and finally Grace-Westminster United Church. He was a soloist and a choir member, was Chairman of the Board of Trustees, ran the nursery with Margaret and was on numerous committees receiving special recognition in 2004, for a lifetime of service to the church. He led many singsongs with Margaret accompanying him on the piano. He was also Chairman of the Board for St. Andrew's College in the 1960's. He loved recreational bridge, curling, golfing, travelling with Margaret, friends and symphony performances. He exemplified consideration for his wife Margaret, right to his last days, and held high values for honesty, dependability and kindness. With dignity, he endured a painful war injury for over 65 years, never complaining and trying not to let it hinder his activities. We are grateful that mom and dad were able to stay together at Langham Senior Citizen's Home and thank the wonderful staff for their kind and loving care.

A Funeral Service for Ken will be held at Grace-Westminster United Church (505 10th Street East, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan) on Wednesday, July 6th, 2011, at 2:00 p.m. with a memorial reception to follow. Notes for Kathleen Flora Green:

Kathleen Flora Becker, "Katie" was born in Perry, Florida, to James Owen and Maude Anise Green, the second of seven children. She met her "man in uniform", Lt. Marvin H Becker, while he was training to be a fighter pilot close to Perry. She was the counter girl at the local Soda Fountain when he strolled in. They married on September 28, 1944, and settled in Ann Arbor, Michigan, his hometown, after World War 2 and raised three children. After 40 years in cold Michigan, Katie told Marvin "the next 40 years are going to be in Florida!" She retired as head of Human Resources at the Ann Arbor K-Mart and they chose Port Orange, Florida to call home. She almost made the 40 years but sadly Marvin only enjoyed 13 years in sunny Florida.

Katie loved watching "American Bandstand" in the '50s and "The Bachelor" and "Dancing With The Stars" more recently. But her very favorites were watching baseball (Brighton High School, Detroit Tigers, and Atlanta Braves), college football (mostly Michigan Wolverines), golf, and tennis (especially Rory McElroy and Novak Djokovic). Despite never having played any of those sports she was very knowledgeable of the rules, the strategy and the scoring of all of them, even tennis

Most of all she loved her family but sadly outlived 5 of her siblings, survived by only Clarence Green (Arlene) of Daytona Beach. She also—to her profound grief—outlived her youngest son, John M. Becker, 1950-2001, and her oldest son, James H. Becker, 1945-2020.

Many of us left behind will always remember her famous banana pudding and coconut cream pie, her frequently requested fried chicken, and grits and eggs the Green/Becker/Carrow way. And, of course, the best homemade sweet tea ever!

She was a good friend to many, especially Alice Clark and Millie Call. She was a loving wife, a phenomenal mother, and an awesome Grandma to 8. She leaves to cherish her memory daughter, Mary Carrow, son-in-law Mark Carrow, and daughter-in-law, Jan Becker. Also grandchildren – James Becker (Lisa), Patrick Becker (Denise), Aaron Becker, Joel Becker (Jayanthi), Joanne Becker, Christopher Carrow (Nicole), Tiffany Call (Larry), and Elise Oscar (J R). Also 14 Great-Grandchildren and 2 Great-Great-Grandchildren.

Rest in Peace Mom/Grandma/Granny. Job well done! Donations could be made to Halifax Hospice, Port Orange. They were incredibly loving and caring in their care of Katie and her family throughout her decline and to the end.

Ora George Rothfuss, Jr. of Macedon: Passed away on March 17, 2021 at age 90. Ora was born in Penfield, New York on February 24, 1931, to the late Ora and Anna "Rissinger" Rothfuss. He was preceded to heaven by his beloved wife of 63 years, Joanne Mae "Keenan" Rothfuss and brother Jake (Mary Ellen) Rothfuss. He is survived by his Siblings Lois (Albert) Squire and Charles (Joyce) Rothfuss; his children Ora III (Alma) Rothfuss, Martha (Jefferey) Flower, Rebecca (W. Mark) Goodman; his loving grandchildren Andrew (Sarah) Flower, Emily (Joshua) Flower, Cassandra (Ben) Goodman, Ora IV (Crisanna) Rothfuss, Amelia Rothfuss, Jennifer (Louis) Goodman, Christopher Goodman, Kristen Flower; and three great grandchildren Daphne, Sophie & Ora V. He will also be missed by many nieces and nephews.

Ora was a devoted husband, father and grandfather. Farming, the love of the land, and community were priorities in his life. He and Joanne raised the kids with a balance of love, responsibility and hard work. He loved education, reading books, chatting with people working for God and creating limericks. He shared these values with all of his children, nieces, nephews and grandchildren through talks, walks, playing games and hosting many family gatherings at the farm. Ora served the greater Macedon community in many ways. Much of his volunteer work was poured into the Macedon Center

United Methodist Church where he served on innumerable committees. He especially enjoyed washing dishes at church dinners and attending Annual Conference. A successful farm owner, he was involved with many local cooperative efforts including the Palmyra Agway, DHI, Dairy Lea and the Holstein Club. He was Chair of the Macedon Town Republican Party, member of the Wayne County Planning Board and delivered Meals on Wheels with Joanne.

One of the highlights of his later years was researching genealogy with Joanne, even travelling to Ireland where he was bitten by the Limerick bug. He enjoyed penning limericks in the middle of the night for birthdays, anniversaries and special occasions or any other event that came to mind.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Macedon Center United Methodist Church, 1160 Macedon Center Rd, Macedon, New York 14502, the American Macular Degeneration Foundation or the charity of your choice.
