Country Club, where they loved to golf. Their home was on the east side of Winans Lake. She thought each sunset was 'the most beautiful' sunset. She was a good bridge player and loved to play often with her friends. After Fred's retirement, they purchased a condominium in Bradenton, Florida and joined the Bradenton Country Club, where they continued to enjoy golf and bridge. They were Snowbirds for years and eventually settled in Florida. Frederick preceded her in death in 2009, at which time she moved back to Michigan and into Brecon Village in Saline. She loved her time at Brecon Village and made many friends there. Besides playing bridge and golf, Marion loved friends, family, flowers, fresh fruit and dessert!

She was preceded in death by her daughter, Nancy Lynn Seyfried (1966) and her husband and best friend, Frederick J. Seyfried (2009).

She is survived by Dr. Barbara Seyfried and Susan (Gregory) Brown.

Stoll, a retired furniture manufacturer, came here from Buchanan 56 years ago. He was elected mayor here in 1905 after being alderman of the fourth ward and was re-elected in 1906 and 1908. Stoll was a member of the Knights of Pythias.

From "A 20th Century History of Berrien County"

Matthew Stoll is one of Michigan's native sons, having been born in Ann Arbor in 1861. His father, David Stoll, was a native of Hamburg, Germany, and came to America in 1847, settling in Ann Arbor, Michigan.... Matthew Stoll was the second son, and is now the only one living in Berrien County. He pursued his education in the public schools of Ann Arbor, and at an early age began to earn his own living by working in a furniture factory in the city, where he learned the trade of furniture finisher. When seventeen years of age (1878), he went on to Grand Rapids, Michigan, where he followed his trade in different furniture factories, spending 8 years in that city. There he gradually worked his way upward, promotion coming to him in recognition of his faithful service and capable workmanship, and during the later time he was the manager of a factory. .. Mr. Stoll was married in 1888, in Grand Rapids to Miss Hattie Leitelt, and unto them have been born two children, Charles D. and Arthur F., both born in Buchanan.

Matt ended up in Niles, organized a company with a man named Kompass, and Kompass and Stoll to make kitchen cabinets, and eventually made them for Sears and Roebuck in Chicago. According to an elderly druggist who knew the family in Niles, they made a killing in their contract with Sears. He was mayor for years, they lived in a beautiful house. His wife's name was Hattie. Because it was a railroad town, presidential politicians would come through, and he would greet them at the train station. He had two sons named Art and Charles who didn't have children.

Notes for Hedwig (Hattie) Leitelt:

Mrs. Hattie Stoll, 67, wife of former Mayor Matthew Stoll, died at 9:15 last evening in their home, 312 N. Fourth Street. Mrs. Stoll had been in ill health for three years. For the past six months, her death had not been unexpected. Mrs. Stoll's maiden name was Leitelt. She was born in Austria on October 17, 1864. When she was two years old her parents left Austria with their family and came to the United States. Their first home was in Grand Rapids.

She was married to Mr. Stoll in Grand Rapids on May 30, 1886. For a time after their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Stoll lived in Buchanan but moved to Niles from Buchanan in 1895 when the Kompass & Stoll factory was established in Niles with Mr. Stoll as a member of the firm, until he retired two years ago. Of the 37 years in which they lived in Niles, Mr. and Mrs. Stoll lived for 28 years in the home in which she died.

The two children born to Mr. and Mrs. Stoll, Charles D. Stoll and Arthur Stoll, both of Niles, survive their mother. Besides the husband and sons, Mrs. Stoll is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Andrew Batt of Grand Rapids and Mrs. Julia Buechner of Kalamazoo, who are now the only members of a family of fourteen children.

Mrs. Stoll was a member of St. Mary's guild and of the Rosary society of St. Mary's church. She was also a life member of the Woman's Progressive league. Mrs. Stoll was highly esteemed as a neighbor and in the church and social groups in which she moved. She was deeply interested in the affairs of the city of Niles through contact with civic matters during the four terms her husband served as mayor and previously as alderman of the first ward.

The funeral services will be held on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Catholic Church. The committal will be in the mausoleum in Silverbrook Cemetery.

Notes for Arthur Frank Stoll:

From Norm Stoll

The younger named Art Stoll was a very successful Chevrolet dealer with dealerships in St. Joe/Benton Harbor, Niles and South Bend. He didn't require cash down-payment. He would take cows, pigs, chickens, farm produce, anything to sell a car. They were all characters.

Art was more informal and business oriented. Charlie had started out as his partner, but was no business man. Before WW II Norm worked for a company on the Westside who made aircraft wings. When an inspector over there found out that he was a Stoll, he told Norm that Art and a friend were ardent gamblers who would go to Chicago, to do cockfights, to bet on horse races. Also from the old fellow who was the druggist, who he met at church and who also said that Art was known as a gambler, who made a lot of money and also gambled a lot. When Norm went to see Art after his wife died, when he was living in a bungalow, Art told him how a barn filled with heavy gamblers was held up by four guys with masks. At one time he owned about a hundred acres outside Niles where he was raising Angus cattle.

Lansing, Feb. 20, 2006- A humble farmer and diligent worker, C. Gerald Haarer helped establish an agricultural empire at Michigan State University. As the first director of the MSU Land Management Department, Haarer oversaw the construction of the MSU Pavilion and enhanced the university's off-campus properties and facilities. Haarer, 71, died of congestive heart failure Friday at a hospital in Naples, Florida. He was surrounded by his wife, Jean, and their children and grandchildren. "His whole life and vision has been in agriculture and farms," said Haarer's daughter, Pam Collins of Windermere, Florida. "I've never met a harder working, humbler man who never wanted credit for anything."

Achieving a lifelong dream, Haarer saw the construction of the Pavilion for Agriculture and Livestock Education before he retired in 2000. The massive pavilion at Farm Lane and Mount Hope Road, built for $14.5 million, is now a staple of Spartan life, hosting hundreds of rodeos, shows, auctions and tournaments each year. As land management director, Haarer was in charge of research facilities at 44 sites with more than 20,000 acres in 28 counties. He came to Lansing to study at MSU, where he was a member of the livestock judging team, after graduating from Saline High School in 1952.

In 1957, he started a small meat processing plant with his father and brother. He later formed Mahogany Farms, which developed into Premier Cattle Corp., and then Manor Hill Farms, featuring an Angus cattle breeding program and Arabian horses. He became the first land management director at MSU in 1979. "Jerry's great impact was that he saw each of the MSU locations as a reflection of the university," said Roger Wilkinson, the former MSU vice president of finance, who worked with Haarer for 12 years. "He had a major responsibility and was a wonderful man to work with."

Notes for Neil Frederick Haarer:

Neil F. Haarer (formerly from Saline), age 63, passed away on June 9, 2004. He was born in Ann Arbor on March 26, 1941, the son of Clarence and Helen (Wurster) Haarer. For many years, Neil owned and operated Haarer's Meat Processing in Saline, and was involved in farming and raising prize beef cattle. The Haarer's herd was recognized for several years at the Michigan State Fair with the Premier Breeder's Award. Seeking further adventure, Neil, along with his family, opened Haarer's Meeting Place in Manchester, which also was known for quality beef, especially prime rib. Neil called himself a "jack of all trades and master of none," and enjoyed many hobbies: fishing, trap-shooting, playing the organ, nature photography, telling stories, and visiting with people.

He is survived by: his wife of 42 years, Paula; two daughters, Jill (Scott) Vanderboegh of Auburn, Nebraska, and Debbie (Bruce) Malinczak of Onsted; two grandchildren; a brother, C. Gerald (Jean) Haarer of Bonita Springs, Florida, and several nieces, nephews, and cousins.

The funeral service was held on June 14 at Borek Jennings Funeral Home, Jenter Chapel in Manchester. Memorial contributions may be made to St. Joseph Mercy Saline Hospital.

He was founder and first director of the university's Multidisciplinary Center for Earthquake Engineering Research. Robert L. In 1988 Ketter was named SUNY Distinguished Professor of Civil Engineering by the SUNY Board of Trustees. Affiliation(s): President/Chancellor, Engineering and Applied Sciences.

Buffalo, New York – Robert L. Ketter, an authority on earthquake engineering research and former president of the State University of New York at Buffalo, died of a heart attack Tuesday April 18, 1989 in Millard Fillmore Hospital here. He was 60 and lived in Buffalo. Ketter, a civil engineer, was director of the National Center for Earthquake Engineering Research, which was established three years ago at the university under the auspices of the National Science Foundation.

He served as president of the university from 1970 until 1982, assuming office after more than a year of strife that had divided the 23,000-student campus. He was regarded by many students and faculty members as a "law and order" president and periodically faced opposition from the student Senate and son faculty groups. But he won praise for the directing the construction of a new $750 million campus, which was completed in large part during his tenure as president. He also initiated university programs in Korea, Japan, Canada and China.

The national earthquake center consists of more than 80 researchers in the United States and has core components at the Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory of Columbia University and at Cornell, Leigh and Princeton universities and the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, as were as at the SUNY campus in Buffalo. Ketter was the author of more than 40 technical and educational papers and chapters in scientific journals and books. He was a co-author of several engineering texts.

Ketter, a native of Welch, West Virginia, was a graduate of the University of Missouri. He received his doctorate in civil engineering from Lehigh, where he taught before joining the Buffalo faculty in 1958 as the first chairman of a newly created civil engineering department. IN 1964 he was appointed dean of the university's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and in 1967 he became first vice president for facilities planning, where he began the design and construction of a new North Campus in Amherst, New York.

Lorelei Zimmerman Ketter a former resident of the Town of Grove, entered into eternal rest on Friday, August 14, 2020, at the ECMC in Buffalo. She was born on October 1, 1928. She was the beloved partner to Harry Luther Seifert. Earlier in her life, Lolly married Robert Lewis Ketter on December 22, 1948 for 40 years, until his passing in April 1989. Lolly worked tirelessly with Robert during his years at the University of Buffalo. She was known for a sense of adventure, love of travel, endless hospitality, and impressive cooking skills — second only to her love of water color painting. Never one to live a boring life, she learned to drive at the age of 60, after Robert's passing, then moved on to get her pilot's license to be able to view her farm from the sky. Harry and Lolly had a very active social life, and were seen frequently at restaurants, yard sales, and historic venues around Le Roy and their home.

Lolly is survived by her daughters, Katheryn (Reverend Gary Nottis), Susannah, Mary (William Franklin). She was predeceased by her son, Michael (Regina). She followed both her children and grandchildren's careers vicariously, and embraced joyfully all their successes. Her grandchildren's artwork, awards and honors covered her walls, known as the "Family Gallery." Dear to her heart were the many friends that she and Harry made. Rare was a day not filled with their company. Forever helpful, forever needed, and forever loved as family and her dear friends, Mark and Sue, who have been an important part of Lolly and Harry's lives.

Her Celebration of Life will be held on Saturday, July 17, 2021, at 11:00 AM, at the Sunnyview Cemetery in the Town of Grove, with Reverend Gary N. Nottis, officiating. Lolly was an avid supporter of Historical Society of the Le Roy Memorial Garden, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Genesee Country Village, where many of her antiques found their home and Roswell Park Cancer Institute. If desired, donations may be made to one of these organizations in Lorelei's name.

Notes for Margaret Caroline Wacker:

Lansing - Margaret Caroline Wacker Ricks Halava, born July 16, 1918 in Lansing, and whose remarkable careers ran the gamut from public service to business to music to painting, passed away at age 93 on December 12, 2011. She served as secretary to two Michigan governors - G. Mennen Williams and John B. Swainson - and as district manager for Congressman Billie S. Farnum. She worked at the Mackinac Bridge Authority while the bridge was being built.

She followed her passion for music by enrolling in the School of Music at Michigan College, later Michigan State University, and held a job as a music teacher at Resurrection School in 1938. She was a Charter Member of the Lansing Symphony Orchestra in 1929 at age 11, and served as Concert Master at the end of her tenure in 1956. Previously, insisting she needed a better way to support herself, her father insisted she enroll at Acme Business School. In addition to her political career, she worked for HomeTown Communications Corporation for 20 years where she retired in 1987 as Vice President for Human Resources. She filled her retirement with her interest in and growing skill at watercolor painting which enriched her travels to Europe and other continents, as well as her new life on Maui, Hawaii, where she moved 17 years after her retirement from business. While in Hawaii, she painted the sights of the islands, taught watercolor to young children, and was a violin mentor to one particularly talented young musician. She moved back to Michigan in December 2010, where she has lived in the Independent Living Area of Burcham Hills Retirement Center in East Lansing, Michigan. Her family held an enormous party to celebrate her 93rd birthday in July of this year, and Margaret was thrilled to see so many of her family, former co-workers and political friends who joined her. Margaret passed away in her apartment, under the care of Hospice and her loving caregivers, with family by her side.

She is survived by her son, Donald Ricks of Bath, Michigan; son, Neil Halava of Jeffersonville, Indiana; and daughter, Gail Halava of Maui, Hawaii. Margaret is also survived by 8 grandchildren, 8 great-grandchildren, 3 great-great grandchildren, and numerous nieces and nephews, all who adored their beloved aunt and grandmother.

The Cremation Society of Michigan handled the arrangements, and the family has requested that any who wish to honor Margaret's life make a donation to The Lansing Symphony Orchestra, 501 S Capital Avenue, Suite 400, Lansing, Michigan 48933. "Margaret's range of capability was prodigious," said Phil Power, for whose newspaper publishing company she worked. "She brought enormous energy, terrific focus and ferocious loyalty to everything she did." "Shortly before Margaret was born, somebody up there broke the mold," Power said. "I've never known anybody with as remarkable a range of talents as Margaret Halava. She enriched profoundly her family, her friends and her business associates."

Grover L. Hartman, 74, Indianapolis retired executive director of the Indiana Council of Churches, died Sunday. Memorial services will be at 10 a.m. Friday in North United Methodist Church. There will be no calling, but the family will be receiving friends in the church's parlor following services. Mr. Hartman had been executive director of the Indiana Council of Churches 20 years, retiring in 1979. He served more than 21 years on the governing board of the National Council of Churches. While executive director, he led efforts to finance and construct the Indiana Interchurch Center, 1100 West 42nd Street. The Peace Pylon outside the building is dedicated in his name.

Previously, he had been a social studies teacher and counselor at Sidwell Friends School, Washington D. C., from 1938 to 1942, and then was director of the Wartime Service Commission of the Washington Federation of Churches. From 1944 to 1946, he was a staff assistant with the former Federal Council of Churches. He then returned to Indiana as director of the Division of Social Services of the Church Federation of Greater Indianapolis until 1954.

He served as co-chairman of Indianapolis Citizens Against Legalized Gambling more than 20 years. The group led the recent unsuccessful effort to defeat Proposition 1 at the polls. He also worked part-time for the United Methodist Indiana Area as the Coordinator of the church's anti-gambling drive. Mr. Hartman served as chairman of the following: the Indianapolis UNICEF Committee; Committee on Religious Conventions and Services; Indiana Coalition for Human Services, Legislative Committee; Indiana Aging Network; State Department on Aging and Community Services, International Committee; Metropolitan Indianapolis YMCA; and Indianapolis Convention and Visitors Association.

Former Gov. Matthew E. Welsh named him a Sagamore of the Wabash. His service with the Indiana council saw the establishment of the following: the Indiana Office of Campus Ministry; the Indiana State Police Chaplaincy; the Department of Institutional Ministries; the Indiana "Impact" interfaith program for expression of social concerns; and the strengthening of Church World Services/CROP. Mr. Hartman was an organizing board member of the Indiana Civil Liberties Union and battled to permit the ICLU to meet in Indianapolis World War Memorial.

A distinguished alumnus of DePauw University, he graduated in 1935 as valedictorian with honors in history. He then received master's and doctor's degrees from American University, Washington D.C. Mr. Hartman held honorary doctoral degrees from DePauw, Manchester College, Ball State University and the Christian Theological Seminary. He was a member of Center United Methodist Church. Singleton and Herr Madison Avenue Mortuary is handling arrangements.

Marriage: 18 Jun 1949, Lansing, Ingham Co, Michigan

Children of Geneva Andrews and John Mateer are:

- 9130 i. Cynthia Diane (Cindy)<sup>12</sup> Mateer, born 30 Jan 1952. She married Krag R. Sanford; born 09 Oct 1952.

Notes for Krag R. Sanford:

July 31, 2012 – Ionia County, Michigan - Krag Sanford, the former Saranac teacher who had sex with a 16-year-old girl who had been his student, is to be sentenced today in Ionia County Circuit Court. Sanford, 59, earlier pleaded no contest to two counts of distributing sexually explicit material to a minor in Ionia County and one count of accosting a minor for immoral purposes in Kent County. He is to be sentenced in August on the Kent County charge. Sanford was arrested earlier this year after a lengthy police investigation and prosecutor review into the case. He had been living in Byron Township when he had sex with the girl in the fall of 2010. Now, the teen is pregnant with Sanford's child.

The case against Sanford has sparked debate about whether Saranac Schools administrators could have done more to prevent Sanford from continuing a job as a substitute teacher. He was a substitute in Wyoming Schools in early April, just days before prosecutors issued warrants against him and more than a year after he signed a separation agreement with Saranac Schools. Sanford has claimed he quit teaching in Saranac before any sexual relationship happened with the 16-year-old girl. Copies of text messages between Sanford and the girl, however, showed that they had been meeting long before November 2010 when the sex allegedly occurred.

August 14, 2012- Grand Rapids, Michigan - Amy Hendrick is due in December, expecting a baby boy. The father of her child was once her English teacher at Saranac High School, a man in his late 50s. It's a relationship the 18-year-old woman knows that some people will never understand or accept -- particularly because it started when she was just 16. "This was totally a mutual thing," Hendrick said today as she sat on a bench outside the Kent County Courthouse in downtown Grand Rapids. "Nobody was forced into anything," she said, not long after watching her boyfriend, 59-year-old Krag Sanford, get sentenced for the relationship.

Judge Paul Sullivan sentenced Sanford -- who had been a longtime teacher at Saranac Schools before he left the district in late 2010 -- to six months in jail and four years of probation on a charge of accosting a child for immoral purposes. The jail time will run concurrently with a nine-month sentence he received July 31 in Ionia County Circuit Court for distributing sexually explicit material to a minor.

Hendrick, who graduated from school in February, spoke openly about the ongoing relationship today. She said most people simply do not understand their bond. "If this was a different time, this wouldn't be a big deal," she said. "We're both really happy." And while she knows some people consider Sanford a child predator, Hendrick insists he's nothing of the kind and has always been a nurturing educator.

Notes for Harold Aden (Herald or Hud) Springstien:

Harold "Hud" Springsteen passed away peacefully at his home on Friday, September 1, 2017 under the loving care of his family and Hospice of Michigan. He was born the son of Aden and Verda (Case) Springsteen in Lansing on November 1, 1929 and they preceded him in death. Additionally, Harold was preceded in death by a granddaughter, Erin Springsteen, step father Fred Olsen; brothers, John, Donovan, and Edwin Springsteen; sisters Loretta Potter, Lorna Wolfe, Madge Pontius; step brother, Ronald Olsen; step twin sisters, Marion Olsen and Marie Olsen; sister-in-law, Helen Springsteen; brothers-in-law, Durward Pontius and Jerry Potter. Also preceded in death by brother-in-law Harold King, sisters-in-law Ruth King, Becky King and Margaret Sheridan.

Hud is survived by his wife of 68 years, Dorothy; daughter, Susan (Steve) Fish of Stanton; sons, Michael (Betty) Springsteen of St. Ignace, Nicholas (Cheryl) Springsteen of Greenville, Peter (Barbara) Springsteen of Traverse City, Andrew Springsteen of Lansing; grandchildren, Jacob (Amber) Springsteen, Sarah (Chad) Trumble, William (Samantha Radecki) Springsteen, Patrick Springsteen, Katherine (Nick Brown) Springsteen, Benjamin (Melanie) Fish, Joshua Fish, Anna Springsteen, Tom (Ashley) Springsteen, Cal (Lisa) Springsteen, Charlie (Kayla) Springsteen, Lily Springsteen, Grace (Sean Stynes) Springsteen; great grandchildren, Ella Springsteen, Edison Springsteen, Isaac Springsteen, Everett Springsteen, Samuel Springsteen, Arthur Fish and sister-in-law, Lois Springsteen of Sheridan; In-laws Keith King of Greenville, Ted Sheridan of Ohio, Benno and Carol Rosin of Portage and George and Joyce King of Greenville.

Hud was born on November 1st; All Saints Day, a fact which has not gone unnoticed throughout his many years as a fun-loving prankster though mostly saintly guy. When he was a child, Harold's younger sister Loretta could not pronounce his name. It always came out as "Hud" thus Harold became Hud to all his family and friends. Hud graduated from Greenville High School in 1947 and from Michigan State University in 1953. He remained a lifelong MSU fan and he and Dot attended many of their home and away games, tailgating with college friends.

Hud also loved baseball. He was shortstop on the Greenville high school team and he also played for the Sheridan Independents after graduation. He was a loyal Tigers fan and many Saturday afternoons were spent listening to the Tigers on the radio or watching the games on TV.

A longtime resident of the Sheridan area, Hud became the School Superintendent of Sheridan Rural Agricultural School at age 29 and continued to be a School Superintendent for 25 years. He was instrumental in helping merge the Stanton and Sheridan schools creating Central Montcalm Public School where he served most of the rest of his career. Hud retired in 1984. A quote from the Greenville Daily News at that time describes Hud as "a down to earth, sincere, intelligent, quiet spoken man, he seems to possess a general compassion for all people and a particular concern about children and education." After retirement he and Dot enjoyed traveling, hiking, biking, cross country skiing and spending time with the many grandchildren that came along.

Hud was a devoted father and family man who worked hard and loved to play. Summers were spent camping and canoeing or just hanging out at home playing "plastic" ball, driveway basketball or swimming and playing ball tag in Pearl Lake. Winter fun included skating, sledding and snowmobiling. Hud was an avid reader, reading at least two newspapers each day. He usually had an ongoing book at his side and would often recommend favorite books to family and friends. He was also a crossword puzzle enthusiast and the whole family enjoyed doing crossword puzzles with him. He was a very active member of the community serving on various boards and clubs such as Central Montcalm Community Foundation, Friends of the Fred Meijer Heartland Trail, Stanton Rotary, Sheridan Lions, Sidney State Bank Board and the Sheridan Community Hospital Board of Directors. He was also a lifelong member and supporter of the Sheridan Congregational Church. Hud will be deeply missed by all who knew and loved him.

Visitation with Hud's family is being held on Friday, September 8, 2017 from 4 to 7 PM at the Simpson Family Funeral Home in Sheridan. A memorial service to celebrate Hud's life is being held on Saturday, September 9, 2017 at the Sheridan Congregational Church beginning at 11 AM with Pastor Phil VanDop and Pastor Bob Braman officiating. Final inurnment will be at the Sheridan Cemetery. For those wanting to make a memorial donation in Harold's memory the family suggests donations be directed to either the Sheridan Congregational Church or the Central Montcalm Community Foundation and envelopes will be available at the church.

John Thurman (J.T.) Green, Jr., 87, went to see his Heavenly Father on August 2, 2018 after a long battle with Alzheimer's. While we are saddened and heartbroken, we rejoice that he is in a better place next to our savior Jesus Christ. He was born on May 19, 1931 in Snyder, Oklahoma and was the oldest of 5 children. He served in the U.S. Air Force from 1950-1954 serving in the Korean War during that time. J.T. or "Jake" as he was affectionately called by his children and many of their friends, was a loving caregiver, a loyal and rare husband and friend. A man of impeccable character, integrity and honesty he was a role model to many. Chief among his passions was his family. He never missed one of his kids sporting events, took his son's hunting every chance he could and loved being in the great outdoors. A lover of all kinds of music, dancing and red wine. He was an enthusiastic supporter of the Arizona Wildcats, even refusing to go to the emergency room until after his beloved Wildcat's basketball game was over.

We will be forever grateful. A memorial service and celebration of life will be held September 1, 2018 at 3:00 pm at University City Church, 604 N. 6th Avenue in Tucson, Arizona.

Hazleton - Linda A. Krieger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O. Krieger, R.D.3 Drums, and Jeffrey L. Keck, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Keck Jr., R.D.1 Drums, were united in marriage on July 22, 1989 at 1 p.m. in St. John's Lutheran Church, St. Johns. The Rev. Joseph Scholtes performed the single ring ceremony. Mrs. Bonnie Scholtes was the organist and Leonard Kassick sang "Wedding Song," "Evergreen," "Through the Eyes of Love," "One Hand, One Heart." Organ selections included "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," "Priere a Notre Dame," "Sarabande" and "Cannon in D." The altar was decorated with vases of pink and white carnations with baby breath.

Following a reception at Zola's Catering, Harleigh, the couple left for a honeymoon in Colorado. They now reside in Drums. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of embroidered chiffon with a fitted bodice, hanging crystals on the open neckline, short ruffled sleeves of Schiffli embroidered chiffon, and a full skirt which fell into a train of Schiffli embroidered chiffon. Her headband of satin flowers, pearls and sequins held a double-tiered veil, and she carried a bouquet of miniature white carnations, white stephanotis, pink roses with foliage, white lace ribbon and streamers with pearl sprays. Mrs. Cheryl Evans, R.D.3 Drums, was the matron of honor for her sister. She wore a tea-length gown of pink embossed satin with a fitted bodice, jewel neckline, three-quarter-length puffed sleeves, and a dropped waistline with criss-cross accents and a candy box bow at the back. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink Vanda orchids, miniature pink and white carnations, purple silk violets, baby breath, foliage and streamers. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Carol Reinmiller, Strasburg, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Sharon Keck, R.D.3 Drums, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Their gowns and bouquets were similar to those of the honor attendant. Beth Ann Keck, niece of the bridegroom, was the rice girl. She wore a pink dress trimmed with lace, and baby breath in her hair. Kenneth Keck, R.D.3 Drums, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Ushers were Raymond Reinmiller, Strasburg, and Mark Evans, R.D. Drums, brothers-in-law of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Krieger selected a pink tea-length gown with a lace overlay, a scalloped hem and a large bow at the left side. She wore a Georgiana orchid corsage. The mother of the bridegroom chose a quiana knit and Chantilly lace tea-length dress of soft rose with a lace bodice, jewel neckline, long full sleeves, a belted waistline, a lace over vest, and a softly pleated skirt, along with dyed-to-match accessories and a lavender orchid corsage. Mrs. Richard Anderson, the bridegroom's maternal grandmother, wore a dusty rose long sleeved knit and lace tea-length dress and bone accessories, and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Dorothy Keck, wore a two-tone long-sleeved pink dress and white accessories. Both grandmothers wore orchid corsages.

The bride, a graduate of Hazleton High School, is employed by the First Eastern Bank as a customer service representative supervisor. A graduate of Hazleton High School, the bridegroom is employed at Beech Mountain Lakes. A shower in the bride's honor was held at Beech Mountain Lakes, and the rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Best Western Genetti Motor Lodge.

He married (1) Sylvia (Sarah) ?. She was born 01 Jul 1943. He married (2) Nancy Kaye Rasor 20 Jul 1966 in New Albany, Floyd Co, Indiana. She was born 1946 in Indiana.

Notes for Walter Henry Keck, Jr.:

Hazleton - Deputy Chief Walter H. "Mr. D'Iberville" Keck Jr., 75, passed away June 25, 2018 in D'Iberville, Mississippi. Born in Hazleton on May 3, 1943, he was the son of the late Walter H. Sr. and Eva (Morris) Keck, and was a 1961 graduate of Hazleton High School. He is survived by his wife, Sarah, D'Iberville, Mississippi; children, Alison Craig (Chris), Long Beach, California; Amanda Keck, Nebraska; and Jennifer Keck, Biloxi, Mississippi; sister, Gertrude Keck, Hazleton; and grandchildren, Cailyn, Madelyn, Alyssa, Gavin, Katelynn and Connor.

He joined the U.S. Air Force in 1961. Throughout his 27-year military career, he rose through the ranks to master sergeant before retiring in 1988. He then began working with the Harrison County Mississippi, Sheriff's Department in 1989 and was instrumental in assisting D'Iberville city leaders in creating their police department nearly 10 years later. Mayor Rusty Quave first swore Keck in as police captain and later as deputy chief of police in 2012. Keck retired in May 2014 with more than 28 years of law enforcement service; however, he returned to his duties as deputy chief in 2017 to serve the "Gateway City" just a little while longer. Congressman Steven Palazzo spoke to the Mississippi House of Representatives to honor Keck's more than 55 years of public service through the Congressional Record.

He was known as "Mr. D'Iberville" and "Barney Fife" to his coworkers and citizens. He never met a stranger and he was never a stranger to local law enforcement. Patrolling streets and taking pictures in Car 54 with the nickname "Barney Fife," in honor of the Don Knotts character on "The Andy Griffith Show," was part of his role. And he often issued "cruising citations" filled with coupons from local establishments. "He loved this city and police department, its citizens and visitors alike," said Chief Payne. He was a life member of the D'Iberville Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6731, a charter member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, a member of the D'Iberville Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 332 and a member of the American Legion.

The funeral service and burial were held in Mississippi. Family and friends are invited to a memorial service at 10:30 a.m. July 15 in the First Presbyterian Church, 201 W Broad St., Hazleton. The Rev. Dr. Gregory Palmer will preside. The family requests that memorial donations be made to Gulf Coast Law Enforcement Feed the Needy, 2220 15th St., Gulfport, Mississippi 39501.

He married Karen Marie ?. She was born 24 Jun 1947.

Notes for Rev. Ronald Lee Schornhorst:

March 24, 2010 - After nearly 28 years as a Lutheran minister, Pastor Ronald Lee Schornhorst answered a call to start a new Lutheran church at Lake Oconee. On February 6, 2000 he was installed as pastor to the newly formed Lake Oconee Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod. The LOLC congregation marked the tenth anniversary of that installation on Sunday, March 7, 2010. At the conclusion of worship that Sunday, congregation member Davis Mortensen delivered a speech outlining the history of the ten year old church. A lunch provided by the Fellowship Committee followed the church history speech and comments by Pastor Ron. Pastor Schornhorst told about coming here from a church in Oklahoma City, where he and his family were quite happy. Making the decision to leave there was very difficult, but now when speaking about serving at Lake Oconee Lutheran, he firmly states, "God saved the best for last for us."

A native of Evansville, Indiana, Schornhorst attended Concordia College, Fort Wayne College, and completed his studies and internship at Concordia Lutheran Seminary in St. Louis, Missouri. He has served congregations in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Arkansas, and Oklahoma. He and his wife, Karen are parents of a son, Noel who resides in Savannah, Georgia. The LOLC pastor is well known in Putnam County for his volunteer service to the community. Pastor Ron serves as Chaplain to the Putnam County Sheriff's Office, a position which he finds very rewarding. He senses a deep appreciation from the deputies with whom he spends time on patrol. Staying awake while being on night patrol duty with the deputies is the most difficult challenge for him, however, Pastor Ron is committed to this service because he considers it to be an important outreach ministry to the greater community of people in this area.

- 9247 i. Noel K.<sup>12</sup> Schornhorst, born 25 Oct 1975.

Notes for Herbert Adolph Diuble:

Herb and Louisa Diuble began ambitiously when they married, back in 1939. They rented three farms on Waters Rd. and began the beef and dairy and crop operation that has been their living. They also built a family; four daughters and two sons. Now, looking back through the years, it must seem that they built a Diuble dynasty, based on good Washtenaw land, and good Washtenaw stock. By 1946, the couple had done well enough with their three rentals that they were able to buy the one they were living on. That spread, on Waters Rd., was the place where the young Diuble's were raised. Arlene, Ralph, Donna, and Donnie, the twins, and Nancy and Sharon. They all came up on the land, working alongside their father and mother—learning all about farming and livestock the “hands-on” way. They got their formal education in the Saline Area Schools. But they learned lots about life, and the rewards of hard work, on the farm. The Diuble's started building their beef and dairy herds at the very outset. They began with Hereford and Angus crossbred, buying calves and feeding them for market. Their dairy herd grew to 45 head of Holstein milkers. Then, in 1953, young Ralph earned Grand Champion honors with his Hereford entry in Steer Club competition at the Saline Community Fair. His animal sold at a really exciting price: 60 cents per pound! Ralph did it again in '54. Another Grand Champion Hereford, and another 60-cent bonanza for the young livestock feeder. Arlene followed in 1955. Grand Champ steer at the Fair. A few years later, in 1960, Nancy had her turn in the spotlight. Her beef entry took the winner's trophy as the best in the Steer Club Show. Donnie went the 4-H route, with the same results: A Grand Champ steer at the Washtenaw Achievement Show. A short horn Hereford cross took the trophy. Sharon followed in 1972. Another Saline Fair Grand Champ.

Donna went into sheep—and her Southdown entries were top winners or contenders on the Fair and 4-H circuits. The children's success at raising premium animals had a strong impact on the family. In 1968, the Diuble's sold off their dairy herd and moved into beef feeding all the way. Instead of going with the crossbreds, they concentrated on purebred Angus, the breed that Nancy and Sharon had scored with. They've prospered—but possibly their greatest satisfaction has come from the winning ways of their children—and now their grandchildren. This year, Ralph's son and daughter, David and Sally, mopped up top honors in beef competition at the Washtenaw 4-H Show, and then added more ribbons and trophies in the Steer Club judging at the Saline Community Fair. David had done well in 1984 with Reserve Champ at the Fair and in '85 with Reserve Champ steer and Grand Champ Market heifer at the County 4-H Show. There was one basic difference between their 1986 success story and that of their father back in the early '50s. Remember the 60-cent price that Ralph was paid? David's 4-H Grand Champ brought a cool $1.15 per pound. Sally's Saline Steer Club Grand Champion went for $3 per pound.

And the Dynasty will surely live on. Nancy, married to Steve Thelen, a businessman, in the Olivet area, has a career herself, as 4-H extension agent for Eaton County. The two of them have a two-year-old daughter, Renee. “Whenever we see her,” says Herb proudly, “she tells me, “Grandpa, I want a black cow!” Sharon and her husband, Dan Vassen, make their home on the original Diuble spread on Waters Rd. They're expecting their first child next February, and the elder Diuble's won't be too surprised if the child grows up in the family fashion, working the farm and concentrating on beef cattle. Meanwhile, Herb and Louisa have moved to another farm home on Scio Church Rd. They continue to prosper—but occasionally they're reminded that livestock farming is a gambler's business, with a dash of danger thrown into the mix for excitement. In the midst of David's and Sally's triumph at the 4-H Fair, one of David's prize animals, the Grand Champion Market heifer, broke loose. Herb, holding the trophy for his grandson, tried to stop the animals. “It knocked me down and jumped right over me,” Herb recalls. “I got a few aches and bruises, but at least I hung onto the trophy, and it didn't get a scratch.” Herb and Louisa don't push themselves quite as hard as they did when they were a little younger. For almost a quarter-century, for instance, Herb has been pretty much the judge of which animals to buy in the cattle yards at Gaylord, for Saline Steer Club members' projects each year. “I may have to give it up,” he says now. “It's getting awfully hard to choose good feeder stock.” But he's out in his fields every day. Although he turned 70 last May, he's not about to stop farming. “good exercise,” he says. “I wouldn't dare quit.” He wants to be ready, when Renee and her young cousin come around for help on their first project animals!

Herbert Diuble of Ann Arbor, 82, died August 27, 1998 at Herrick Manor in Tecumseh. Mr. Diuble was born May 14, 1916 in Lodi Township, the son of Adolph and Louise (Weurth) Diuble. On January 28, 1939, he married Louisa B. Herter and she survives. A lifelong resident of and farmer in Lodi Township, Mr. Diuble was a member of Salem Lutheran Church, the Saline Fair Board, and many Angus associations. He also had been a 4-H volunteer.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Diuble is survived by: six children, Arlene (Lloyd) Grau of Chelsea, Ralph

Mr. Diuble was preceded in death by: two sisters, Esther Diuble and Dorothy Girbach; and one brother, Wilbert Diuble.

Marriage Notes for Louisa Herter and Herbert Diuble:

Herbert A. Diuble, 22 years old, of Ann Arbor, came to the County Courthouse Tuesday morning Jan. 17, 1939 to get a marriage license and immediately was given a chance to work out its cost. Attorneys trying a case had exhausted a panel of 30 jurors, with three places still to be filled. As Deputy Sheriff Erwin Klager went in search of a fresh supply of talesmen, he saw Diuble and drafted him along with five others. Conscripted into the jury box before he even had a chance to get his license, Diuble slatted earning an unexpected $4 a day. It was the first time in a year and a half, court officials said, that the regular panel had been exhausted. Diuble got his license at the jury's noon recess. He will marry Louise B. Herter, 22, of Route Four, Ann Arbor.

Miss Louisa Herter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Herter of Scio Church Road, and Herbert Diuble, of Ellsworth Road, were united in marriage by Rev. Arthur Wacker at a double ring ceremony at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon January 28, 1939, at the Scio Lutheran Church.

Miss Herter chose a white embroidered marquisette frock with which she wore a short tulle veil and carried Johanna Hill roses. She was attended by Miss Erma Luckhardt of Lodi Township as maid of honor, wearing pink taffeta, and by two bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Diuble, a sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Margaret Larmee of West Liberty Road, both wearing aquamarine net. All carried harmonizing noses. Katherine Gartman of Freedom Township as flower girl wore aqua blue taffeta and carried a basket of rose petals. Elmer Diuble assisted his brother as best man and the ushers were three cousins of the bride, Walter, Paul and Erwin Herter, and a cousin of the bridegroom, Raymond Diuble.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herter after the ceremony. The couple will live on and Waters Road.

Louisa and Herbert Diuble of Ann Arbor will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at a special buffet reception this Sunday, Jan. 29, 1989 at Salem Lutheran Church in Ann Arbor. The event will be hosted by the couple's six children; Arlene and Lloyd Grau of Chelsea; Ralph Diuble of Ann Arbor; Donna and Jim Guenther of Ann Arbor; Donald Diuble of Manchester; Nancy and Steven Thelen of Olivet; and Sharon and Dan Vaassen of Ann Arbor. Mr. and Mrs. Diuble were married January 28, 1939 in Ann Arbor, where they have resided all of their lives. Mr. Diuble is a farmer and Mrs. Diuble is a homemaker. Both are members of Salem Lutheran Church and enjoy farming, livestock shows, and children. The Diables have 10 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Notes for Judge Arthur Mumford Smith:

Arthur M. Smith was born September 19, 1903 in Scott, Indiana the son of Ora Lynn and Genevieve Mumford Smith His father was a country lawyer. He attended public schools in Webster Township and Ithaca Michigan and graduated from high school in 1920. He attended the University of Michigan and received an AB degree in 1924 and his LL.B. at the law school of the same institution in 1926. In the same year he was admitted to the Michigan and Illinois bars June 14, 1926. Art Smith married Elizabeth Barbara Allan. They had two children Arthur Allan a lawyer and Caroll Jean (Mrs. Dwight A. Lewis). He had five grandchildren and was a devoted grandfather.

Smith commenced the practice of patent law in Chicago with the firm of Williams, Bradbury, McCaleb & Hinkle, where he stayed until 1929. While there he attended some classes at the Armour Institute of Technology and the University of Chicago. He then moved to Detroit where he practiced general and patent law with the firm of Wiley, Streeter, Smith & Ford as employee and partner until 1931. He then opened his own office in Detroit, practicing by himself until 1933 when he joined the firm of Dike, Calver & Gray, which was succeeded by Gray & Smith until 1946. He then forsook the big city and opened his own office in nearby Dearborn conveniently located near his home in Inkster, Michigan his successive partnerships being Smith & Olsen; Smith, Olsen & Kotts; Smith, Olsen, Lewis & McRae (Lewis was his son-in-law) and Smith, Wilson, Lewis & McRae.

The Smiths lived in Ford country in a marvelously well-constructed house which was one of those which Henry Ford had built for some of his supervisory personnel in his paternalistic fashion demanding the best workmanship. The Smiths became well acquainted with Henry Ford's widow. Arthur collected books about Henry Ford and liked to tell stories about him.

From 1951 through 1959 Arthur Smith lectured on patent law at the University of Michigan Law School, as a result of which he produced first and second editions (1954 and 1964) of his "Patent Law, Cases, Comments & Materials. Another of his well-known writings is "The Art of Writing Readable Patents," done for the Practicing Law Institute in 1958.

The nomination of Arthur Smith to be a CCPA judge came about in a strange way. The organized patent bar had recommended a list of patent lawyers to the Administration and Smith was on the list but another man, from Chicago, was initially selected and had neared the end of the selection process at which an FBI check was being run. When Smith heard that he said, "Well I guess that's it." He was in Washington at the time and returned to Dearborn thinking it was all over. Much to his surprise he heard a few days later that the President would like to nominate him. The Chicago man had been the victim of some politically troubling publicity in the Chicago papers which in no way reflected on his qualifications and the Administration decided to drop him and go to the next man on the list.

President Eisenhower sent the nomination of Arthur Smith to the Senate on March 25, 1959, and at the same time nominated Associate Judge Eugene Worley (a Democrat) to be Chief Judge thereby getting credit for nominating at least one judge from the other party. The Senate confirmed both on April 29. On May 4 a regular court hearing day, there was a joint swearing in ceremony in the IRS building courtroom. Mr. Justice Tom Clark had been invited to administer the oath to Judge Worley a fellow Texan. Retired Judge Joe Jackson initially presided since there was no Chief Judge and Acting Chief Judge O Connell (by seniority) had been home ill, or at least away since December 4. Justice Clark first swore in Judge Worley, Judge Jackson holding the Bible thereby creating the Chief Judge who was to hold the office until June 1972. Then Judge Worley administered the oath to Arthur Smith, Judge Rich putting his robe on him. A recess was then declared and the new judges held a reception in the courtroom for their friends. When the guests had departed the court returned to the bench and proceeded with the hearing of arguments in three cases. Judge Jackson sat too to make a fifth because although a vacancy had just been filled an active judge was on the sick list a judge who never returned but whose letter of retirement was not forwarded to the President until April 10, 1962 nearly 3 years later 3 years and 4 months after his last sitting and 8 years after he had become eligible to retire on full pay.

Judge Smith's principal hobby was being a Lincoln scholar. In Michigan he was a member of the Abraham Lincoln Civil War Round Table and in Washington he was a member of the Lincoln Group of Washington and its Vice President 1963-64. He was a member of the speakers bureau of the Lincoln Sesquicentennial Commission. His library contained a considerable quantity of Lincoln material and he was particularly interested in Lincoln's relation to the patent system as a patentee himself and as author of the words inscribed on the Commerce Building where the Patent Office long had its home stating that "The Patent System Added the Fuel of Interest to the Fire of Genius".

Judge Smith was also active in the Metropolitan Methodist Church and a former trustee of the Methodist Union of Greater Detroit. He was an ardent gardener and considered himself just a country boy. One opinion he particularly enjoyed writing is in the case of In re Le Grice 49 CCPA 1124 301 F 2d 929 133 USPQ 365 (1962) having to do with the patenting of a rose plant but involving questions of patent law which were of greater importance later, in the field of chemical patents. It is a long opinion including some poetry. He somehow managed to find the rose involved in the case on the market and planted some bushes in his front yard.

As a member of the Court, Judge Smith took a very active interest in improvements such as the reproduction equipment and court procedures. In February 1965, he went out to sit with the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals and brought back an idea for a written vote sheet to improve upon the system of deciding cases only at conferences. It revolutionized the court's way of doing things and speeded up the decision process. With improvements it is still in use and is a great time saver. Before coming to the court he had become interested in the court's constitutional status through the Michigan Patent Law Association and when the question came up in the Supreme Court he played a very active role in procuring the filing of an amicus brief on behalf of the court. This subject is detailed in the next chapter entitled, "The Article III Episode".

Judge Smith's last case was one of some fame involving a computerized method of analyzing gas mixtures In re Prater 56 CCPA 1360 415 F 2d 1378 159 USPQ 583 (1968). It was argued in May 1968 and handed down the day Judge Smith died November 20, 1968. In other words it had gone over the summer. Although a majority had joined the Smith opinion the Chief Judge was trying to have it reargued but a majority would not agree and so on November 20 it was still hung up. On learning that Judge Smith had died at 4:00 AM the Chief Judge decided to hand the case down without voting on it himself and appended his two paragraph opinion in which he began by saying.

This appeal was argued May 9, 1968 and assigned to Judge Smith to write the opinion for the court. Although Judge Smith had been strongly advised by his doctors to restrict his activities he continued with the wholehearted dedication so typical of him to rewrite and revise an opinion dealing with one of the most technical legal matters ever appealed to this court.

To set the record straight the statement about doctors having advised Judge Smith to restrict his activities which makes it appear that he was a sick man was entirely false. On the authority of his wife he had not been consulting doctors and as far as anyone knew he was well. He died suddenly in his sleep of a coronary occlusion at the age of 65 to the surprise of everyone particularly of the present writer who spent the 19th of November lunching and working with him and spoke to him on the evening of that day by phone. It had been a tense day over problems involving his Prater case created by the Chief Judge but he seemed to be retiring in the evening in a contented state of mind.

Funeral services were held in the Metropolitan Methodist Church on November 21, with a large crowd of admirers in attendance His wife children and mother survived him His present and former lawclerks were his pallbearers Interment was in Dearborn.

Notes for Donald Bruce Keck:

Donald Keck was born in Lansing, Michigan in 1941. As Keck grew up, his father, a physicist, and his mother, a teacher, created an environment that encouraged creativity and learning. During high school, Keck began working for his father's company, where he helped build a number of instruments used to monitor wells and groundwater. After graduating, he enrolled at Michigan State University (MSU) and was going to study electrical engineering. However, a conversation with his father regarding the narrow nature of electrical engineering caused Keck to change his major to physics. He graduated from MSU with a B.S. and an M.S. in physics in 1962 and 1964, respectively.

For his doctoral research, Keck studied molecular spectroscopy with C. D. Hawes and received a Ph.D. in physics in 1967 from MSU. A strong economy meant bright job prospects for the graduate. After visiting several companies and government labs, Keck took a position at Corning Inc. in 1968 working with Robert Maurer. Within a year, the collaborative work of Keck, Maurer and Peter Schultz would make important contributions to fiber optics.

In a series of experiments, the researchers found that adding titanium to fused silica strengthened the glass fiber and enhanced its optical properties. They later doped the glass with germanium. This step reduced the amount of light lost as a signal traveled through the fiber. Their work helped establish optical fiber, rather than copper, as the key conduit to transmit information.

Keck became vice president and executive director of research at Corning where he worked until his retirement in 2002. For their discovery, Keck, Maurer, and Schultz received the National Medal of Technology in 2000. Keck holds 36 patents and has authored more than 150 papers on optical fibers and related topics. During his career, Keck received an honorary degree from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and was inducted into the National Inventors Hall of Fame. He received the John Tyndall award from OSA and the IEEE/Photonics Society, the U.S. Department of Commerce American Innovator Award, the SPIE Technology Achievement Award, and Laurin Publishing's Distinction in Photonics Award. Keck served as editor-in-chief of the Journal of Lightwave Technology and generously donated his time to the OSA community. Most notable among his contributions: Keck chaired both the Finance Committee and the Executive Committee of OSA's Science and Engineering Council. He also served on the Board of Directors, the Board of Editors, a number of awards committees, and was on the OFC/NFOEC Steering Committee.

After retirement, Keck helped establish the Infotonics Technology Center in Canandaigua, New York. In 2010 the center merged with the Center of Excellence in Nanoelectronics and Nanotechnology. The new entity is known as the Smart System Technology and Commercialization Center.

Article: Fused Silica Optical Waveguide; Method of Producing Optical Waveguide Fibers - Optical Fibers - Patent Number(s) 3,659,915; 3,711,262 capable of carrying 65,000 times more information than conventional copper wire, a practical reality.

In 1970 Corning Labs' Robert Maurer (Ph.D. MIT, 1951), Donald Keck (Ph.D. Michigan State University, 1967), and Peter Schultz (Ph.D. Rutgers University, 1967) designed and produced the first optical fiber with optical losses low enough for wide use in telecommunications. Previously, the limiting factor was the amount of light lost during transmission. The key was restricting light loss to 20 decibels per kilometer (at least one percent of the light entering a fiber remains after traveling one kilometer). Scientists around the world had worked on the problem for years to no avail.

Optical fiber is the foundation for the global, multimedia telecommunications network of tomorrow. More than 90 percent of the U.S. long-distance traffic is already carried over optical fiber; more than 25 million kilometers has been installed, virtually all of it using the original design of Maurer, Keck and Schultz.

Invention Impact: The discovery by the group at Corning was quickly recognized as a breakthrough, paving the way for the commercialization of optical fiber and literally creating a revolution in telecommunications.

Inventor Bio: Born January 2, 1941 in Lansing, Michigan, Keck received his B.S. in 1962, M.S. in 1964, and a Ph.D. in 1967, all from Michigan State University. He joined Corning as a research physicist in 1968. He went on to become vice president and executive director of research until his retirement in 2002. In 2000, he received the National Medal of Technology in recognition for his work with Robert Maurer and Peter Schultz.

Dr. Donald B. Keck (born January 2, 1941) is an American research physicist and engineer most noted for his involvement in developing low-loss optical fiber. Keck grew up in Lansing, Michigan and attended Michigan State University, after which he joined Corning Incorporated's research department. As a senior research scientist for Corning, Dr. Keck, along with Robert D. Maurer and Peter C. Schultz, designed the first optical fiber with optical losses low enough for wide use in telecommunications, effectively launching the modern fiber optics industry.

Keck spent the entirety of his professional career at Corning, where he eventually held the position of Vice President and Technology Director of Optical Physics, during which time he guided the company into the field of photonics. For his work with optical fiber, he was inducted into the National Inventors Hall of Fame in 1993, and received the prestigious National Medal of Technology in 2000.

Early life - Donald B. Keck was born on January 2, 1941 in Lansing, Michigan, where he also spent all of his youth. An active and curious child, he participated in the Boy Scouts program throughout his early years. Keck's father, an educated physicist, had great influence over him, encouraging and inspiring his son to engage in scientific pursuits. During his childhood, Keck was surrounded by his father's prisms and lenses at home, spawning his interest in the science of light – his specialty throughout his professional career – at a very young age.

Education - Keck remained in his hometown for college, entering Michigan State University in 1958 with the intention of becoming an electrical engineer. However, during his undergraduate years, he was persuaded by his father to switch disciplines and study physics. As a result, he received his B.S. in Physics in 1962 and his M.S. in Physics in 1964, both from Michigan State. He encountered optical fiber for the first time during his second year as a graduate student, and was immediately fascinated. He subsequently continued his studies, writing his doctorate thesis on infrared spectroscopy, and ultimately received his Ph.D. in Physics from Michigan State in 1967. Keck's time spent at Michigan State was the foundation for his later success, providing him not only with a quality education, but also exposing him to the field of study in which he would later excel. Regarding his doctorate work, Keck said, "The particular thesis work I did revolved around infrared spectroscopy. I learned I like optics. I learned about materials and their different spectral responses. I was ready to hit the ground running at Corning."

Corning Years - After receiving his Ph.D., Keck began looking for a job. The market was booming for physicists in 1967, as both the space exploration and weapons development industries were thriving. Keck received numerous job offers, and had no intention of working for Corning until a recruiter visited the Michigan State campus and displayed a bundle of optical fiber. Intrigued by the fiber, Keck visited Corning Incorporated in Corning, New York, and met with Dr. Robert Maurer, who discussed Corning's optical fiber development project and its goal of building a low-loss optical waveguide suitable for transmitting data. After listening to Maurer, Keck accepted an offer from Corning, moved to New York, and began work as a senior research scientist on the project in January 1968.

Optical Fiber - In the early 1960s, demand emerged for a new telephone wire technology. Copper cables, which were the state-of-the-art at the time, were being pushed to their limit, as more and more telephone calls were being made. An international effort began to find the next great data transmission technology.

Initially, optical fibers – glass or plastic fibers which carry data in the form of light – were of little consideration for the job of replacing copper wires. The fibers that existed in the 1960s were high-loss; while they directed the light, they also absorbed so much of it that little of its signal remained after a few meters, rendering them useless for long-distance telecommunications. However, Robert Maurer, Keck's boss, believed low-loss optical fiber could be produced, and made its invention his goal. Maurer's goal was to invent a fiber with a loss, or attenuation, of 20 decibels per kilometer (db/km). At the time of Keck's hiring, the best optical fibers had attenuations of 200 to 1000 db/km.

Corning's Optical Wave Guide Project team, composed of Maurer, also a physicist, Keck, and Peter C. Schultz, a chemist, approached the task differently than other researchers. Instead of trying to improve upon existing fibers by using better raw materials, Maurer sought to explore the capabilities of new materials, including pure silica. The team devised a division of labor, where Maurer focused on physics, Schultz developed new types of glass, and Keck turned this glass into fiber.

They started work on the project as soon as Keck arrived at the beginning of 1968, and had little early success. They experimented with different glass compositions and methods of heating the glass. Finally, in August 1970, the team found their breakthrough moment: late one afternoon, after both Maurer and Schultz had left for the day, Keck took measurements of the newest batch of fibers he had heat-treated. When Keck noticed the light passed through the 65 foot fiber seemingly without any loss, he exclaimed "Good grief, what do I have here?" Keck took more measurements of the fiber, and discovered it had an attenuation of 16 db/km, exceeding the goal of 20 db/km. Upon this discovery, Keck wrote in his laboratory notebook, "Attenuation equals 16 db it says. Eureka," followed by an exclamatory "Whoopee!". Keck and his team had invented the first low-loss optical fiber; it was composed of heat-treated titanium-doped silica. Papers were written and patents were filed, and Corning introduced the fiber to the outside world, but it would take another 10 years before the telecommunications industry began utilizing their invention.

In the meantime, Keck continued to improve upon the fiber he had invented. He replaced the titanium-oxide glass of 1970 with germanium-oxide doped glass, and eventually achieved a consistent 4 db/km attenuation in June 1972. By the end of the 1970s, Keck had four critical inventions which secured Corning's place as frontrunner in the optical fiber revolution: fused silica doped with titanium; fused silica doped with germanium; the inside vapor deposition, or IV process, for making fiber; and the outside vapor deposition, or OV process, for making fiber, which would ultimately become the leading manufacturing method.

By 1979, Corning was mass producing the refined optical fiber invented by Keck in Wilmington, North Carolina. In the early 1980s, the telecom company MCI placed an order with Corning for 100,000 km of fiber a year, in effect signaling that the telecommunications industry had finally realized the revolutionary potential of Keck's invention. Today, more than 90% of long-distance data in the United States is now sent through the optical fiber Keck and his team designed and produced. Optical fibers, which can now carry 65,000 times more information than the copper wires they replaced, ultimately allowed for the development of the Internet in the early 1990s.

Later Work - After his initial success with low-loss optical fiber, Keck continued working with Corning to make optical communications more viable. Keck was responsible for inventing numerous optical couplers and splitters, which greatly extended the applications of optical fiber. He was elected Editor-in-Chief of the industry-leading Journal of Lightwave Technology in 1989, a position he held until 1994.

Moreover, Keck began to rise within the corporate ladder at Corning. After beginning as a senior research scientist in 1968, almost 30 years later, in April 1997, Corning appointed Keck the Division Vice President of Core Technology, Optics and Photonics – Science and Technology. During his management tenure, Keck was a key figure in establishing Corning's modern innovation ethos, and also helped guide Corning into the emerging field of photonics. By the end of his tenure with Corning, Keck was well-regarded in the scientific community as an expert within the fields of molecular spectroscopy, gradient and aspheric optics, guided-wave optics, fiber sensors and optical fiber waveguides, and research management.

After Corning - Keck retired from Corning in 2002, after spending 34 years with the company. Throughout his career, he served the company in numerous capacities, and at the time of his retirement he held the position of Vice President and Director of Research. Immediately after his retirement, Keck helped establish the Infotonics Technology Center in Canandaigua (town), New York, a collaborative organization between private industry and government focused on photonics and nanotechnology innovation. Due to his expertise in both photonics and research management, he was elected the first Chief Technology Officer of Infotonics, a position he held briefly.

Dr. Keck and his wife, Ruth Keck, currently reside in Big Flats, New York, outside of Corning, New York. He has two adult children, both of whom are also involved in technological fields: Lynne Vaia, a civil engineer, and Brian Keck, a software expert. He is involved in local philanthropy in Corning, holding board membership for the American Red Cross, the Community Foundation, and the Science Center. In addition to still consulting for Infotonics, Keck remains active in the science community, serving on the oversight board for the National Institute of Standards and Technology, the IPO Education Foundation Board of Directors, as well as holding the position of Vice-Chair of the National Inventors Hall of Fame Board of Directors. Furthermore, Keck is a benefactor of his alma mater, Michigan State University, where he also currently sits on the Advisory Board for the university's College of Natural Science, of which he was a graduate.

Awards and honors - For his many contributions to the science of light, Dr. Keck has received numerous accolades. His alma mater, Michigan State University, named him a Distinguished Alumnus, and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute granted him an honorary degree in 2004. For his discovery of low-loss optical fiber in particular, Keck was inducted into the National Inventors Hall of Fame in 1993, after which he served as President of the National Inventors Hall of Fame Foundation. He is also a recipient of the Department of Commerce American Innovator Award and the SPIE Technology Achievement Award. For his work with photonics, Keck was honored with Laurin Publishing's Distinction in Photonics Award in 2002.

In 2000, U.S. President Bill Clinton awarded Keck, along with his fellow Corning researchers Robert Maurer and Peter Schultz, the nation's highest honor for innovators, the National Medal of Technology, which recognizes those who make lasting contributions to enhancing America's competitiveness and standard of living. Their award citation read: "Their invention has enabled the telecommunications revolution, rapidly transformed our society, the way we work, learn and live – and our expectations for the future. It is the basis for one of the largest, most dynamic industries in the world today."<sup>15</sup>

Professional Membership - Keck is a member of many professional organizations, including the National Academy of Engineering, the Optical Society of America, the Optoelectronics Industry Development Association, and the IEEE.

Patents - Throughout his career at Corning, Dr. Keck acquired 36 U.S. patents and authored more than 150 papers in the areas of optical fibers and fiber components. Selected patents are listed below:
U.S. Patent 3,659,915 (1972-05) Maurer, et al., "Fused Silica Optical Waveguide."

Oral History Transcript - Dr. Donald Keck:

Interviewed by: Tom Lassman    Location: Corning, New York    Interview date: November 2, 2004
Lassman: This is Tom Lassman here with Dr. Donald Keck, in Corning, New York, on November 2, Election Day, 2004, for an autobiographical interview. Thank you for taking the time to participate in the interview. I will start with some family background. You were born in 1941, in Lansing, Michigan? And, if you could give me a little background on your family history there, father's occupation background, mother's background and occupation?

Keck: Well, the background is so terribly important in weighing the foundation for what a person does in their career. My father was a physicist himself. There's rich rich history and content in his life, as well. He had studied at Michigan State University. Back in those days, you didn't often go right to school after you graduated from high school. He graduated as valedictorian. My dad graduated, as I said, as valedictorian of his class and then had to work a couple of years before he went to school.

Lassman: And, what's the time period for this?

Keck: He, well, he was born November 2, or November 1, 1905. So, he would have been ninety-nine this year. Died three years ago. Ninety-six and a half. Three years. No, two years ago, 2002. At any rate, he went to Michigan State, studied electrical engineering at Michigan State, was interested in science from the get go. He had five other siblings, one of whom went to college. The others, well the other, the other brother didn't, he was a farmer. Two of his sisters went to college. So, there was a history in the Germanic family of going to college. And, this was perhaps not that typical in those days. But, the Keck family believed in education, and very strongly so. So, he worked two years, put himself through school. He met my mother in East Lansing. She was born in East Lansing, grew up there, outside of East Lansing.

Lassman: Were your mother and father first generation born in America — how far back did they go?

Keck: My mother was second or third generation. My dad, my dad's mother came over from Germany when she was seven years old. My grandfather, on his, on my dad's side, had been here one generation already, and had participated in the family business in the Ann Arbor area.

Lassman: And, what was that business?

Keck: Well, there was a Keck furniture firm that was a major employer in Ann Arbor, Michigan. I don't know when it was founded, but they had a thriving furniture business in Ann Arbor, Michigan, and my grandfather worked as part of that. And, later he went into agriculture in Utica, Michigan. That's where my dad grew up. So, he went through school in electrical engineering and then taught at Michigan State University, taught in the physics department for a number of years. And by then he had gotten a masters degree, had studied with the geology department at Michigan State, and was gravitating toward geophysics as a career. That was not at all a typical profession in those days.

Lassman: This would have been in the 1920s?

Keck: Yes. 1926. Twenty-six he graduated from Michigan State. So he had a number of positions after that. He worked for a period of time, got into geophysical prospecting with Dow Chemical, and Pure Oil prior to the Depression.

Lassman: So, this was after he was done teaching?

Keck: After he had — I misspoke. I've got the history a little bit wrong. His teaching came after he came back from the Pure Oil exploration geophysical tour in Venezuela.

Lassman: How did he get to Dow Chemical?

Keck: After he graduated from Michigan State he eventually got into earth resistivity in a geophysical sense. And, I'm trying to remember whether he did the — he was already into geophysics at the time that he got the job at Dow Chemical.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: The number of scientists that were going into industrial firms — again, this was early in that evolution when industrial firms were recognizing the benefit of having trained scientists on their staffs in various capacities. At any rate, my father had spent some time at Dow Chemical. And, then went to Pure Oil, and did exploration, geophysics in Venezuela looking for oil, prior to the Depression. So, it was 1927, 1928, somewhere in that general time frame.

Lassman: Was Pure Oil a separate company?

Keck: Yes, as far as I know, it was not connected with Dow Chemical, if that's your question?

Lassman: When he was at Dow was there a research laboratory where he was working?

Keck: I think so.

Keck: He went, for a couple of years down to Venezuela prospecting for oil, for Pure Oil.

Lassman: And, what were the techniques at that time?

Keck: Well, he had worked with a gentleman by the name of Bill Rooney. I'm trying to remember where he came from. But, he was a physicist, and he had developed some earth resistivity measuring techniques looking at strata in the earth. That was apparently beginning to be used in the prospecting for oil reserves. So, my dad led a small team down to Venezuela and for a couple of years they prospected in the Lake Maracaibo area, south of that. And, about that time the Depression hit, and Pure Oil called them back. During the Depression, he did various and sundry things like everybody did. One of the interesting things was — pearl buttons were the rage back in those days, and he picked up clams along the Muskegon River in Michigan, with the gentleman that he went to Venezuela with, a gentleman by the name of Frank Betz. And, Frank became a longtime family friend over the years. I knew him as we were growing up, as I was growing up. But, they'd collect clamshells in the Muskegon River and then drill buttons out of them and sell those for the clothing industry, because pearl buttons were a big deal. Somewhere around here [Laugh] I've got a bunch of pearl buttons and belt buckles. But, after the Depression he then taught at Michigan State.

Lassman: Did he go back for more training?

Keck: Well, not quite yet.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: He was at Michigan State with a masters degree, teaching in the physics department. And it must have been then in the late '30s that Michigan State began to try and upgrade their physics department. They hired a young professor who had just gotten his PhD from, I believe, Iowa, or Iowa State. One or the other. A gentleman by the name of C.D. Hawes. And, that'll come back later on. And, they had to make room for this person on the faculty. And, Hawes had a PhD, and my father didn't. So, basically he was dismissed. They offered him some sort of a teaching position, but he was clearly not a tenure-track faculty. So, it was at that point that he decided to go on for a PhD, and he went to the University of Michigan, eventually getting his PhD in 1941.

Lassman: In what?

Keck: In physics.

Lassman: In what specific areas?

Keck: Well, he again, pursued this notion of earth resistivity, and developed some of the offshoots of the so-called Tice equations, basically solving Green's function in the earth, and did a joint thesis between the geology department and the physics department, at the University of Michigan. But, his degree was from the Rankin school, at the University of Michigan. And, I recall that at the time he said that S.A. Goudsmit was on the faculty at the University of Michigan and that he had studied under Goudsmit for one of his courses, I guess the electricity magnetism course. But, later on, as I studied physics of course, that name came up. And, so, that was kind of an interesting piece of family history.

Lassman: Can I just interject a couple of questions?

Keck: Sure.

Lassman: You mentioned that when your father went back to Michigan State that the physics department was in the process of upgrading itself? Do, you know a little bit more about what that context was?

Keck: It's in that treatise that he wrote. So, I can try and dig that out over the lunch hour, or a break, or whatever, and we can go through that a little bit.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: He did delve into that a little bit.

Lassman: That's fine.

Keck: As to who the chairman of the department was, and that information is in there.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: [137]

Lassman: And then, the other question I have is about the research that he was doing when he was going back for his PhD. What was actually happening within geophysics? Was he taking a more mathematical approach to prospecting? Was it becoming more professionalized in that sense? I'm just trying to get a sense of what the strands of research were in that time.

Keck: He tended to be more on the experimental side, which is, frankly, where I gravitated as well. But, he did develop a theoretical background for geophysics. All I remember is the so-called Tice equations that somehow — well, I think they're associated with earth resistivity. But, now having said that, they may have more to do with diffusivity in an aquifer. So, I may not get (or be?) too definitive on that.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: He did, he eventually did both of those things. After he got his PhD in '41, of course, the war was on. And, he went to the Naval Ordnance Laboratory in Washington, and the family moved down there. He got his PhD, I think, in December of '41, and I was born in January of '41. I was almost a year old by the time he actually got his doctorate. I have no idea where the monies came for that. I never did ask. He had earned, certainly, some with Dow Chemical and Pure Oil, and I suspect there was some of the Germanic tradition of saving money and so on. So there was never a debt associated with his college, as far as I am aware, for either he nor my mother.

Lassman: Did your mother also work?

Keck: She went to Michigan State. She studied English literature for the most part. Eventually taught school, got a teaching certificate, and taught school in Michigan. She stopped that when they moved to Washington, and I was born by that time. She basically became a housewife at that time and raised the family. In Washington, my dad used some of the same measurement techniques that he used in earth resistivity, basically a bridge measuring technique to for submarine warfare. And, apparently, they were looking to put sensors across the entryway to the harbors along the coastline, during the war, to detect infiltration of submarines. It was looking at the electrical potential that's developed between metals and seawater. They could pick up the minute potential by passing the current through the seawater and then looking for changes in that, at the bridge points. It was a four-point measurement system. He did that through the war. When the war was over, he returned to East Lansing, which was my mother's home, and at that point he started a private consulting business in geophysics.

There's a company now called Keck & Associates that he started when I was in high school around 1957. And, in fact, I worked for the company and developed a lot of the things that I learned how to do, as part of that, and under his mentorship. It was a wonderful experience growing up. My dad was just an excellent excellent teacher. And, at lunchtime, he and I would talk and he'd pose problems and then help me through to a solution of various mindbender types of problems and so on. It was just a rich environment to train, to mentor, a budding scientist. In many respects it was perfectly natural that I was going to gravitate into some field of science. I remember — I don't know how the story got back to me, but probably when I was first going to school, you know, kindergarten or first grade, or some grown-up asking what I was going to be, and I said I was going to be a geophysicist, and they didn't know that I knew the word, let alone what a geophysicist was. But, at any rate, it was just part of the growing up in that environment. And my mother was very strong on education. Obviously, very learned, and both of them were avid readers, and so I wound up doing a lot of reading as I was growing up. And for some reason or other, I've, I do more of my learning by oral techniques now than reading, but back then I did a lot of reading.

Lassman: You mentioned when your father came back to East Lansing in 1945, he started his consulting business? Was he consulting to the big oil companies?

Keck: No. He took an entrepreneurial approach. I don't know exactly how he got into it, but there may have been a gentleman by the name of John Farris, that worked for the State Geological Survey, the State of Michigan Geological Survey. I remember him coming to the house — I was in elementary school — and talking often with my dad, and asking questions and so on. And eventually, he got into the field of groundwater hydrology. He still used the same prospecting techniques that had grown up in the oil industry, but to look and be able to predict where you might, what strata you might find water in, and he eventually built that business. His primary client was the Layne Company, or a whole host of Layne companies that specialize in drilling wells for cities and municipalities. Layne Northern was the one in Michigan, but there's Layne New York, and Layne Florida, and Layne Northwest, and a whole host of Layne companies that had sprung up. And so, he wound up being essentially retained by them as his primary consulting service.

Eventually he started the company Keck & Associates, and started a two-prong company. One was the consulting business that would analyze geophysical data, resistivity data, electrical logging of wells, gamma ray logging of wells to ascertain what the geologic strata was, and then knowing the strata and the permeability of the strata he developed — and this is probably where these Tice equations come in, now that I think about it, having to do with diffusivity through permeable strata. Given the strata you solve the differential equation to predict the drawdown cone if a city started pumping, you know, a million gallons of water a day out of the thing, how far out does that cone stand in the surrounding countryside. He specialized in, as I was growing up, how you got water out of the aquifer. Jumping way ahead, when he sold the company to a young geologist, Bob Minning, at that time, environmental issues were the rage, and it was just the reverse. You wanted to know, if you dumped some stuff, where it was going to go.

Lassman: I see.

Keck: So, you turned the equations around and went the other way, which I always found somewhat interesting. He consulted for many municipalities through this Layne company, and eventually through International Water Supply in Canada, another large client, based out of — outside Toronto. At any rate, as these water demands from cities got bigger and bigger, why the litigation started cropping up, and so he wound up having to testify in courts of law as to — was a city impairing "Joe's" well two miles outside the city when "Joe" suddenly ran out of water? That part he really didn't much care for. But, the other part of Keck & Associates that I got involved with as a high school student — he began to build these instruments for the water industry that large companies like Schlumberger had for oil prospecting. They had all sorts of electric logging, and gamma ray logging, and multi-channels, and all sorts of things. My dad essentially, well innovated — I won't say invented — the corresponding instrument for use by the small well companies. We built earth resistivity instruments that we then sold to the Layne companies, or anybody for that matter. I had a hand in building and developing a gamma ray logger. We put one of those together. We tried to build a seismograph. Seismometry was beginning to start finding a way into the groundwater industry. I built a little water-level recorder; recording the drawdown cone in wells was a big deal. You'd have little test wells and often they were small bore and the question is, "how do you go out and measure the depth to water as a function of time, while you pumped the primary well?" We built these little things that had a bob that went down and when it contacted the water's surface it completed the circuit around through the earth, and we just set a little sensor circuit that would, if it, if the water went away why a motor would drop it down until it contacted again, and then it would sit there — or the other way around, the motor would wind it back up if the water level came back up. So, my first industrial experience was working for my dad's company as a high school student, and later as a college student.

Lassman:Were these batch production instruments, or did you mass ...?

Keck:One of a kind.

Lassman:I see. Did that ever expand to manufacturing?

Keck:Eventually. Eventually Keck & Associates — well, I guess in its heyday it probably had twenty, twenty-five people, half of them doing the consulting part, and half of them doing the instrument building part. But, it was not a big, big industry, or big market or anything like that.

Lassman:On the consulting side, were they PhD physicists? Did your father recruit scientists?

Keck:No. Bob Minning had a masters degree, and a couple of the people he trained. Colleges weren't teaching this sort of a curriculum, so it was essential on-the-job training. The Layne Company had a young fellow that wanted to get into this, and my dad took him under his wing. He was always a tremendous fan of education.

Lassman:Did he continue to teach, by the way, while he was in this business?

Keck:No.

Lassman:I mean formally.

Keck:To people like me. Yes. Not formally, no. But, I can't tell you the number of people that he would slip money to for them to continue their education. I had a cousin that, well two cousins that I'm sure he subsidized heavily. Then he had a young fellow that worked with Keck & Associates, well two of them in one family, and he encouraged them and helped fund their college. And then a young fellow that was going to Michigan State that was putting himself through school doing odd jobs, wound up helping my dad prune trees when he was beginning — after my dad had retired and was in his seventies. And, he basically loaned him the money to go through school. Education was always high on the family hit parade.

Lassman:You mentioned siblings, and I want to make sure we go into this a little bit more. Were there any siblings who came into the business?

Keck:No.

Lassman:What were their backgrounds?

Keck:He had six brothers and sisters. My mother was an only child. One of my dad's brothers, the oldest, got a masters degree and eventually became a professor at Michigan Technological University. In fact, he came up with a float process for extracting copper from ore that I believe is still, or was, some years back, still being used. He was the first in the family to become educated. My dad was the second to the youngest. The eldest daughter didn't go to school. The next brother studied a little bit, but I don't believe ever graduated. He studied agriculture, and eventually had a large fruit farm in the Detroit area. The next sister became a teacher and taught for many many years in the Detroit school system. And then my dad, and then the youngest sister became a pharmacist, but she and her husband had a pharmacy in the Detroit area. My mother was an only child, grew up on a farm, as did my dad. They were accustomed to hard work. And, one of my dad's favorite sayings was, "count that day as lost whose low descending sun, sees not from your hand some useful labor done." So, that was a kind of a mantra that I grew up with. And he came from the farm background. And I sort of growing up, prided myself that all my cousins were on farms. We'd go out, and Sunday dinners, and holiday gatherings, and so on, and you were always interacting with the farm community and so it became second nature to me to enjoy that sort of life, as well as the life that my dad was creating vis-a-vis his professional career. I had always, as I say, prided myself on being able to associate with all sorts of sociological strata, and I think that was an important trait as I evolved in my career.

Lassman:Now to focus on your childhood activities, and hobbies. Are there any things that stand out?

Keck: You asked about siblings. I, there was one brother that died, that was born two years before I was, and died two weeks after birth. And, at that time, the Rh factor was not well known. And, it turned out my dad and mother had conflicting Rh blood factors. I don't know whether that was the case in Ronnie's death or not, but in some sense I'm a bit lucky to even be here.

Lassman: Do you have other siblings?

Keck: No. I'm an only child. They, I guess they, after Ronnie died they learned about the Rh factor and basically decided that it just wasn't appropriate to continue to have more in the family, or try to. It would be too risky.

Lassman: I see.

Keck: I'm, I'm guessing. I don't know. So, my childhood, activities, hobbies, and so on. Where to start?

Well, one of the other neat features of my growing up was that I grew up next door to my maternal grandparents. Paternal grandparents were in Detroit, so we'd go down there and visit them maybe every couple of months. Believe it or not, it was quite an ordeal to drive to Detroit.

Lassman: Was East Lansing primarily an agricultural community, removed from the big city?

Keck: Well, no. Lansing, at the time that I was growing up, was probably 50,000 people. It's probably now, it may be pushing a million. In East Lansing, the population came and went with the terms on campus. In the summer, it was pretty deserted. Well, we can get into that perhaps a little bit later. I wouldn't say it was a rural community. Clearly my relatives had farms on the outskirts; Grand Ledge, and so on, so there's a lot of rich farmland around the area. But, I grew up a quarter mile east of the Michigan State campus. And, as I say, my grandparents, maternal grandparents lived next door. My grandfather was a very big influence on my life, as well as my father. My father, of course, brought in the professional and the engineering side. My grandfather never went to college, but he could do almost anything. The man had worked with his hands, had done every type of skilled labor in his lifetime, had been a fire chief, had been a deputy sheriff. I was constantly in awe of him as I was growing up learning how the world worked. But, his last jobs were as a carpenter. And so, he had a wonderful set of tools, and could make lots of things; as could my dad, he was a very skilled craftsman as well.

He could do woodworking, but also developed the ability to do machine, metalworking, and things like that, as well as the electrical and electronics and things like that. But my grandfather had obviously come from that agricultural side. So, one of the family mantras was, well, you didn't buy something if you could make it. Any number of tools they would make. My dad made a jigsaw. My grandfather had a homemade drill press. And, his shop at home had — you see the old factories with the long power bar, a motor at one end turning the long rod, and then you got pulleys. His shop had that. A drill press was connected to one. You unhooked the belt or hooked it up depending on what machine you wanted to run. It was always fascinating to be around my grandfather, and learn how to do things. And, we had a tractor, and had five acres on the Red Cedar River. Over time, we developed the low lying land along the river, pulled out all the willows and brush, and eventually created a large pond there that we kids skated on in the winter when I was in high school.

Lassman: Let's move on to your development of interest in science technology, mathematics. You mentioned your father had a profound impact on that?

Keck: Yes.

Lassman: Were there tinkering? You mentioned chemistry sets, things like that? Books that you read?

Keck: Yes. My dad had, for his consulting business, he had assembled not only a rich chemistry lab, but also an electronics shop. We had an oscilloscope in the house, which was virtually unheard of today, a Dumont Oscilloscope. I think Dumont was one of the first. Well, it sprang out of radarscopes during World War II, and they gravitated into the scientific instrument business with the oscilloscopes.

Keck: I remember this big green oscilloscope. And, we'd hook up microphones to it and my dad would show me my signature coming out of the carbon microphones. I mentioned, this early notion that I was going to be a geophysicist, and that must have been kindergarten or first grade that I had this realization. My dad had all these things in the basement, and I would constantly be watching him do some experiment, or solder something together, and so I began picking up some of those same sorts of things.

Lassman: Let me just switch the tape over.

Keck: Had an erector set I remember that they got me early on, and enjoyed in fabricating things away from the drawings that they'd give you. They'd say, "Build this. Build that." And, I didn't want to do that. I'd try and develop some things on my own. It must have been some sort of a science fair, maybe, about the time I was in sixth grade, so what would that have been, 1953? I built a motor. I had an electric train. I got it for Christmas. I had a transformer as part of the train, and my dad sort of sketched out what this motor should look like, and I remember it took a big spike, the largest one we could find, that was the shaft of my motor, a nail. A sixteen penny nail, or something like that, and cut the head off it, and that became the shaft of the motor, and it had a metal magnetic, the oscillating – what do I want to call it? It's not the armature. The starter on a motor, and I wound the coils. My dad had copper wire laying around as part of his activities in building these instruments [for his business]. And that motor, we first hooked it up with batteries, and then I eventually put it on the, on my electric train transformer. That was one of the first things to begin learning about commutators, and magnetics, and electricity, and so on. I've forgotten when my dad — I remember him teaching me the physics of a curve ball. I did sports and all sorts of things growing up. I wasn't totally obsessed with science as some, some of our learned and notable scientists are. I led a pretty standard kid's life, as I was growing up. Sports were big for me. Baseball was big. Soccer was not yet commonly seen in this country.

Lassman: Were there any books that you read as a child that were particularly influential, that guided your interest in science and technology?

Keck: Well, I remember the first science books that we got, must have been first grade or second grade, were fascinating and they were kind of generalist types of science books.

Lassman: Books that you had in school?

Keck: Yes. They were the things that interested me most in school. I can't say that I remember any science books.

Lassman: Popular books?

Keck: I remember reading the stories of dogs, as I was growing up. As I say, I enjoyed sports. There was a book that we counted the stories of a number of sports, of baseball notables. And, I enjoyed that. My mother had me reading in the Tom Sawyers, and things along that line. But, I don't remember that there were that many science books. We went to the library every now and again. I can't tell you the books that I remember taking out of the library. Well, at any rate, there was a hobby show that existed in Michigan. It was put on by Oldsmobile, as I was growing up, and I remember going to that and seeing all the things that kids were building. And, sometimes I'd go home and try and duplicate — it was a science fair — duplicate some of the things they had. I never entered it, and I don't know why. What else did we do growing up?

Lassman: What about religious orientation in the household and in the community; was that an important part of life?

Keck: Yes. My dad had been raised a staunch Lutheran, but as he got into college he and my mother began attending an interdenominational church, the People's Church, in East Lansing. Probably about the time that I was just beginning high school, there was a branch of that church that began in our neighborhood, close to our neighborhood, Edgewood United Church of Christ. That became the church that I attended during the formative years, high school and early college. Very much interdenominational, Protestant. I do remember as I was growing up that I thought that Catholicism was the favored religion and the Protestants were in the minority. But, little did I know, I guess. At any rate, we always had salmon loaf on Friday at school, and I hated salmon ever since that day. What other things did I do? Well I always enjoyed creating things. It was the only thing I can think of at this point. Model railroading was of interest to me, and more or less so from just buying the parts, but more on instrumenting the layout. It was probably in, again, fifth, sixth, seventh grades, that I had a layout down in the basement. I learned some of my first experiences with household power by blowing several fuses, reconnecting the wrong thing to the fuse box, and shorting things out.

So, you began to gradually learn through experience. But, my folks — they didn't ignore me by any means, but they let me try lots of things. They encouraged me to take things apart, see how they worked. So, from probably fifth grade on, if something broke in the house, first, my dad would take it apart. He'd see how things were put together, and then gradually he was busy consulting, so my mother would bring the thing to me and said, "Can you see if you can fix the coffee pot, or fix the toaster?" Or, fix this that, and the other thing." I wound up always tearing things apart and had the shop and everything there to do all of that. I've thought since then, one of the features of the National Inventor's Hall of Fame is they have a training area at the Akron Hall, where kids can come in and barter to, they bring something from home and they get so many credits for a piece of old equipment that's broken and then, kids will tear it apart and they'll get a coil for this, and begin to make stuff on their own. I always thought that was just a wonderful wonderful thing, because that was clearly one of the things that I enjoyed doing. I think it helped in my later career, of not being afraid to try something different, and tear it apart, and see how it works, and then put it back together and try and improve upon it.

Lassman:I see.

Keck:Cardboard boxes were important, again there's this creativity thing. I didn't have a lot of store-bought toys. You made your own. I loved cardboard boxes, and I'd cut holes in them and make crawl spaces, and make buildings for my model railroad set, as well as lots of electrical stuff. I built myself a big control panel for my model railroad set with all sorts of switches. Loved lots of switches and lights everywhere, and hooking things up.

Lassman:This would be a good point to jump into your high school time period. This would have been around the early to mid '50s that you entered high school?

Keck:Yes. I graduated in 1958, so I was a freshman in '53-'54.

Lassman:I'd like you to talk a little bit about your high school experience, if there were any mentors you had. Peer group, and so on, focusing on your interest in science and technology and broadening out to other areas of interest.

Keck:Math was always of interest to me, and it came easily to me. I enjoyed it all the way through elementary school. I remember somewhere in high school, well we had a, what I considered an excellent math teacher, Mrs. Kelly, Ruth Kelly. She just had a very good way of teaching math. I recall one day that a class was giving her lots of trouble, and she made some comment about how... They had already separated us into college preparatory and the vocational students, which I didn't really comprehend, I don't think, at that time. But, nevertheless, there was a tracking that they were doing with students.

Lassman:Was that vocational to go into local industries?

Keck:Yes. That sort of thing. I recall. Oh Sure. Mrs. Kelly was chastising our class because we were too boisterous and weren't learning, and so on, and she said, "You have geniuses in this class and it's a shame." And, I made some comment and she said, "Donald, you're the last person that should be making a comment like that." And, everybody interpreted that I was one of the people that had an IQ test that had scored at the genius level, and I don't know whether that was true or not, but I remember it. As I said, the math just seemed to come easily to me. And, perhaps it was her teaching techniques, but I enjoyed it, and I did well in math. I did terribly in English. Much to my mother's chagrin. One of the laments that I've had since then was that I enjoyed history in elementary and junior high, and then in high school I didn't pay enough attention, or didn't enjoy it. I don't know whether it was the teacher, or what, but I've often thought that that was one of the subjects that young people really need to learn more about. All the things we don't know in this world is the history that we don't understand. Harry Truman, I believe said, made some quote like that. I might perhaps come back to that later on. But history is so important in all that we do, and clearly in the sciences. I mean, if we don't understand what's gone before you how do you build on it and carry it to the next level? So Mrs. Kelly had a major impact on me.

Lassman:Was this a large high school? Our graduating class was fifty-eight, in 1958. I did not distinguish myself in high school. I graduated in the middle of the class. I enjoyed things, extracurricular activities. We did the normal things of dividing into boys and girls. But there was the group from, well the agricultural side, the rural part, and then there was the group that were growing up in the brand new subdivisions that Oldsmobile executives populated. They were the professional haves versus the have-nots. I recall that I had friends across the spectrum. One of my best friends later became best man in our wedding, Roger Shaw. He was scientifically inclined; engineering eventually was what he gravitated into. No I can't really say that — there were scientifically minded folks in both camps. I was going to say that more of the rural folks were destined to become the scientists and the engineers, compared to the professionals, but I can't really make that generalization in my high school. There were some in both camps. But, in my high school so much of it had come easy for me up through the seventh grade anyway. The eighth grade was probably the spot where I started thinking I had it made and sloughed off. I didn't particularly pay attention to the schoolwork. But Mrs. Kelly had an impact. And then, it may have been my freshman year, a new science, physics and chemistry teacher came to the high school, to [761] High School, Mr. Walbridge. He had a significant impact on me.

Lassman:How so?

Keck:Well, on two counts. Again, as I went through high school the only sport that I participated in — I was too short for basketball and too small for football, and so baseball was the only major sport that I played. And I wanted to pitch. I grew up next door to my best friend, Rich Belknap. And his dad had been a minor league ball player, a pitcher, in fact. And he'd go out evenings and hit fly balls to us, and teach us some of the intricacies of the game of baseball. I wanted to be a baseball player. And, somewhere along, in my growing up, my dad, I remember it vividly, he was running his consulting business and I came into the house and had been frustrated playing baseball and I said, "Dad, how do you throw a curve ball? What makes a baseball curve?" And, he took time out from the middle of the day, from work, and he was a magnificent artist, and he drew the baseball and showed the pressure differentials and the spinning ball, and Bernoulli, and so on. He didn't give me all those names, but basically told me the physics behind the baseball, and why it curved. And, so in high school, I didn't have a lot of speed but I had a wicked curve ball. And, in fact, I was trying to find the article this morning. I either threw a no-hitter or a one-hitter against one of the neighboring teams my senior year. I was our pitcher in my senior year. Batted 0.440. And, so as I say I got involved in lots of stuff associated with sports. Well, and the other thing I enjoyed were the extracurriculars. I got heavily involved in doing anything but schoolwork. So, there was an Audio Visual Club and we showed movies and ran the tape recorders and did all the electrical stuff, and so I naturally gravitated to that.

Lassman: That makes me think of this time period when you're in high school in the '50s, on the larger scale we're seeing this transition from vacuum tubes to solid-state.

Keck: Yes. One of my term papers was on the transistor. For high school English. I don't remember whether it was my junior year or my senior term paper, but one of the other of those years the transistor had just recently been invented by Shockley and Bardeen, and my dad had told me that John Bardeen was at the — I believe it was Bardeen — was at the Naval Ordnance Lab with him during the war. That's when he had known him. Again, interesting ties there, the relatively small scientific community that existed.

Lassman: Did you tinker with tubes and solid transistors, and that type of...?

Keck: Well, yes. Now, I'm glad you said that. I had totally forgotten. I made, I don't want to call it an organ, but a transistor that would oscillate different frequencies depending on what resistor you put in the base lead. I made little switches out of cutting up a tin can and stapling them on a board and had a rivet. When you pressed the tin can down and the tab on the thing would make contact and beep at one frequency and then the next one would beep at a different one. And I had, I guess I had eight notes.

Lassman: Did you do that at home?

Keck: Yes. Did that at home. And, that was in high school. Must have been early high school, because it was a crude, crude thing. I think that was before the term paper on the transistor. Well, I've lost it at this point. But, I should have injected that vis-a-vis hobbies and interests — my mother was a fan of breadth of knowledge; don't become too specialized too early. And so we bought a piano. It must have been fourth or fifth grade, I think, when I started taking piano lessons. Mrs. Schneider was the typical epitome of piano teachers back in those days. The person you think of with the ruler to slap your knuckles if you don't keep your fingers arched. But, I had good finger technique and so on, and I took lessons from her for six years. I can't remember when I stopped, but it must have been in junior high school. Well, fourth through eighth is only four years. Maybe I started in third grade.

Well, at any rate, I had taken six years of piano lessons and had gotten to a point where I could sight-read pretty well, and did enjoy it. I wasn't going to win any competitions or anything like that, but I do recall my music teacher, piano teacher needed to get accredited and so I had to perform before the Michigan State music faculty judging her ability to teach by playing pieces over at the campus. So, music eventually became important to me, and later on, interestingly, well Jim Hillier [of RCA], in fact, was one of the guys that was chatting about it. A great many of the inventors in the National Inventor's Hall of Fame also are very musically inclined. There is an affinity between science and musical arts for whatever reason. At any rate, that certainly came home to me later on. Another thing that I should mention, growing up, again my dad was —, "invent something. Don't buy it, make it." And, he could think of all sorts of ways to make money. And so, I was constantly challenged to try out some of these things.

One of the things that he had done early on was to reclaim silver from photographic solution. Back in the days lots of film — silver had precipitates coming out of the film processing and before you put electrochemical cells in the tank to automatically reclaim the silver, they were flushing all sorts of silver down the drain at the processing laboratories. My dad had this notion that if you picked this stuff up, in particular from x-rays, big plates, there was a lot of silver to be had. I'm sure it was the Depression mindset that trained him to this sort of thing. He had done some reclaiming of silver from photographic solutions. I remember then going around with him to pick up the "hypo" (sodium thiosulphate) solutions from, in particular, the tuberculosis sanitarium that existed in East Lansing or Lansing at the time. We had built a big box and lined it with plastic and we'd go with pails and pick up the hypo solutions from the sanitarium, carry it to this tank in the trunk of the car. Corrosive stuff. Then we'd go home. We have a cover on it but it always had sloshed out and so there were rust holes in the trunk of our car. But then you'd pass it through steel wool and you'd get a chemical replacement reaction taking place of silver. It takes the place of the iron in the steel wool, and you get silver wool.

Lassman:How much did you accumulate?

Keck:Well, as I was growing up, he had done this for a period and then had stopped. I guess I must have been in high school. And he encouraged me: "You need spending money, right? So, why don't you try this?" So, I learned all about this. I remember going out to a junkyard and I got a big bathtub, an old bathtub, and brought it down in the basement. A steel, porcelain-lined bathtub. And I caulked up the outlets with tar, I think. At any rate, something that wouldn't leak. And then I went over to Michigan State. There was one place on campus that had processing of film. Many other places already had these cells, the TB sanitarium had long since ceased to exist. It wasn't needed anymore. I did the same thing he did. I went and got buckets of hypo solution, brought it back, poured it in the bathtub, and then I had a whole bunch of test tubes that I'd pack full of steel wool, and had a serpentine path. It was fun to watch the silver gradually replace the steel wool. You can see it migrate through these tubes. As it was getting the last one, why I'd stop the things and take the first ones out and dump the silver sludge out and replace it. I eventually got about $70 back.

Lassman:That's a lot of money.

Keck:Selling the silver wool to Goldsmith in Chicago. Don't ask me why I remember that name. He was a metal refiner in the Chicago area that we sent the stuff to.

Lassman:Well, in the fifties, $70 is a good hunk of change.

Keck:We got a lot of change back. I could fill up the tank, and gasoline was — I think when I got my driver's license, gas was eighteen cents a gallon.

Lassman:Far cry from today.

Keck:Just a little bit. Just a little bit. So, I learned a little bit of chemistry as I was growing up. What else did I do? Well, yes, the transistor was around.

Lassman:Well, you had mentioned when you were on the AV Club; you were interested in extracurricular activities with the AV?

Keck:Yes. Yes. Yes. Yes.

Lassman:Things and so on.

Keck:Yeah. Audiovisual. And then, I didn't want to act on stage, but they needed a stage manager. So, I became the stage manager and created the sets and the lighting for all the plays. I think I started doing that as a sophomore, and understudy to one of the seniors at the time. And, I took over. I remember one, we needed a spotlight for one of the plays. Didn't have a spotlight in those days. So, I got a slide projector and made a little hole the right size in a piece of cardboard, and put in the slide projector and ran it across and it made a nice white spot on the stage, that I could illuminate the particular individual that we needed to highlight. And, we needed to dim the lights. And so we went over to Michigan State — and I'll come back to why a little later on — and got a big variac from the physics department.

Lassman:I'm sorry?

Keck:A variac. A variable transformer.

Lassman:Oh. Okay.

Keck:That would handle the amperage that I had on the stage lights. So, instead of flicking them off why I could actually dim them.

Lassman:Oh. I see. Yeah.

Keck:And, so again ...

Lassman:More of the mechanical ingenuity?

Keck:Well, the creativity.

Lassman:Comes out?

Keck:And the innovation. It was the part that I remember.

Lassman>You mentioned with the, when you were talking about your peer groups, others, in East Lansing. Ultimately, I take it there was a heavy auto, was there an automobile presence there.

Keck:Yeah. Yeah.

Lassman:I mean, primary manufacturing?

Keck:Yeah. Of course, Olds started in Lansing. R.E. Olds, his house we used to, now it's a museum, and we'd visit it, and I remember visiting it. So, that was, that was big. We didn't have any science museums at the time. Now, now they've, what the physics faculty at Michigan State had a large hand in creating a science museum in the Lansing area.

Lassman:I want to get a sense of where the graduates of the high school were going? Were they going to work in local industry? Was there a group like you that was planning to go to college?

Keck:Yes.

Lassman:What was that?

Keck:Very much so. There were two tracks. There was a college track and the vocational track. A couple of the fellows were growing up on family farms, and they later took over the family farm. They probably made more money than all of us put together by selling the family farm. And, it was right at the outskirts of a growing metropolitan area. It got to be very valuable countryside. Dick Dickinson had a family farm. Ron Unruh[981] who married a a cousin of mine had a farm. Bob Cooper, my catcher on the baseball team, grew up on a farm. But, the college track, Roger Shawl got a masters degree. No. He got his doctorate in civil engineering, and eventually worked his way up through, I think he wound up at NSF, eventually, in some director-level position. The class valedictorian, who wasn't in science, but very industry politics-oriented, Ted Warner. I just learned, when he called me up a few days ago after learning I was the so-called father of fiber optics, that he had spent the last six or seven years with the Clinton Administration as Assistant Secretary of Defense. So, he had certainly made it big. And, I'll be honest with you, I don't know where the rest of the class has gone.

Lassman:Okay.

Keck:We were not a very well connected class.

Lassman:When you were preparing to graduate in 1958 what were your thoughts about post-secondary education?

Keck:There was no question I was going to go to college. The question was where? When I was born, there was an uncle, Uncle Lute, a bachelor uncle that had taken out a savings bond, a $1,000 savings bond in my name. I always knew I had the money to go to college. But, we certainly didn't have the money to send me anywhere. My dad had done okay, and we were probably in the upper middle class, but we weren't making the money my dad and mother were making while, as I said, was a housewife and did lots of volunteer things after I had graduated. She never, never went back to teaching school. But, you know, we didn't have the money to send me to an Ivy League school, or anything like that, and frankly, it never crossed my mind.

Lassman:I see.

Keck:MSU, I was a quarter mile east of the campus. It was the street I grew up on. Michigan State had become such a part of life. When I was a Boy Scout, we got to usher at the football games. I had this silver reclaiming business with the school, with one of the departments there. And, this professor, C.D. Hawes that had taken my dad's place at Michigan State, was still in the physics department, and our families became very close friends. The guy had taken my dad's place, and my dad, mother, and they became fast friends. I'll fill you in more on that later on. I grew up with his [C.D. Hause's] son. We were about the same age. Jerry was a little older than I was. But, growing up we both had cottages on the same lake up in the middle of Michigan. So, summers we were up at the lake all the time swimming, and boating, and this, that, and the other thing. Both of us got into boats. My dad loved to fish. Duane Hawes, C.D. Hawes, loved to fish. So, they went out fishing, and Jerry and I went frog hunting, turtle catching, swimming, and eventually water skiing. That became a big part of my life. I had saved — I had a paper route. I guess I had that probably freshman, sophomore, and junior year. I think I gave it up my senior year. But, that gave me enough money. And with the money I earned from that I could afford to buy an outboard motor.

My dad bought a boat that I could put a large outboard motor on. So, I had a little twelve-foot boat with a 25-horse power engine on it. Moved pretty well for its time. And I, Jerry and I grew up water skiing. And, he had a boat. He loved woodworking. He had a beautiful wooden boat. At any rate, much to my dad's chagrin, we learned how to water-ski instead of fish. And, later on, as a junior in high school, we went down to the Grand River in Lansing and started water skiing. My high school buddies, Roger Shawl, and Don Harvey, John Haga, those four were the main ones. Alan became a schoolteacher. I don't know whether he specialized in anything scientific. But, we were all pretty good at math, and kind of prowled around a lot together. They were from the rural side of the tracks. And Ted Warner, and Chuck Sauer, and Case Hoonhout[1096], they were from the other side. The "haves" side of the tracks. And, they were all good in math. So, we were in this math class together, and so on. Oh gosh that was one that I remember, when I was eighteen. We had a substitute for Mrs. Kelly. Mrs. Kelly we, she was a good teacher, but we really misused her.

Lassman: That's fine. Go ahead.

Keck: I can't remember the substitute's name, but he was an old fellow, balding, short, and he was an excellent substitute teacher. He collared us boys and captivated us, when Mrs. Kelly was out sick for something. I remember one of the first views of physics I had was from this guy. We must have been sophomores, I guess. Somebody was goading him. I don't know the context now in which he said it, but he had the kid come up to the front of the class, and he said, "I bet I can push as hard as you can," or something to that effect. He put his hand up, and encouraged the kid to put his hand out. And he said, now push. And he pulled his hand back, and the kid went down. And somehow, he wove it into Newton's law. The reaction doesn't equal the opposite reaction. For some reason that stuck in my brain too. But there are two more stories I wanted to get in. Mr. Walbridge...

Lassman: This is the physics teacher?

Keck: This is the physics, chemistry teacher. The normal regimen was you took chemistry in your junior year and physics in your senior year. I'd had him for chemistry, and enjoyed it. But gosh. We were cutups. I remember in one chemistry class — oh gosh, what was it? Well, there was one kid in class that just, well he was very naive, and we were always playing pranks on the poor kid — Jerry Largent. He was all there, but he just wasn't swift. And so, in chemistry class we had it rigged up. We told him before class that when we give him the signal he was to turn on the water. And, we had a hose hooked up that was going to go into somebody's lap down the way. When he turned on the water, of course, the hose was stacked [Laugh] in his lap. Anyway, so this happened in Mr. Walbridge's class. He knew something was going on. He didn't know exactly what we'd done, but he eventually found out and let us get away with it. I always liked Mr. Walbridge.

Lassman: In the physics class that he taught, I'm curious about the content? Granted this was in high school but was he introducing you to some of the latest developments in physics.

Keck: No. Pretty fundamental. When I say fundamental, pretty routine sorts of physics.

Lassman: I see.

Keck: Mechanics, motion of bodies, friction. Those sorts of things. We must have gotten into light at some point, but I'll be honest with you, I don't remember it in high school. I remember doing the inclined plane experiments with blocks of wood, and things like that, and enjoying it, and being fascinated by it. Mr. Walbridge was, again, he was eclectic. Somehow, he played baseball too, and I remember him coming out, the senior year, I was pitching, and he showed me how to get more whip in my throwing motion. He was an interesting fellow. He lost his wife while we were in school, from cancer, I think, but I'm not sure. He had a beautiful baritone voice, and I wound up accompanying him in a number of assemblies. He would sing the National Anthem, or the Lord's Prayer, depending on what the thing was. But, the one that stands out in my mind, I remember — I hadn't studied the theory of music. My teacher, I'm sure, had given it to me, but I hadn't paid a lot of attention to the theory, and I lament that to this day. I was more into the mechanics of the music, and sounds, and things like that. And, I remember, for some reason or other, I found it easier to play sharps than flats, and Mr. Walbridge gave me the Lord's Prayer music. I think it was in four flats, and I transposed it to three sharps. Well, of course this moved it up a note. And, I remember him straining to hit the high note. And, he came over to me and asked later on. And then he understood what I had done. But, I didn't give it a thought that he might have trouble hitting the note. But, that one sticks out in my mind. The other thing that I remember in building things; we talked about the transistor, and there were all sorts of circuits that were out and around, things that you could build using the transistor. The notion — the transistors that first came out was Raytheon CK721, 722, 723.

Lassman: These were transistors you could buy?

Keck: Yeah, you could buy. Had three wires coming out the bottom, and a little thing the size of your little finger, with the active element. We were burning out several of them before you learned how to hook the things up. But, people would publish circuits that you could build using a transistor. I'm sure the organ was one of those. You saw a circuit someplace and then went down to the shop and put it together. We had old speakers laying around, and so I could build the thing. But, one of the things that they built was a bi-stable oscillator-type thing where you put in one of the base legs and it would flip one way and allow current to go through this leg. Or, if you put the opposite polarity on, why, it would flip the other way. It would latch one way or the other depending upon how you biased the base of the transistor. So my dad wound up using it in one of the, in designing one of the earth resistivity instruments. We needed to take the DC batteries that we took out in the field and get an AC signal to put power to the electrodes in the earth resistivity instrument. He had experimented and played with a smaller vibrator, bi-stable oscillator-type thing. I said, "You know, I could make a tachometer out of that." And, by this time, I must have had my outboard motor. And then I was wondering how I could get a tachometer on my outboard motor. I had put this transistor circuit together. I remember, in fact, I made a plastic box to put it in, and went down to "Plastics Manufacturing," and I had watched them making pieces, gluing them together with the methylene chloride.

Lassman: This was a private company?

Keck: Private company from whom we bought plastic parts and pieces that we used in the resistivity instruments that I was building for my dad. I just watched how they did some of the things, and then built myself a little box about, three inches square, and two or three inches deep. And, I put my model vibrator bi-stable oscillator circuit in there, and had a meter on it. I just hooked it up to the spark plug and pulled off an impulse, and had this, these transistors flopping back and forth, and giving rise to a voltage that could dictate a reading on a meter. I built a tachometer. I always thought that was one of the neater things that I had done. Other things that we did, a neighbor boy — rocketry was just starting to come into vogue. My dad had, during the war, he would go over to the Library of Congress. He was down in Washington by himself. My mother and I stayed in East Lansing. He would go back periodically and consult with the Naval Ordnance Lab.

Lassman: This was during the war?

Keck: This was after the war — WW II.

Lassman: I see.

Keck: Yes, I misspoke. And, he'd go over to the Library of Congress and read in the evenings after work. He didn't have anything else to do in the city of Washington. I remember one of the things he brought back was the formula for gunpowder. We fixed up some gunpowder; I don't know now what I did, but later on, I was probably in high school, maybe a senior, and the kid next door had gotten a rocket somewhere. And, rocketry — '58, Sputnik. He had this toy rocket. I don't know how he knew that I knew how to make gunpowder, but we mixed up some gunpowder. Boy, we could have blown the house apart. Didn't have to worry about OSHA [Occupational Safety & Health Administration], and any of that stuff. At any rate, this, we put it in the rocket and we had a couple of wires and touched it off, and up the rocket went, two or three hundred feet in the air.

Lassman: When you were in high school, at this time, what are you doing during the summers, in between?

Keck: Generally worked for my dad. In the company.

Lassman: Okay. I see.

Keck: And then weekends we'd go up to the lake. Water-skiing. Starting my junior year, in Lansing, there was a dammed up section of the Grand River, and they had a boat launch, public boat launch. There was a boat club there, Lansing Boat Club. The river was not used at all. It wasn't polluted. It was brown. The water wasn't clear, or anything like that. And we never could figure that out. We kids started going down there in the summer, after work. I'd hitch my boat up and take it down, and we'd water ski on the Grand River. There was nobody else around. It was beautiful. You could go for miles up the river. And, I had my tachometer on the boat, of course. Well, at any rate, we met up with a couple of guys up the river that had a much bigger boat. They had twin seventy horsepower Mercury engines on the back of a catamaran. A "Powercat". They saw us water-skiing, and they started paling around with us, and of course, we had this big boat. So, we decided we'd start putting on water ski shows. We got pretty good at it. We had slalom people, and eventually we built pyramids. I usually climbed. I was one of the smaller guys so, Al Harvey and John Haga were the two bigger guys. And, they'd ski the bottom and I'd climb up to the top on the three-person pyramids. And later on, we got to the point where we got some girls involved. And, they'd climb up to the top and we would, I think we built a five-person pyramid. We tried to put a person three, three tiers high. Never could get one up there.

Lassman: That's pretty ambitious.

Keck: But, we continued that into graduate school; and college we were still going down there. Because Ruth would get on, my wife would get on my shoulders, and we'd ski around on a slalom ski with her sitting on my shoulders. And, eventually we got so we could ski without any skis. I could do that. We had a nice little water ski show that we'd put on for people on a Sunday afternoon. So that was one of the things we did in the summertime.

Lassman:In addition, you said, to working?

Keck:In addition to working.

Lassman:To working for your father?

Keck:A lot of —, the message in all of this is, to young kids is, you know, you can have a well-rounded career, and a well-rounded growing up experience, or whatever, and you don't have to specialize until at some later point. You can still have a very successful career. But, you're laying the seeds all the way along. This notion of building things rather than buying them, that we got from my grandfather, and from my father, and so on, were all, all important then later on with the things that I did as an industrial scientist. I remember my grandfather and me built a hay rake. He came up with the idea. We tore apart an old, I don't know, you've seen the great curved tines that they used to have on hay rakes?

Lassman:I can't say as I have.

Keck:Obviously not.

Lassman:But, I'll take your word for it.

Keck:Well, he knew of a fellow up in the rural outskirts of Lansing, an old family friend, who had a rusty old hay rake. We went out and got these long curved tines that had a spring on them. We brought that back. We built a hay rake. Let's see, I was probably in junior high school for this. We're not even through page...

Lassman:We're just at the top of page two [of the question list]. That's fine. We've got plenty of time. We get to the end of high school, you've decided to go to Michigan State, and you had this connection with Hawes, Professor Hawes in the physics department.

Keck:I really didn't connect with any professor during my undergraduate work.

Lassman:Did you start out knowing that you were going to major in physics?

Keck:No. I originally had signed up at Michigan State in electrical engineering. The transistor had obviously come out a couple of years ahead. It looked like there was going to be lots of jobs in semiconductor activities.

Lassman:You're thinking about this already, as a freshman?

Keck:Well, in high school we had a guidance counselor, Mrs. Lamb, Thelma Lamb. Had all the seniors go through a career course where we looked at all sorts of different careers, and the term paper was you had to pick the career and explain why you wanted to go into it, and things like that. And, we didn't get too specific. Engineering was the one that I think I wrote on, as I recall. As I sort of had in mind that engineering was the direction that I was going to go, as opposed to straight science in physics.

Lassman:Is this the term paper you wrote on the transistor?

Keck:Different course, different term paper. It was just one on career guidance, and so on. The reason I was laughing at Thelma Lamb; because I was not doing particularly a stellar job of my high school career, and as I say graduated in the middle of my high school class of only fifty-eight, I remember my folks later on telling me that during one of the parent-guidance teacher conferences, Thelma Lamb had told them that Don had better start looking at a vocational education, that he wasn't going to be a professional, that he just didn't look like he could make it in any professional occupation.

Lassman:Interesting.

Keck:They didn't tell me this until much later in my life. So, at any rate, I was accepted at Michigan State in spite of my mediocre grades. My kids did all sorts of studies of different schools, and what's the best school. And, you know, they knew the rankings. I don't remember any of that.

Lassman:And, was that typical among your peers?

Keck:I think. Yes. You didn't know that much about the world. You were much more regional in your focus. Well, remember, that from my parents' generation, they didn't move more than twenty-five miles from where they grew up for the most part. My mother grew up twenty miles from Grand Ledge where she was born. And, my dad, a little bit better, he got out of Detroit and came up to East Lansing, so regionalism was much more the norm. I remember somewhere along the line thinking to myself that now I was going to be a citizen of the world, and not stay in the home area. I honestly don't know about the rest of my classmates, how many of them are still in the Lansing area, and how many of them left. I've cited two examples. I do know that people left and did very, very well in very high places.

Lassman:When you entered as a...

Keck:Go ahead.

Lassman:When you entered as an electrical engineering student...

Keck: Well, actually...

Lassman: As an engineer.

Keck: I submitted my application as an electrical engineer. Somewhere along before the first class my dad and I had a talk. I don't remember specifically the things that were said, but he counseled that a physics education would give me much more breadth and an ability to go in any of a number of directions, whereas electrical engineering would be very, very specific. His council was to get the broader physics education. And, I don't remember now whether it was before I actually started the first class that I wrote to Michigan State and asked to change majors. Or whether it was when I first entered. But, I changed my major to physics very, very early on, at that juncture. In some sense, it didn't matter. The first two years were pre-programmed. I mean, you took a set of broad, broadly based courses in sociology, social science, communications skills, writing, speaking, natural science was required of all the, all the students. What in the heck was the fourth one? There are four base courses. Oh math, of course. And then some general math course.

Lassman: Were there any language requirements?

Keck: No. I had taken two years of Latin in high school. For the most part, I don't remember a thing about Latin. It was supposed to have helped me greatly in grammar, but in high school, I really wasn't paying a whole lot of attention, frankly. Now I do lament that, that whole, well, period. I did not cover myself with any kind of glory in high school and wished, in retrospect, that I'd studied more. For some reason or another, in college, that notion got out of my system. I don't know what it was that caused me to change my outlook, but I realized I had to do better. And, I remember vividly the middle of the term of your freshman year, the principal of the high school came over to school, to college, and got a number of the school graduates, the Okemos high school graduates that were at Michigan State, together, and just was asking us questions about how we were prepared. At the time, we had our midterm grades. My grades were higher than any of my high school colleagues. And, the principal of the high school was absolutely flabbergasted, Mr. Harrison. At any rate, so from almost day one in college I changed my way of thinking, and began to study harder and do better.

Lassman: In the physics department, were you taking engineering courses along the way?

Keck: No. I moved into a full-blown physics curriculum. You took sophomore physics, the general physics course, and I remember that — no I take it back. It was later on. Alfred Leitner was the fellow that taught the sophomore physics class. And, he was good. He loved to teach. Alfred Leitner.

Lassman: You took physics during freshman year also?

Keck: No. The regimen was, you took, sort of like high school. You took chemistry in your freshman year, and then physics was reserved for your second year.

Lassman: Got it.

Keck: So that you had your calculus math class in your freshman year. Took physics in the sophomore year.

Lassman: In high school, then, how much math did you have in high school? How far did you go?

Keck: In those days we didn't do calculus. We had algebra I and II your freshman and sophomore years. Trigonometry was the junior year. And then geometry, I think, was the senior year, or vice versa. I don't remember now.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: We had not gone into any calculus in those days. So, the first calculus I had was in college. That was a rude awakening for me. I did not do well in college math, even though I'd done well in high school math. Actually, later on [I] realized that I learned most of the math that I know in my physics class, not in the mathematics class. The mathematics at Michigan State, at the time they prided themselves as being the epitome of mathematicians, and so it was an esoteric mathematics — the only word I can think of to describe it. The practicalities of it were just not that forthcoming, in the calculus and advanced calculus. I think the differential equations class that I had; that was good. That was, got very practical, but Professor Lehrer wrote the book, in fact, and did a nice job of it. But, most of the later math that I learned was done in the, later on in the physics classes, quantum physics, or whatever.

Lassman: What was it about that that made it easier for you to pick it up? Learning it in that physics context as opposed to the mathematics department?

Keck: I heard a term used a few years ago at a National Academy of Engineering discussion of education in the sciences and math. They called it metacognitive learning. The gist of it was that if it's something out of your experience base that you're learning, hearing something and relating it to, you learn it much better, and in a longer lasting form. The only explanation I can give you was that the physics was talking about real-world problems and things like that. I could relate to it and get a handle on it as opposed to just doing some mathematical manipulation or operation, or prove, you know, some proof or what have you. At any rate, I still would argue that I learned most of my mathematics in my physics classes, not in any of the math classes that Michigan State taught, anyway.

Lassman: So, you've taken me up through your sophomore year.

Keck: Yes. That Fred Leitner really turned me on to physics in that class. He was just an excellent teacher, and made it fun. The sophomore physics experiments that he ran, just masterfully, masterfully done. He was an old German, heavy German accent. But, he was my first experience with the physics department. Later on, to my chagrin, when I got into the meat of the physics course and physics department, I learned that the head of the physics department at the time was pressuring Leitner. Fred wanted to be a good teacher, and the physics department at the time was pushing for him to become a research scientist. They wanted a heavy research base. They wanted people doing work outside of the teaching; that you weren't to be known simply as a good teacher. You had to be known as a knowledgeable and reputable — not reputable, but a well-known scientist in your own right by publishing learned works and things like that.

Lassman: Had that not been the case in the physics department?

Keck: I can't give you a whole lot of history on that, but clearly, for this tenure of Sherwood Haines — I mean he had a long tenure.

Lassman: He was the chairman?

Keck: He was chairman of the physics and astronomy department. Clearly he was moving the department to be a much more research-oriented department as opposed to someone, somebody that was content with good science teaching. And, that always bothered me, because I thought you had to have a balance. Leitner was good at it, and wanted to be known as a teacher of young minds. Later on, it turned out, he made some NSF films on superconductivity, and so that was his research. He was still teaching, but he brought money into the department doing NSF grants to film, do these teaching films on superconductivity. But, he eventually left Michigan State, and he had a profound impact on me later on. As a matter of fact, and went to West Point. I don't believe he's still there. He may not be alive any longer but he had left.

Lassman: Talking about your instructors, generationally was this a younger group or an older group?

Keck: Ah, good question.

Lassman: In the physics department.

Keck: A mix. Fairly balanced. Leitner was probably one of the older ones, and then we had some younger ones. One terrible one that taught an electronics course that just could not teach. But, yes, the older ones knew their way around and clearly, they were the ones from whom you learned — from whom I learned the most. But, they had a number of young ones. Well no, I guess I can't say that. Julius Kovaks was fairly new in the department, and he taught quantum mechanics. He was a fairly recent acquisition. They had done a little bit of hiring and gotten a couple of younger people, but by in large it was a middle to later career type physics department.

Lassman: Was there a connection with the engineering departments?

Keck: No.

Lassman: As an undergraduate?

Keck: The College of Natural Science and the College of Engineering could have been on two separate campuses for all the connection there was. Although, well I shouldn't say that. The engineers had to come over and take sophomore physics.

Lassman: Okay. That's what I was going to ask.

Keck: So, yes. The College of Natural Science provided a service to the university by teaching that course. I remember my dad, I guess, trying to instill in me a good feeling toward physics and science, and said that when he taught the sophomore physics course, if you remember that, he had any number of medical, premed students that were taking the course and they just couldn't hack it and couldn't understand it. He was always holding the physicists at a higher plateau than some of the people who later took care of our good health. But, I mean obviously we know now that you need all kinds, and there are other types of learning and the ability to store and so on.

Lassman: Let me go back just for a second. You mentioned your father, again. When he was teaching there in the '20s, did he had an active research program also, or was it just teaching?

Keck: The only reason I'm hesitating, Tom, is that he told me about one experiment he ran one day, about putting a beaker of water at the focal point of a paraboloid out in the sun and watching it to see it boil. And, it didn't. And, we added some India ink to the water, and it boiled instantaneously from the increased absorbed energy, and splattered India ink all over him. I think the true answer is that Michigan State probably didn't have a research component in those days.

Lassman: I see.

Keck: It was not a research university; other than just from curiosity of the professors in trying various and sundry things to demonstrate for classes. I think that's the context in which the India ink experiment was tried. He was trying to find, something he would show in a lecture model demonstration as to focus.

Lassman: Getting back to the curriculum that you were taking. At what point do you start getting exposed to some of the newer advances in physics — you mentioned there was someone there who taught quantum mechanics? I'd like to get a little more information to your first exposure to the frontiers of physics, if you're getting that at this point in your education. And, also, again, what kinds of textbooks are you using?

Keck: Well, the textbook that we used in sophomore physics was Sears and Zemansky.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: Red book.

Lassman: Was that a commonly used book?

Keck: I believe that was probably, at the time, the most widely used sophomore text around the nation. Now, I may be wrong on that. I always lamented, by the time I was in graduate school, or freshman, or first-year graduate school, Halliday and Resnick ...

Lassman: That's the textbook I used in ...

Keck: Came into being, and it was so infinitely better than Sears and Zemansky.

Keck: So, this would have been '63.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: And, how long it had been out, I don't know. But, I can look it up and find a copy. I probably still have the text. Cutting-edge science.

Lassman: And, I'd be interested to know what courses you were.

Keck: Well, the general regimen was that in your junior year, for the majors, you took mechanics, you took electricity, and magnetism, as I recall, and a math class, probably differential equations. And I, others of my friends, Roger Shawl for example, took a lot more electives than I did. I tended to take more of the offerings in the physics department itself. My electives were, physics — astronomy was an elective course for me. It was only a one-credit course that was taught by the physics department. So, you got kind of the old-style physics, the mechanics, the electricity and magnetism in your junior year, and then modern physics, I think was what it was called, and optics were in your senior year. Usually, that was the sequence that people took. And what else? What else did we take? I guess solid-state physics was in one of those. They would have been more on the cutting edge. There was an electronics course that I said this one terrible young professor taught. His name escapes me now. Frank Blatt taught solid-state physics, and he was an experimentalist, and he could not teach solid-state physics to save his soul. But solid-state physics was kind of just beginning, with the transistor beginning to be one of the mainstream courses. I guess you would say it was on the cutting edge.

Lassman: Okay. I see.

Keck: Fermi surfaces and that sort of thing. Paul Parker taught modern physics, he taught the Schrodinger equation, and the Bohr theory of the atom, and that sort of thing in the modern physics course.

Lassman: Is it called modern physics, or ...

Keck: I think it was called modern physics. I'll have to go down and look. I don't remember. A thin book. Solid-state — what did we use? I think we used Blatt's notes. He was an arrogant guy, full professor, and I think he just gave us mimeographed notes.

Lassman: You didn't have a textbook?

Keck: I don't remember in undergraduate having a textbook. In graduate solid-state — what's the famous solid-state textbook?

Lassman: Kittel?

Keck: That's it.

Lassman: Charles Kittel?

Lassman:Okay.

Keck:Oh my, now I don't remember. You're taxing me. I'm going to have to go down and pull out my transcript somehow or another, assuming I can find them. But, there must have been some sort of a quantum mechanics course too, but it was taught from, it was probably taught from a wave into things. Well, no, it must have been — Jim Gordon was the teacher. And, I can't remember whether we had that in my senior year or whether it was first year in undergraduate school.

Lassman:He taught quantum mechanics?

Keck:Well, I don't know that it was called quantum mechanics. Now, what would it have been called in...? My first exposure to the Schrodinger equation. And he was a magnificent lecturer, worked over at the cyclotron. He was hired — Michigan State, I guess about the time I was an undergraduate, began the building of the cyclotron, and a lot of my colleagues in the physics department worked over at the cyclotron for extra money.

Lassman:This was as — colleagues? As an undergraduate?

Keck:Yes. And I didn't. In fact, I didn't work at all. Well, I was still working, as an undergraduate, with my dad's company, any time that I had. That was how I was getting the money and doing all these things. Well, I can't remember on Jim Gordon. I'll have to think more about it. But, he was a magnificent teacher, and he was blind. Or, legally blind. He wore very thick classes and probably could see, you know, shapes and that sort of thing. But, just had a magnificent penmanship and you would see him feeling his way along the board to find where to put the — but, he did a magnificent job. So, that was my first exposure to the new wave particle reality sorts of notions that were — I guess that while I'm here, no, they weren't on the cutting edge, by any means, at that time. [NAME 615] and all those who done their work in the mid-twenties and so on. But, the implication was that it was still believing, thinking at the time in physics.

Lassman:Well, when you think about that, your undergraduate curriculum, would you say that there was an emphasis more on the experimental side versus the theoretical side? Maybe that's a different way to put the question?

Keck:No, it would definitely have been more on the theoretical side.

Lassman:Okay.

Keck:Well, I mean, the classic experiments were described and taught, Michael C. Morley, and so on. Paul Parker, who taught the modern physics class, I'm sure he brought in examples of that. And, Goudsmit, with the electron spin. So why would I say it's more theoretical? Well, I mean, just because, you know, you've got to learn that, that set of mathematics associated with understanding how the world works, and so on. You were learning more — well, that's when I learned my mathematics, is in those undergraduate courses. Far more so than in the math classes. So, eventually I graduated, as an undergraduate, with honor.

Lassman:In '62?

Keck:In '62. And, the graduate record exam was just starting to come into being, I think.

Lassman:Let me backtrack just for a second.

Keck:Go ahead.

Lassman:Just when you were getting ready to graduate, what were your thoughts about a career?

Keck:Oh, there was no question I knew I was going on to graduate school.

Lassman:What was the thinking there?

Keck:I'm sure I told people privately that in contrast to my engineering friends, Roger Shawl in particular who could, who had been schooled to be able to do something useful from the get go, I didn't think my physics education positioned me to do much of anything. And, that I just had to go on and take the next step in that education. Now, knowing absolutely nothing about industrial corporations and how so much of the training is on the job, and learning that you had the sufficient base to do more than you thought you could. But clearly, in my mind, I hadn't learned as much as I needed to learn. Not as much as I thought I needed to learn.

Lassman:What, what are your peers doing, when they're graduating? Are they going on to graduate school at MSU, or different universities, or are they moving into industry? I just want to get a sense of what the class, what your class is doing, or if there are trends there? If what you're doing is different?

Keck:Well, two of my closest associates, or friends in undergraduate didn't go on. One of them took a job with Goodyear Aerospace. The other one went on to get an MBA, Probably made more money than I have. What did Marti Schwarzman do? I don't know, but she was having a rough time of it, so she, my guess is she didn't go on. I don't even remember now. I think we had twenty physics graduates.

Lassman: Was the undergraduate program small?

Keck: I mean, I looked at it, you know, your sophomore class was 200 strong, and a huge lecture hall, and I don't think I knew what was going on in those days. And, here I thought most of these were physics people. Well, they're obviously not. They're engineers and premed and all sorts of stuff. So, our modern physics class, which slowly began to, the beginning of my senior year, we began to gel and know the people around us, there was probably only twenty or twenty-five people. Well, I would wager that it was probably half and half, that half would go on and half didn't.

Lassman: Half would go on to graduate school?

Keck: Yes.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: That's what I mean. But that's purely a guess.

Lassman: As an undergraduate, when you're getting ready to finish, are you being encouraged by faculty members, to go on to graduate school? Are they preparing students for careers in teaching and research?

Keck: I'd have to say that the counseling that I got as an undergraduate was not all that great, that the physics — I can't even tell you today — I think Bill Kelly was my, was supposed to be my academic advisor. And, I don't recall that he ever gave me very good advice. I think most everything that I did was much more as a result of interactions with my father than it was with any of the faculty at school.

Lassman: What was Kelly's background?

Keck: I want to say high-energy nuclear. Having said that, that may not be right. It's probably medium-energy nuclear. It was nuclear physics, and he would have been at Michigan State for three or four years.

Lassman: So, he was one of the young...?

Keck: He was younger faculty, and therefore probably hadn't yet gelled and what mentorship, what you had to give to young students.

Lassman: Were there any other faculty members who filled that role?

Keck: Well, I don't remember any of them encouraging me particularly to go on to graduate school. I remember Paul Parker, who taught modern physics, and later he was associated with my graduate group, I remember, vividly, sitting in his modern physics class — and he was another one of those excellent teachers who just made things very interesting, little anecdotes, or the way he said things, or the way he presented it — and I'd sit in his class and envision myself teaching. I fancied that I could, I could do what he was doing, someday. But he was just impressive, and yet not arrogant, and you could readily relate to him as being someone that you'd want to emulate. But, I don't remember any counsel to go on to graduate school. As I said, the graduate record exam, I think it was just being, or just coming out, or coming into being, or maybe I was just naive and it was the first time that Michigan State administered it. But, they gave it to us as juniors. I remember taking it then, and doing not well. Then I think I took it as a senior. A 95th percentile sticks in my mind.

I don't remember the top scale, but I think it was in the high percentiles. So clearly, I had learned a lot more physics by the time I graduated than I knew as a junior. Obviously not too surprising. But they wanted us to take it anyway, as a junior, so they could begin getting some benchmarks and benchlines, and there was something associated with the department that they were encouraging us to take that. But the other part that I remember, Sherwood Haines, I mentioned him as the chair of the department, and he was your, well I held him up as the epitome of the arrogant physicist. Every conversation it was about physics, and always trying to show how learned he was, and so on. I never, for some reason or another, that never dissuaded me from wanting to be a physicist, I don't think I ever wanted to be the physicist that, you know, was the one that was the most quoted, or the most published, or that sort of thing, which was what he encouraged all the faculty to aspire to. As I say, he was definitely trying to upgrade the physics department, as I perceived it, to get on a national, to-be-recognized, scale.

Lassman: That might have had something to do with your decision maybe not to follow that track?

Keck: Possibly. But I just remember that working in the background. I don't remember...

Lassman: I don't want to put too much emphasis on it.

Keck: Necessarily being swayed by him, but I remember him as being someone that I didn't want to emulate.

Lassman: Okay. I see.

Keck: And Parker as being someone that I did.

Lassman: But before we jump forward, into the graduate experience, there are a couple of things I want to ask about. And one that, in particular, you mentioned, when we were talking about the curriculum, you took an optics course.

Keck: Yes.

Lassman: I want to ask a little bit more about that. First, to get a sense of what that course was, and what it is that you're learning, and also to see, is there then in the beginning, on your part of the development of an intellectual interest in this field, where you're beginning to go from the broad, generalization to actually where you're thinking a little bit more about, "Well, here's an area that I might be interested in." Specialized?

Keck: Yes. Absolutely.

Lassman: Tell me that story.

Keck: So, guess who the professor of optics is? C. D. Hause.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: Our family friend. And, I don't recall him as being — well, part of it was, there was so much baggage that came along with Duane Hawes. He was a wonderful individual and I don't mean to belittle him at all, but I knew he'd had a nervous breakdown. He had been chair of the department prior to Haines coming, and I suspect the stress and things just had gotten to him. And so, as a friend of the family we knew of that. Well, I just knew him too well. But, he taught a good optics course. He was not a great lecturer, but certainly adequate.

Lassman: Do you know what his background was, before he came to Michigan State?

Keck: I don't. I never looked back to see what his thesis was. He came to Michigan State and eventually created a molecular sciences group at Michigan State that he and Thomas Harvey Edwards, and Paul Parker, were principals. So, there's a molecular spectroscopy and molecular physics group at Michigan State that he had built over the years.

Lassman: And, do you know a rough time period when this is? That he would have been doing this?

Keck: Well, I was the next to the last graduate student that he had. And, he's probably had twenty. He was well along in his career at the time that he was my professor. So, I don't know. Well, as far as I knew his career was associated with infrared molecular spectroscopy. And he built a spectrometer, infrared spectrometer, from scratch, at school. And then I assume that while he was chair of the department he used that as a time to build up the group, and Parker came in as the theorist for the group. And, Harvey Edwards was the experimentalist. Hawes was much more of an experimentalist than he was a theorist.

Lassman: There was an active research program in this field?

Keck: Yes.

Lassman: A long-standing, time period?

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: Yes. So the optics course; typical optics, lenses, and we did lots of retracing, lots of early lens design. I remember him telling me that aspherics were not, he couldn't make them. Which, I found out after I got to Corning. But, he had told us that a Schmidt corrector, a 48-inch Schmidt corrector, with the aspheric profile of a telescope primary, could record better pictures than the 200-inch Palomar telescope. That was the benchmark. I do remember growing up being enamored with the 200-inch telescope. It was made in the mid to late '30s.

Lassman: Didn't Corning make the lens?

Keck: But, I remember reading a book or seeing something, about the making of the Palomar telescope. And that would have been in high school. So, that fascinated me. So the optics, we did lots of lenses and it bordered on the aspherics. The part that I enjoyed most was when we got into wave optics. And, Fabry-Perot interferometers, and Michaelson and began to do interferometry, and that, that aspect of optics, physical optics. No. Yeah. I don't know. What do we call that branch of optics anymore? Physical optics is the lenses, well now wave optics are.

Lassman: Did you also have connections to his research? This molecular research group, at all?

Keck: No.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: No. As an undergraduate I must have spent most of my time working with my dad. And, while I probably should have, I didn't do any of the work that my colleagues were doing. A lot of them had odd jobs, part-time jobs in the physics department there at Michigan State.

Lassman: During summers, are you going back and working for your father also?

Keck: Yes.

Lassman: Just a few more questions on the undergraduate side? Extracurricular activities, things that you're doing?

Keck: As undergrad? We had a hockey team. An intramural hockey team that we, well we kids played pond hockey. I mentioned that we carved out this pond behind our house, and in the wintertime, it froze over, and it was just about the right size for a hockey rink. So, all my high school buddies, on a Sunday afternoon instead of watching the football games we'd be over there playing hockey. Went to Michigan State, and there were enough of us still there, around, that we had a team. And, oh, I vividly remember that first game. We signed up. Al Harvey found our way around and signed us up for an intramural game, and we learned we were supposed to appear at the hockey rink on such and such a time, and so on. And, the day before, Al came around and was making phone calls desperately saying, "Hey, I understand the guys that we're playing against have got pads and everything, and they raise the puck, and this is real hockey." And, we didn't have any pads, and we didn't have any gloves, or anything. So, we took pieces of cardboard, corrugated cardboard, and taped them to our shins and that was the only padding we had in these games. And, I don't remember whether we won or lost the first game, but we played and — oh good grief. I don't remember whether it was sophomore or junior year. We played for three years, and the team morphed over time as various of my colleagues would leave school and go to some other school, or do something else totally. And so it started out as high school buddies to begin with, and then by the time we, I guess we placed second. I don't think we won it. But one year out of twenty, thirty fraternity teams and everything, we placed second. And, that was the year that we were playing one of the games, some guy propped his stick in my mouth in order to be able to stand up, as he was falling down. So, my two front teeth are capped, as a result of hockey. We didn't have mouth guards or anything in those days. So, that was one extracurricular thing that I did.

Lassman: Were there things, as part of the university, too, that you did? Organizations?

Keck: Well, we started a physics club. The first physics club at Michigan State. Was it under the auspices of — I was going to say Sigma Pi Sigma, but I'm not sure that's right.

Lassman: That's the physics honorary?

Keck: Which eventually I was inducted into. I don't remember, now, the physics club. But, I remember we formed it, and I was elected president.

Lassman: What kinds of things did you do?

Keck: Not a whole heck of a lot. We had speakers come in.

Lassman: Speakers from...?

Keck: Well, it was a regular colloquia series that the university had. And so, the club would attend those.

Lassman: The university or the department?

Keck: The department. I'm Sorry.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: The physics department. And, I remember these were always, the epitome of learned lecturers, that you couldn't understand or, at least as an undergraduate you couldn't understand.

Lassman: And were you expected to attend these?

Keck: No. It was purely voluntary.

Lassman: And do you remember any of the...?

Keck: Notables? No.

Lassman: Okay. What encouraged you to set up this physics society?

Keck: I don't remember whose idea it was. It may have been Haines', Sherwood Haines'. But, he just thought it was something that students should be doing. One of the things we did, I think we held some sort of a session with new potential physics students, physics majors. We encouraged them, or told them what, being a physics major was like, and that sort of thing. So, I remember that. There was one presentation we had to make, and I don't remember now with what that was associated, some visiting group that the physics club was asked to make a presentation, and tell what we did, and so on. And I don't remember what I said. I just remember we had to do it. Obviously, it was not terribly memorable. The physics department didn't have a lot of — well, we eventually had a softball team. And, with my baseball background that put us in good stead. And one year we did, I think it was probably my senior year, we fielded a real good team because some fellow from, I had no idea where, asked us if he could practice with the team. It turned out he was a softball pitcher. And, the guy could throw a ball, a softball fast pitch, and make it just bounce around and do all sorts of things. Nobody else on the team could catch the guy except me. So, I wound up as his batting mate and we, by in large, would strike out the opposing team. It was just a question of us to get a run or two. And, so we did pretty well. So, those other things that I grew up with as a high school student carried with me. I still enjoyed that breadth of activities and the sports.

Lassman: Did you keep up with the piano?

Keck: I did. But, for my own enjoyment. I wasn't taking lessons anymore. And, I — there was a period after I stopped taking music lessons where I didn't do anything. And then one day, I just started playing for a matter of enjoyment, and began to pick up more and more pieces of music and learn pieces that I heard on the radio, or heard at a concert, or something like that. So, eventually playing Chopin and things like that from the classical age. But the lament that I had was my buddy Rog Shawl, from high school, could play by ear. Never took a music lesson in his life, and he could play any pop tune that came along. And, so all the girls at all the parties, why Rog was the center of attention. And, here I could play the classical repertoire to some degree. That didn't cut it. And, to this day, I still lament that I can't sit down and play in a cocktail setting at the piano. But, I did continue playing the piano in college and did eventually pick up some pop tunes. But, I play for my own enjoyment.

Lassman: Another question here. When does the future Mrs. Keck appear on the scene?

Keck: Graduate school.

Lassman: What's that story?

Keck: Well, it must have...?

Lassman: You had known each other, is that right?

Keck: No.

Lassman: You had mentioned the water skiing?

Keck: Well, yes, but we did that, we still were doing that in graduate school.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: And now, I'm going to have to ask her whether it was my freshman year, freshman graduate school year, or sophomore. I think it was my first year as a graduate student. And, it was about this time of year. And, my boat was still in the water up at a lake, in Lake Michigan. And, Roger Shawl, my high school buddy, must have been going on for his masters at Michigan State. So, he went on. Ted Warner eventually went on and got an advanced degree, and those are the only ones of my high school class that I know of that went on to graduate school besides myself. And Roger had this girl in whom he was intently interested and wanted an excuse to meet with her, because she was about to marry somebody else, and had been asked. And so, Roger said, "Could we double date, and go up?" I told him maybe this weekend I had to go up and get the boat. He said, "Oh fine. I know a, we'll get a date for you and we'll go up and get your boat." And, I didn't know anybody at that time that I thought of to date. And, Rog had met Ruth at some college gathering, I think associated, well I'm sure associated with the Lutheran Church in East Lansing. And somehow, Roger had gotten associated with — I don't think Jeannie was part of that. But at any rate, so Jeannie Niedermeier and Rog, and Ruth and I went up to pick up my boat. And that was my first date with Ruth, a blind date. And then we just kept dating from that point on, and eventually married in '65. This would have been '63.

Lassman: And so, what's her family background?

Keck: She came from, comes from the upper peninsula of Michigan. Her family is Finnish, one hundred percent. Maternal grandparents, I believe, came over from Finland. I'm sorry, paternal grandparents. Maternal grandparents were here. Grew up in a very, very small town of Ewen, Michigan in the Upper Peninsula. We often kid her that there are fifty people in town, if you count the dogs and the cats. And, she came down to Michigan State, and obviously, we met there.

Lassman: What was her field of study?

Keck: She was studying what they now call human ecology. Home economics was what it was called at the time. Her dad was a county extension agent who had graduated from Michigan State and liked the upper peninsula; had grown up there, and returned. And, basically was helping the farmers in that area make a living. Bringing the latest agricultural, and ways of running farm businesses to the people in that area. He did that until he retired. I can't tell you the year now. You'll have to ask Ruth.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: So, at any rate, Rog asked Jean to marry him on the way home in the back of our car. And, eventually she said yes, and they've been happily married ever since. And, Ruth and I eventually got married two and a half years later.

Lassman: Would you like to take a break? This might be a good place.

Lassman: Resuming on Tuesday afternoon. We were talking just briefly about the optical physics course you had taken. And then your completion of your undergraduate studies, and now moving into graduate school. You might have mentioned this before — oh, did you want to say something?

Keck: Well, I was just going to begin to tell you about the graduate school. And, I don't remember exactly how it came about. I hadn't done much in the way of thinking about a response to go to graduate school.

Lassman: That's what I was going to ask you, if you had?

Keck: But, one day Duane Hause, Professor Hause, came to me and said that if I wanted to continue with graduate studies that he had, he would give me a graduate assistantship in his molecular spectroscopy part of it. I didn't know that much about molecular spectroscopy. I had kind of liked all the stuff I was learning, quantum mechanics, associated atoms in the modern physics course, and things that I'd learned there. And, a number of, I mention MSU had a cyclotron that they, I think, had started building when I was an undergraduate, but then it continued into graduate school. And, they were the ones that had all the money in the physics department. High-energy physics was the rage and everybody that was going to be a real physicist was going into high-energy nuclear physics. And, Kelly was doing low-energy nuclear physics. That's really his department. My advisor that I had mentioned earlier. He was my undergraduate advisor.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: It just triggered with me that he was in low, low-energy nuclear physics. But the preponderance, the department was moving in the direction of high-energy or low-energy, in nuclear physics. And, Henry Blosser had been hired to lead the cyclotron work at Michigan State. So, a lot was work in that direction. I knew I didn't really want to go in that direction. That hadn't appealed to me. We did a smattering of nuclear physics, I guess, in one of the undergraduate courses, and that just didn't turn me on. So, when Hawes offered me the assistantship — and he must have done it early in the year of my senior year, probably while I was taking his optics course. So, again, [we] didn't have any more money than we had when I went into undergraduate. So this seemed like a good offer and I didn't know anything better to do, so I continued my career at Michigan State and got both the masters and ultimately a PhD at Michigan State, working in the molecular spectroscopy group there with Hawes.

Lassman: Did you think at all about not continuing on in graduate school, of pursuing other career options?

Keck: No. As I said earlier, the notion I had coming out, as an undergraduate in physics was that I needed more training to be marketable. I'm sure out of naiveté, but, well I knew if, I had mentioned that I had envisioned myself as a physics teacher, a la Paul Parker, and what a role model he was, and knew that I couldn't teach if I didn't have a PhD. So, at that point I, there was no question I was going to go on to graduate school. And, my dad had a PhD and so it was just perfectly natural that I would continue on, continue on with the PhD.

Lassman: You mentioned there's the low and high-energy physics research going on at the cyclotron. Then there's Hause's group in molecular spectroscopy. Are there other fields that are going on?

Keck: Yes. There was work in low-temperature solid-state physics. There were a couple of professors doing that. Well, three. Jay Cowen, Frank Blatt, Bob Spence. Spence was doing nuclear magnetic resonance. Cowen was doing electron spin.

Lassman: That's relatively new at this point?

Keck: Yes. Spence would gradually build up a feeling for which ones of the professors were well known in the broader physics community. And Spence was kind of the old vanguard of the faculty. He was the most published in this new field of nuclear magnetic resonance, and had done some original work, and built up early capability in that area. Cowen was a fairly young professor, but very dynamic. My best friend in graduate school, George Johnston, worked for Cowen. And so, our groups were continually getting together, and he was doing low-temperature, electron spin. I've forgotten what Frank Blatt was doing. There was a group that was doing cryogenics. Leitner had started it. Leitner was still there during my graduate schooling. I guess he left Michigan State after I graduated. But, there was someone else that joined, and I can't tell you know who that was that was doing, again, low-temperature physics. There was a group, Egon Hiedemann, in ultrasonics, that was at Michigan State. And, Hiedemann had a name from back in Germany or Austria, where he'd come, from whence he'd come. So, he was well published, and presumably nationally known in ultrasonics. Blosser was beginning to make a name for himself in the cyclotron circles. But, I think the general, my general impression of Michigan State — I confess I don't know whether I formed this after I had left and began to see more of the world, but was that it was ... Well, basically the status of Michigan State. But, as I say, I judged that it was really mediocre in the overall spectrum of places that were teaching physics. And, Haines, clearly, was trying to increase its stature. And, he hired Michael Harrison, and I believe he came out of the RCA laboratories. I mean, he was trying to get some of the industrial people back in to bring the latest techniques, technologies if you will. Harrison was in, he was a solid-state physicist.

But, Blosser's was really the group where they were adding people and high-energy nuclear physics, so all sorts of designers and mathematicians to calculate cyclotron orbits and shapes of pole faces for magnets, and very sophisticated stuff, chewed up tons of computer time, and really were the, well, the bulk of the department, both in students as well as faculty. And, we always kind of looked askance at them being in some of the other lesser fields, as they envisioned it, lesser fields of physics. But, at the end of the day, the training we got was perfectly adequate to get out and do a job in physics. And so, I'm, I really never lamented the fact that I, when I got to Corning, there were lots of MIT people, and people from Caltech. And some of the notable schools. But, I never really felt that I was ill prepared, or anything like that, coming out of Michigan State. Got kind of a good physics education grounding, and so on.

Lassman: In graduate school, this is in '62, you already mentioned that there's a very strong emphasis toward the nuclear physics. Do you come in with a large class of graduate students, a small class? How many are joining the spectroscopy group?

Keck: Well, not a lot because the spectroscopy group didn't have tons of money.

Lassman: Where did a lot of that money come from?

Keck: Largely NSF. Harvey Edwards had an Air Force — I think it was an Air Force contract? I was about to say Army contract, but I think it was Air Force. And, Hawes had an NSF. And, I think Harvey Edwards also had an NSF contract. But, these were not capable of supporting, you know, twenty or thirty graduate students. Our group was probably, at its maximum, I think there might have been six graduate students. Well, let's see, Hawes had three and — well, maybe seven. Maybe seven between Hawes and Edwards. Paul Parker, well I guess, yeah, if I include the theory side, maybe eight in the molecular group. But, the cyclotron would have twenty or thirty graduates.

Lassman: So, it was much bigger?

Keck: Yes. So my guess is that half of the students in our graduate class — you know it's interesting too, the graduate class almost seems to me to be larger than I recall the undergraduate class. And, hadn't thought of it until this day, but there were clearly, there must have been sixty or seventy graduate students. Our undergraduate class, I don't think, was that large. So, we were attracting people. They were all doing the cyclotron, in a brand new facility, and on the ground floor, and that sort of thing. Because clearly there were a goodly number of students who were in that area.

Lassman: When you were coming in, what were the big questions in spectroscopy and optics at this time, and what's the state of the field in relation to nuclear physics, solid-state?

Keck: Oh boy. The big questions?

Lassman: And, you can take that further into your graduate year too.

Keck: Well, D.H. Rank at Penn State had just published his calibration spectrum. He had done super careful measurements on hydrogen cyanide, and — what was the other material — carbon monoxide, as reference spectra to be used in the measurements in standardization of other spectral measurements. And so, that was quite an advancement in the whole field of spectroscopy. Lasers weren't on the scene. People were envisioning that there might be some way of using them in spectral measurements, but people hadn't yet come up with that technique. Helium-neon was the only laser that was out and about.

Lassman: That was just a few years before?

Keck: Yes.

Lassman: In the late '50s?

Lassman: That this...?

Keck: Yes, I mean this is '63, and [in] '60-'61 Townes, and Schawlow had the optical maser and Ted Maiman had demonstrated the first optical laser using a ruby rod. I remember, Bob Terhune from Ford Motor Research came up to MSU. He was beginning to do some experiments with lasers. Emmett Leith, I think he was at Ford, too, was starting to make holograms. Now, this must have been a mid-graduate career, '64 or '65, to that time frame where people were beginning to find some unique uses of a laser. So, that was a new wave that was coming along.

Lassman: Were there a lot of growth prospects for the field?

Keck: Well, in the solid-state field, understanding semiconductor materials and things like that was clearly the rage. When you asked the question, the spectroscopy field was so old that, I don't know it just, incremental progress all the way along and I don't remember it as a — I guess, I guess the forefront — Gilbert Amat, in France — I can't tell you what school — had written some theory for polyatomic molecules that — I remember attending the, there was a big symposium at Ohio State University, a molecular spectroscopy symposium, which I understand is still going on today. And, Amat was one of the big names that came to that, and always gave learned theoretical papers and so on. Rank was, as I said, was a big name. [092 O'Riley] Rao at Ohio State was doing leading work. And, mostly involved polyatomic molecules and getting high resolution spectra being able to explain more and more of the structure of molecules up to the seventh decimal place. And the laser hadn't made its way in. It wasn't for a good many years after that that the laser got in. There was a little bit of work going on in microwave spectroscopy.

So, you'd have a small camp that was doing that. Most of the rest of us were doing infrared. Hawes wanted, he suggested a couple of thesis areas. One was to continue some of the Zeeman and magnetic rotation work that had been started by the graduate student just ahead of me, who was still there when I came, and was just finishing up, Joe Aubel. So, I could have done that, or another suggestion made was to look at the excited state of molecules, which would have entailed, somehow getting them up into an excited state either photonically or, I guess, primarily photonically was what he was envisioning, and look at excited state spectra that hadn't yet been looked at. And, Paul Parker, who was really working with Harvey Edwards, was sort of the way that the group was divided, Hawes was still interested in diatomic molecules, and looking at the magnetic properties of them. Edwards was picking the polyatomic molecules, a lot of the methyl groups, methyl chloride, and methane, methyl halides, and things along that line. Parker was doing theoretical work, trying to advance those sorts of theories and get the next element in the series expansion of some of those systems. Yeah. So, I guess I can't tell you the raging topic of the day.

Lassman: That gives me a pretty good lay of the land.

Keck: And the cyclotron is just in trying to get up and running. Well, yeah, I mean, fundamental particles that were just out and about. You know, the mesons hadn't been around very long. Pion mesons, so nuclear physics was clearly where, but out of the new parts of physics were going on.

Lassman: So, where does your research track go? What do you start working on, and how does that evolve over the course of your graduate career?

Keck: Well, as in many departments, the older graduate students mentored the younger ones. Joe Aubel was a Lansing native who was a dyed-in-the-wool physicist, had joined Hawes' group. Joe was my mentor when I was a graduate student. You began learning the intricacies of this spectrometer that was home-built at Michigan State. It was basically an old boiler — four feet in diameter, and probably eight feet long, quarter-inch steel walls. I had no idea what it had been used for, but I presumed Hawes, and maybe Edwards — I can't even tell you that history, it predates me by a long stretch — had taken a boiler and with a cutting torch cut it two, and put a hinge on the one side — and then had built a gasket that you could put all the way around, so it would evacuate this huge cylinder. And then, they had an optics platform in the middle of it, our optics were twelve-inch diameter gratings and paraboloids, to build an infrared spectrometer. And, we, so I, well I enjoyed the experimental, having grown up with all the, you know, doing all the stuff I had been doing with my dad, and wiring, and this, that, and the other thing. And, Joe was very much an experimentalist. So, he and I just worked and I learned all the intricacies of the spectrometer, and how to run it. We had just gotten a new detector.

A fellow at, I think Syracuse, was making them in his lab. It was lead sulfide. But, he had made a lead selenide or telluride. And now I don't remember which. You'll have to look back in my thesis. It was coolable, cryogenically coolable, with very little background noise. We learned how to operate that. Joe Aubel had — I guess they had a magnet built. There was a homemade magnet there, but they had bought a new one with some of the NSF funds. We had a 600-gauss magnet, long hole in the middle of it, and also it had a fairly long pathway with a nice uniform field. We'd put our vapor materials in this container inside the magnet, and we ran our optics beam through, through this multiple traverse cell, they called it. So, basically [I] learned the ins and outs of the spectrometer. And then, Harvey Edwards had wanted to increase the resolution of the instrument, so we improved some of the optics while I was there. They had bought a new paraboloid with [a] better figure, twelve-inch diameter. And, in terms of funding in the university, you're living on shoestrings. We really were. Funding was not large. And so, you made do with the things you could get. And, if it was a specialized piece, you sprung for that. And we got a new paraboloid.

So, I helped realign the spectrometer. And then Harvey wanted to increase the resolution of the instrument. And the reason that the slits that we had on the input and output of the spectrometer weren't as good as they could have been, as sharp and as nice as you would want, and the edge resolution on the slits were, dictated now what resolution you could get in your spectrometer. So, I undertook that, I don't know where I got the notion, but that razor blades would form a better slit for the spectrometer. So I went out and bought razor blades from Gillette, and everybody I could find, and brought them back and microscopically examined them, and so on. And it turned out Wilkinson Sword had a Weck blade, used in barbers shavers at the time, you know, haircuts. And those turned out to be the smoothest blades that I could find. I wound up mounting those on the slits that we had in the spectrometer. I had to figure out how to get them parallel, and we realigned the spectrometer. And, low and behold, it improved the solution of the spectrometer by about a factor of two.

So, that was part and parcel of getting my thesis, because I needed that resolution. We were running these Zeeman and magnetic rotation spectra, so we were looking at the fine structure of some of these spectral lines, and I needed the resolution. And, with those razor blades why we could resolve the lines. And so eventually my thesis about the near-infrared spectra of nitric oxide, with this lead telluride detector we could move out to longer wave lengths than we had ever been able to, at Michigan State. And nobody had yet put the magnetic and Zeeman spectra of nitric oxide in the fundamental band stretching, stretching vibration. And so, I went out to five microns and got the spectrometer working and took those spectra and then — well, at that time we had a theory as to what was going on, why the magnetic rotation spectra — I'm not sure that it's pertinent...

Lassman:I'd like to hear it.

Keck:To your history, or what have you, but basically that magnetic rotation spectra comes about when you shine polarized light on molecules in the presence of a magnetic field, and you get a rotation of the plane of polarization ala the Faraday effect. If you put it between crossed polarizers, why you basically analyze the polarized signal that you get coming through. You won't get enough detail in what I just said to be able to put in anything in the history books. But, at any rate, we sort of knew the theory behind it, but nobody had written down equations that would predict the magnetic rotation spectrum of a molecule. So, my thesis eventually revolved around writing out the theory of, solving Hamiltonian equations for the spectrum that I was observing. Then computers were just now starting to come in. When I first joined the group, they were fitting the spectra — that is doing least-square fits on our Friedman electronic calculator. It was all a mechanical, electro-mechanical calculator. And we were doing complicated, least squares reductions on this hand calculator for these polyatomic and complicated spectrum. Well, as I, well computers were just starting to come in. Michigan State hired one of the leading computer people at the time and they brought in, bought for the university the latest control data computer. It was the fastest computer, so everybody said. It had the biggest memory, 30,000-bit memory. Can you believe that?

Lassman:Yeah.

Keck:So, I learned computer programming, Fortran programming, and programmed the computer to predict the spectra response of these magnetic rotation spectrum and then overlapped them with my experimental results, and indeed showed that I could predict exactly what I was observing experimentally. So, that basically became my thesis at the end of the day. What else is there to say about that?

Lassman:On the one hand this kind of fits into the tradition that you're coming in with, right. Building things.

Keck:Yes. Improving them. Being creative. Coming up with a new way of making something rather than buying something.

Lassman:Because you couldn't buy it in this case?

Keck:Couldn't buy it in the stores.

Lassman:So, the money that was coming in from grants, like NSF...?

Keck:Basically paid our salaries. At Michigan State, you had to do a year of teaching assistantship that the department paid for and then you could go and do a research assistantship. So, my first year as a graduate student, in fact I assisted Hawes in the optics course. You never learn a subject as well as when you teach it. And so, by getting in there and teaching the optics course why I was a lot more skilled in the, well in working with the spectrometer then, and understanding what I had to do in the optics, and so on, to record the spectrum and things like that. I missed one — in between my — you asked about summer work. I mislead you. I guess it must have been the summer between my senior year and first year in graduate school that Hawes had a contract to look at, well to fund a student for some summer work. There were a couple of projects that he had suggested to me — Fourier transform spectroscopy was just coming into vogue. A French, oh gosh, Pierre Conti, I want to say. I'm not sure that's right. Whoever came up with Fourier transform spectroscopy had a master's thesis on it. And, I remember reading that, and we finally decided that that was too big a project to conduct in the summer time. And so I took this project — in that list of papers, there was one on multiple Edser-Butler bands. And we basically innovated a multiple-slit to look at the output spectrum of Fabry-Perot interferometer. And, well you would use a slit source and shine that on a Fabry-Perot Etalon and it'll...

Lassman:I'm sorry. Shine it on a what?

Keck:Fabry-Perot etalon, basically two parallel plates but aluminized. This is a form of interferometer. Normally you would shine a parallel beam on it and the interferometer, because the light, you know you make multiple bounces and they have to, they'll interfere with one another unless they're exactly a wavelength apart, a path length, depends upon the spacing of the two plates. And then your output, you see a banded spectrum. If you put a wedge in the plate you get nice parallel spectra lines, assuming you shined a monochromatic light source on it. And the spacing between the spectra lines has a very definitive relationship to the wavelength of light that's coming in. The idea we came up with was instead of having a single slit on the spectrometer that illuminates this Fabry-Perot Etalon, we'd put in a multiple slit. Two, three, four, five slits, and now each one of those created their own set of fringes, and the output of the Fabry-Perot interferometer. And, if you chose the wavelength appropriately you could space those out so that this was fringe from slit one, here is the next fringe from slit one. You could make the fringe from slit two, three, four, five, fit just exactly between fringe one and the next fringe one. And then two, and take over again.

So, they'd have this beautiful set of, we called them channel spectra. And the notion behind it was in calibrating the infrared spectrometer, what you do is you use the spectrometer to illuminate one of these Fabry-Perot Etalons, and you get this nice regular set of fringes that you can record along with your spectral of whatever material you're taking. And these now, you know, exactly what the difference in wavelength is from fringe, to fringe, to fringe, to, you know, six, seven decimal places, you know, if you had them all calibrated. And so, these became the markers by which you could calibrate your spectrum. And, the notion was, if we had multiple slits why we could have a vernier on the scale if you will. Well, we never pulled it off, but that first paper that I wrote, and we published in — I've forgotten where we published it. Maybe the Journal of Physics, I think.

Lassman:Let's see. I think I have ...

Keck:Or was it, maybe it was the American Association of Physics Teachers.

Lassman:Oh, this is 1964?

Keck:Yeah. Probably.

Lassman:Inter — Interferometric Observation of Flat Surfaces and Multiple Edser-Butler Bands.

Keck:Yes.

Lassman:I think it's that first paper.

Keck:That's the one.

Lassman:Okay.

Keck:Who's the publisher?

Lassman:American Journal of Physics.

Keck:Yes. So, that was my first publication. And that was just a lot of fun. Working with optics in a dark room with a spectrometer. I mean, I was happy as a clam.

Lassman:Was this spectrometer, was there just one there that you were all working on? Or, were there multiple instruments?

Keck:Well, that one was just a little student spectrometer in the optics lab. We didn't need anything special for that. But, the goal was to take that and bring it over to this great big infrared spectrometer that we had built, had much much higher resolution.

Lassman:I want to ask one other question about the computation? You mentioned that you shifted from the manual calculator to the computer. So, did you, did you also then improve the computing capacity over time to the point where you could do more predictive — maybe I'm not phrasing this right — more complicated scenarios with the spectral analysis?

Keck: Yes. Very, very much so. I mean, prior to that, all you could do was mark the centerline of a spectral line. And then, you'd try and take that spectral line and apply it to whoever's solution, [Hamiltonian] solution for the energy levels of that molecule was in vogue at the time, and hope that you could fit the spectrum and identify each spectra line was due to this vibration, or this one, or whatever. You're trying to relate it to the physics of a molecule, what was going on. With the computer you could actually predict the line shape and begin to say why it had a given width, and why it tailed off in a particular way because of [perturbations] with some other vibration mode or rotation mode of a molecule. You were able to go much further and add additional terms in the theoretical solution of where the energy level should be. And carry it out to the next, next orders in the series expansion of things. And, a lot of mine was, in fact, putting in the spectra response of the line shapes. You know happily someone had written down an equation for shapes of spectral lines somewhere between a [pure Gaussian] shape and an Lorentzian shape with long tails. And, it turned out that I juggled the term so that I could begin to match my spectrum, and then that related back to some property of the molecule. I've forgotten now, at this point, exactly what that was. But, yeah, you were able to do just so much more with the computer than we had ever been able to do before, more in terms in the expansion, as well as looking at details of the spectrum.

Lassman: Okay. Two questions. The first one is — well, actually, let me start with this one. So, you're doing research, are you also doing more, is there more coursework or is it primarily just doing... research?

Keck: The regimen was that your first three years were largely coursework, graduate courses. But, mixed in with that, the first year you had to teach a course, so you got your teaching requirement out of the way. And then, the second and third years you were being paid as a research student, research assistantship. As I said, I was learning the spectrometer, from Joe Aubel, and helping him gather the data for his dissertation. But, all the time you're taking coursework. At the end of the coursework, where we had a weeklong set of exams, you wrote exams for five days all morning. Exams were all morning, for five days running, starting with I guess mechanics and then E & M, and I guess there was one on solid-state. There was probably one on quantum nuclear, and I've forgotten now how they titled the courses. And, I remember, well Ruth and I were married by then. I had originally said I wasn't going to get married until after I got my degree. We got married midway through, and the week that I was taking exams her mother was visiting us. We lived in the main housing apartment at the college, so we were in the bedroom and her mother was out on the couch. And, her mother is a wonderful person. She was a wonderful person. But, having a mother-in-law there while you're writing exams is, it conjures up all sorts of nasty thoughts. But, I mean, we wrote the exams in the morning and then studied for the next one until midnight, and went home and got some sleep, came back, wrote the exams the next day.

Lassman: Pretty brutal schedule.

Keck: Yes, well that was set to weed people out, and it tended to. I think we got, I guess you got three chances at those, and if you missed after the third chance, you were basically relegated to the master's degree and graduated. No, that's not right. There was another exam, a qualifying exam before you got to the PhD track. The freshman and sophomore years of graduate school, you began taking graduate course but there was a qualifying exam that you, and that was on all aspects of physics. That's when I, that's when Halliday and Resnick came into the fore for me. Basically, I learned a great deal of physics studying for those sophomore physics exams. And it's basically on theory, but they covered the full spectrum of physics. A whole bunch of us just got together, and got Halliday and Resnick, worked problems in Halliday and Resnick, and that was just a much superior book to Sears and Zemansky that I had studied three years earlier. And, you had to pass that qualifying exam. If you got an "A" on it, you could go on for a PhD. If you got a "B" or less, well if you got a "B" on it, you could study for a masters. And if you didn't get — if you got lower than a "B" you got to take it, I guess you got to take it three times. And if at the end of the time you still hadn't gotten a "B" or an "A," you were essentially washed out. And then the preliminary exams you still had some finite number of times that you could take them, but you were already, you had already gotten a masters degree by that time. Assuming you passed the qualifying exam with an "A." So, that was the sort of regimen. Professor Hause, Duane was so nice. As soon as he began hearing the word on how I'd done on the exam, why he called me up that evening and told me how I'd done.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: So, I knew right away. I don't know, by Wednesday they had corrected the Monday exam, and Tuesday, and so on. And, you know, I knew I was doing well on those. And, it turned out I guess I'd got, it was either the highest, or the next highest score of twenty or thirty of us that took the exam. I felt really good about that. I was number two. There was a fellow, Fred Gillman, one of these child prodigies. He had graduated from high school, age fifteen or so, or something like that, and came into quantum mechanics, or came into Michigan State, the physics department, went through in two years with a four-point and that sort of thing, and then was continuing on to graduate school. At one point rumor had it that he had stepped into teach one of the quantum, graduate quantum mechanics courses, one day. He was taking the course, right? The professor — he wasn't in my section. But, he had scored higher than I did, I guess.

Lassman: When you were, when you were doing this, your graduate research and the molecule that you worked on?

Keck: Nitric oxide.

Lassman: Nitric oxide, that's it. Was there any...?

Keck: Think automobile pollution. That's the thing that Corning's catalytic converter cleans up.

Lassman: That's right. I knew that. But, when you were working on this, are you thinking at all, and not just you specifically but also within the group, is there any connection to industrial application?

Keck: Interesting. Well, my question is, when did I start thinking industrially? And, the reason I say that's interesting was that I remember as I was beginning to do interviews — but I don't remember now who made comments, or where I got the notion, but there was a certain stigma attached to a physicist leaving academe. I don't know if it was Haynes, or Harvey Edwards, or, but [in] my mind, I think from virtually day one, [I] was on the notion that I was going to go into industrial physics in some capacity or some job. And, I guess it was just from the experience with my dad's company, as a starter. And then we'd have, well the colloquia speakers. I mentioned Emmett Leith, and Bob Terhune from Ford Motor Company. I mentioned earlier the colloquia happened primarily, I mentioned, as an undergraduate. Graduate students were much more scholarly encouraged to attend colloquia than undergraduates. I probably began to see those that were coming from academe were doing evermore esoteric sorts of theoretical discussions, and learning more and more about less and less, and that sort of notion than, some of the industrial folk that came in and would tell us about the latest thing in holography, or that sort of thing. Well, more experimental, more interesting to me anyway.

Lassman: Well, you mentioned two Ford researchers. So...

Keck: Well, they just gave colloquia.

Lassman: On topics specifically...

Keck: That they were doing. It was their work at Ford Motor. It had to do with light. It had to do with lasers. And so, it was of interest to our group. I don't remember whether they came in specifically to our group, or whether they did general colloquia, now that I think about it.

Lassman: So that could be one possible connection that stuck in your mind about industrial work? How did you like teaching?

Keck: I enjoyed it. I didn't have a lecturer section, or anything like that. It was a laboratory section. You learned more about your subject. As I said, you never learn it so well as when you teach it.

Lassman: What's making you think about an industrial career versus an academic career?

Keck: I guess it was just this notion that I wanted to see something that someone would use coming out of the work, as opposed to something that would merely reside on a library shelf someplace. I probably never espoused that until today. You did remind me of some notables that had visited our group though. Gerhard Herzberg, a famous molecular atomic physicist.

Lassman: That name sounds familiar.

Keck: A physicist. He's written, there's a two-volume set, one on diatomic and one on polyatomic molecules. He did his work in Canada. And, Boris Stoiceff was another name in spectroscopy circles. He visited. I think Gilbert Amat visited once. And D.H. Rank from Penn State visited. And those would have been specific to our group.

Lassman: I see.

Keck: For the broader colloquia, I don't remember the notable names there. And so many of them were probably in the high-energy field, and that was just not where my brain was.

Lassman: Did you also collaborate with other science departments in the molecular spectroscopy field? I think, for example, in the chemistry department there might be some areas where there could be collaboration.

Keck: There certainly could have been. But, in those days, collaboration was not in anyone's thinking.

Lassman:How so?

Keck:Well, at Michigan State it just wasn't. You know, you were hired because you were an expert in your field, and experts are expert unto themselves. They don't need anybody else. And so, there was a lot of "silos," if you will, and interestingly I now sit on the Dean of the College of Natural Sciences Advisory Board at Michigan State, and have been, for probably ten years, and we counsel then, that exactly as you're pointing out, they really needed to collaborate with other departments. The funding organizations over the years have demanded that you can't be a "silo" any longer. You've got to be collaborative with other groups, either at your university or even better yet at other universities. But as I was coming through school that was, I won't say it didn't occur but I don't remember any of the physics faculty that had any collaborations outside of the physics department.

Lassman:You mentioned earlier when you were moving toward the end of your graduate career, that you were thinking about working in industry. That was something that the faculty didn't wholly endorse? Can you talk a little bit about what that experience was like, and what you made of their comments about leaving the academy for an industrial career?

Keck:Well, I obviously didn't take much of it to heart. And, I guess I'd already made up my mind that I thought I knew what industrial research would be like, and, as I say, I wanted to see some tangible fruits of my labors being used by someone. But, the stigma at that time, well I don't know if it was propagated by Haines as chair of the department, was that physicists taught other physicists. And they did learn basic research and so on. More so than trying to apply their physics training to do something, something else with it. But, I didn't interview for any academic positions when I graduated.

Lassman:How about your colleagues, other graduate students who were finishing up with you or who were in your class? Did they pursue academic careers, industrial careers, a mixture?

Keck:It was a mixture. One of Hawes' students, Glenn Mann, was teaching down at Texas Tech, I think. Joe Aubel, my mentor, went down to the University of South Florida. [He] got an academic position there. At least two of Harvey's graduate students, Lou Schneider and Dick Peterson, graduated essentially with me, both went into universities. The other half of us went into some industrial positions, or government laboratory. One of Hause's students, Mel Olman and Ron Hill, went to Sandia National Laboratory. Kent Moncur, he went industrial initially. And, I did too. And, Pete Wilson — where'd Pete go? I don't remember. So, it was a mix, assuming the two associates at Sandia, [it] was more an industrial laboratory than an academic laboratory. I'd put it in that category. It may well have been in those days. It wasn't the national laboratory when they went. Sandia was subsequent to their going there, it was taken over as a national lab.

Lassman:A couple of more questions on the graduate. When you're getting your PhD at this time, this is also during the Cold War? Was there any impact on your research specifically, or within your group, or even within the physics department, of Cold War priorities along the lines of classification of research results or the imposition of security restrictions, things like that, given the growth in government contracts for research?

Keck:I don't think there was any military defense-oriented work going on at Michigan State, that I remember. Well, the Air Force was funding some of Harvey's work, and there was other government agency funding in some of the other departments; not all of it coming from NSF, is what I mean. But where it fit in to some defense program, I never knew. The Air Force saw fit to fund Harvey's work in polyatomic molecules. But, we had no capability. And, as far as I know there was no direct connection with anything in the classified arena. Now, having said that I can tell you that one of the agencies that interviewed on campus was the CIA. And, in fact, I went and talked to a CIA recruiter and eventually had a job offer with the CIA.

Lassman:This is when you're finishing up?

Lassman:Okay.

Lassman:Before we get to the CIA offer, and career choices, during this period the Vietnam War is going on. Draft status. Was that an issue?

Keck:Yes. Very much. As long as I was a student I had a student deferment. When I left then, and came to Corning, I was married already and, but I believe Corning had to send some sort of request for continued deferment, after my employment with Corning. I'm pretty sure Bob Maurer, a couple of years running had asked for a continual deferment. And then the war was — when did it finish, '70?

Lassman:The formal withdrawal was '75, I think, when the last U.S. troops left.

Keck: Okay. But, the draft, or the need for them was sooner than that?

Lassman: Yes. That was earlier.

Keck: So, it was three years that Maurer had to submit. At the time, I was probably on the hawk side of things. If my nation was believing, or leaders of the nation were believing that this was a war that we should be fighting we should be in there and so on, but I guess my feeling was that I could contribute more to the effort by being a scientist and doing good technological work that might feed into the military activity. But that was certainly my rationale for wanting and maintaining the student deferment, and so on, as opposed to going into the draft. I don't recall whether my draft — they had draft numbers, and mine was, I'm pretty sure, well down the list. I don't remember whether that was before I got married, but I remember having a 2-S draft card. Well, I didn't worry a lot about it. I didn't pay a whole lot of attention to it. As I say, I figured I could do a better job for the country by learning physics and doing a good job of that. And yes, I had a deferment, and continued.

Lassman: I have just another general question here. Lessons learned in graduate school? Is there anything that stands out?

Keck: Lessons learned in graduate school? Well, I used to have a bunch of sayings on my wall. I don't know where they came from. I found a bunch of old placards, and I had been asking if I remember any of them. They're probably around here someplace, because I'm a prodigious saver of stuff. But, I had little phrases that I tacked up. Here are examples of some that have come later in my life, some of which are somewhat original with me or paraphrasing of things.

Lassman: I like this one. "Leadership is the art of wondering complex simple."

Keck: I have no idea whether any of those will stick with anybody but...

Lassman: Well, I wanted to throw that out to see if there were any things that particularly shaped your ideas and views about, not just physics but about industry, about applications and connecting your research to new technologies, or further down the road about these questions of leadership and management, and things like that?

Keck: I'll tell you, Tom, nothing leaps out at me, other than that I began to pick up little phrases like that, and they were on these cards. And, I had my office adorned with them. And I'll be darned if I didn't, could conjure up saying it right now. But they were pithy truisms that you see out and around. But, the other thought that ran through my mind, of course the Vietnam Era, the folk singers were out and about, and we had a resident folk artist in the physics department, Goodtime Charlie Taylor, who worked with Jerry Cowen. He must have come my sophomore year as a graduate student. And, Charlie was a guitarist par excellent, and of the new wave of behavior. Well he wore blue jeans and a sport coat. The first of the crowd to do that. Always had his tan sport coat, corduroy sport coat, and blue jeans on. And on weekend nights, he would perform at the Fat Black Pussycat. So, all of the folk songs and the protest songs associated with that era were part and parcel of Ruth's and my growing up, and we've enjoyed some, you know, sing along with Peter, Paul, and Mary, and the [Kingston] Trio, and John Denver, and all those ever since.

Lassman: That raises another question about the culture of Michigan State during this time period. Was there an anti-war culture there, or a counterculture at Michigan State during this time?

Keck: By no means as strong as Berkeley, or Penn State, or anything like that. Probably the strongest was, hootenannies that we would have in some of the buildings, and on the weekend, we'd get all the folk singers and they would be singing protest songs, and things like that. I was more or less of the mindset, growing up in rural America, that our leaders knew best, and if they said, you know, we should be at war, well we should be at war. So, those weren't protest parts that probably stuck with me. Bob Dylan's "Blowing in the Wind" song was probably closer to something that would have stuck with me as a philosophy or lessons learned, or questions that we should continually ask ourselves. "How many times must the cannon balls fly?" And so on. So, those were probably the things that shaped much of what we've done later on in life, as much as anything.

Lassman: All right, now moving on then, to the beginning of your career choices. So, you got your PhD in '67? Would this have been in the spring of '67?

Keck: No. December of '67. I didn't go to my graduation. I wish I had now. I've forgotten why. I guess I was probably interviewing. But, as I was graduating the semiconductor bubble hadn't yet burst. So, industry was thriving. Monies, I guess, from the war effort or whatever, were going into all the high-tech companies. There were jobs all over the place, very plentiful.

Lassman: You mentioned the CIA. Tell me that story.

Keck: Well, I interviewed. My first interview was at IBM.

Lassman: Why don't you take me through the chronology of interviews?

Keck: Let me take you through the sequence of all that. My first-ever plane ride, first-ever trip out of East Lansing, Michigan, other than vacation trips with my parents, was hopping on a plane at Metropolitan airport in Detroit and going to Yorktown Heights, to an IBM lab.

Lassman: Did they come to campus to talk to you first, or how did you get that?

Keck: I think so. Some did it that way. Others, perhaps another one of the group had interviewed with someone, and so we shared addresses and so on. I don't remember, honestly. But, IBM invited me for three interviews. One at Yorktown Heights, one at East Fishkill, a development laboratory there, and one out at Almaden.

Lassman: In California?

Keck: In California.

Lassman: That's the disk drive lab?

Keck: Doing storage.

Lassman: So, my visit to Watson Lab, I remember the two people I interviewed with, Euvial Beraket and Janus Wiljanski. Beraket was a typical arrogant physicist?

Keck: Definitely the arrogant physicist, and I didn't get the job offer from Watson Lab.

Lassman: You did?

Keck: I did not. And Janus Wiljanski was one of the foremost lens design specialists. I assume data storage and optical techniques for what that group was focusing on. Got an offer from the development laboratory at Poughkeepsie.

Lassman: That would have been in the semiconductor field?

Keck: Well, one of the projects they wanted me to do was to figure out some ways of using lasers to repair circuits, semiconductor, or chip circuits that had been not working, so that they could—if a lot of semiconductor chips had an error in them, or a defect, to fuse wires or fuse connections in semiconductor circuitry, was what the Watson Lab thing was about. New uses of lasers and operating on chips, and things like that.

Lassman: That's interesting, actually. Were the, was the production of semiconductors still, from the financial standpoint, I guess, was the cost high enough that it was very important to make repairs in the chips rather than just...?

Keck: I can only guess.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: But, I'm assuming so. Some guy by the name of William Pliskin was the name of the other fellow, and I think he was up, it must have been at the development laboratory. He was a little bit more down-to-earth. And somewhere on that visit I learned about radio frequency sputtering, that was just being applied at the time. If you put a material around a cathode, and then pass an alternating current through it, in the presence of a plasma, then you can actually pop off atoms, molecules, from the parent material for traveling at some velocity, and if there's a substrate, coolants, or cooler substrate, they'll condense on that substrate, then you'll begin to lay down a layer, or film, of a particular material. So, it was a new technique for thin film deposition that was beginning to, I assume beginning to make its way into technological circles, a fairly new technology.

Lassman: And this a person you spoke to at Yorktown, or at East Fishkill?

Keck: Well, I don't remember.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: I remember on the IBM visit I learned about radio frequency sputtering. That's important because later that was the basis of the invention at Corning for fibers. How history pieces together. Well, so at any rate, I got an offer from Almaden. I got an offer from the Fishkill Lab, Watson Lab didn't, I wasn't good enough for them.

Lassman: What was your impression then of IBM overall?

Keck: Well, of course, this is your first trip, on any interview trip, so I was just blown away by what I was seeing. Clearly impressed, beyond belief. So, I interviewed first with IBM, then Goodyear Aerospace. One of my own graduate people had gone down there. He came back to Michigan State recruiting, and invited me down, and so I went down to Goodyear Aerospace.

Lassman: This was Goodyear Tire and Rubber?

Keck: Bingo.

Lassman: In Akron?

Keck: They had an aerospace lab, largely funded by Air Force funds, out on a lake outside of Akron, and they were learning to put on, or make synthetic rubber or some polymer coating on materials that would be impervious to electromagnetic radiation reflections. Anti-radar sorts of materials. They wanted somebody that had enjoyed or knew something about electromagnetic theory. One of the graduate courses that I most enjoyed was a graduate course in electricity magnetism, a Fred Leitner talk. And, I remember — I'll have to give you, or get you a copy of — what the hell's the name of it? The story of the optical fiber — because in there I recalled the day that Fred Leitner had began taking us through the wave equations of electromagnetic wave equations and showed the square root of new epsilon was equal to the speed of light. And, that was like a theological revelation to me. When he put that on the board, it just seemed like God's universe came to closure in that one lecture. That made such an impression on me. I always liked electromagnetics, and in particular, waves, and if it involved photons, you know, at that end of the spectrum, optics, why so much the better. So, Goodyear, it was perfectly natural to go down and interview. So, I interviewed there and got a job offer from them.

Lassman: And, this was a military-funded lab? Was that separate from their primary R & D facility?

Keck: I think so. It was probably in the same division, but I honestly couldn't tell you today whether it was — those are questions that wouldn't even have occurred to me at that time.

Lassman: All right.

Keck: What's the organization structure?

Lassman: Yeah. That's right. But that's a different kind of setting than the IBM setting?

Keck: Oh absolutely.

Lassman: That's interesting.

Keck: The other companies that I interviewed with, well I had interviews with TRW, and it was in the L.A. area, and I called up and just cancelled the thing. After I'd been to San Francisco and interviewed with IBM, as I said, and then I went up to Los Alamos — not Los Alamos, Lawrence Radiation Lab, and interviewed with them.

Lassman: In Berkeley?

Keck: Outside of Berkeley. It's in Livermore.

Lassman: Lawrence Livermore National Lab?

Keck: Yes. Out in the valley. They wanted me to work in a sensors group, and again involving electromagnetics, and how could they do remote sensing of bombs, and telemeter the information back. I interviewed then with Martin Marietta in Denver, and I don't remember anything about that interview. I don't know what the project was. The other one was the CIA.

Lassman: What was that? Tell me about that one?

Keck: I did it purely as a lark. My colleague, my friend in graduate school, Mel Olman, who went to Sandia, had heard the CIA was coming around and doing interviews. And, he went over and interviewed, and came back and told me about it. I was curious as to whether I could get in. This probably shouldn't be down in print, should it?

Lassman: Well, I can stop it if you'd like. I'd be happy to do that.

Keck: We may excise it from the file. But at any rate, I went down. Everything was very clandestine, as you might expect. I interviewed with a guy on campus, and he must have written up something favorable about me, because a few days later I got a plain brown wrapper in the mail with instructions to come down to Ann Arbor, Michigan and talk with one of the field operatives.

Lassman: What was the position they were...?

Keck: I hadn't a clue yet.

Lassman:

The first session that this guy on campus was talking to you about was like an information session?

Keck: Just a general CIA interview. Yes.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: The CIA is interviewing. "We have a host of positions. I can't tell you anything about them. But, would you like to come down?" "All right." So, I drove down to Ann Arbor one morning around summertime. All they gave me was an address. It was a nondescript building outside of Ann Arbor. I walked in the door, and there was nobody around, and a big long office, with a desk in the back. And, nothing. Absolutely nothing in that building. You know, it was, all this — could have held a square dance in it. And, the door opened — you know, I called out, and a door opened and a guy came out from the adjoining room. And, I looked in there and there was host of electronics, and I assume radio and telemetry equipment, and things like that to keep him connected with the central office. And, apparently that interview went fine because the next thing I knew I got a plain brown wrapper inviting me to come down to Washington. So, I went down to Washington, then, and interviewed with one of the groups. And there began to learn a little bit more about it. They needed people to analyze the technological capabilities of the Asian nations. So, they were beginning to worry about the fact that Asia was building up its technological capability, and wanted people to analyze the scientific literature. So, it would have been just an analysis job of, you know, somebody will hand you translated text and you're supposed to figure out what the real capability would have been given they wrote that learned paper, and this, that, and the other thing.

That interview must have gone well, because the next thing I knew there was this long DoD, something or other form to fill in to check my security clearance to go for a security clearance. But interestingly, that interview, I'm pretty sure it was that first trip to Washington, the guy pulled out a top secret document and was walking me through it, and showing me what sorts of things they were doing. He showed a photograph of a runway, I think, in Cuba. This is circa the Cuban missile crisis. And, it was comparison photos that they were digitizing and computer comparing I guess. And showed the second one, the computer had highlighted an extension that had been added to the runway. But, they had graphics capability for pointing out, accentuating differences from, you know, one picture to another. I don't know if it was his boss or a colleague walked into the office and said, "What are you doing showing this guy top secret?" "Well, I assumed if he was interviewing with us, he was cleared." Well, I hadn't been cleared yet. Lassman: Okay.

Keck: So, at any rate, the fourth trip down they, I had already filled in the classification form and I had, we later found FBI agents talking with Ruth's folks up in the Upper Peninsula. And, I assume my folks, but I don't know that. My neighbors. And, the fourth contact was again down in Washington, at Langley Headquarters, and off George Washington Parkway, and there they put me through a lie detector test, and informed me that an employee of the CIA would go through one of these a year. Well, I passed it okay, but quite frankly a polygraph test is an unnerving experience, or at least I found it so. I said, "I don't want this."

Lassman: And that was it?

Keck: That was the last I had for the CIA. They sent me a job offer and I politely said, "Maybe I'll help my country in some other capacity."

Lassman: Interesting.

Keck: But, it would have been interesting work, and they, I asked them, at one point, whether a person could publish scientific articles, and so on. "No," they honestly said, "No. You know, there's the open world and then there's the black world. And, we publish in the black world, and yes, you'll become known in that world in the same way that other people are in the open world. And if you want to have that as a career, why we can offer it to you."

Lassman: Okay. I see.

Keck: But it, I'm sure it would have been fascinating, fascinating work. It sounded like it was much more reading. And, obviously analysis. But, it didn't sound like it was, you know, experimental work, and things that I had grown up with and enjoyed.

Lassman: That was very different?

Keck: Yes. Now, I had done those interview trips. And I was about ready to flip a coin and make a decision.

Lassman: Did any of them stand out as particularly attractive?

Keck: Well, I liked Lawrence Livermore. Or I just liked that arena and it sounded like an interesting project, with sensors. With Goodyear-Aerospace I wasn't that enthralled. The IBM thing sounded interesting. The IBM, both IBM, Almaden and Poughkeepsie, would have been very interesting. Today I would recognize those as more developmental labs as opposed to the basic research at Watson. But, that was fine. I could see concrete uses for whatever you'd be doing there.

Lassman: Can I ask you a quick question about the Watson Lab?

Keck: Sure.

Lassman: You mentioned the one physicist you interviewed with.

Keck: You mean Beraket?

Lassman: Beraket. You said he was —

Keck:Struck me as being arrogant.

Lassman:Arrogant in a sense of IBM physics research, or arrogant just as a —

Keck:Both.

Lassman:In this time period in the late '60s, Watson is still a relatively new lab.

Keck:Oh yeah. Creme de la creme.

Lassman:Yes. You were just talking about your interview with Beraket and whatever it was that made you think that he was impressed with himself and IBM research at this time.

Keck:Well, just the attitude he had toward me.

Lassman:I don't know what it was. Was his attitude a reflection of what IBM research was at this time, or what it was supposed to be, or was it just of him personally as a physicist, in terms of how impressed he was with himself?

Keck:Oh my golly. Well,...

Lassman:Maybe that's too detailed.

Keck:Well, it's too long ago for me to remember details. I met Janus Wiljanski years later up at The University of Rochester's Institute of Optics, and I had already achieved some notoriety, and often wondered if he remembered that I did interview with him. I never did ask him. And Beraket, I don't know whatever happened to him. I had asked a couple of people I know at IBM about him, and obviously, he is long since retired. I don't, I couldn't tell you any longer today when in the interview process I formed the impression of him or why that I did. But he was very definitely, seemed to be looking down his nose at what I had described in my seminar for them, and things like that.

Lassman:I see.

Keck:And then just, he just wasn't particularly interested in having me there. It struck me.

Lassman:Okay.

Keck:Now, the one part that I didn't cover — when I was still back at Michigan State, I mentioned several industrial scientists had visited us. I neglected to tell you that Corning had an industrial scientist that visited the physics group at Michigan State, had been doing it apparently for a good long time, his name was Gale Smith, Dr. Gale Smith. I later found out that he and my dad studied together at the University of Michigan. And, Gale was one of the senior people at Corning.

Lassman:What was his field?

Keck:Well, he ran the equivalent of Corning's NIST, National Institute of Standards and Technology. Our measurements and analysis group, at the time that I joined Corning, I think he had done work — Corning had entered the electronics field, making tin-oxide capacitors and resistors. I think Gale had done work, or led a group in that field, and eventually with Corning, we had a business in precision resistors and capacitors for many years. But, by the time Gale was visiting, that I saw him at Michigan State he was already in a management, director, senior director position at the Corning lab. But, he visited pretty regularly. And, I probably, second year I was in graduate school I remember Gale coming around, and even do one-on-one visits with all of Duane Hawes' students. So, he and Duane, somehow, had a connection. But, I don't know that he visited all that many other groups within the physics department. But, he didn't go to the placement bureau and wait for students to come to him. He came into the laboratory, and he would usually bring something from Corning, some aspect, something that industrial research was working on.

Lassman:So, this was a personal connection he had?

Keck:Yes. I think so. But, you know, I never asked Gale, and I never asked Duane about that. I don't remember. I don't know. Well, on one of the visits Gale brought a short piece of fiber optic. The bundle type of fiber that was around starting in the '50s, and that Corning, in fact, made. And it was clearly the first time I had seen a fiber optic and was enthralled by what he was telling us and so on. Gale came for a number of years and then hadn't come for quite a while. And, I'm about ready to make a decision among the companies that I just described for you. And, low and behold another Corning employee, Bill Lister, who had been a graduate from Michigan State out of Hiedemann's ultrasonics group, and had gone to Corning, and he was now taking Gale's place as a recruiter, and came back.

Lassman:Was he there, he was there before you were?

Keck:He was there before I was, but we overlapped.

Lassman:Okay.

Keck:And then Bill graduated, and a year, year and a half later he came back to Corning and said, "Well, by all means, you have to come down to Corning and visit."

Lassman:Can I ask just one quick question? You mentioned when...

Keck:Smith?

Lassman:Smith. Gale Smith came and showed you the fiber optic cable, had you done any investigating prior to that or known anything about the fiber optic? That was your first introduction?

Keck:That was the first introduction for the fiber optics.

Lassman:Okay.

Keck:So, Bill invited me to Corning. This was December of '67. And, in fact, it turned out my grandfather, Ruth will give you the date, but my grandfather died, and my interview was the day after he died. And, then I got back in time for his funeral. I was to interview with three groups, I think. There was a group at Corning, physical research, and Bob Maurer ran fundamental physics research. Sammy Halliby had something in semiconductor, and Andy Herzog had [the] materials group, of some sort, as I recall.

Lassman:Did Smith and Lister talk?

Keck:Apparently.

Lassman:And then you were invited out for the interview?

Keck:Well, I forget whether Bill invited me on the spot, or whether he went home and then somebody called me and invited me out. I don't remember that. But anyway, I visited Corning in December of '67, and then Bob, and Sammy, and then Andy Herzog each told me a little bit about their group. Now, Bob Maurer was looking for someone to come and work in the fiber optics arena. And, he described the notion that telecommunications using optics, its time maybe had come, and that they needed a transmission medium and he needed someone to run the fiber optic project at Corning. He had had a couple of people working part-time on it, and I guess I found this out later, but at any rate, long story short, they offered me a job in Bob's group. And, it sounded like electromagnetics propagation, optics, and I liked the arena, although it was nothing like today. Corning invited Ruth out the very first visit. No other company had invited her along, on any of the interview trips. And, Corning had enough experience with the fact that it's fairly remote, they knew they had to bring her in and impress not only the candidate but also the candidate's family. And so, from the get-go she came in and they toured her all around, and we kind of liked the area. And, she was from a small town, and Ewen, Minnesota wasn't that big. And, I really liked the sort of work that was being described by Maurer. So, I took the job at Corning, and basically wrote letters back to all the rest of the companies and said, "Sorry."

Lassman:What were your impressions of Corning as a research organization, in comparison to a place like IBM Watson, or Almaden or even Lawrence Livermore, Goodyear?

Keck:I recall having made that much of a, noted that much difference between them. I mean, clearly Watson Lab, the equipment, the capabilities, the sophistication of the things they were working on seemed more than I saw in any of the other labs. Then at Los Alamos, they didn't show me a whole heck of a lot. It was more talk "and here's what you'd be working on." Martin Marietta was, I guess I did see an optics lab there. And Almaden there was an optics lab. Goodyear, we were out in a barracks on the shore of some lake, where that work was going out. But, I think Corning's overall laboratory and the people I talked to, and their description of the importance of research to them, it was on a par with what I was seeing at Watson. Clearly there was some differences in physical layout and the size of the laboratory. You know, Watson was huge. And, all of the IBM facilities are huge, compared to what I saw at Corning. But, a beautiful setting up on the hill, overlooking the valley. Finger Lakes region.

Lassman:Sullivan Park was already there at that time?

Keck:Yes. It had been built in '63.

Lassman:Okay.

Keck:That's when we moved from the valley up to the hill, when the laboratory was built. I probably met Gale Smith on that visit as well, because I talked to him on previous visits. I can't believe that I wouldn't have had a contact with Gale. One of the follow-up things that impressed me very much about Corning, they were, after my grandfather's funeral we were, a day or two, well, it was probably the next weekend, having Sunday dinner, and the phone rang and it was the director of — well, Bob's boss, director of physical research here at Corning, Chuck Wakeman, basically saying, "Gee, sorry I missed you. Bob spoke highly of you. We would like to have you come and join us," and so on. And nobody else had done that. And that, that did carry a lot of weight. So, Corning did things right.

Lassman:Okay. I see.

Keck:And, they offered the highest salary, which today might surprise me a little bit. But, it was, at the time.

Lassman: Okay. I wonder if there's some of that family, you know, influence there with the recruitment?

Keck: Extra care?

Lassman: Yeah. Extra care for incoming recruits?

Keck: It could well have been. It could well be. Because, well they had someone, well Gene Abercrombie was the person who later met many times over a time at Corning, and she toured Ruth all around, and showed her the where to shop, and where the housing developments were, and so on.

Lassman: When you came in, so then there's Maurer's group, which is the one you joined. And number two there was Herzog's group, and...?

Keck: Sammy Halliby was the person. And he, it turned out, was a Michigan State, had — well, gosh. Now, I'm not sure. I was going to say he was a Michigan State graduate some years earlier. Because one of the things that they did, almost immediately, was pressed the new PhDs into recruiting the next generation of students, and I went back to Michigan State with Sammy, interviewing on campus for students. I remember that so vividly. Sammy had a friend who lived just over the river from my folks in one of the nice subdivisions in East Lansing. And, Ruth and I had the car and we were going to stop off at my folks and say "Hi," while we were in East Lansing. So, we dropped Sammy off at his friend's, and he said pick us up at such and such a time, and we got a flight down at Detroit Metro Airport, which is an hour and fifteen minutes away. And, so, Ruth and I appeared at his friend's house at the appointed hour and got in there. And, "Oh, come in and have a drink." And, Sammy is three sheets to the wind. He had the good sense to ask if I'd drive to the airport. But, he wound up leaving with about forty-five minutes to catch our flight down at Metro, and we got to get rid of the rental car. We made it. I have no clue how fast I was driving. Sammy was in the back seat just zonked. He kept talking to his friend. You know, he kept saying, "Isn't it time?"

Lassman: Have to get to the airport.

Keck: Oh my goodness. Life's little stories.

Lassman: When you met each of these individuals, Halliby, and Herzog, and Maurer...

Keck: It was at colloquia, well a seminar that we went down to give.

Lassman: Did you also meet, at this point, the senior research executives like Bill Armistead, and that group?

Keck: No.

Lassman: Was that actually after you got there?

Keck: Well, as I say Chuck Wakeman, Bob's boss, wasn't there. So, I interviewed with Wakeman's three top managers. There was one other one in the group, I think, but I don't remember now who it was. Bill Armistead, you didn't see the director of research. Or they didn't bring us into that level. Although, Wakeman reported to Armistead. So, you know, it wasn't that large an organization. There weren't that many layers in the organization.

Lassman: Were there other PhD physicists who came in with you at this time?

Keck: Felix Kapron had been there three months, maybe, before I came. Mike Teeter had come up from Texas. I guess Mike had been there a year and a half, maybe. Who else am I trying to think of? This other person. Well, the short answer is, yes. Corning apparently was in a hiring mode. The color television business was booming at the time. And, so, they would bring in a goodly number of people.

Lassman: And these were PhD physicists?

Keck: Yes. By and large.

Lassman: That were coming in?

Keck: By in large.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: Corning, the Houghton family, held technology in high esteem. They truly had the creme de le creme and they worked hard at it. Shoot, who the dickens else was there? Oh, J. H. P. Watson was the other manager in Wakeman's directorate. Oh, well, Pete Schulz, of course, my co-inventor. Pete had joined about six months before I came. And, at the time — Corning lab was organized according to disciplines. So, they had Chuck Wakeman's physical research. It was probably sixty, seventy scientists strong. And, they had John McDowell's chemical research, which was probably about the same size. And, Don Stookey, (inventor of pyroceram materials, and photochromic glasses, National Medal of Technology winner) whose name you may know, had a small group and they just gave Don whatever he wanted. So, he was the director and leading a small group, fundamental chemical research, I think, or something like that. And then Gale Smith had a metrology group that had all the measurement equipment that would perform the chemical analysis or physical properties measurements that you needed made, and so on. But, that was basically the organization. However, there was a math statistics group that had a big IBM mainframe computer that they utilized. And so, they ran the computer department, if you will. But, they had a few scientist PhDs that they hired as mathematicians that would help solve problems for others of us that needed it.

Lassman:I see. Was that all under the umbrella of a central research lab basically?

Keck:Yes.

Lassman:The machine development laboratory, that was a separate organization or was that connected at all to the central lab?

Keck:I'll be honest, I don't remember. Because there had been a number of strong personalities through the history of the organization. At some point, Armistead folded everything under his dominion. You had the machine stuff and the central lab was under Armistead. Whether that was the case when I joined, or whether Dave Liebson and Bill Armistead were on par reporting positions to the Houghton, Chairman Houghton, I don't remember.

Lassman:Okay.

Keck:Clearly at some point Armistead became powerful enough and pulled it all under his leadership. It may have been when Dave Liebson retired, that they folded it in together. I remember hearing a story, subsequent to coming to Corning, — the laboratory had been down in the valley. And, when they made the first move up to the hill, the first building that went up there was — have you driven up to the hill?

Lassman:I have been up there.

Keck:You remember the building with the big funny thing on top?

Lassman:Yes.

Keck:It's called a Robertson ventilator. Any glass factory in the world you will see that type of cube on the building. And, it's basically just designed to get the heat out from all the glass furnaces. So, a gentleman by the name of Tom Howitt was asked by Chairman Houghton, this is before Amo Houghton, or current House of Representatives, Houghton, and before Jamie, clearly. It was their dad. And Howitt was asked to build a process research center up on the hill. And the senior Houghton had already decided he was going to build his laboratory up there, but he wanted Liebson, or not Liebson, Howitt to start the process research center so central to good glassmaking. And Howitt said, "Well. Fine. How do I get the money?" And he said, "Oh, just tell me what you need." So, Howitt went away and got some engineers working on it, and put an estimate together and said it'll cost $4 million to build this process center." Houghton said, "Fine. We'll do it." Didn't have to sign any papers or anything like that. No bureaucracy. The bean counters were totally out of the equation. Houghton said, "You got $4 million. No problem. Go build it." Howitt said he did. Put the thing, the process research center, I think it started before the '63 move to Sullivan Park. That was probably in '61, you know, 1960, '61, somewhere in that time frame. But, you know, whether another industrialist can say, "I've got the money. Just do it."

Lassman:Very little bureaucracy.

Keck:No bureaucracy.

Lassman:And was that also a similar process as well for your research program, the way Armistead ran the lab?

Keck:I don't ever recall worrying about budgets or anything like that. We were assigned a project and you worked on the project diligently. And, nobody ever said anything to us about money. I guess the first I remember hearing about money was when young Amo Houghton, now in the Congress, well just is relinquishing his congressional seat, was Chairman, and he was setting the goals for the corporation. And, I don't know if it was the first or second year I was at Corning. Bob called us all into the office. Corning's sales were $200 million — no $100 million, and the strategy and the goal for the corporation was that within three years we would be at $200 million, which is a pretty spectacular goal. Doubling in three years is a good growth rate. That was probably the first discussion I ever heard on money, at Corning. And, we did it. The company, color television was still just booming. It was until '75, that they had the infamous guns of August.

Lassman:That was in August. But also at this time too, Corning had a semiconductor business. You mentioned Charles Wakeman. Didn't he leave at some point, around this time, to go run Signetics?

Keck:Signetics. Yes. They had bought Signetics, from whom I don't know. Corning already had the resistor and capacitor plant. And, MacAvoy, Tom MacAvoy had come out of the laboratory and was president. This was '68-'69, somewhere very early in my tenure, that they bought Signetics. I'm pretty sure they bought Signetics after I joined. But, somewhere between then and 1970 they signed the cross-license with Bell Labs. They put fiber optic technology in the cross-licensing equation to allow us to get the needed transistor patents for Signetics. And, in return, fiber optics was on the table from our side going their way. Anything we came up with in fiber optics would, they would have a immediate cross-license for. Yeah. And, I don't know. I don't know whether Wakeman went on and ran Signetics.

Lassman:I think he went and ran the laboratory down in North Carolina.

Keck:Yes. He went down and ran the Raleigh lab, when Gerhard Megla left, and then later went over to France and ran the French laboratory. I don't think he ever went to Signetics.

Lassman:I just wanted to get a sense of what the business sectors were at that time period.

Keck:Television was the big one. They always had the consumer, well always until a few years back. It was the science products that made the, all the glassware, scientific glassware. And then the electronics division. I think there were those four entities. There might have been — I've forgotten now. It must have been some years later, but they created the international division. But, clearly, a lot of those businesses were international later.

Lassman:The scope of research is really pretty broad the way you described it, physics, chemistry, metrology? Did you get a sense, during this time period, what research was like at other glass companies? Was Corning's situation, research set up similar? Was it very different?

Keck:Yes. The truthful answer is I was still pretty naïve and could only go by what other people said. It became clear that Schott was one of our major competitors, and eventually we found out that Schott was organized virtually identically with the way Corning was.

Lassman:I'm sorry. Who?

Keck:The two organizations.

Lassman:This other organization?

Keck:Schott in Germany. Schott Glass.

Lassman:All right.

Keck:It was almost as though if one organization changed why the other would mimic it, and vice versa. In terms of developments and so on. There weren't a whole lot of other glass companies in the U.S.

Lassman:The only other one that came to mind, I was thinking of, was Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

Keck:We formed the joint venture with Pittsburgh Plate to form Pittsburgh-Corning to make glass architectural blocks. Then Owens-Corning to form fiberglass. They did containers, and we came up with a process for fiber, blowing fibers and put the two together to form Owens-Corning. So, there were joint ventures that sprang out of those interactions. But, we always used to say, the glass industry would have had three major components: the flat glass, which was largely [Libby Owens Ford], the container business, which was Owens Illinois, and then the specialty glass, which was Corning. We were the leaders in specialty glass. And, we didn't make flat. We didn't make [bottles]. And, if we ventured into something that looked like it crossed into those areas, well then we would use joint ventures.

Lassman:What did you see, coming in as a PhD physicist, academically trained, doing very advanced scientific research, coming into a company like Corning that has a very strong craft tradition, glass and glass making, what was your impression as a PhD physicist of coming into an organization like that? Was there a tension between the traditional craft-making, tacit knowledge, that had such a long history at Corning, versus your type of experience and expertise coming in? Was there a tension there or was there an easy collaboration? Was there a collaboration?

Keck:Well, if there was a tension, I didn't recognize it. The work that was going on around me, by colleagues, Nick Borrelli and the group was doing high power laser, glass laser work, so we had, well we had actually two organizations worrying about the possibility of glass lasers. They were on the cutting edge of finding new lasing materials. A gentleman upstairs — I mentioned, radio frequency sputtering at IBM — was in fact doing radio frequency sputtering to try and deposit films from either the resistor and capacitor business. Mike Teeter was working on the plasma discharges, looking at the possibility of some alternate display technique that might supply a cathode ray tubes for television. We were worrying about, was there a threat to our banner business out there? So, there was certainly lots and lots of high technology. Those are examples that came to my mind. Well, Jim, James H.P. Watson was doing work in superconductivity trying to make superconducting glass wires. And he had a, had the only way I can describe him is, have you seen the movie that involves Ichabod Crane? — Sleepy Hollow? — That is Walt Disney's adaptation of the Washington Irving, "Legend of Sleepy Hollow"?

Lassman:I haven't seen that.

Keck: Well, if you saw this caricature, his long face, pointy nose, and buckteeth, this was Dr. Norm Hindley. He was a theorist. A dear gentleman, but just not blessed with, with features that endeared him to many people. Brilliant theorist. He was working out the theory of superconductivity for Vycor nanoscale porous Vycor wires, glass wires. So, very advanced technologic work going on, but right down the hall you'd have a glass grinding shop. So, when you needed to make your laser rod, and polish the ends of the glass, you know, you went down to the crafts people and they'd polish the ends for you. So, it was a learning experience to be able to go down and get the crafts people to make the things you needed, and tell them why, and so on. And, frankly, I had described how in high school I made friends with the rural — the have-nots, and the haves, and so on, and I didn't have a bunch of problem in getting along in Corning, and getting things done that I needed done. There were oftentimes, well, in some of the early work, I needed a hole drilled in the center of a glass cylinder, a starting preform for some of the fibers. And so you go down, — the foremen of the craft shop were always a bit gruff and kind of wanted to put the young scientists in their place, and so on, and so on, but I had grown up knowing how to deal with that sort of behavior. And, gradually then, just through working with them in a nice fashion, got over it and befriended them. There was one fellow in the machine shop. I remember he built gorgeous gunstocks, just works of art. And, so, you'd go down and talk with him about his gunstock, and get him to telling you about the thing. So, if you showed an interest in their things then why they bent over backwards to elevate your project to a higher level. And so, you know, it's the normal interactions of other human beings that got your work done, and so on. Clearly there were people around that didn't know how to do that, and therefore didn't advance their projects as well as, well I was able to. Apparently. Well, clearly craftspeople existed. And you'd go down into the crafts end of things. It's a dirty environment. And, you know, but salt of the earth people and they would do every bit as good a job. And what they were good at as you tried to do in the high technology end of things. It was just a question of getting to know them and figuring out how to interact.

Lassman: Okay.

Keck: But, I had no problems. I must confess that some of the union rules got me in trouble a couple of times. We weren't supposed to do any wiring. You had to hire, or call an electrician if you needed to do that. And, there were a couple of times when I had grievances filed against me where I was taking the initiative of doing some wiring in the lab that I wasn't — it was simple enough. I was going to do it and not wait for somebody to show up two days later and do the thing. And, so, after the first one or two of those I learned to shut the door.

Lassman: And be much more careful.

Keck: Be much more careful about who knew what I was doing, and turn off the light if you could. And things like that. Well, by in large, but it's like everything in life. You learn the rules of whatever game you're playing. And once you learn the rules, then you can play the game much better.

Lassman: Okay. Well, this next one is, why don't we call it for now?

Keck: Okay.

On June 7, 1952 Ted married his loving wife Ruth Prochnow of Chicago, Illinois who survives. They celebrated 55 memorable years together. Many fond memories live on, of the trips they took together throughout the U.S. and Europe and the trips spent together as a family.

He was the devoted father of six children, Kathy (Tom) Weber of Ann Arbor, Karen (Rusty) Wales of Camas, Washington, Tom (Elizabeth) Aprill of Okemos, Michigan, Randy Aprill of Campbell, California, Steve (Mary) Aprill of Marietta, Georgia and Brian Aprill of Canton, Michigan. Ted had abundant energy and loved working in his yard and spending time at his lake home with family and friends. He served on many committees, including Church Council, Executive Board, Building and Grounds, Memorial Garden Committee, Worship and Spiritual Life, several Call Committees and served as a Minister of the Table and ushered for 35 years. Ted graduated in 1944 with honors from Ann Arbor High School. After serving in the U.S. Navy for two years, he graduated from the University of Michigan with a degree in Electrical Engineering.

Ted began working in the family business, A & L Battery & Electric Service at the age of ten. He purchased the business from his family in 1953 when the business had seven employees. While in business he served on many boards and committees including the AC/Delco and Weaver Manufacturing Co. National Advisory Councils. He also received several patents for his many inventions and contributions to his industry. Over the years, the business grew and flourished until October 1995 when he retired with over 200 employees. Ted always held his employees in his highest regard. Alan A. Aprill, 87, of Ann Arbor, Michigan died Tuesday, October 16, 2018 in his home. Born July 07, 1931 in Ann Arbor, he was the youngest son of Edwin and Mabel Tucker Aprill and the husband of the late Sharon Marie Berger. They were married in 1955 and raised 6 children, all girls: Sharolyn Lounsberry (Bob), Cynthia Dotson (Gary), Judith Shankland (Dan), Laurie Kugler, Michelle Masse (Jeff), Jennifer Mulligan (Tim). He was the grandfather to 11 grandchildren, and 2 great-grandchildren.

Born and raised on a centennial farm in Ann Arbor, Alan was an avid member of 4H and was proudest of his champion hogs. After graduating from Ann Arbor High, he worked at various jobs while still working with his father on the family farm. He was eager to embrace innovations in agriculture and was often on the leading edge when he added the responsibility of his own farm to that of his father's. He possessed the fierce independence of a true entrepreneur and thoroughly enjoyed his time (solace) in the fields. Farming was never an easy profession. He started and ran his own excavating business which he managed concurrently with farming. In his well-deserved retirement, he enjoyed collecting and refurbishing classic Massey Harris tractors. He rarely lost at euchre and loved reminiscing about the glory days.

Along with his parents, he was preceded in death by his brother, Edwin (JoAnn) and his grandson, Matthew Lounsberry. A private family service was held.

Notes for Joyce Marie Aprill:

Joyce Aprill Schlecht, a beloved wife, mother, grandmother, and friend, passed away Feb. 11, 2025 leaving behind a legacy of warmth, kindness, and joy. Born April 10, 1938 and raised just outside Ann Arbor, Joyce was the only child of a farmer father and a legally blind mother. Despite early hardships, including the loss of her father at age 9, Joyce embodied resilience and determination, inspired by her mother's strength and dedication. She was her family's guiding light and Matriarch. Her all-encompassing love was felt by all who knew her. The love and compassion that she had for others was instilled in her children and grandchildren. She taught her family to open their hearts and homes to everyone. Joyce's favorite times were spent with family and friends - a friend to her was anyone she came in contact with.

Joyce was the loving wife of George F. Schlecht Jr., her partner and the love of her life, with whom she shared 62 wonderful years of marriage. Their journey together began at Bendix Corporation, leading to a first date at the Pretzel Bell in Ann Arbor-a beginning to a lifetime of shared happiness and adventure. In their earlier years they enjoyed square dancing club, playing cards with friends, and playing volleyball with a group that became close lifelong friends.

Prior to having kids, Joyce worked at Bendix and later at Ann Arbor Rec & Ed, where her infectious smile and genuine interest in others earned her both respect and deep love. Her role with Rec and Ed remains a source of pride, as it brought her enduring friendships and a chance to touch many lives. She was a devoted member at Zion Lutheran Church where she both volunteered and worked. She was a proud member of her sorority, Beta Sigma Phi, where she remained active since 1989. Her involvement in these activities reflects her deep faith and her belief in the power of community. Her love of people and her remarkable ability to make everyone feel important was evident in every aspect of her life. Whether she was shopping, traveling, or spending time at her cottage, Joyce's joy was contagious. The cottage, in particular, was a special place for her as it brought together countless friends and family, creating cherished memories for everyone who visited. Joyce loved to travel and was always up for any adventure. Whether near or far, she embraced every opportunity to explore the world and create lasting memories. Family trips included the Rose Bowl, Hilton Head Island and ski trips in Colorado. Later, her adventures expanded to destinations such as Alaska, Scandinavia, Russia, and various parts of Europe.

A devoted supporter of her children and grandchildren, Joyce's presence was a constant at sporting events and activities. Nana could always be found cheering from the stands. She truly treasured being involved in all of the kid's lives and eagerly supported them in whatever they pursued. Joyce's children and grandchildren brought her immense joy and she was incredibly proud of each of them. Joyce's inherent resilience and determination demonstrated that nothing was going to stop her from living life to its fullest. Even when her first stroke made getting around more challenging physically, she continued to embrace life with enthusiasm. Joyce savored every moment of attending her grandchildren's activities, taking weekly trips to Target, Friday breakfast with friends, getting her nails done, regular sorority meetings and enjoying numerous other outings with friends and family. Joyce's legacy is defined by love, kindness, and happiness. Her memory will continue to inspire and warm the hearts of all who knew her. She will be deeply missed.

Joyce is survived by her loving husband George Schlecht Jr., children, Steven Schlecht and Amy Schlecht Pachera, her adored grandsons Nicholas, Zachary, Kaleb, and Ayden; and son-in-law Thomas Pachera. Joyce also leaves behind several nieces, nephews, grandnieces and grandnephews and countless special friends.

Visitations honoring Joyce's life will be held on Friday, February 21st, from 4pm to 6pm, and Saturday, February 22nd, from 10am to 11am with a service at 11am, at Zion Lutheran Church, 1501 W Liberty Rd, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48103.

Notes for Stephen Arnold (Steve) Wineteer:

Stephen Arnold Wineteer, Sr. LtCol USAF (Ret.) May 13, 1941 - Jan 28, 2018 of St. Peters, Missouri, died Sunday after a brief bout with advanced melanoma. He was 76. He is survived by his wife, Gerry; daughter, Stephanie, of Tampa, Florida; son Michael, of Northglenn, Colorado; son, Steve (Pam), of Lakewood, Colorado, stepdaughter, Teresa (Jeff), of St. Peters, Missouri, stepson, Paul (Dana), of Apex, North Carolina; plus, seven grand-children. Steve was born a fireman's boy, the only child to parents, Bill and Alma Wineteer, in San Diego, California, when the population of all of San Diego County was less than 300,000.

After graduating from Lincoln High School there, he went on to get a degree in Microbiology from San Diego State before joining the Air Force in 1962. He began his Air Force career in communications and spent eight years in that field stationed first at Burns Flat, Oklahoma, then in Pearl City, HI where he was sent in 1966 only seven years after "five-oh" came into the union. Before going to Vietnam, he was awarded the Expert Marksmanship medal which he explained like this: "The guy shooting next to me was a MSgt and was a Security Policeman. The maximum score you could obtain was 70. My target was scored and was 72. He got a 50. This meant that he hit my target at least twice and missed his at least 20 times. I told him that if we came under attack I was not counting on him to defend me." Steve was in Vietnam during the Tet Offensive as well as two other battle campaigns. He was later awarded the U.S. Navy Unit Commendation medal for support of Scope Control which was the recovery of Apollo space capsules as they landed in the ocean. His unit provided all communications from the aircraft carrier to the outside world.

In 1970 still in the Air Force, Steve took an opportunity to move into the computer field at the dawn of the information age. His work environment in the early 1970s had keypunch machines, punched cards, removable disk drives the size of washing machines and computers that literally filled vast rooms - all of which would now be dwarfed by the storage, speed and processing power of your cell phone. He began in COBOL applications and moved into mainframe Systems Programming back when that meant building many system functionalities from scratch. One of his prouder achievements was his multi-year contribution to the 552nd AWAC Wing at Tinker AFB in Oklahoma. He and his family were at the ribbon-cutting of the first E3 in 1977. Steve retired from the Air Force in 1983 and as the date approached, his phone seemed like it would never stop ringing with people calling to offer him jobs literally all over the world. In 1983, there were not many people with 13 years of computer experience, let alone folks that experienced with a work ethic like his. He decided on First National Bank of Omaha so he could stay close to his children who were still in school. He worked there for about a decade much of which was time filled with long hours and weekends on the job. He told a story of once marching around his floor of the bank with his Systems cohorts banging on things to make noise while they all hooted and hollered. They were about to enter the first weekend that none of them had to be in the office in nearly two full years. After FNBO, he went to work at First Data Resources in Omaha where he spent many more years. In the mid-1980s, he also began teaching night computer courses at Iowa Western Community College which he did for a decade. His son, Steve cannot count the number of folks he's met who've said to him "You're Steve Wineteer's son? He taught me Assembler Language." or another mainframe class. "It was at IWCC that I really got a grasp of how well Pop knew his trade. I attended school there myself and was struggling with a COBOL dump one afternoon. He happened into the lab and I told him what I was doing and tried to show him my source code. He flipped through the pages of my printout to the dump itself and read the hexadecimal as if it were English. 'There's your problem right there.' and then took me to the exact instruction I had coded wrong." (In case you're not a techie, that's impressive and extremely rare.)

Steve's son, Michael and a high school friend, Paul were talking in the spring of 1987 and Paul said his mom had just told him everyone she had dated recently had turned out to be less than ideal. Michael said "My dad is having the same problem." They set Steve and Gerry up for a blind date and they eventually married in August, 1989. In their years together they traveled the world and reveled in the company of their blended family any time they could. Steve was a believer in all people's potential and carried no prejudice. When he went to Officer Training in Mississippi in 1962, he took his clothes to a laundromat one day and it had a sign out front that read "Whites Only." Concerned, he wondered to himself "Where am I going to wash my colored clothes?" A fellow officer says "I arrived at Offutt AFB at a time when the work was new and exciting but the climate for Blacks in the military was challenging, at best. Even worse were the prospects for Black officers, there just were not many of us in 1974 so I had no role models. But there was Steve! Out of nowhere, I got a new job, a new boss and a mentor -- Steve. He showed me the ropes, explained the promotion system to me and protected me while I gained my 'sea legs'. And, for no apparent reason than he was a caring and honest guy. I grew to trust and depend on him and we became lifelong friends. Every interaction with me was selfless and endearing. Even later as I progressed in my career, I would receive a call out of the blue from Steve stating that he was in my corner. He was the BEST human being I have ever met!" Steve had close friends; both women and men, of races and sexual preferences different from his own. To him, these things were non-issues. Steve loved to laugh and enjoyed - and often made - a sarcastic wisecrack and loved to tell or listen to funny stories. In the 1970s, he would often catch one of his kids unaware and tickle them until they were out of breath from laughing and he watched the Fat Albert Show with his young children every Saturday. After the disgrace at the end of Bill Cosby's career, his son was talking to him about a bit that Cosby had done and Steve wistfully thought back and said "We had fun, didn't we?" "Yeah, Pop. We did."

Funeral Services will be Friday February 2, 10am, at Joy Community Church, 810 Westwood Industrial Park Dr St Charles, Missouri 63304. Memorial donations may be made to American Cancer Society, American Heart Association, and Alzheimer's Association.

She married William Edgar Flesch. He was born 08 Mar 1938.

Notes for Sharon Ann Rapp:

Sharon Ann (Rapp) Flesch, 66, of Winona died in peace Dec. 25, 2009, at home with her family at her side after more than five years of courageously battling cancer. Sharon was born July 19, 1943, to Victor and Ruth (Fischer) Rapp in Rockville, Missouri. She was baptized, confirmed, and married to William Flesch at Zion Lutheran Church in Rockville.

A graduate of Concordia University, Seward, Nebraska, Sharon did graduate study at Valparaiso University and early childhood education at Winona State University. She taught elementary grades at Trinity Lutheran School, Hoffman, Illinois; Holy Cross Lutheran School, Collinsville, Illinois; and Bunn Elementary School, Springfield, Illinois, before coming to Winona in 1973. In 1980, she led a committee with members from the Winona community and the congregation of Redeemer Lutheran in the organizing of Redeemer Lutheran Preschool, and served as its director and a teacher for 25 years.

She had a gift in relating to children, using play and interactive activities as venues for learning experiences. Students from Winona Senior High's Community Service Learning class, many of whom were former preschool students, came back to volunteer with her in the classroom. With practicum students and student teachers from Winona State University and Saint Mary's University in the preschool classroom, Sharon served not only children but mentored college students in their career choice.

Sharon was also on faculty with the Lutheran Bible Institute of Minneapolis, conducting seminars, "Kids in the Book," with elementary-age children in churches in the Midwest, California and Montana. As a Christian, Sharon's priority in a legacy to both her children and grandchildren was passing a living faith on to them. She valued the relationships of life, especially family relationships. Always a giving person, she will be remembered for the many things she did in expressing her love for her family.

Sharon will be deeply missed by her husband of 41 years and their four children, Travis (Carol) Flesch, Aurora, Illinois, Sarah (Mike) Haines, Minnesota City, Minnesota, Eric (Melissa) Flesch, Robbinsdale, Minnesota, and Dietrich (Amanda) Flesch, Winona; six grandchildren, Ashlen, Ben, Nathan, Zoe, Leah, and Sophia; her mother Ruth Rapp, Appleton City, Missouri; sister Geraldine (Steve) Wineteer, Omaha, Nebraska.; brothers Gaylen (Caroline) Rapp, St. Louis, Missouri, and Paul (Paulette) Rapp, Rockville, Missouri.; together with nieces, nephews, aunts, uncles, and cousins. Sharon was preceded in death by her father, Victor Rapp.

A member of St. Martin's Lutheran Church, Winona, she participated in Women In Mission. Sharon will be buried from Central Lutheran Church with Pastor Michelle Rem officiating.

Visitation will be held from 4 to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Fawcett-Junker Funeral Home, with a memorial service at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at Central Lutheran Church. A private family interment in Woodlawn Cemetery will follow the noon luncheon served in Grace Hall. The family expresses deep appreciation to the many who have remembered Sharon in prayers for healing, cards and support given, to Pastor Kettner of St. Martin's Church and Pastor Rem of Central Lutheran for their many visits, Dr. Mary Michener, Dr. Kwong, chemo nurses Angie Seberg and Kara Cafferty of Winona Health, and the staff of Winona Hospice Services that made it possible for Sharon to remain at home until her death. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests memorials directed to Redeemer Lutheran Preschool Scholarship Fund in Winona, Zion Lutheran School in Rockville, Missouri, or a charity of one's choice.

FLOWEREE - Stanley Gordon Whitehorn, 85, a Flowree farmer, died of natural causes Tuesday at a Great Falls assisted-living facility. Stan is survived by his wife, Patsy Yvonne Jourdonais Whitehorn; daughters Becky Jourdonais and Vicki (Jerry) Peterson, both of Great Falls, and Wendy Whitehorn (David Brastrup) of Dutton; sons Earl Whitehorn of Flowree and Brian Whitehorn of Great Falls; sisters Elva Gessaman of Polson, and Iris Halvorsen of Great Falls; a brother, Wayne Whitehorn of Flowree; and five grandchildren. Stan was born August 13, 1924, in Great Falls. He was raised on the family farm in Flowree, and graduated from Fort Benton High School. He married Patsy Yvonne Jourdonais in Great Falls in 1956.

A lifelong farmer, Stan was raised on the farm his parents homesteaded in 1916, actively participating in farm activities into his 80s. He was a hardworking man, dutifully dedicated to the success of Whitehorn Farms, incorporated in 1961 with his brothers Wallace and Wayne. Stan would venture from the farm every 20 years or so. Shortly after high school, he and his sister Elva took a train trip to San Diego, meeting up with family to then travel on to Mexico before returning to the farm via Canada. To celebrate their 25th anniversary, he and Patsy had a fantasy vacation in Kauai, Hawaii. In 2006, they celebrated their 50th anniversary in Great Falls with family.

From the late 1950s until the mid-1970s, while his children were attending school there, Stan served on the school board of Benton Lake School, often as the chairman. He was also a Farm Bureau member for a number of years, and member of the Montana Grain Growers. He loved creating things, whether a needed tool for the farm or furnishings for the house, he was a true handyman. He was also very interested in genealogy. He was preceded in death by his brother, Wallace Whitehorn; sisters Virginia Weiderhold, Clara Walker and Bernice Skaw; and his parents, Chester and Georgia Whitehorn.

Visitation is 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today at Croxford Funeral Home. His funeral is 3 p.m. Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church in Great Falls, followed by a reception. Private family burial will take place at the family farm. Memorials in his name are suggested to the Montana Veterans Memorial, P.O. Box 3524, Great Falls, MT 59403; or to a charity of the donor's choice.

Noel was born January 7, 1967 in Wautoma to the late Forest Averd and Elizabeth Pearl (Smith) Wilcox. Noel was always proud of the fact that she was the New Year's Baby and liked to tell everyone she was "The First Noel".

Although Noel had completed twelfth grade in 1986, she was allowed to remain in school until she turned 21 and she formally graduated from Wautoma High School in 1988. Noel participated in Special Olympics, was a member of the choir at Grace United Methodist Church, volunteered for Habitat for Humanity and later did volunteer work at the Waushara County Historical Society for 10+ years doing typing, filing and going through old court records. She enjoyed going out to eat with her parents and family and would usually see a friend or someone she knew and would stop to chat with them. To Noel there were no strangers, just people she hadn't met yet.

Noel loved listening to music, singing Karaoke, especially The Rose, watching The Wizard of Oz and dancing. She looked forward to the annual Special Industries holiday parties where she could dance the night away with her friends and especially enjoyed getting dressed up for the Special Needs Prom where she had the honor of being chosen as the Queen twice. She was adept at remembering names, people and their relationships. She loved keeping in touch with everyone and making them feel better by making a phone call or sending out letters and cards and the mailman always said Noel was his best customer.

Robert Joseph VOSPER,

Defendant-Appellant.

No.

73-2850.

United States Court of Appeals, Fifth Circuit.

May

John G. O'Brien, Pensacola, Florida. (Court-appointed), for defendant-appellant.

William H. Stafford, Jr., U.S. Atty., Robert L. Crongeyer, Jr., Nick P. Geeker, Asst. U.S. Attys., Pensacola, Florida, for plaintiff-appellee.

JOHN R. BROWN, Chief Judge:

Robert Joseph Vosper was convicted by a jury of robbing the West Pensacola Bank of $5,751.00. He claims error in both the actions of the trial judge and the admission of evidence offered by the government. Since we hold that two pieces of testimony should not have been admitted, we reverse and remand for a new trial. The robbery of the West Pensacola Bank on January 21, 1972 has to be one of the wierdest ever executed. One man, Blanton Lynn, walked into the bank around one o'clock in the afternoon. He paused at a table to write a holdup note on a deposit slip and then passed it with a bag to the teller, demanding that she put the money in the bag. His gestures toward his pocket made her fear that he was armed and she quickly complied. The alarm was rung as Lynn turned to go but he walked out of the bank unimpeded. On the street, Lynn was followed closely for several blocks by the bank security guard and the head teller until he reached a parked car in the alleyway behind a nearby service station. Both bank employees watched him climb into the open trunk of the waiting car. They observed a young woman, who turned out to be Kim Vosper, the wife of the appellant, close the trunk lid and watched her get into the car.

The bank employees maintained their vigil from both ends of the alley while the police converged on the adjacent streets. As the car was surrounded, policemen began to attempt to convince Mrs. Vosper to unlock the trunk. Communications were made difficult by her own resistance and that of the German Shepherd dog sitting on the seat of the car beside her. Still surveying the now-raucous scene, the head teller noticed a neatly-dressed man in a blue suit. He remembered seeing the same man walk into the alley when the robber was climbing into the trunk and now he observed him standing in the crowd straining to see the car. At the teller's suggestion the deputy sheriff questioned the man who replied that his name was Robert Vosper and he was just trying to see what was going on in his car.

Vosper was searched and taken to the car where he asked his wife for the trunk key and the police opened the turtle back. Inside were Blanton Lynn, the money, the holdup note and a can of mace. Kim Vosper and Blanton Lynn were tried and convicted for conspiring and participating in the commission of this robbery. Robert Vosper was found incompetent to stand trial with them and has been confined in the Medical Center for Federal Prisoners at Springfield, Missouri during the interim.

At his trial Vosper's counsel offered a dual defense, arguing first that he was innocent or, alternatively, if he did participate in the robbery, he was incapable of forming the requisite intent to commit the crime because he was afflicted with schizophrenia. Rejecting both defenses, the jury found Vosper guilty on each count.<sup>1</sup> He was sentenced to five years for conspiracy and twenty years for participating in the robbery to be served concurrently.

* Evidence of Weapons - As the first error appellant argues that the trial judge improperly admitted testimony showing that Vosper possessed or had access to a hand gun.<sup>2</sup> Such testimony, Vosper argues, is irrelevant to the crime with which Vosper is charged because there is no evidence that either he or Blanton Lynn ever used a gun during the bank robbery and the nature of the crime itself carries no necessary implication that a gun may have been involved. Its only function was, therefore, to prejudice the appellant. The Trial Court decided that, despite the lack of evidence relating the gun and gun-connected materials found in the car to the particular facts of the bank robbery, the appellant was charged with a crime in which a teller was intimidated with suggestions of violence and the availability of guns was therefore relevant.

We agree that such testimony was relevant. Vosper was charged with conspiracy to commit a robbery that gave the appearance of involving a weapon. Testimony of Vosper's relation to the guns and that guns were available to him since they were in his own automobile which could be used in the commission of such a crime is certainly pertinent.<sup>3</sup>

Questions By The Trial Judge To The Witness

After a close examination of the record, we reject appellant's second claim that the trial judge exceeded the bounds of impartiality by his questioning of the chief witness for the government, Blanton Lynn, the perpetrator of the robberies and the Vospers' traveling companion. Lynn was the only witness who could directly link Vosper to the crimes. On the stand he followed the not-unfamiliar pattern of relating a story that was inconsistent with the one he had told to an agent shortly after his arrest. The trial judge questioned Lynn in an attempt to account for this inconsistency and subsequently had him relate with greater particularity the events surrounding the robbery and the degree to which the Vospers were involved. At one point the Judge cautioned Lynn that he was under oath and subject to penalties for perjury. Considering the broad powers of a federal District Judge to probe into the substance of the testimony to cull the essential issues for the jury,<sup>4</sup> and his province actively to elicit testimony with appropriate fair comment thereafter on the weight of the evidence,<sup>5</sup> we do not think the Judge exceeded the proper bounds either in the number of questions or their tone as partisan inquiry registering unbelief. As to the Judge's cautionary warning that Lynn was under oath,<sup>6</sup> we think he fairly balanced the interests of all. It is entirely proper-- and often times it is imperative-- that a witness be cautioned about the consequences of an oath, just as it is, say, in warning a non-party witness concerning his right to claim the Fifth Amendment privilege. It has to be done with care so that it cannot be interpreted as the Judge's prejudgment or, in words or tone, as implying an attempt to pressure the witness into rescinding his in-court testimony. The trial judge did not transgress that line.

The Evidence Of Prior Robberies

The appellant next complains of the admission of evidence placing him near the scene of a prior robbery. The government witness testified that on the day preceding the West Pensacola Bank holdup, Lynn had robbed a finance company in Pensacola and Robert Vosper was seen approximately a block and a half from the robbery. The similarity of the two events was, so the government argued, to negate Vosper's claim of innocence with coincidences that were just too coincidental. The trial judge, conscious of the difficulties posed by admitting the testimony regarding the prior West Pensacola robbery, sounded a precautionary word to the jury that it was to consider the evidence for the limited purpose of showing Vosper's intent in the West Pensacola Bank robbery alone. The determination of when evidence of other crimes should be admitted is a difficult one for a trial judge. The general exclusionary rule, i.e., that evidence of a collateral offense should never be permitted as substantive evidence of another crime for fear the jury may find guilt from bad character,<sup>7</sup> is easy to state, but presents real hazards that conviction may come from bad reputation.<sup>8</sup>

Of course one proper use is to show that the accused did the act intentionally, that is not inadvertently, accidentally, or out of carelessness. Thus, we have permitted the admission of testimony that a defendant accused of distributing cocaine passed a small amount of the drug to a government agent 20 days after the day of the charged offense.<sup>9</sup>

Even though we recognize that the trial judge has wide discretion<sup>10</sup> and that he was extremely cautious in undertaking to use it here, we think that the evidence was precipitously either on, or probably over, the line of exclusion. When evidence of other crimes is offered 'It must be shown that the prior acts are similar, at least sufficiently so to allow for some probative value.'<sup>11</sup> In some ways this is fulfilled here. Vosper in Pensacola just as in West Pensacola was within a short distance of an area where a bank robbery was taking place. But where in West Pensacola there was sufficient evidence to warrant the jury inference that he was serving as lookout in this wierdly executed robbery<sup>12</sup> or to connect him with it in a meaningful way, in Pensacola there is little, save his presence (and Lynn as the robber thereto), to show that he had any responsibility for or participation in the Pensacola incident and the dangers of prejudice from this line of questioning outweighed the value of the admission of such evidence.<sup>13</sup> The fact that it was a robbery of a savings and loan office by the same robber (Lynn) and with no other action by Vosper-- save being in the general vicinity-- created the hazard of prejudice not only that Vosper was a law breaker, but that he ran with other such law breakers. This error cannot be considered as harmless error so a new trial is called for.

Testimony Of The FBI Agent

Appellant's fourth and we think most important attack concerns the testimony of an FBI agent, Payne, that counsel claims was highly prejudicial. Agent Payne was called by the government on its case-in-chief and related seeing the Vospers and Blanton Lynn together while he had a house in Ft. Lauderdale under surveillance approximately five weeks before the West Pensacola robbery. Up to this point, no objection was urged. The problem arose-- as do most-- with the asking of the unnecessary question and the damage was done in this case when Agent Payne replied:

A. We were conducting the surveillance because there had been a series of bank robberies in Fort Lauderdale and we had received in our investigation some information that a man living at this address on West Las Olas Boulevard was suspected of being a bank robber and was in fact planning to leave on the day that we conducted the surveillance, was planning to leave Fort Lauderdale to go to New Orleans, where it was anticipated that they would conduct a bank robbery. The purpose of our investigation--Again conscious that the government was approaching, if it did not already go beyond, the brink, the Judge instructed the jury to disregard anything beyond the fact that Payne saw the trio together. The jury was not to consider the reasons for the surveillance 'or any other matters going into suspicion about other bank robberies or anything else.' The efforts of the government to justify the question and its expectable response will not do. Of course, the government was quite right that Payne's testimony of identification was relevant as to a common scheme or motive. It showed close-prior association between Lynn and Vosper-- a fact which, if credited, destroys the fishy story that in flight from the West Pensacola robbery, Lynn just happened on the Vosper turtle back as his port of haven.

Payne's testimony of what he saw was probative, relevant and perfectly admissible. But the damage, unrelated to what was seen, came from why Payne was looking. This not only linked Lynn and Vosper together but in doing so pointed the finger of suspicion to Vosper (and Lynn) as persons reported or thought to be engaging in other robberies. It was proof of community reputation that had added credence because the community's suspicions came from law enforcement officers. We approach the question mindful that a clear instruction not to consider evidence by the trial judge generally eliminates any reversible error.<sup>14</sup> But we have in the past reversed such cases where the evidence conveyed to the jury left an indelible and highly prejudicial effect.<sup>15</sup> Inevitably, where the admission of evidence becomes so prejudicial as to compel another trial is determined on a case by case basis.<sup>16</sup> On that approach, the error was gross and the harm inescapable. If, as the government hardly supposed it could do in this fashion, it was offered to prove another crime or crimes, it was technically deficient under the 'plain, clear and conclusive' test required before evidence of collateral crimes may be used.<sup>17</sup> More likely it was a spur of the moment decision for which time and reflection offered no adequate justification. So it comes down to harmful reputation of partners in crime-- the same kind of evidence.<sup>18</sup>

18 U.S.C. 2113(a)

Bank robbery and incidental crimes

(a) Whoever, by force and violence, or by intimidation, takes, or attempts to take, from the person or presence of another any property or money or any other thing of value belonging to, or in the care, custody, control, management, or possession of, any bank, or any savings and loan association; or Whoever enters or attempts to enter any bank, or any savings and loan association, or any building used in whole or in part as a bank, or as a savings and loan association, with intent to commit in such bank, or in such savings and loan association, or building, or part thereof, so used, any felony affecting such bank or such savings and loan association and in violation of any statute of the United States, or any larceny-- Shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than twenty years, or both. The government introduced a receipt for a Smith and Wesson pistol purchased by Kim Vosper in 1969 found in the glove compartment of the Vosper car. In addition, some testimony was offered to show that at the time this gun was purchased Kim Vosper was accompanied by a man who resembled her husband. The Court also admitted into evidence a loaded 32 caliber Browning pistol found in the console between the two front bucket seats and a shipping carton for a 38 caliber Smith and Wesson revolver found in the car at the time of the arrest. In a similar manner, it is much like the Second Circuit's approval of the admission of evidence that the defendants possessed many more guns at the time of arrest than the number of firearms that were actually used in the bank robbery. 'Direct evidence of such possession would have been relevant to establish opportunity or preparation to commit the crime charged * * *'.

James was born December 10, 1925 in Detroit, Michigan, son of the late Anthony T. Hengstebeck and the late Clara (nee: Egeler) Hengstebeck. James was raised in Detroit and graduated from St. Rose Catholic High School. Following high school, Jim worked for WXYZ Radio, and enjoyed the special honor of working on the Lone Ranger radio show while attending the University of Detroit. During the Korean War, James was called to serve his country and did so in the United States Army where he achieved the rank of Sergeant. After receiving an honorable discharge and the Korean Service Medal, along with Bronze Campaign Stars, James returned home to Detroit.

Surrounded by many family members, all of whom worked for Ford Motors, Jim decided to join the ranks at Ford where he worked for many years and eventually rose to a Supervisory position in final assembly. When Jim was not working, he enjoyed bowling, golfing, and especially playing cards. Jim's favorite game of all was poker. He and his wife enjoyed their many trips to Las Vegas... Jim always trying his hand at "Lady Luck". Later in life, Jim and his wife spent time traveling to visit their children and family members in Seattle, Arizona, and California. Notes for David Michael Hengstebeck:

David "Dave" Michael Hengstebeck, age 56, of Warren, Michigan passed away on Wednesday, October 19, 2022. Our brother, uncle and dear friend Dave was a very special and unique person. Those that knew him would agree that he was a sensitive and loving person, who would not hurt a soul. All of his sisters would say "He beats to a different drum" and that he did. Literally. But I guess this would happen to you too, if you were the youngest male sibling with four older sisters! Dave loved his family and friends, especially his long-time partner Vicki, who he knew and loved deeply for over 35 years.

In his younger years, Dave liked biking and in Jr. High school, he was a wrestler. During the latter part of his working career, he was a systems administrator who liked working with computers and learning new technologies. Dave enjoyed nature, loved astronomy, and most of all had a passion for music. He was a drummer; and a very good one, who played in several bands in his life. His love of music was in his DNA. It was inherited from his father, the late Jim Hengstebeck, who also loved music, was a tap dancer and performed in radio, and music shows.

Dave, we are all very sad that you fell ill and left us so soon, but we are heartened by the fact that you are now in the company of other dearly departed family members and friends. We all know that Dave would not like a long, drawn-out eulogy ... so Dave, goodbye, we all love you and we will miss you and we'll see you on the other side.

Dave was the loving brother of Julie (Mark) Mitman, Mary Fast, Jeanne (Radim) Michaels, and Karen (Robert) Kasprzyk. Cherished uncle of Christy, Nick, Ryan, Lauren, and Danielle. Special friend of Vicki Menzies. He was predeceased by his loving parents, James and Teresa Hengstebeck.

A Memorial Visitation for Dave will be held on Saturday, October 29th from 2-7pm with a Memorial Service at 5:30pm at the D.S. Temrowski & Sons Funeral Home, 30009 Hoover Road, Warren, Michigan. In lieu of flowers, memorial donations in Dave's name are appreciated to the Mullett Lake Preservation Society.

Marriage Notes for Alice Klink and Eugene Wahl:

St. Mary's Catholic Church, was the setting for the wedding ceremony at 10 a.m. Saturday May 26, 1962 uniting Alice Klink and Eugene Wahl, with the Rev. Fr. Francis Maliszewski officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Klink, Sr.

During the Mass, "Panis Angelicus" was sung as a duet by Mrs. Joseph Marzec and Mrs. John Thomson. For her wedding the bride wore a floor-length gown of sheer nylon over taffeta and lace featuring floating panels trimmed with appliques of lace, sequins and pearls. The hooped skirt terminated in a chapel-length train. Her lace trimmed tiered veil of French illusion was held in place with a pill box, headpiece of pearls and sequins. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white roses, centered with a corsage of white carnations which she later removed to pin to her going away suit with two-piece black costume trimmed with white.

Rosemary Calberone of Grass Lake served as maid of-honor. She wore a waltz-length gown of pink taffeta styled with a bustle at the back of the fully gathered skirt. A matching crown-shape tiara and a cascade bouquet of white carnations with pink tinted centers completed her ensemble. The bride's sister, Esther, in aqua, the bridegroom's sister Joan, in mint green, and Dona Verschaeve of Grass Lake, in yellow, served as-bridesmaids. Their gowns were styled like that of the maid of honor and their bouquets were of white carnations with tinted centers matching the color of their gowns. Shelly Curtis, a cousin of the bridegroom, was dressed in white and wore a picture hat for her role as flower-girl and David Klink, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wahl, was assisted by Ralph Lammers of Grass Lake, as best man. Ushers were Fred Klink, Jr., brother of-the bride, Daniel Wahl, brother of the bridegroom, and James Schittenhelm of Grass Lake. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Klink wore a pink lace jacket dress with white accessories and a corsage of white roses. The bridegroom's mother, in a two-piece dress of blue lace over taffeta, wore matching accessories. Her corsage matched that of the bride's mother. The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Amos Curtis of Manchester, wearing a black dress trimmed with, white, had a corsage of white carnations.

At a reception for 375 guests held later at the home of the bride's parents, those who assisted included Mrs. Frank Klobuchar who served as hostess; Virginia LeVan, in charge of the guest book; Mrs. Kenneth Platt who cut the bridegroom's cake; Mrs. Duane Walz who cut the bride's cake and Mrs. Fred Klink, Jr., assisted by Alan LeVan, who Served punch. The Rehearsal dinner was given Friday evening by the bridegroom's parents. When they return from a week's northern wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 15710 Waterloo Rd., in Waterloo Village. The bride is a graduate of Chelsea High school and is employed at Blaess Elevator Co. The bridegroom, a graduate of Grass Lake High School, is employed at Cedar Knoll Rest Home at Grass Lake.

Notes for Warren Everett (Buzz) Stroth:

Warren Everett "Buzz" Stroth, beloved husband, father, brother and Marine, laid down his earthly burdens on 19 March 2018 at the age of 84, leaving grieving family members here, but joining cherished family who have gone on before. Born the fourth of six siblings on 24 July, 1933 to Walter Elmer Stroth and Ada Smith Cook Stroth at Blackfork, Ohio, Buzz earned his nickname when his (slightly) older sisters had trouble pronouncing the word "brother." He was a child during the Depression and World War II, and had many cherished stories from the time. When he was a young boy, they were having a contest at the Blackfork store for 100 pounds of flour, which was very hard to get. To win, you had to guess the number of squares in a picture. He thought it looked like there were three, but the person who recorded the guess thought he was playing a trick on Buzz and wrote down 3000. Three thousand it was, and Buzz wheeled off the 100 pounds of flour with everybody asking for a little of it!

In 1953, Buzz proudly enlisted in the Marine Corps in Portsmouth and shipped off to step on the infamous yellow footprints of Parris Island. After graduating with Platoon 339, and becoming a communications technician, he joined the crew of USS Mount Olympus (AGC-8) and fondly remembered dark, starry nights on the flight deck, watching the ship's mast sway back and forth and wishing they could go ashore visit the lights he could see on the horizon. In 1961, his tour of duty was complete and he returned to Blackfork and subsequently worked at brick plants in Oak Hill and Jackson, and for over 35 years with Waterloo Coal. He also met and after a long courtship, married his lifelong love and companion, Sylvia (Lawson) Stroth, who misses him dearly. Together, they faced life's challenges while enjoying yard sales and going to flea markets. He loved the thrill of the hunt, and finding a great bargain would never cease to bring a big smile to his face. He thoroughly enjoyed the company of daughters Rita (Carl) Evans of Franklin Furnace and Lynn Stroth (Randy Wheeler) of the US Navy in Mechanicsville MD, who also carry on his memory. Also left to remember are two grandchildren, Priscilla Evans Davis and Joshua Evans and five great-grandchildren, Sean, Ryleigh and Liam Davis as well as Carson and Peyton Evans.

He is also survived by his little sister, Marian Frances "Francie" Stroth of Jackson, who will dearly miss his wise advice, especially concerning anything mechanical, and their discussions of the news of the day.

In addition to his parents, he is predeceased by his brother, Clarence Cook, and his sisters, Wilma Jean Everman, Anna Lee Rutledge and Betty Lou Powell. Numerous nieces and nephews survive. Among these, in recent years, a special bond has been developed with Cyndee Everman, and Douglas and Kristen Everman.

Buzz thoroughly enjoyed anything to do with cars, especially those from the 30s, 40s and 50s. He could identify any make and model from the picture and had a personal story about most of them, remembered in sharp detail. He enjoyed fixing and taking care of his vehicles, keeping them in pristine condition. Buzz was faithful in rooting for Jackson Ironmen, Oak Hill Oaks and Ohio State football teams in the fall, and the Cincinnati Reds in the spring. He was never far from his pets, and over the years, he loved many cats and dogs. His beloved pup, Star, also grieves the loss of his dad.

Calling hours will be held on Friday, March 23 from 2 p.m.- 8 p.m. at the Mayhew-Brown Funeral Home. A funeral service will be on Saturday, March 24 at 1 p.m. at the funeral home with Rev. Herman Stewart and Pastor Cline Rawlins officiating. Burial to follow at Fairmount Cemetery. Arrangements are under the direction of the Mayhew-Brown Funeral Home in Jackson.

Mike was born in Amery, Wisconsin, on May 9, 1950, to Don and Pearl (Hecht) Walsh. They also spent many enjoyable hours with family and friends at their lake home on Church Pine. Mike and Julie loved to travel and attend sporting events. Paul Douglas Ponto was born February 8, 1957 to Raymond and Esther Ponto in Mora, MN and died January 7, 2015 in Minneapolis Minnesota at the age of 57. Paul attended Mora schools and graduated in the class of 1975. A kind, generous and gentle soul, Paul hit some rough patches in life, but through hard work was able to come out the other side to be the same person he was. A beloved son, brother, uncle and friend, he enjoyed cooking, gardening and figuring out new and innovative ways to make and do things. Paul was truly a nature lover and outdoorsman. He traveled to the Boundary Waters a number of times where he spent days canoeing the lakes and portaging across the land. The nights around the campfire were a time to relax, recount the day and enjoy the feeling nature brings. He had a large garden and was exceptional at starting heritage tomato plants to give away to others.

As a cook, he was always looking for new and creative ways to play with food. He could always be counted on to say "hey-why don't you try this . . . ?" However, one of the few dishes he never changed was the family recipe for Holesmush. It remained one of his favorites and during the tomato season it was a regular meal for him. Paul also loved homemade popcorn balls. A Christmas time tradition, Paul knew the recipe by heart and could tell even across the kitchen when the temperature for the syrup was just right for making them. Always handy and a kid at heart, Paul built a farmstead including a silo, barn and even realistic trucks out of scraps of wood in his spare time. He loved to work with his hands and in the later years made a number of signs for family members that will be cherished for years to come.

Paul was thoughtful, caring and always willing to help out any one or in any way he could. He enjoyed the years he was able to make potato sausage as part of the Grasston Lions. His nieces, nephews and former neighbors remember him playing Santa Claus and the way his eyes twinkled as he handed out presents. And he always believed in giving people second chances. As a young man, Paul worked at Tobies in Mora where he began as a dishwasher and worked his way up to chef. He liked when he was able to be out in the dining room to slice prime rib for the customers. It gave him joy to see people enjoying what he had made.

Paul proudly served in the US Marine Corps from August 1977 to October 1978 when he was Honorably Discharged. During this time he completed Bootcamp in San Diego, CA and then was sent to Okinawa, Japan to guard the base there. Upon returning to Mora, he drove milk truck, returned to cooking and eventually began work at Grasston Mill. First working inside the mill and then driving the grain truck.

Paul was preceded in death by his parents, Raymond and Esther Ponto. He is survived by his siblings, brother Larry (Sue) Ponto of Ogilvie, Minnesota; his sisters Marion (Gary A.) Johnson of St. Michael Minnesota, Wanda (Sandy Sackter) Ponto-Sackter of Eagan Minnesota and Ann (Gary M.) Johnson of Richfield Minnesota. Special friend Marci Folk and his constant companions, Spuds and Buddy. As well as many nieces, nephews, uncle and many cousins.

Services will be held at 11:00 A.M. on Monday, January 12, 2015 at Dresser-Methven Funeral Home in Mora Minnesota with Rev. Marc Frieberg presiding. Music is being provided by Betty Smith. Visitation will be on Sunday, January 11, 2015 from 3 until 5 P.M. at the funeral home as well as one hour prior to the service. Pallbearers are Randy Ponto, Beth Johnson, Allison Sackter, Eric Johnson, Patrick Johnson and Andrea Johnson. Internment will be at the Grasston Union Cemetery. Military honors are being provided by Mora American Legion Post 201. Memorials can be sent to the Pine County Veteran Services Offices, 1602 Hwy 23 N, Sandstone MN 55072 in Paul's name. The family would like to thank the local First Responders as well as the staffs at Kanabec County Hospital and Abbott Northwestern for their efforts and kindness.

Notes for Richard C. (Dick) Waidelich:

Richard C. "Dick" Waidelich, age 83, of Marshall died Monday, May 15, 2006 at Tendercare of Marshall. He was born on August 11, 1922, in Marshall to Adolph and Bertha (Rastatt) Waidelich. Richard was self-employed as a contractor for most of his life. He enjoyed woodworking, hunting, farming, and being a Marshall sports fan. But most of all, he enjoyed his family. He was a U.S. Marine during World War II, and was stationed on Okinawa, Guadalcanal, Australia, and New Zealand. Richard was a member of Marshall Electric Light and Water Board for 25 years.

He married Valdene Eisenhauer on February 10, 1945. Surviving are his wife Valdene, his daughter Beth (Robert) Meyer, his grandchildren Melissa (Jason) Karaba, Ryan (Heather) Meyer, his great-grandchildren Gavin and Ava Karaba, and Jacob Meyer. Richard was the 8th born of 11 children. All of his siblings preceded him in death.

A memorial service to celebrate Dick's life will be held at 2:30P.M. on Friday, May 19, at Marshall United Methodist Church where he had been an active member for 56 years. Arrangements are by Craig K. Kempf Funeral Home. Memorials may be directed to the Marshall Fountain Clinic or the United Methodist Church. Assistance with memorials is available at Kempf Funeral Home.

Notes for Valdene J. Eisenhauer:

Valdene J. Waidelich, 93, of Marshall, died at Oaklawn Hospital on Wednesday evening, September 13, 2017. Val was born on July 10, 1924 in Marshall to Claude M. and Mildred (Pryer) Eisenhauer. She has made Marshall her home for her whole life. Val graduated from Marshall High School in 1941. She knew Richard "Dick" Waidelich from the time she was in 4th grade. Dick constantly hung around their house as a young man. He finally captured her heart and they were married on February 10, 1945 in San Diego California just prior to Dick shipping out with his U.S. Marine Battalion for Okinawa during World War II. Val had traveled by herself, on a train, to San Diego and back to Marshall after the wedding. No small feat for a small-town girl who had probably never traveled out of Calhoun County. Dick always said "She chased me across the country to the Pacific Ocean and I had nowhere else to run, so I married her!". The couple enjoyed a fruitful and loving marriage of 61 years until Dick's death on May 15, 2006. Valdene spent the majority of her work life, after staying home to raise their daughter, as a Calhoun County Sheriff Deputy. She started in the office that dealt with drivers' licences and eventually became a court baliff for the Circuit Court, retiring in 1990. Val loved to walk Marshall, and was a familiar sight doing just that for many years. She would walk 5-7 miles a day up until 6 months ago. She was an active member of the Marshall United Methodist Church.

She leaves behind her daughter, Beth (Robert) Meyer and two grandchildren, Melissa (Jason)

Karaba and Ryan (Heather) Meyer. Besides walking her recent years were spent enjoying her four great-grandchildren, Gavin and Ava Karaba and Jacob and Johnathan Meyer.

A memorial gathering will be held for Val at the Craig K. Kempf Family Funeral Homes, Marshall Chapel, 723 US HWY 27 N., on Tuesday, September 26, from 5 PM to 7 PM. Committal services for the family were held at Oakridge Cemetery. The family suggests that you remember Val with a memorial contribution to Marshall Community Foundation for the Meyer Children's Fund. This fund helps local families that are having financial difficulties because their child is very sick. Assistance with memorials is available at the Kempf Family Funeral Homes.

Notes for Casper M. Enkemann:

Ann Arbor News, March 12, 1982 - Ex-chief Enkemann dies; recalled a firm, fair, honest:

"He was firm, he was fair, He was honest." Suc wasa the laconic tribute paid to Casper (Cap) Enkemann when he retired more than two decades ago after 30 years with the Ann Arbor Police Department, 14 of them as its chief. Enkemann, whose retirement was declared a "loss for the city" in a 1960 Ann Arbor News editorial, died thursday at the Saline Evangelical Home. He was 76 years old.

Creamation has taken place. A memorial service will be held at 3 p.m. Monday at the Bethlehem United Church of Christ with the Rev. Orval L. E. Willmann officiating.

While describing him as a friendly and likeable man who could be firm when occasion demanded, The News praised Chief Enkemann as a "quiet, but determined and efficient officer," and noted that the city "should be grateful for having had his services for three decades." Enkemann came to the department in the summer of 1930 as a patrolman earning $1,800 a year. He worked his way through the ranks and acquired a reputation as a stubborn and determined investigator. He became chief of the department in 1948.

In 1980 Enkemann and two other former city police chiefs - Rolland (Barney) Gainsley and Walter Krasny - met for a special reunion and reflected on more than a century of city history and police work. Gainsley, who replaced Enkemann as chief in 1960, died last April. Krasny left the department in 1980 and still lilves in Ann Arbor. He could not be reached this morning.

"Chief Enkemann has excelled in many ways as a law enforcement official," observed a News editorial writer in 1960. "He not only capable and honest himself, but he insists on high standards all through the department. "His investigations wer always quick and thorough, and if there was reason for corrective measures in his department he never hesitated to act. " Ann Arbor has an outstanding Police Department." the editorial concluded, "and it is likely to continue to be one because of the firm foundation laid by Chief Enkemann."

Enkemann was born Dec. 9, 1905, in Cleveland, Ohio. He was a former member of the Ann Arbor Rotary CLub; past president of the Michigan Chapter of the FBI; a past president of the Michigan Chiefs of Police; and the first person to receive the Human Relations Award from the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Survivors include Gladys Enkemann, his wife of more than 5 years, a son and for grandchildren.

Notes for Doris Winifred Binder:

Missoula, Montana - Doris Winifred Binder Eudaily, our beloved "RaRa," died of natural causes on Sunday, April 2, 2000, at Village Health Care Center. She was surrounded by the members of her family - those she treasured most. Doris was born on May 27, 1916, in Butte, to Elmer O. and Mary (Mae) Theresa Dinn Binder. She attended grade school and high school in Butte, and then, at age 16, went to Dillon to Montana State Normal School, now known as Western Montana College of the University of Montana. It was there that she met Ralph S. Eudaily, who was to become both her husband and her best friend. They were married in Butte at St. Joseph's Church on Dec. 27, 1936, and remained married for more than 60 years until Ralph's death on June 18, 1997. The couple had two children, Gloria and Gary.

Doris started teaching at the age of 18 in a one-room school at Apex. Her job included building the fire in the classroom stove, getting the school ready for the day, and teaching her three students in grades one through eight! Doris taught elementary pupils for 30 years, first at Apex, then at Hall and finally at Target Range School in Missoula. She watched Target Range School grow from a two-room school to its present size. Many of her former students especially her Target Range first-graders, still keep in touch. After retiring from Target Range School, Doris joined Ralph in a second career lasting 14 years at the Montana State Legislature. She was the "Spouse of the House" and enjoyed every minute of it. Doris was able to accompany Ralph on Western Legislative Conference trips throughout the West, Alaska and Hawaii. She and Ralph made many friends on these trips and during their time with the Legislature.

Doris survived by her daughter GlanaVolland and her husband, Walter, of Bellevue, Washington; their children, Gregory Volland of Bellevue, Washington, and Kirk and Michelle Volland of Pace, Florida. She also is survived by her son Gary Eudaily and his wife, Lisa, of Missoula; grandsons Michael Eudaily of Missoula and Sean Patrick Eudaily of Laurel, Maryland.

Doris and Ralph devoted their lives to their family, to Montana, and to education, and were extremely proud of the success and progress of all four grandsons. These boys were indeed the "apples of her eyes" as well as the source of her nickname. RaRa, we will miss you so very much, but we all know how blessed we were to have you as a mother and grandmother.

Services will be held at Malletta Funeral Home, Livingston Chapel, 224 W. Spruce St. Visitation will be 5-8 p.m. Wednesday, April 5, with funeral services at 2 p.m. Thursday, April 6. Burial will follow at the Missoula City Cemetery, where Doris once again will be side by side with Ralph. Memorials may be sent to the University of Montana Foundation.

Notes for Ralph Stoner Eudaily:

Ralph S. Eudaily, 83, of Missoula, Montana passed away Wednesday, June 18, 1997, at St. Patrick's Hospital of natural causes. Ralph was born Sept. 28, 1913, in Avant, Oklahoma, the son of Albert H. and Elma Stoner Eudaily. He moved to Montana as a small child. He is a graduate of Park City High School; attended Arkansas City, Kansas, Junior College and graduated from Montana State Normal College (UM-Dillon). He lettered in basketball, football, and baseball while at Dillon. He earned his master's degree in education from the University of Montana. Ralph met Doris Binder while both were attending college in Dillon. They married on Dec. 27, 1936, in Butte. The couple celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last December.

Ralph is survived by his wife, Doris Eudaily of Missoula; his daughter Gloria, and her husband, Dr. Walter Volland of Bellevue, Washington; his son Dr. Gary Eudaily of Missoula; and his four grandsons, Lt. Kirk Volland, U.S. Navy, and his wife, Michelle of Barber's Point, Hawaii, Sean Patrick Eudaily of Missoula, Gregory Volland of Bellevue and Mike Eudaily of Missoula.

Ralph began his career in education as an elementary teacher and high school coach at Belmont and later at Bridger. In 1938-1941, he was superintendent at Reed Point, and from 1941-1943 at Elliston. He was principal of Granite County High School in Philipsburg from 1943-1949. He joined the staff of District 1 in Missoula in 1950, serving as principal of Whittier School until 1961 when he became the first principal of the then-new Russell School. He remained at Russell until his retirement in June of 1976. In November of 1976, Ralph was elected to the first of seven consecutive terms in the Montana House of Representatives. In his years in the legislature, he served on the Education, Judiciary, and Fish & Game committees. He was Majority Whip in 1987, and was a member of the Legislative Council for eight years, serving as chairman during his last term. He also represented Montana at the Western Legislative Conference for many years.

Ralph was an avid outdoorsman, who especially enjoyed hunting and fishing. He hunted in Montana's first ever pheasant season. His favorite fishing was always the salmon fly hatch on Upper s Rock Creek, where the family has had a cabin since 1944. He passed his love of the outdoors on to both his children and to his four grandsons. The greatest joy of his life came from his family and home. Whether it was in the summers at the family's cabin on Rock Creek or at home during Christmas, Ralph's family always came first. Ralph was active in local and state PTA; State and National Elementary Principals' Association, serving from 1956-1959 on the Executive Committee of the National Department of Elementary School Principals; he was chairman of the School District 1 Insurance Committee for 26 years; he served many years on the Elks Scholarship Committee and the Campfire Girls Council; he was a life member of the Montana Officials Association, officiating both football and basketball (including a Harlem Globetrotters game at the old men's gym at U of M); and has been a longtime member of the Western Montana Fish and Game Association and of Ducks Unlimited. He had an abiding interest in preserving Rock Creek as a blue-ribbon trout stream.

Ralph was widely recognized for his outstanding contributions to education in Montana, receiving awards from Northwest Montana Elementary and Middle School Principals, University of Montana - College of Technology, UM-Dillon, Park City High School, State Retired Teachers Association, U of M Foundation, Montana Association of Elementary School Principals, Missoula PTA Council, and AARP National Retired Teachers Association.

Visitation will be at the Livingston-Malletta & Geraghty Funeral Home Sunday, June 22, from 4 to 6 p.m. A memorial service is planned for Tuesday, June 24, at 2 p.m. at the CM. Russell School gymnasium, 3216 Russell Street in Missoula. It was Ralph's wish that in lieu of flowers memorials may be sent in his name to the University of Montana Foundation, P.O. Box 7159, Missoula, Montana, 59801-7159, or the Elks Scholarship Fund, Hell Gate Lodge 383, P.O. Box 7187, Missoula, 59807.

June 19, 1997 - His colleagues in the Legislature and in Missoula's School District 1 agree that Ralph Eudaily was a tireless public servant, who never backed away from what he believed was right. Eudaily, 83, died Wednesday June 18, 1997 afternoon after an illness. Gov. Marc Racicot remembered Eudaily from Racicot's days in the Legislature's print shop and called the longtime legislator a "highly respected, kind and thoughtful gentleman." Earl Lory, who served six sessions in Helena with Eudaily, said he was a "great guy." "The principal interest Ralph had was in education," Lory recalled. Lory said Eudaily doggedly pursued educational interests in his seven sessions at the capital, and would spend hours each night reading, rereading and underlining the bills for the next day's meetings. "I guess that showed his teaching habits," he said.

Eudaily was an educator for 40 years and was a principal in Missoula School District 1 for 26 years. In 1976, Eudaily retired from education and won election to the 1977 legislative session. "He was a gentleman," said former Gov. Ted Schwinden. "He was always courteous, always polite. You inevitably have differences party-wise, but Ralph came from the old school." Missoula County Commissioner Barbara Evans remembered Eudaily's years of service to the state Republican Party. "I always found him to be Responsive to the public and a good, dedicated and conscientious public servant," Evans said. "That all sounds very melodramatic, but he did look at his service that way."

In his years as a Missoula educator, Eudaily led the vanguard that brought law enforcement into Montana's public schools, said Sheriff Doug Chase. Chase said Eudaily was a "pioneer" in bringing police officers together with students in a learning atmosphere. "He dared to adventure," Chase said. "And you always felt welcome (in his schools). "He was just a classy, classy person. I am deeply saddened." As a legislator, Chase said, Eudaily was a man who "always advocated for excellence." He got "the best bang for the buck," Chase added. Former Missoula School District 1 Superintendent Jake Block said Eudaily's fierce advocacy for education surpassed party lines. "It never seemed to be about the party," Block said. "It was about what's best for the kids." A memorial service will be planned for a later date.

Upon his honorable discharge from the Army, in 1947, he worked for Ford Motor Company in Manchester, Brooklyn Ypsilanti's Rawsonville plant and the Saline plastics plant, until his 1983 retirement. His love of livestock would next lead him to UPI, where he worked in the cattle barn for three years. Jim would then spend the next 20 years as either a bus driver or a crossing guard for the Manchester school system. For a time,

Washtenaw County Road Commission had the pleasure of his truck-driving skills. Many years Jim could be found with a team of mules, participating in the Manchester Grass Lake parades, competing in "plowing contests," or providing rides during the Manchester Chicken Broil. During his younger years, trail riding at Waterloo or snowmobiling up north were regular pastimes. Trips to Missouri, Florida, Arkansas and Iowa provided livestock used at the Hoot ~N~ Holler Ranch Rodeo, an annual event that took place "on the back 40." Jim enjoyed his farm, Hoot ~N~ Holler Ranch, RFD-TV, ice cream and Pepsi.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his children, Barbara (Michael) Geiger, Leroy (Kim) Hone and Bobby (Lauri) Hone; grandchildren, Travis Hone, Cody Bo Hamilton, Presley Hone and DJ Hone; and his niece, Carol Petrino. Notes for Henry J. (Hank) Pyzik:

Hank Pyzik was a remarkable man, who lived a remarkable life, a man of great character and confidence, of intelligence, service and selflessness. Hank was a career Air Force officer, serving in three wars across the globe, as well as a loving husband, father, grandfather and friend. Most of all, Hank was a great man with a great life, a life we were so blessed to have shared. Hank's story began on a cold winter day in 1921, in the Motor City capital of Detroit, Michigan. Those were times of change in this country, as newly-elected President Warren Harding promised the American people a "return to normalcy," after World War I, and resumed life as normal in the Prohibition era. On February 13, 1921, Joseph and Tillie (Baron) Pyzik had an early Valentine's Day gift, with the birth of a baby boy, a son they named Henry.

Henry, or Hank, as he was always called, was the oldest of five boys in the family's Detroit home. His parents were hardworking children of Polish immigrants, and the family naturally spoke Polish in their home. They were devout Catholics, as well, and Hank attended Catholic schools as a result. Hank was always a very intelligent young man, and an excellent student in school. His studies paid dividends for him in high school, when he began tutoring a beautiful young woman named Helen Glore, who lived in his neighborhood and went to public schools. She was a real beauty, with plenty of style, too, and Hank was smitten from the start. The two began dating, and it wasn't long before they fell in love. They dated all through high school, and after graduating, as well. But the darkening skies of World War II were soon thundering upon our shores, and Hank heard his call to serve his country.

Hank enlisted in the U.S. Air Force, and was assigned to the 25th Air Force in England. Before he left, he and his sweetheart Helen were married, on August 21, 1943. His stint in WW II started with a trip to Georgia, where he boarded his B-24 bomber, bound for Shannon Island, England. Hank served as the navigator, as poor eyesight prevented him from becoming a pilot. Hank and his crew flew more than three dozen bombing missions over Germany over the next few years, always returning home with the same plane. It was a very dangerous job, but Hank was stubbornly fearless, and selfless in his bravery. When the war ended, Hank returned home to Detroit, and to Helen. He joined the Detroit Fire Department, assigned to the McGraw Street Station, and enjoyed a quiet life in Detroit, until Uncle Sam came calling once again. The Korean War had started, and Hank was reactivated. Hank and his growing family were relocated to the island of Guam, and he was soon sent over to the Korean Peninsula, and separated from his family for a year. Hank realized that he was meant to serve in the Air Force, and he soon made the service his career.

Hank and Helen also became the proud parents of three fine children, sons Roger and Gary, and their baby girl Pamela. With his family in tow, Hank's career in the military took them around the globe, which was a very exciting and interesting way for his children to grow up. They lived in the Philippines, Guam, and various stateside locales, as well. While stationed in Albuquerque, Hank went back to school and earned his degree in electrical engineering from the University of New Mexico, too. Hank's 25-year military career included three wars, as he finished his tenure during the Vietnam War. Hank rose through the ranks of the Air Force, and served as the head of Air Traffic Control for all of Southeast Asia during Vietnam, retiring as a Lt. Colonel on July 1, 1968. His honored service included helping negotiate the release of American hostages after the capture of the USS Pueblo by the North Koreans in 1968.

Hank was anxious to begin the next chapter of his life. The family decided to settle back in Tecumseh, Michigan, after spending their vacations at nearby Evans Lake to see family while he was in the service. Sadly, shortly after they bought a home, Hank lost Helen to cancer, in 1971. He was deeply saddened, and it was a very lonely time for him. Then one day, his daughter Pam introduced her father to her best friend's mother, a wonderful woman named Nancy Merritt, and the sparks flew between them. A romance ensued, and the two were married on April 14, 1973, beginning 35 wonderful years together.

Nancy brought four children of her own into the family, who Hank treated as his own. Hank went to work for the State of Michigan as an Industrial Hygienist, working as an OSHA inspector. He was a highly intelligent man, who could fix anything, especially electronics, and kept up with technology all of his life, reading science magazines like Discovery. Hank finally retired in the early 1980s, after 15 years with the State of Michigan. He thoroughly enjoyed his well-deserved retirement, and especially enjoyed piloting his 21-foot sailboat, which he took down the Intracoastal Waterways in Florida during the winters. After spending so much time in the islands, Hank couldn't help but love the water. He loved setting sail, especially with his beloved grandkids, who always brightened his days.

Hank was a serious man, very deliberate in his manner and appearance. He could be stubborn and set in his ways, but he knew how to have a good time, too. He enjoyed a good drink, and was a great dancer, especially if his favorite Big Band music was playing. Hank always exuded a quiet confidence, and never said a disparaging word about anyone. Eventually, Hank's health began to decline, as the years took their toll on him. Sadly, Hank died on Sunday, August 3, 2008 in Tecumseh, at the age of 87. Hank was a remarkable man, who lived a remarkable life, a life of service, duty, and bravery, and a life full of family and fond memories. He was a man full of character and principle, of intelligence and confidence. Hank was a loving husband, father, grandfather and friend, a good man, and a better example. He will be greatly missed.

In addition to his wife Nancy, Hank is survived by his two sons; Roger (Carol) Pyzik of Brooklyn, Michigan and Gary Pyzik of Dallas, Texas, two step sons; Tim (Diane) Merritt of Brooklyn, Michigan and Terry (Laura) Merritt of Britton, Michigan, two step daughters; Roxanne (Jim) DeWeerd of Hudsonville, Michigan and Kimberly (Steve) Wright of Adrian, Michigan, one son-in-law Herb Ayres, two brothers; Robert (Connie) Pyzik of Livonia, Michigan and Eugene (Terry) Pyzik of Grosse Isle, Michigan, eighteen grandchildren, five great grandchildren and one great great granddaughter. In addition to his parents and his first wife, Hank was preceded in death by one daughter Pamela Ayres in 1997 and two brothers.

Services will be held Thursday, August 7, at 11:00 am at the Tecumseh Chapel of Handler Funeral Homes with Pastor Clayton Carn officiating. Burial of cremains will be in Brookside Cemetery, Tecumseh.

Henry J. "Hank" Pyzik, age 87, of Adrian, formerly of Tecumseh, died Sunday, Aug. 3, 2008, at Herrick Medical Center. He was born Feb. 13, 1921, in Detroit, Michigan, the son of Joseph and Tillie (Baron) Pyzik. He married Helen J. Glore on Aug. 21, 1943, and she preceded him in death May 23, 1971. He then married Nancy Ann Merritt on April 14, 1973, and she survives. Hank was a Lt. Col. in the United States Air Force for 25 years before retiring July 1, 1968. He then was an OSHA Inspector for the State of Michigan, retiring from there in the early 1980s. Henry enjoyed golfing, music from the 1940s and spending time with his family and many friends. He truly enjoyed his retirement and spending lots of time with his many grandkids.

In addition to his wife Nancy, Hank is survived by his two sons, Roger (Carol) Pyzik of Brooklyn, Michigan, and Gary Pyzik of Dallas, Texas; two stepsons, Tim (Diane) Merritt of Brooklyn, Michigan, and Terry (Laura) Merritt of Britton, Michigan, two stepdaughters, Roxanne (Jim) DeWeerd of Hudsonville, Michigan, and Kimberly (Steve) Wright of Adrian, Michigan; one son-in-law, Herb Ayers of Kalamazoo, Michigan; two brothers, Robert (Connie) Pyzik of Livonia, Michigan, and Eugene (Terry) Pyzik of Grosse Isle, Michigan; 18 grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and one great-great-granddaughter. In addition to his parents and first wife, Hank was preceded in death by one daughter, Pamela Ayers, and two brothers.

At Hank's request, cremation has taken place. A memorial service will be held on Thursday, Aug. 7, at 11 a.m. at the Tecumseh Chapel of Handler Funeral Homes with Pastor Clayton Carn officiating. Burial of the cremated remains will follow in Brookside Cemetery, Tecumseh. Visitation will be held at the funeral home from 10 a.m. until the time of services.

She was born 09 Jan 1952 in Indiana.

Notes for Royal Goodrich Klingler:

Shortly after 6 p.m. Wednesday, Burr Oak firefighters were called to a wood shop fire at 30144 Kelly Road in Burr Oak Township. It took them less than five minutes to arrive at the scene, said fire chief Rich Ultz. But flames already had engulfed the shop belonging to Royal Klingler, owner of Burrwood, Ltd.

Firefighters from Tri-Township, the second department to arrive, helped extinguish the blaze. From a pond in the neighboring yard, the tankers were able to repeatedly replenish the water supply. The Klingler home and a second shop housing a business that supplies rats and mice to pet stores were saved, Ultz said.

Royal and his wife, Cheryl, were home at the time of the fire. "I have no idea how it could have started," Royal said. "I'm just glad he wasn't out there," Cheryl said. But together, they watched the woodshop ablaze. As soon as the fire was controlled, Ultz summoned Mark Smith, a local excavator, to remove the metal roof, which needed to be dismantled to reach the flames. "That roof was one week old," Ultz said. The 40-by-60-foot shop held woodworking equipment, lumber for future projects and one project in the works. It also housed lawn mowers and "tools like you wouldn't believe," Royal said. He had just completed a kitchen project and had it installed, Cheryl said.

Before the fire was completely out, Royal talked about the future. "Oh yeah," he said, "I'll rebuild." While it's the firefighter's task to put out the fire, people come first for Ultz. "I'm just glad they're OK," Ultz said. "They did everything right. They called us and didn't try to put it out themselves." That's a concern he had, knowing Klingler's love of woodworking. "He put his heart into this business," Ultz said. Despite the devastation, Royal kept things in perspective. "It's just a building," he said. Ultz said the cause of the fire is under investigation but given the extent of the damage, it may be impossible to determine.

He was born 27 Aug 1949 in West Branch, Michigan, and died 26 Oct 2008 in Ann Arbor, Washtenaw Co, Michigan.

Notes for Julia Ann Eschelbach:

Julie Ann Bolgos of Pinckney, Michigan, formerly of Ann Arbor Age 68, died Monday, May 21, 2018 in her home. She was born February 6, 1950 in Ann Arbor, Michigan, the daughter of Neil Alfred & Mary J. (Thurow) Eschelbach. Julie graduated from Ann Arbor High School in 1968. On September 12, 1970, she married the love of her life, William Jeffrey Bolgos in Ann Arbor. He preceded her in death on October 26, 2008. Julie and Jeff lived in Virginia Beach, Virginia and Clearwater, Florida before returning to Ann Arbor to raise their daughters. Julie was a voracious reader and news watcher, known for her phenomenal memory and arcane knowledge about any number of subjects. She loved the outdoors and when not working on a landscaping project or doing some sort of household cleaning or maintenance she enjoyed spending her days on the lake or thumping friends and family in horseshoes and cornhole. Julie considered herself to be shy and one of her greatest traits was to create an environment that made everyone comfortable. No matter where they lived, Jeff and Julie had a stop by, open door policy in their home for family, friends, neighbors and their children's friends. Julie was a great listener and a loyal friend and the home she created was one of comfort and solace to anyone who came by. Her wisdom, wit, strength and loyalty will be missed by many.

Notes for Rev. Dr. Michael Alfred Eschelbach:

Port Huron, Michigan, August 15, 1982 - Rev. Michael Eschelbach, 34, has been pastor of Peace Lutheran Church in Sandusky for four years. He previously served three years in Billings, Montana. A native of Ann Arbor, he is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University and Concordia Theological Seminary, Fort Wayne, Indiana. Becoming a pastor wasn't in his plans when he enrolled in the seminary. Prompted by a host of conflicting ideas about religion that emerged from college, "I went to the seminary to study the Bible in its original language," he says. His quest for truth and orthodoxy led him into the active ministry. The Rev. Eschelbach says he's a "by-the-Bible" pastor. He believes the church "ought to be the church God wants," and that it should take its mission seriously, both in what it professes and what it does.

Married to Emily, three children, Rev. Michael Eschelbach Elizabeth, 6, David, 5 and Abigail, 1. He enjoys being outside. He likes gardening and building things, and takes an interest in farming.

Peace Lutheran has about 450 members. Sunday attendance is about 300. "We're working for those numbers to meet," he says. The church emphasizes education, from nursery through adulthood.

Billings, Montana, Nov. 30, 1985 - The silent world of the deaf is being pierced by a Billings minister who wants to spread God's word to everyone, not just to those who can hear. And several non-deaf members of the minister's church are busy preparing a Christmas Eve service for the deaf. The Rev. Michael Eschelbach, who was ordained last August, was called by Mount Olive Lutheran Church, 2336 St. John's Ave., to serve as assistant pastor and to work with the deaf. Four to five deaf people attend Mount Olive's 8 a.m. Sunday worship service, which is signed. Signing is the manipulation of fingers into different configurations representing the alphabet and various objects and ideas. Eschelbach's ministry reaches more than the handful of deaf people who attend the worship service. He is now in touch with 16 deaf people. Many of those to whom he ministers are shut-ins or live too far away to attend Mount Olive. Every week, Eschelbach visits the shut-ins who live in the Billings area. He writes to those who live farther away. His ministry reaches as far as Riverton, Wyoming. "I translate Scripture lessons each Sunday so they can be signed," Eschelbach said. "I also write explanations of the lessons for the deaf." Copies of his sermons are distributed to the deaf attending the services and mailed to those who cannot attend.

Eschelbach is conducting two sign-language classes for hearing people who want to work with the deaf. The classes meet every Wednesday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Class members are learning how to sign Christmas carols so they can perform for the deaf during a Christmas Eve service at 7 p.m. Dec. 24. The entire service will be signed, he said. Eschelbach, originally from Ann Arbor, Michigan, was ordained last August after graduating from Concordia Theological Seminary in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Dana was a treeman at heart. He graduated with an Ornamental Horticulture degree from the University of Illinois. He proclaimed to be a long-suffering Illini fan. When his four kids were young, you could often find him loudly cheering on their many teams from the sidelines. Dana started, built and sold two successful nursery businesses, one in Blue Mound, Illinois and the other in Fairview, Illinois. He loved to be amongst his trees, pruning them while listening to talk radio. Dana was an avid biker and Spin class participant. He loved to talk with anyone, he made friends out of strangers.

Notes for Kevin T. Wandell, twin:

Kevin Wandell, 32, Director of series development, FX. Wandell got his introduction to Hollywood by way of his cousin, Amazon Studios' Morgan Wandell (Next Gen Class of 2006, see page 89). Then a Touchstone TV exec, the older Wandell invited his eighth-grader cousin, who lived on a farm outside of Chicago, to tapings of Home Improvement and Boy Meets World. Afterward, the middle schooler turned to his dad and said, "I'm going to do that."

After graduating from the University of Missouri, Wandell went from an internship at NBC to assistant gigs at John Wells Productions (during ER's final years) and HBO, where he worked for now-FX exec Gina Balian in the drama department when Game of Thrones was being developed. He later would itch to explore comedy, too, prompting a move to FX in 2011. The new dad — whose wife, Renata Lombardo (niece of Michael Lombardo), went into labor with the couple's first child the morning of THR's Next Gen photo shoot — has been heavily involved with Donald Glover breakout Atlanta, Stephen Falk's You're the Worst and the John Singleton drama Snowfall, as well as the hot comic book adaptation Y: The Last Man and Seth Rogen's A.I. comedy Singularity.

He married Ann Carol Brady Sep 1974. She was born 15 Dec 1951.

Notes for John Matthew Wahr:

John Matthew Wahr died from pancreatic cancer, November 11th, 2015 at his home in Boulder Colorado. He was born June 22, 1951 in Ann Arbor, Michigan, to John C. Wahr and Janet C. Wahr, and grew up in Midland, Michigan with his sister, Jan. In 1973 he graduated from the University of Michigan with honors in both Mathematics and Physics. He attended the University of Colorado Physics Department as a graduate student, where he earned his PhD in December, 1979, and married Ann Carol Brady, also from Midland, in September, 1974. In January, 1980, John and Ann moved to Princeton University, where John was a Postdoctoral Fellow in both the Department of Geological and Geophysical Sciences, and in the Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Program. John returned to the University of Colorado in 1983, as a Professor in the Physics Department and a Fellow of the Cooperative Institute for Research in Environmental Sciences. John spent his professional career as a geophysicist, with interests that varied from such things as fluctuations in the Earth's rotation; Earth tides; interactions between the solid layers of the Earth and the overlying atmosphere, oceans, and ice sheets, as well as with the underlying fluid core; and with whatever else happened to interest him. He was the recipient of numerous prestigious national and international awards, including election into the United States National Academy of Sciences. What meant as much, or more, to John than the scholarship and joy of scientific pursuit, was the opportunity it gave him of interacting with scores of fellow scientists of all ages and backgrounds from around the globe. The mentoring of students, and his collaborations with so many bright and energetic colleagues always kept the work continuously fresh and alive. But John's greatest joys in life were, by far, in his family, in music (especially opera), and in the outdoors. His love of the outside, instilled in him by his parents, formed the foundation of a life-long passion for the outside, which he shared with Ann, and passed on to his children, Katie and Andrew. He constantly marveled at the good fortune that allowed him to live and grow in this marvelous place in the Rocky Mountains. He was a passionate hiker, backpacker, cross-country skier, and road biker. He climbed every named peak in RMNP and the Indian Peaks; most of them several times. He and his family would go on extensive backpack trips, summer and winter throughout Colorado, Wyoming and Utah.

John is survived by his wife, Ann; his children Katie and Andrew and their spouses Paul Calvert and Kjersti Wahr, his father John C. Wahr, and sister Jan L. Wahr, and was proceeded in death by his mother Janet C. Wahr. John did not wish to have a service following his death.

Professor John M. Wahr passed away on November 11, 2015 at the age of 64. Professor Wahr was the first geophysicist to join the Department of Physics at CU-Boulder. He joined the department as an Assistant Professor in 1983, built the Geophysics Group within the Department, and had a highly distinguished career. He was also a Fellow of the Cooperative Institute for Research in Environmental Sciences. John entered semi-retirement (retiring only from departmental duties) and became a Research

Professor in 2013 after having taught for 30 years. John received his B.S. degree from the University of Michigan and his PhD degree from CU-Boulder and then held a post-doctoral position at the Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Laboratory at Princeton University before being called back to CU-Boulder as a faculty member in 1983. Professor Wahr is a world-renowned scientist who made seminal contributions to many areas of geophysics and geodesy. In his early research career, John was successful at developing the theoretical framework to understand the effects of the Earth's interior structure as well as atmospheric and oceanic mass distributions on the Earth's rotation, tides, wobble and nutation. Later in his career, and even more prominently, he worked on determining the effects of large-scale deglaciation on the Earth's surface vertical motions, sea-level changes, and the Earth's gravity field. In each of these research areas, he made groundbreaking contributions. His models of Earth's tides and nutation served as international standards for nearly 20 years.

In the last two decades, Professor Wahr devoted most of his research efforts to developing tools and models to observe and analyze the time-variations in the Earth's gravity field as observed from space. This has led to pioneering advances in a broad range of disciplines, including hydrology, glaciology, oceanography, meteorology, and solid-Earth geophysics. He was one of the principal intellectual forces behind NASA's highly successful satellite gravity mission, GRACE (Gravity Recovery and Climate Experiment). Using GRACE gravity data, John and his collaborators quantified the mass loss in Greenland and Antarctica since 2002 due to ice melting. He also examined seasonal and secular variations in ocean mass and terrestrial water storage on both global and basin scales. These innovations opened up entirely new avenues to observe and study mass movements in the shallow subsurface of the Earth on different time and spatial scales. These advances not only directly impact Earth science but also have profound societal significance. Professor Wahr's research received wide recognition and acclaim. He won two major awards from the American Geophysical Union: the James B. Macelwane Award and the Charles A. Whitten Award in 1985 and 2006, respectively. He also received the VeningMeinesz Medal from the European Geosciences Union in 2004, was awarded the Guy Bomford Prize for Geodetic Research from the International Association of Geodesy in 1983, and was inducted into the US National Academy of Sciences in 2012. Professor Wahr's research excellence was acknowledged locally by his being named a Professor of Distinction by the College of Arts and Sciences at CU-Boulder in 2012. Moreover, John was simply a great colleague in the Physics Department and within the national and international geophysical communities. He was unselfish, modest and collegial. He was always willing to help junior colleagues at the university and elsewhere.

Professor Wahr was a dedicated teacher and mentor: always caring, patient, and insightfully helpful with his students, collaborators, and colleagues. He taught Physics at CU-Boulder for 30 years, from introductory undergraduate physics to advanced graduate physics and geophysics courses. He has advised nearly 30 PhD and post-doctoral scholars; many of whom, following his example, remain active in teaching and geophysical research. In addition to his outstanding research career, John was an avid outdoorsman, strong athlete, and devoted family man. He was often found hiking with his family and his solo hikes and bike rides were legendary. To clear his head he would take the bus to Nederland and walk back to Boulder. One of his favorite solo outdoor activities involved a week in the backcountry of Yellowstone: long days covered on cross-country skis and then winter camping in snow caves of his own construction. John was a baseball fan, first of his hometown team the Detroit Tigers but he adopted the Colorado Rockies after they formed in Denver, and would regularly attend Rockies games with his family. He was an accomplished musician with a fine singing voice, and a particular love of opera. John was an intensely humble and private man who, nevertheless, had an enormous impact on people around him that extended well beyond the scientific insights that he shared with and inspired in others. He was respected and well-liked by essentially everyone who came into contact with him.

Professor Wahr is survived by his dear wife Ann Wahr, by his daughter Katie Wahr, an elementary school teacher, of Boulder and son Andrew Wahr, a civil engineer, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and by his sister Jan Wahr and father John Wahr, both of Boulder.

Notes for Dr. Harold Henry Dupper:

Harold Henry Dupper, January 27, 1925 to June 19, 2014. Grandfather, Father, husband, physician, philanthropist, gardener, friend to many, and servant of God. He lived a generous life of consistent, enthusiastic, selfless service; loving people, life, and God. Harold is survived by siblings Elma Lorenz, Frank Dupper, Donna Cordova, and Kenneth Dupper, his three sons, Harold, Bob, and Ron, 7 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren.

Harold was born January 27, 1925 in a small farm house in Beebe Draw, Colorado, to a young immigrant German speaking farm couple, Henry and Caroline Dupper. He was the second of seven children in the family. He grew up in the hard times after the great depression experiencing many of the difficulties of immigrant families at that time. His children can recall him talking about wearing cut up cereal boxes in his shoes to cover the holes in the soles, and using a pitch fork to spear catfish in the drainage ditch that bordered the farm. Early in his life, hard work became a hallmark of Harold's character. By the time he was a teenager, with his strongly developed "I can out-work anyone" attitude, he took a significant role in the operation of the family farm, where they raised hay, sugar beets, and horses. He also spent many early mornings, and late evenings in the milking barn. But, not all was toil and hard times. Harold always found ways to enjoy life as well. His father had a great passion for horses, which Harold shared. There was pony racing, softball, and Saturday evenings in Greeley taking in the sights, sounds and milk shakes of town. He was involved in 4-H, and the Greeley Stampede 4th of July Celebration was always a big event in the family, as was pony racing at the Pueblo State Fair. Growing up Harold attended the Beebe Draw School where he developed a love for learning. On his 20th birthday he left for the army. After medical technician training, he was assigned to an Italian field hospital as an OR tech where he spent the bulk of his foreign service. He was fortunate enough not to be involved in any significant combat situations. Through his army experience he discovered his life ambition to become a medical doctor. While Harold was in the army a beautiful young woman from Grover, Colorado decided to let the young GI know that folks at home were thinking of him, and began to write to him. When Harold returned from his European war assignment, the communications with Velma continued, a relationship developed and then blossomed. Velma Lorenz encouraged the young man, uncertain about his future, to pursue his dreams of becoming a physician. So, in 1946 he worked on the farm and helped until the beet harvest was complete and in November, enrolled for high school at Campion Academy. Between hard work, sheer determination, the G.E.D. and additional correspondence courses he graduated from high school in the spring of 1947. A few weeks later, Harold enrolled at Union College in Lincoln, Nebraska where Velma was studying nursing. He "kept his nose to the grindstone" – a favorite saying of his – and finished college in three years. Harold never lost his love and appreciation for Union College, and has been a generous supporter of Union. Many will continue to enjoy that generosity for years to come. Velma finished nursing school in the spring of 1949, and shortly after on June 6, 1949, Harold and Velma were married.

Harold finished college the spring of 1950, and that fall he started medical school at the College of Medical Evangelists in Loma Linda, California, now Loma Linda University School of Medicine. As always Harold enthusiastically immersed himself in his studies. The first two years were spent in Loma Linda, and the last two years at the White Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles. During the last year of medical school, Lynnetta, the first of Harold and Velma's four children was born. Harold did his internship at Glendale Sanitarium in Glendale, California; followed by a year of general practice residency in Merced, California. Both Loma Linda and Union College are known for their commitment to developing a dedicated, missionary spirit in their students. This was not lost on Harold. Immediately following his residency he and his young family were off to serve as a "missionary doctor" at the Seventh-day Adventist mission hospital in Rangoon, Burma. Harold was a physician in Burma for five years of selfless service. When the family returned to the states for a furlough in 1960 Lynnetta had three brothers, Tommie, Bobbie, and Ronnie. With a sense of "coming of age" upon entering first grade Tommie requested the nick name of his "childhood" be dropped in favor of his given name Harold. Dr. Dupper's family was the pride of his life and the time not devoted to the practice of medicine was invested in his family. During the family's 1960 furlough, the government of Burma was taken over by a socialist military dictator that did not want any foreign influence in the country; Harold was unable to return to Burma with his family. He began to look for opportunities to practice medicine in his home state of Colorado and found a permanent position at the Beebe Clinic in Fort Collins, Colorado. There Harold continued to live life with vigor – another of his favorite words – and enthusiastic service. He not only spent many tiring, but fulfilling hours serving his patients, but was a tireless supporter of his church where he was a life-long member. There he held positions as deacon and elder, and participated as a Pathfinder leader, an organization for the church youth focused on citizenship and outdoors survival training. His children have many fond memories of their father leading the family and Pathfinder groups on many high country outdoor adventures including camping trips, day hikes and backpacking trips. It was in Pathfinders that Harold found and fostered his love for the Colorado Mountains, making Colorado high country adventures one of his primary life-time hobbies and past time adventures. Perhaps it was in 1967, after a solo trip up the old "cable route" to the summit of Longs Peak with his 4 children, ages 7, 9, 11, 13, where Harold's love for climbing Colorado's 14,000-foot peaks was sparked. Harold was always one to live his commitments through action. Although he served on the church board, and on the school board of the local church school he much preferred practical action to being in front of an audience. Through the years his ministry of love to his church has been to maintain the grounds at both his church and its school. Until the day of his death at 89 years old he lovingly maintained the church grounds although he had given up maintenance of the church school grounds to others. Harold practiced medicine with Dr. N. L. Beebe, and Dr. Clarence Hilliard at the thriving Beebe Clinic for nearly 30 years. He practiced a broad scope of medicine including obstetrics and many general surgical procedures. Still today, more than 20 years after Harold retired, many in Fort Collins and the surrounding area will remember their visits to the Beebe clinic, or that Dr. Dupper delivered them at Poudre Valley Memorial Hospital.

In this life we all suffer our individual trauma and grief. It was no different for Harold. In the span of a few years Harold suffered deaths his beloved daughter, Lynnetta, and then his wife, Velma, both at premature ages. This was devastating for Harold and began to impact his health. At about the same time his business and physician partner of many years was ready to retire, so the Beebe Clinic closed its doors, and Harold retired for the first time. But, his love for medicine did not retire, and following a few months off for emotional and physical healing, he returned to office practice and seeing patients again; this time with Dr. Sands, still in Fort Collins. Harold's life was one of frugality, and generosity, love of people, and love of life, consistency, commitment, and dedication, and love to his creator whom he loved and served with enthusiasm. Those who had the blessing of interacting with him will continue to be blessed by that interaction and the memory of friendship with Harold, ever known as Dr. Dupper. Life is not all sorrow and grief. During this time of grief and adjustment Harold also experienced the thrill of becoming a grandfather. As always Harold threw himself into this new role with joy and enthusiasm. He thoroughly loved his grandchildren and enjoyed demonstrating that love for them in ways that amazed his children. Like sneaking into the back yard on Easter morning to do the job of the Easter bunny and countless other demonstrations of his love for his grandchildren and pride in their achievements. They remember visits to the Prairie dog town, camping and other outdoor adventures, his vigorous massages, and his bedtime stories about his childhood. A favorite for his grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and all children alike, was his bouncing knee "pony ride" with the variations in gate and speed of the bounce described in German.

After Velma's death, Harold, who enjoyed the company of others too much to be alone, developed a loving relationship with a friend and fellow church member. Harold and Wanda were married in January of 1988. Wanda was a gift from God to the lonely, grieving man, and his family. Her enthusiastic, infectious love of people and life in general permeated his life and the life of his family. As a team Harold and Wanda blessed the lives of their children, step children, and grandchildren with acceptance and love. Grandma Wanda and Grandpa Dupper will never be forgotten and will always be held in our memories with love and honor. Although, in 1994, at the age of 69, Dr. Dupper fully retired from practicing Medicine in Fort Collins, he still had a bit of "missionary doctor" left in him. Harold and Wanda completed a couple of extended volunteer "missionary doctor" assignments, one in Brazil on a medical launch on the Amazon River, and the second in the mountains of Nepal. Harold and Wanda had much more love and energy to give than could be received by just one family. So, they spread that love to many more. For years they volunteered for various roles and giving of their time to the members of the church they loved. They have many friends of all ages who sat in their living room sharing their warm conversation, and genuine interest in their lives. You could hardly experience their home and hospitality without sitting at their table enjoying the legendary meals lovingly created by the ever busy and gifted hands of Wanda. Many young college students have enjoyed relaxing Friday evenings, and home cooked meals as Harold and Wanda for many years hosted their bible study and fellowship group. Team Harold and Wanda, became a single pillar of acceptance, love, and blessings to every life they touched. It was impossible to think of one without the other, although they had their own individual gifts they were blended as one to bless the many lives with whom they interacted. As their children walked into Harold and Wanda's house after their death the children observed evidence of the couple's continuing love and service; the children observed the texts for the ongoing bible studies lying on their table and places in their freezer made empty when Wanda's homemade bread had recently been shared with someone who needed love and encouragement. The couple's love was not just a concept, but was always shared in tangible ways. You could not know them without knowing that they genuinely loved and cared and gave. Whether you know them as Brother, Uncle, Sister, Aunt, Dad and Wanda, Grandpa and Grandma Wanda, Wanda and Dr. Dupper, Harold and Wanda, or Pepa, and Mema, you love them, and will sorely miss them. Sleep in peace dear Harold and Wanda, for you it will be but a moment until the Lord Jesus Christ returns to call home all who, as you, have accepted His grace. What a thrill that will be to be re-united with you in the earth made new. Rest in peace until that day. Dr. Harold Dupper's family is very grateful for your support and prayers. Instead of sending flowers please consider making a memorial contribution through the Bohlender Funeral Home designated to either the Poudre Valley Hospital Foundation or the Fort Collins Seventh-day Adventist Christian Church Grounds Maintenance Fund or to a charity of your choice.

Notes for Wanda Louise Owen:

Wanda Owen Dupper was many things to many people but most importantly she was a loving wife, a dedicated mother, a caring grandmother and a most faithful servant of God. Wanda Louise Dupper was born September 11, 1933 in Muscatine County, Iowa to two loving parents, Henry and Lydia. Her father was born on the family farm in Ventura, Iowa and her mother Lydia, was born in Russia to German parents who immigrated to the United States from Russia. She was born into a hard working farm family. Wanda began her journey growing up on the family farm where her family worked hard in the fields and did all the tireless chores that farm life entails. Wanda was the third child of 4, all girls. There were many joys in the family as well as sorrow. Tragedy struck when Wanda's youngest sister died of encephalitis following the measles. She was only five years old.

Wanda was fun loving and quite talkative when she was a child. Those who know Wanda today will agree she still has those same qualities. However, growing up, I'm not sure her family would have deemed those attributes a blessing. She was also known to follow her sisters and their boyfriends around until the boyfriends would give her a quarter to spend so she would leave them alone.....For the moment. Some years later, as a young teenager, her sister had been asked to a dance and needed someone to accompany the young man that her date brought. This handsome young man was Lou Kempkes. Lou and Wanda fell in love and they married on November 6, 1949.

On Jan. 21, 1951 Wanda and Lou welcomed their first child, Michael, and on Nov. 3, 1952, their second child, Diane, was born. In 1956 the Kempkes family moved to Ft. Collins, Colorado. Shortly after their arrival Wanda started Bible studies and was baptized into the Seventh Day Adventist Church. Lou followed Wanda giving his life to Jesus a couple years later. Also during this time another precious baby girl was born to Wanda and Lou, but in God's infinite wisdom sweet Louise Ann fell asleep in Jesus at 8 months of age after battling a heart condition.

Many lifelong friendships were made after joining the church, and the Kempkes family was blessed but there were some hardships as well. Wanda and another church member would make Spudnuts now known as doughnuts, for the kids to sell from door to door and to the local college. When that wasn't enough Wanda started working as a baker for Campion Academy. She had a passion for cooking and baking which made her very popular with the students. They especially liked the giant cinnamon rolls on Sunday mornings. Many times while working at Campion, Wanda and Lou would open their home to feed the students who couldn't afford to go home for school breaks. While at Campion they felt God was calling them to go to Eden Valley Sanitarium where Lou was the book keeper and Wanda was the cook. They were only there for one year but because of finances they headed back to Campion. After just a short time Lou found a job and the family packed up and headed back to their beloved Ft. Collins and that is where they stayed.

Wanda did finish her schooling and got her GED then proceeded to go to school for Nursing. She received her LPN license and went to work for Poudre Valley Hospital on the Pediatrics Ward. While it was difficult for her to see the children suffering, she did enjoy working with them very much. Later she was given the opportunity to work for the Beebe Clinic. After working at the Beebe clinic, she took a job at the Orthopedic and Spine Center of the Rockies in 1973, and worked there until her retirement in 1992. While working at the Orthopedic and Spine Center of the Rockies Wanda was known for making cakes for the co-workers on their birthdays. As the Orthopedic center grew making the cakes became a big task, and while still wanting to celebrate she started making pies for their birthdays.

When you think of Wanda the words you associate with her are kind, compassionate, generous, and devoted to God and family. She had the best infectious laugh. September 1, 1980, Wanda was stricken with grief from the loss of her husband, Lou. Although her faith was tested, her trust in God never wavered. Even though Wanda had experienced a heartbreaking loss, God still had many joys in store for her. She was able to do some traveling that she and Lou were never able to do. She went to Hawaii and Europe with good friends from church.

On November 25, 1984, Wanda received an even bigger blessing. She became a grandmother. What joy baby Kevin was watching as he grew. Even with a growing family, Wanda remained concerned with the well-being of both her children, Mike and Diane as any mother would do. Shortly after the birth of her grandson Kevin, tragedy struck again with the death of Wanda's father on January 5, 1985 due to lung cancer. Although a very sad time, Wanda also felt happy that Henry was no longer suffering. In the years that followed she and her mother would take a growing Kevin and his mother Diane on outings to places like Cave of the Winds and the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo. She would also keep herself busy with the church, which made her happy. In 1987, Wanda was saddened by the illness and death of her dear friend Velma Dupper. She was one of the people who came to care for Velma in their time of need. After her death Wanda continued her selflessness by extending it to Harold and giving him encouragement. She had gone through the same thing after all, and she would never miss an opportunity to help someone in need; whether it was encouragement, food or just a listening ear. Over time Wanda and Harold grew to love each other, and to the happiness of their families they were married in January 1988. In all of their married lives Wanda and Harold gave of themselves every way they could. Wanda spent a good deal of time after the passing of her father taking care of her mother Lydia. She had to endure one more loss with Lydia's death November 21, 2003.

Because of their love for Jesus and for all people their Christian endeavor included going to serve the people of Brazil on a medical launch and a second mission trip to Nepal. While here at home helping others did not stop. When the people were affected by the Big Thompson Flood, Wanda was quick to provide soup for all those in need. Wanda's love for children took her to the Fort Collins church school several days a week working with the kinder-gardeners. In church she was known as the "sticker lady", but she not only gave stickers to the children in church she also would give them to children in grocery stores, offices or whenever she happened to see a child. Wanda was always concerned for the young people in church so for many years they shared in having the college students over on Friday nights for Bible study and fellowship and of course the food. Wanda was never without work to do for her beloved church and its members. Harold shared that same trait. There was rarely a Sabbath that they didn't have people home for dinner after church. They were both greeters so the visitors would experience one of Wanda's delicious meals. If you look up hospitality in the dictionary, it's fairly certain that Wanda's name would be there. Wanda and Harold were two people who truly complimented each other. Their continued faith and love in Jesus was an example to family, friends and strangers alike. This is a great loss and they will truly be missed. A little rain can strengthen a flower stem. A little love can change a life. Author: Max Lucado, from a love worth giving.

Notes for Lawrence Beierle:

Lawrence Beierle, Born December 20, 1930, Passed May 22, 2010. Lawrence Beierle known as (Larry) was a very fun loving unique individual who loved his family with all his heart, and they were the most important thing to him. He was born in Brighton Colorado and has 3 surviving sisters Eva Koehler, Amelia Snyder, Darlene Newell, 2 surviving brothers Albert Beierle, Jack Beierle, a deceased brother Ben Beierle Jr. and deceased sister Mary Ells. When Lawrence was two years old his parents Lydia and Ben Beierle inherited a house in Brighton Colorado. It burned down and left them penny less. They were so broke they were forced to move to Barr Lake during the depression time. With the 7 siblings they were forced to survive by growing their own vegetables, hunting and fishing off the land.

Larry was only 13 years old when his parents started a bakery business called the Beierle Bakery in Denver Colorado. The whole family worked in the bakery. When Larry was 21 years old he joined the armed forces and fought in the Korean War. He married Glennis in 1953 and was married to her for 56 years. He worked as welder at Colorado Builders until the early 70's. Larry had two surviving daughters Sherry, Lori and a Granddaughter Candice. Larry's favorite hobby was garage sales, buying and selling he was a natural salesperson. Larry could make 10 cents into 10 dollars. He loved people and conversation he wore a cowboy hat with a rattle snake on top. He was also known as snake man by some people. He loved that hat because it would start up conversation whether it was to preach the bible or just general conversation.

Larry started his own business in the late 70's called Larry's thrift store and was able to buy his own arcade business. He turned the arcade business into investing in property and real estate for his retirement. He was just a natural business man and entrepreneur. A favorite hobby was gardening of beautiful roses, and other flowers. He loved them everywhere in his home. Larry was a Christian and believed in his faith his relationship with God was very important to him. He loved talking to you about the Bible and Religion. He had such a zest for life a very strong will to live. The last 3 months of his life he became very ill and struggled to live, he found great comfort with his family by his side. Then God saw him getting tired, so he put his arms around him and whispered come with me. We will miss him dearly as he told us don't cry for me I'll be in Gods hands someday and we will meet again.

Notes for Glennis Cole Anderson:

Glennis Beierle Born April 4, 1930 Passed September 5, 2011. Glennis Beierle surrounded her life around her two daughters Sherry, Lori and her Granddaughter Candice. She lived for them; they were the most important thing in her life. She loved her family with all her heart. She was born in Winner South Dakota and has 2 surviving sisters Pauline Watkins, Harriet Smith, one surviving brother William Anderson Jr. and one deceased sister Francis Anderson. When Glennis was 3 years old around 1933 her family lived on a farm in South Dakota where Glennis' mother and father worked the fields. The grasshoppers were so bad they would eat the laundry that was hung out to dry. They lost the farm because of the drought, and robbers would try to rob them during the depression.

They had to leave South Dakota, and moved to Omaha, Nebraska. She lived there until she was 13 years old when she lost her Mother to illness in 1944. Her father was in the Service overseas and was unable to take care of the children. Her older sister Harriett stayed in Omaha with the children until her father could get back home from Pearl Harbor; this was around 1943 when World War II had already started. Glennis's three older sisters who were 8 and 10 years older were unable to take care of her anymore. She lived in boarding schools until she was 15 years old. In 1946 her father thought it best for her to go to Washington D.C., to live with her sister Pauline who worked at the Pentagon, and go to high school there at (Central High) where she lived for 3 years. She graduated from High School in 1949. She lived in New Jersey for a couple of years and went to NYU, and lived on the beach. She said that was the happiest time of her life.

She struggled a lot in her younger years of her life when her sisters were busy with their lives and didn't have a lot of time for her. Her older sister Harriet loved her and cared about her so much she decided to move her into her house in Saint Louis for about a year. She moved to Denver with her sister Harriet and her family around 1952. Around this time she met her husband Lawrence Beierle, and the Beierle family. She worked in the Beierle family Bakery that was owned by them. She married Larry around 1953 and had their first child Sherry in 1954. They lived in a shack behind the bakery for a year before they bought a nice house in 1955. She was a house wife until Sherry was 6 yrs old; she had another child named Lori in 1961. Glennis worked as an Avon Lady for about 2 yrs until she got a position at Swedish Hospital as a clerk typist for 5 yrs. She took a position with the Dept. of State working as a dispatcher and worked there until late the 70's. She and her husband Larry started a thrift store, and were able to buy their own Video Arcade business until they later closed the arcade in the mid 90's. She later opened up her own Furniture store called Capitol Hill Furniture. She enjoyed buying and selling but her health started declining so she closed the store around 2002. She retired at home for the remaining years of her life. Her husband Larry died May 22, 2011, and they were married 56 years. She loved reading, collecting cookbooks, cooking, baking, theater and shopping with her girls. She loved spaghetti, hot dogs, bologna, and ice cream. Her health declined after the loss of her husband. This past year she remained in a rehab center in and out of the hospital. She finally got her wish to spend her last days in her most beloved home that she enjoyed with her family and friends.

Donald Beierle of Denver, Colorado Was born on July 30th 1959 in Denver, Colorado to Ben Beierle Jr. and Betty Beierle. He was one of four children. His passing was July 4th 2022. He attended Mile High Academy and graduated in 1977. He enjoyed studying law and spent time helping friends and family with his legal knowledge. He was also a process server for a period of time. He had a moving business but spent most of his time in the family business of Furniture and had several stores of his own. Don and his late wife Holly were partners in estate sales.

Our brother, son, father and friend fought a good fight. Pancreatic cancer is very painful and has a low survival rate. Don attempted to live his life to the fullest extent while he bravely fought cancer. He planted flowers and vegetables and even still mowed the lawn within his final weeks of life. His palliative care nurse mentioned how strong he was and all he did despite having lost over 100 lbs. He socialized with family and even enjoyed chess and a Rockies baseball game with his step son Zach at Coors Field which was on his bucket list.

Donald is survived by his mother Betty McAllister; sisters Debbie Rouse and Dee Dee Wine and brother Monty Beierle. He is also survived by three children Christopher Beierle, Tasha Pettis and Brandon Beierle. He is preceded in death by his father Ben Beierle JR, the mother of his children Cindy McMillen and his wife Holly Lincicome who passed away just short of a year before Don's death.

A simple graveside service will be held at Mount Pleasant Cemetery in Erie, Colorado on Thursday, July 14th 2022. He had a fondness for this resting place as he rode his motorcycle over the hills and watched the sunsets over the Rocky Mountains during his teen years. Donald was loved and will be dearly missed by family and friends!

Notes for Mary Ann Beierle:

Mary Ann Ells, 69, of Brighton, passed away on April 14, 2010. She was born in Denver, Colorado, and graduated from Champion Academy in Loveland in 1958. She married Ben Ells on Feb. 22, 1959, in Brighton. Mary helped operate the family dairy farm northeast of Brighton and worked at Beierele Bakery in Denver. She was a lifetime member of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in Brighton. She loved to host large family gatherings at the farm and enjoyed making her home open for all. She was always full of laughter and fun. She enjoyed reading, working crossword puzzles, sewing for her family, shopping and even collected Longer-Berger baskets and cook books.

Mary is survived by her husband, Ben Ells of Brighton; two sons, Ron (Jennifer) Ells and Kevin (Leah) Ells both of Brighton; a daughter, Cheri (Jamie Watson) Ells of Brighton; three brothers, Lawrence Beierele of Denver, Albert Beierele of California and Jack Beierele of Denver; three sisters, Eva Koehler of Colorado Springs, Millie Snyder of Colorado Springs and Darlene Newell of Las Vegas, Nev.; eight grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Visitation is 3-5 p.m. April 18 at Tabor-Rice Funeral Home. Funeral is 10 a.m. April 19, 2010, at the Brighton Seventh-day Adventist Church. Interment at Elmwood Cemetery. Tabor-Rice Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

Notes for Benjamin Jacob Ells:

Benjamin Jacob Ells, 87, of Brighton, fell into the arms of God on November 23, 2021 while at home on hospice. He is now resting peacefully with his wife Mary Ann Ells. He was born in Brighton, Colorado on July 19, 1934, the son of John and Mary (Bitter) Ells, the youngest of 10 siblings, 7 of which lived to adulthood. He was drafted by the Army in 1958. After serving his country for a year, he was discharged for hardship to get back to the family farm business due to his father having a stroke. He married his beautiful wife Mary Ann Ells on February 22, 1959 in Brighton and spent 51 years of marriage before Mary Ann's passing in 2010. He attended the Tonville School, which was right down the road from the family farm, receiving an 8th grade education. His life experience gave him the knowledge, skills, and ability to solve about any problem and fix about everything. He was a dedicated father to three children, Ron, Kevin, and Cheri.

Farm life is hard work with many sacrifices leaving little room for travel, hobbies, or other interests. Especially being a dairy farmer with cows that needed milked twice a day, seven days a week. Eventually when his children became old enough his wife was able to force him to travel. He was a lifetime member of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Brighton and gave generously to the church all his years. He and Mary Ann loved to host large family gatherings at the farm and enjoyed making their home open for all.

Ben was so hard working, loving, kindhearted, and generous. He loved God and his family. He was a Christian man to the core, so thankful for what God provided to him and his family and worked so hard to provide for them. He did not have a mean bone in his body yet was so tough and strong. He prayed all the time and was so thankful for what God helped him through. He loved God and family so very much. He helped anyone in need no matter how big or small. People came to him and he helped with whatever needed. He embraced everyone he knew.

Ben is survived by his children, Ron Ells (Jennifer), Kevin Ells (Leah), Cheri Ells (Jamie), sister Esther Morse of Iowa, 9 grandchildren (Kenton, Drew, Chantelle, Gage, Emily, Cody, Robbie, Kinzie, Trenten) and 6 great grandchildren (Haydin, Mason, Aubrey, Willow, Lyric and Colt). He was preceded in death by his parents, wife, and siblings, Mollie, Mary, Henry, another Mollie, Johnny, Willie, another Willie, and Martha.

Visitation will be held from 12:00-1:00 pm Friday, December 3 at the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Brighton, Colorado. Funeral services at 1:00pm following the visitation. Gravesite at Elmwood Cemetery, then a reception following at the church gymnasium. In lieu of flowers Ben would have appreciated donations to the Seventh Day Adventist Church, 567 E Bromley Lane, Brighton, Colorado 80601.

The younger [Stoll] named Art was a very successful Chevrolet dealer with dealerships in St. Joe/Benton Harbor, Niles and South Bend. He didn't require cash down payment. He married Vicky Sue Roberts 16 Aug 1969 in Manchester, Washtenaw Co, Michigan. She was born 06 Oct 1948.

Notes for Vicky Sue Roberts:

This Thursday, during the evening Gazebo concert, the Sesquicentennial Queen will be crowned. Vicky Wurster (Vicky Roberts at the time) played a special role 50 years during Manchester's Centennial celebration, serving as the Centennial Queen. Once she has been re-crowned this week, she will have the double distinction of serving both as Manchester's Centennial Queen and Manchester's Sesquicentennial Queen. Although unanimously appointed by the Sesquicentennial committee this time around, Wurster won her position fifty years ago. "I remember the question the judges asked me back in 1967. 'What does the 100- year celebration mean to you'. I said, 'It is to remind us of all the wonderful people who lived here and founded our town 100 years ago,'" she stated.

After the 1967 Centennial she went to school ... and got a Cosmetology License. Then she went to work and put herself through business classes at EMU and WCC. In August of 1969 she married Ray Wurster. They had two girls, Annette in 1971 and Tricia in 1973 and she now has three grandsons. Her daughter Annette had one son, Brady (16). She passed away from Cancer in 2003. Her daughter Tricia is married to Josh Harju. They live in Tecumseh and they have two boys, Karl (8) and Nickolas (6).

Wurster states that she has had many great career opportunities. "I love to work! I have managed businesses, owned businesses and worked for some great employers," she explained, "I just recently retired from St Joseph Mercy Chelsea Hospital in the Diagnostic Imaging Department." In her spare time she cooks, sews, walks, plants flower gardens, cuts crosses and angels from wood, and travels a little. She currently has a booth in the Chelsea Antique Mall where she buys and sell antiques and collectibles. Looking back over the last fifty years, Wurster states, "Fifty years is a lot to look back on! People, places and issues ... The changes are amazing. There has been a lot of good and some sad. For the most part I have had a great life. The most important part for me is having the people I love around me to enjoy the good, encourage me and help me through the sad."

Wurster would like to thank Ray Berg and all his committee members and volunteers, "You have all worked hard to make the Celebration of 150 years a success. Believe me when I say, 'You will not be forgotten!' I thought when the 100-year Centennial was over... it was all over! Well I am proof... it is not over because you say I am still it. Fifty years later I am still running around in a yellow dress with a crown on my head! So, in 2067 you will all be right back here planning the 200-year celebration. Thank you again for a job well done." Her final advice, "Take time to step back and enjoy your work!"

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Webb Werner, 556 Chandler, Chelsea. The bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Stautz of Manchester. The bride wore a white taffeta dress with chiffon at the top, a picture collar, lace flowers at the bodice and white ribbons at the shoulders. Flowing white sleeves gathered at the elbow and became lace sleeves leading to the wrists. The skirt had lace flowers and rows of lace to the floor, with a semi-cathedral train. She wore a picture hat with a blusher veil and matching lace. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds and white orchids. Matron of honor was Missie Ahrens, of Manchester, niece of the bride. She wore a long royal blue V-neck satin dress with short gathered sleeves and a sash that looped over the shoulder to form a bow at the waist. She carried a brass Hurricane lamp with blue and white silk flowers at the stem.

Identical dresses were worn by the bridesmaids, Lisa Hamilton, niece of the bride, Connie Widmayer, Manchester, and junior bridesmaid Natalie Stautz, niece of the bridegroom. The bride's and bridegroom's mothers wore pale peach two-piece A-line dresses with short pleated skirts and long sleeves. The bride's mother's dress had a pearl Gower decoration on the left side at the top, and the bridegroom's mother's dress had inlaid lace flowers across the bodice. Flower girl Cori Chrens, niece of the bride, wore a short white dress with a blue ribbon at the waist. She carried a small parcel of blue and white flowers. Best man was Brad Widmayer of Manchester. Ushers were Gary Stautz, brother of the bridegroom, Tom Marshall, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Randy Seitz, nephew of the bride. Vocalist was Ron Bollett, who sang "More," "And I Love You So" and "Hawaiian Wedding Song." Guests released balloons after the ceremony rather than throwing rice.

A reception was held at the American Legion hall in Manchester. Mrs. Art Gawson and Mrs. Ralph Wurster, aunts of the bride and bridegroom, cut and served the wedding cake. The couple's honeymoon was a cruise to the Bahamas. They currently live at 417 Territorial St., Manchester.

He married Rhonda Terk. She was born 14 Apr 1935 in Brooklyn, New York, and died 08 Jul 2018 in Easton, Pennsylvania.

Notes for Eugen Philip Stickel:

Gene Stickel, 90 (lovingly known as Pop Pop), passed away peacefully on January 13, 2025 surrounded by his loving family. His wife and soulmate of 41 years, Rhoda (Terk / Sturm) Stickel, preceded him in death. Gene and Rhoda made their home in Boonton, New Jersey for 39 years before moving to Easton, Pennsylvania in 2016.

Gene was raised by the late Karl and Anna (Krohmer) Stickel in Irvington, New Jersey. As a one-income first-generation immigrant family, Gene learned the value of hard work and earning what he could to support his family. At age 7, he was shining shoes in the busy city streets. Throughout his school years, Gene not only worked, but participated in basketball and track - he often boasted he was very fast. He joined the service at seventeen years old. He first served in the United States Navy as a Flight Engineer. After graduating from Barrington College in Rhode Island with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1960, Gene joined the United States Air Force and flew as a B-66 Navigator. He was stationed in Trinidad, Texas, California, Florida and South Carolina. After 10 years in the military, he enjoyed multiple experiences as a butcher, teacher, laborer, painter, and brewer. He became an avid pilot and boater with his big red Donzi. Gene retired after 25 years as a Quality Assurance Manager in the computer industry.

Gene and Rhoda were always quite adventurous, especially when they decided to marry and merge a family with five diverse (and often reckless) teenagers. They loved traveling which took them all over the world - visiting Europe, Galapagos' Islands, Mexico, ... In addition to flying, Gene enjoyed golfing, playing softball, basketball, watching his Kansas City Chiefs, and spending time with his grandchildren. He also enjoyed exploring the sea through scuba diving. He was an avid choral member, spending years performing with the Morris Conservatory where he enjoyed the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's Messiah (one he performed every year without fail).

He leaves behind his children, Peter Sturm and wife Roxanne, Colly Stickel and wife Diane, Carol Hartman and husband Kevin, David Sturm and wife Nancy, and Timothy Stickel and wife Andrea; grandchildren, Brian Stickel, Jason Stickel and wife Laura, Kyle Hartman, Kaylee Stickel, Sarah Clabaugh and husband Joel, Jesse Stickel and wife Kylie, and Jessica Sturm; great-grandsons, Lucas and Elias; and sister Marge. His brother Carl and his sister Anne preceded him in death.

Family and friends are invited to Gene's viewing on Friday, January 17, from 5:00 PM to 7:00 PM and Saturday from 11:00 AM until the service begins. Funeral services will be held on Saturday, January 18, at 12:00 Noon in the Pearson Funeral Home, 1901 Linden Street, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. In lieu of flowers, donations may be sent to Heifer International, 1 World Avenue, Little Rock, Arkansas 72202

Notes for Rhonda Terk:

Our family sadly announces the passing of Rhoda T. Stickel, 83, of Easton, Pennsylvania, formerly of Boonton Township, New Jersey, on Sunday, July 8, 2018. She was the wife of Gene Stickel for 41 years. Born in Brooklyn, New York, she was the daughter of the late Ruby and Frieda Terk and was preceeded in death by her older sister, Sally. Rhoda earned both a Bachelor's and Master's degree from Goddard College and worked toward her post-doctoral degree in Behavior Analysis at Fairleigh Dickinson University. As a Special Education Teacher/Learning Disabilities Consultant, she worked with behaviorally disadvantaged teenagers in the Teaneck, NJ School System. After retiring, her passion for helping kids continued through her private practice.

Gene and Rhoda traveled the world from Africa to South America to Europe, always making a stop in Disney World to spoil their grandchildren. Being avid music lovers, they sang in multiple choruses and enjoyed all that New York's performing arts had to offer. Rhoda was devoted to her family and kept everyone together during Boonton Thanksgivings, Christmas celebrations and many large family vacations in the Outer Banks, North Carolina and Woodloch Pines Resort in Pennsylvania.

She is survived by her beloved Sweetheart, Gene; four sons, Peter Sturm and his wife Roxanne, Colly Stickel and his wife Diane, David Sturm and his wife Nancy, and Timothy Stickel; a daughter, Carol Hartman and her husband Kevin; and seven grandchildren, Brian Stickel, Jason Stickel and his wife Laura, Kyle Hartman, Kaylee Stickel, Sarah Sturm, Jesse Stickel and Jessica Sturm.

Services will be held at 11:00 a.m. on Friday, July 13, in the Pearson Funeral Home, 1901 Linden Street, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. Family and friends are invited for visitation 4:00 - 7:00 p.m. on Thursday and 10:00 - 11:00 a.m. on Friday. In lieu of flowers, the family requests that we honor Rhoda's dedication to saving animals by making a contribution to Best Friends Animal or 5001 Angel Canyon Road, Kanab, Utah 84741.

Notes for Russell Malcolm (Rusty) Drumm, Jr.:

Russell Drumm was born in Syracuse, New York on a snowy Feb. 8, 1947. He grew up in Levittown, Long Island, source of his rather black humor. After graduating from Colgate University, he earned a masters degree in filmmaking at Columbia University. After working on documentary films including the Academy Award-winning "Harlan County U.S.A.," he fled the city to work as a deckhand on a commercial fishing boat out of Montauk, N.Y. A subsequent stab at running seafood-processing business ended when the supply of Jonah crabs was curtailed. Drumm landed on his feet at The East Hampton Star newspaper where he has worked for the past 25 years reporting on sport and commercial fishing, the environment, and local history. He has been a contributor to Smithsonian, Surfer's Journal, Graphis, and National Fisherman Magazines. He has previously published two books, "In the Slick of the Cricket" a first-person account of sailing with Frank Mundus, the shark-fishing captain who was the inspiration for Quint in Peter Benchley's "Jaws," and "The Barque of Saviors," the history of the sail-training ship Eagle's passage from the Nazi Navy to the U.S. Coast Guard. Drumm spent part of his youth in Hawaii, where much of his most-recent book, "A Rogue's Yarn" takes place. He lives in Montauk with his wife Kyle, four surfboards, a sailboat, and Cha Cha the cat. His daughter Melissa, a graduate of the University of Hawaii, lives nearby.

June 27, 2016 -Remembering Rusty Drumm - Local Writer, Legendary Surfer, and Co-Founder of The Montauk Surf Museum. Montauk will not be the same without Russell "Rusty" Drumm, legendary surfer, fisherman, writer, and co-founder of The Oceans Institute of the Montauk Lighthouse Museum, aka The Montauk Surf Museum, that just opened last summer. Born in Syracuse, NY on February 8, 1947, raised in Levittown, Long Island, Rusty passed away on January 16, 2016 at the age of 68. He spent over 40 of those years in his favorite place on earth, Montauk, where he had resided since 1974. Here he expressed himself through surfing, fishing, writing, and in "The End," dedicating his life's passion to the co-founding of The Montauk Surf Museum, a legacy that he will leave for generations to come.

Despite his many extraordinary accomplishments, including a Master's Degree in film from Columbia University, Rusty was a "humble" man, soft-spoken, mild-mannered, and kind to everyone he encountered. He had so many friends from all walks of life who loved and respected him. He took on causes that had meaning not just to him, but also to the Montauk community at large. As a writer for The East Hampton Star for 33 years, he wrote about fishermen's rights, the environment, surfing, nature, and whatever topic intrigued him. He also was the author of three books. But it was the ocean that inspired him, that first drew him out to Montauk. His fascination with the ocean lasted throughout his life as a surfer, fisherman, and explorer of nature. He was eager to spread his lifelong knowledge about ocean currents, sea-level rise, and the formation of waves in his vision that became a reality last summer, The Montauk Surf Museum, located in the former Fog Signal House constructed in 1896 at The Montauk Point Lighthouse.

Rusty Drumm's purpose for the museum was to focus on geography, oceanography, and meteorology to introduce people to the physics, nature, and history of surfing and how it got to the east coast and Montauk from its Polynesian origins. Several installations and displays would illustrate the many aspects of surfing, from the origins of waves to the evolution of surfboard design and wetsuit technology, to coastal phenomena such as erosion and sea-level rise. As Rusty acknowledged, "The concept of the museum is to use the popularity of surfing as a way to help visitors to the museum understand the science behind surfing."

Rusty first took up the sport of surfing in Hawaii in the mid-1960s, where his father worked for a few summers as a hospital administrator. Back on Long Island, Rusty was among a group of surfers from Levittown (including surfing buddy Tony Villar) who surfed the Gilgo Beach area, notably the surf spots Hemlocks and Democrat Point, before coming out to Montauk.

Rusty drew inspiration and happiness from his loving wife, Kyle Paseka, his daughter Melissa, and his precious granddaughter Quinn, born June 2, 2015. Rusty introduced Melissa to surfing at an early age in Montauk. She then surfed at some of the best surfing spots around the world, including Hawaii. She later studied at The University of Hawaii, before returning back to the East End to raise a family. Rusty and Kyle met in 2004 and were married in 2008, the third marriage for both. They were like two peas in a pod. Both were writers, adventurers, nature lovers, and ocean worshippers. They traveled the world together, going on surfing safaris, skiing adventures, and sailing voyages. They would tell stories to each other while anchored at night on their sailboat, "Leilani," after a good day of fishing and surfing, with only the glistening stars above and the waves breaking below. They were a duo, simpatico, in harmony with nature, the sea, and each other. As Kyle memorialized him in The East Hampton Star, "There will never be another like him, ever. He did it right. He knew how to live. He gets an A+ for his time here on earth. What a stellar example for everyone."

Rusty has left his impression on all of us who knew him. He was a legend, a kind soul, a thinker, a nature lover, and a man whose passion about the ocean and the environment will have a long-lasting effect on Montauk and all those who visit it. Montauk will always love and remember you Rusty!

Notes for Michael Lewis Ketter:

Michael L. Ketter, 48, of Pittsburgh, died Sunday, May 17, 2009. Beloved husband of Gina (Pitta) Ketter. Son of the late Robert Ketter and Lorelei Ketter. Brother of Kay Nottis, Sue White and Mary Ketter-Franklin. Daddy of Merlin, Zoron and Putt-Putt. Michael was a much-loved program director and on-air radio personality with WBCQ international short-wave radio station. In the 1990s, he was operations manager and on-air broadcaster for WYEP-FM. Michael was a professional photographer as well as composer of electronic music. No visitation. Private services to be held in Western New York. Arrangements by Stathers Funeral and Cremation Services Inc., 7400 Irvine St., Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15218. Family suggests memorial contributions to Forbes Hospice, 115 S. Neville St., Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15213.

May 24, 2009 - By age 16, Michael Ketter already had compiled an impressive photography portfolio while working as official interview photographer for public radio station WBFO-FM in Buffalo, New York. Over the next three decades, the multitalented man would also become a radio personality and engineer, musician, composer, and owner of an art gallery called Eyes in Wilkesburg. "He was a true Renaissance man," said Allan Weiner, owner of WBCQ, an international shortwave radio station in Maine at which Mr. Ketter was a broadcaster and program director. "He dabbled in all the arts and was a master in all."

Mr. Ketter died last Sunday of an anoxic brain injury. He was 48. Mr. Ketter could boast of having created at least eight shows on WBCQ, centering on everything from music to the politics of the day. "He was so bright and so talented and such a sweet man," said Mr. Ketter's wife, Regina. Mr. Ketter was born and raised in Buffalo. After graduating from high school, he moved to New York City, where he worked at Olden Camera Co. and immersed himself in the fast-paced world of fashion photography.

In 1979, Mr. Ketter moved to Pittsburgh to attend The Art Institute and played in several punk rock bands in the early 1980s. A mutual friend and a mutual interest in music brought him together with his wife, then a music student at Duquesne University. "It was a kind of love-at-first-sight thing," said Ms. Ketter. "A little light bulb went off in my head and I just knew it."

They married in 1983. In 1987, when radio station WYEP-FM received a grant to come back to the airwaves, Mr. Ketter worked to help the station begin anew. He worked as a studio engineer, designing the studio, selecting and purchasing necessary equipment and training staff. Mr. Ketter served as operations manager through the 1990s. "Michael could pretty much figure out any issue that came up technically," said Rosemary Welsch, Afternoon Mix host and producer at WYEP. "He was really into the mechanics of things but he was also a very spiritual person ... very calm, very centered, very focused." After leaving WY.....

Notes for John Howard Kraft:

John Howard Kraft, 69, of Traverse City, passed away peacefully Monday, Oct. 4, 2010, with his loving family by his side. John was born Nov. 22, 1940, to Howard Allen and Lorna B. (Andrews) Kraft in Pontiac. He married Sandy McFatridge on Oct. 23, 1964, in Detroit. John went to school in Redford Township, where he excelled in athletics. He then went on to Central Michigan University and earned a degree in Teaching with a minor in Biology. After college he returned to his home town to teach Biology at Redford Township High School. John changed careers and moved the family to California, where he went into the sales division for Market Forge as a regional sales manager. The family decided to be closer to their roots and moved to Traverse City. Silcraft Corporation was born in 1980 as a result of his prior experience in the medical equipment industry. He identified an important need in the long-term and assisted living industries. For the next 17 years he oversaw and managed Silcraft and sold to Invacare Corporation in 1997. After retiring from Silcraft he and Sandy traveled extensively. Realizing retirement was not for him he bought Bay Breeze Yacht Charters in 2000 with his son Jay. They then started Bay Breeze Yacht Sales in 2002 after taking on the Nordic Tug trawler product line. After selling Bay Breeze Yacht Charters in 2008 they focused on Bay Breeze Yacht Sales exclusively, where he remained an active partner until his death. John was a sportsman, loved sailing the Caribbean and delivering Nordic Tugs throughout the Great Lakes. Family and friends were a huge part of John's life, and he will be greatly missed by all. His latest and greatest joy was his only grandchild, three-year-old Keara. She lovingly referred to John as Papa.

Surviving John are his wife, Sandy; mother, Lorna; children, John Joseph "Jay" Kraft, Korenne Allyn Kraft and Adam Ardon (Marianne) Kraft; and granddaughter, Keara. John was preceded in death by his grandparents, Ora and Edna Andrews, and Carrie and Joseph Kraft; father, Howard; and brother, Joe.

Visitation for John will take place on Thursday, Oct. 7, from 5 to 8 p.m., at the Reynolds-Jonkhoff Funeral Home. Funeral services will take place on Friday, Oct. 8, at 11 a.m., with a visitation held one-hour prior, also at the funeral home. Memorial contributions may be directed to the Watershed Center, Grand Traverse Bay.

Notes for Sandra Maie (Sandy) McFatridge:

Sandra Maie Kraft, 74, of Traverse City, passed away unexpectedly in her sleep Friday, Oct. 21, 2016 at her Traverse City home. Sandy was born on Monday, Sept. 14, 1942 to the late Harry and Esther (Smith) McFatridge in Big Rapids. She attended schools in that area, graduating from L'Anse Creuse High School. Sandy was one to push the envelope, perhaps attributable to her dad being a Detroit police officer. She became a model in her younger years, which she enjoyed. She met and married John H. Kraft, and they became the parents of three children. John passed away Oct. 4, 2010.

Over the years Sandy had been a real estate agent, owned and operated Sandy's Flower Shop on South Airport Road and yet, her greatest joy in life was being a homemaker, caring for her husband and children. In recent years Sandy became very involved in Alcoholics Anonymous and was a sponsor to many women in the area. She was known for giving everyone a fair shot and felt honored to give the opportunity to be of help and encouragement to the women she sponsored, having several of them stay in her home over the years so that she could be a constant role model. She enjoyed antiques, really enjoyed refinishing furniture and enjoyed spending time either working in her beautiful gardens with her daughter or doing a lap around the bay and delivering a Nordic Tug with her son, Jay.

Sandy is survived by her children, Adam (Mari), of Ft. Wayne, Indiana, Korennne Kraft and Jay Kraft, both of Traverse City; her grandchildren, Keara Kaitlin and Kyleigh; her sister, Janet Slanec, of Dade City, Florida; and many wonderful, treasured and beloved friends. In addition to her parents and husband, Sandy was preceded in death by a brother, Fred.

A time to celebrate Sandy's life will take place in the coming weeks at her home in Traverse City with an announcement preceding the date. Memorial contributions to honor Sandy's memory may be directed to her favorite organizations, the Father Fred Foundation or AA. Please share your memories as well as thoughts with Sandy's family by visiting her tribute page at www.reynolds-jonkhoff.com. The family is being cared for by Reynolds-Jonkhoff Funeral Home and Cremation Services.

Notes for Brian Kenneth Frost:

With profound sadness we announce the passing of Brian Kenneth Frost, who battled with some health issues this past year. He left us sleeping peacefully at U of M Hospital in Ann Arbor, Michigan on the afternoon of Jan. 12, 2020. During that week previous he was still being Brian with his jokes & laughter until the "peace" settled in him. Born in Lansing, Michigan on September 17, 1967 to the late Kenneth Arthur Frost & Judy Ann (Keck) Frost. They moved up north shortly thereafter where they made their family home in Petoskey, Michigan. As a child/teenager Brian loved fishing, making forts in the woods, riding his ATV and picking on his sisters, Leanne and Krista, but the most fun for him was the coon & bear hunting with his late Uncle Doug Hickman, his uncle Fred Keck & many others. His hunting dogs were his treasure... especially "Sypher" whom he adored.

He became a huge Nascar fan & would enjoy hosting parties for friends & family, sharing food, laughs, cards & “good cheer”. He also attended many Nascar races himself in Michigan, North Carolina & Florida. The casino was one of his other fun pastimes, where you could find him enjoying his slot machines and was known by most everyone there. After graduating from Petoskey High School, Petoskey, Michigan in 1986 he attended Mid-Michigan College completing his HRA trades program. Brian worked for Petoskey Propane & also for his dad at Frost HVAC until starting his own business, Brian Frost Landscaping, over 25 years ago. He achieved fulfillment through his business nature, his gift of gab & true business man nature. Which made him proud. His laugh, his smile, his ability to talk for hours, his straightforwardness, his way of always have to have the last word, his hardness, his softness & even his love for chips with his sandwiches & vanilla ice cream with peanut butter describes Brian in every way.

Brian is survived by his wife Gretchen Frost (Ostrander) of Traverse City, Michigan his daughter Taylor (Frost) Amicone (Nick); Eaton Rapids, Michigan and his son Peyton Frost: Holt, Michigan. His only grandchild Stella Frost; Eaton Rapids, Michigan, mother Judy Frost, Petoskey, Michigan, sister Leanne Frost (Nouriddin Kriwar); Petoskey, Michigan, sister Krista Frost; Cape Girardeau, Missouri. Also his niece Sydney Frost & nephew Isaac Attias. Many Aunts, Uncles & Cousins from both Michigan and New Hampshire, his mother & father-in-law Lewis & Connie Ostrander & Wendy (Dan) Kepitis, former wife and mother of Brian’s children.

Brian was preceded in death by his father Kenneth Arthur Frost, grandfather William Frost, grandmother Luella Frost (Hood), aunt Betty Frost, grandfather Frank Keck, grandmother Phyllis Keck (Bolinger) and his uncle Doug Hickman.

Saturday, January 25th, there will be a gathering of friends & family to remember Brian. It is being held at the Wolverine Free Methodist Church in Wolverine, Michigan. Family time will start at 11 a.m. with general visitation at 12 p.m. Service will begin at 1 p.m. to be followed by a luncheon. Officiated by Pastor Steve Evoy. Taylor, Peyton, Leanne, Krista & his mother request you bring an item that reminds you of Brian. It will all be boxed and laid to rest next to his father.

John Keck served with Co. B, 102 Pennsylvania Infantry. He re-enlisted March 18, 1864, and was wounded May 5, 1864. During his first enlistment, in 1963, he was reduced in rank from corporal to private at his own request! Keck, a mill hand as a civilian, was hospitalized for many months after being wounded. Area residents who desire similar information should write to the above address for details.

Notes for Jason Elliott Stollsteimer:

1978 – Imagine the anxiety and jubilation of a new grandchild - then multiply it by three. No, it's not a set of triplets, but three grandchildren have expanded the family of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stollsteimer of Dearborn in the last month, each to a different son or daughter.

An eight pound eleven-ounce baby boy, Jason Elliott, was born to Terry and Lynne M. (Simowski) Stollsteimer of Plymouth. Jason arrived April 22 at 5:28 a.m. in Providence Hospital, and measured 20-1/2 inches.

The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Simowski of Dearborn Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McNeil, also of Dearborn Heights, are proud great-grandparents. Jason will be a new brother to Eric, age two-and-a-half years.

Lynn G. and Helene (Stollsteimer) DeFrance of Haslett, Michigan had their first child in the person of Jeffrey Lynn, born at 2:26 p.m. May 10 in Sparrow Hospital in Lansing. Jeffrey weighed in at eight pounds, nine ounces, and was 21 inches from top to bottom. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George DeFrance of Battle Creek.

The third Stollsteimer descendant is Jennifer, born to Michael A. and Janis (Stollsteimer) Germani of Detroit. Jennifer made her debut on May 13 at 1:56 a.m. in the Bi-County Hospital in Warren. She weighed six pounds, five ounces, measured 19-1/2 inches and is the Germani's first child. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Andre Fournier of Compiegne, France.

Jason Stollsteimer (born Jason Elliott Stollsteimer on April 22, 1978 in Southfield, Michigan) is an American musician who was the vocalist and guitarist for the indie rock band The Von Bondies, which disbanded in 2011. Stollsteimer also was the main songwriter and producer of the Von Bondies. He released three studio albums with The Von Bondies and currently is working on his first full length album with The Hounds Below.

Musical career

Lack of Communication - His debut album, Lack of Communication, was released in 2001 on Sympathy for the Record Industry. Jason toured the states with the first incarnation of The Von Bondies featuring longtime friend Carrie Smith on the bass, Don Blum on drums and Marcie Bolen (Silverghost, Slumber Party) on Guitar. Over ten U.S. tours were done in order to help promote the record. The group shared the stage with The Cramps, on their 8th US tour. Jason and The Von Bondies also played several shows in the U.K. and Europe and a live performance on the Later... with Jools Holland in London.

Raw & Rare - In 2003 the Von Bondies released a live record that consisted mostly of recording from live BBC recordings from the John Peel.

Pawn Shoppe Heart - In 2004, Stollsteimer released his second studio album, Pawn Shoppe Heart, and toured extensively in the US, UK, and Europe

"C'mon C'mon" was the first single and reached the UK Top 25 for the first time (peaking at #21), and also generated some huge buzz for Stollsteimer.

One other single was released from the album. "Tell me what you see" which reached number 43 in the UK charts. Almost every track from the album has appeared in numerous commercials, Movies and TV shows. One song in particular (c'mon c'mon) was used more than all the others combined. From uses in local radio commercials/adverts to the main theme song of the hit F/X television show Rescue Me. While touring this record Stollsteimer played the Reading and Leeds Festivals, Glastonbury Festival and Coachella Valley Music and Arts Festival

Love, Hate and Then There's You - Jason Stollsteimer's last release with the Von Bondies, "Love, Hate and Then There's You," has gone through a long process of discovery and change before coming to its current polished form.

In early 2006, a handful of demos were posted on the Von Bondies Myspace page. Later the band posted more songs on the MySpace page including "Shut Your Mouth," "Pale Bride," and "Only to Haunt You." Don Blum played drums on these recordings with all other instruments played by Jason. Love, Hate and Then There's You was the first time Stollsteimer ever collaborated songwriting with anyone. The songs "This is our perfect crime" and "Accidents will Happen" were co-written with Butch Walker who also produced some songs on the album. The songs "blame game" and "Earthquake" were co-written with longtime drummer Don Blum. The album was eventually released in 2009 on Majordomo Records.

The Von Bondies is an American alternative rock band. Its current members are Jason Stollsteimer on vocals and lead guitar, Christy Hunt on rhythm guitar and Leann Banks on bass guitar.

The original line-up formed at the 1997 Cramps/Guitar Wolf show by Stollsteimer and Marcie Bolen. They went through a variety of member changes and band names, including The Baby Killers, before settling on 'The Von Bondies' in 2000. Don Blum joined the band around 1999 after attending numerous Baby Killers shows, while Leann Banks was picked via an audition. The Von Bondies got their break by playing a New Year's Eve show in Detroit, MI in 2000. In attendance at the show was Long Gone John, owner of the Sympathy for the Record Industry label. This led to Sympathy releasing the band's debut album "Lack of Communication" in 2001.

In 2003, the band released the live "Raw and Rare" through Dim Mak Records, which was followed by their 2004 breakthrough release, "Pawn Shoppe Heart", on Sire Records. Met with glowing reviews, "Pawn Shoppe" was produced by Jerry Harrison of Talking Heads and co-produced by singer Jason Stollsteimer.

The album reached a peak of #36 in the UK and #8 on Billboard's Top Heatseekers chart and stayed in the chart for eight weeks. The big single from this release was "C'mon C'mon," which reached #25 on the Billboard Singles chart and garnered national radio play for the band.

A shortened version of "C'mon C'mon" is the theme song to the TV series "Rescue Me" and is performed live by the band in Michael Winterbottom's film "9 Songs". MLB Network also uses a brief clip of the song as the opening of their new show "30 Clubs in 30 Days".

In 2008, the band signed with indie label Majordomo Records, joining label mates The Airborne Toxic Event and Earlimart. Their label debut, "Love, Hate and Then There's You", was released in February 2009 featuring the single "Pale Bride."

Known as a touring act, The Von Bondies have headlined tours of the United Kingdom/Europe, Australia, and the United States, taking along supporting bands like The Kills, Kasabian, Franz Ferdinand, Modey Lemon, SSM, The Subways, The Stills, Hot Panda and The Donnas. They have also appeared on "Late Show with David Letterman", "Last Call with Carson Daly" and "CD:UK".

The Von Bondies song "C'mon C'mon" was announced to appear as a downloadable track for the music video game series "Rock Band" on March 31, 2009.

The Hounds Below - Stollsteimer is also the leader of The Hounds Below. The group's debut album is set to be recorded in early 2012.

Early life - Stollsteimer was born in Southfield, Michigan. His mother was a nurse, and his father an architect. He grew up in the Detroit suburbs of Plymouth, Michigan with his one brother, Eric. As a child, he went to school at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park. He later lived in Ann Arbor/Ypsilanti, where in 1997 he became friends with his new schoolmate at College, Marcie Bolen, who would become his band's first guitarist. A year later, while studying at Washtenaw Community College, Stollsteimer met Don Blum who would eventually become his drummer in the band The Von Bondies.

Jason Stollsteimer readies new band Ponyshow (Band made of former Von Bondies will make a Blowout debut)
By Brett Callwood

It's been a year and a half years since we put Jason Stollsteimer on the cover of MT, alongside his Hounds Below bandmates and the headline "The Von Bondies were a hit. Can Jason Stollsteimer do it again with the Hounds Below?" As the singer and guitarist prepares for his set at Blowout 17 with another band, Ponyshow (he prefers the name to be written in all-caps), the answer to that question from October '12 has to be "No."

Not that the Hounds Below (or the Von Bondies, for that matter) has necessarily broken up; Stollsteimer insists that both projects are there to be reanimated whenever he and perhaps the other members involved are feeling it. He simply became tired of a persistently shifting Hounds Below lineup, a change in sound or two, and an album that, while brilliant, he feels went to waste because the band didn't tour enough after its release.

For many musicians, the changing sound of a band is part of its evolution, part of the creative process. Not for Stollsteimer. "The first time you hear [Ponyshow], that will define us for the rest of your life," he says. "That's the way it should be. The change of sounds is where every band goes wrong. If we want to change sounds a few years from now, we'll just do a new band."

So Ponyshow is a new band, fair enough. It's interesting though, because the trio is completed by two more former Von Bondies — drummer Don Blum and later-era bassist Leann Banks. It seems entirely natural that, when forced to admit that the Hounds Below wasn't going to be making any great strides anytime soon, Stollsteimer would turn to two people that he refers to as "great friends." A Von Bondies reunion was never in the cards though, and, with Banks still a member of Amy Gore's Valentines and After Dark Amusement Park, and with Blum having removed himself from music altogether for a couple of years, this is a band that has to be content with baby steps for the time being.

We meet with Stollsteimer and Banks at the WAB in Ferndale on a quiet Wednesday afternoon. Stollsteimer is, unusually for him, sporting facial hair due to his imminent appearance in a music video for New York band the Cold Blood Club. The two of them live in Ferndale (Banks works next door at the Emory), so this is home base for them.

"Doing this band, I feel for the first time like I'm going back to the reason I started listening to music, not even just writing music," Stollsteimer says. "I grew up with the Pixies and Pavement, and I always wanted to be in a band like that. When Leann joined the Von Bondies, she was a replacement and I've always wanted to do a band with her from scratch. From Day One, it's these three people. The band will break up the first time somebody leaves. I don't want to break up, but I'm just saying. I played with Don for eight years. I missed Don and, besides music, this is a good excuse for me to see two of my best friends. Whatever comes of it comes of it."

The fascinating thing about Stollsteimer is that he will insist Ponyshow is a "band," it's an equal three-way split. But the man is so talkative, it's so in his nature to lead, that Banks struggles to get a word in. That's no slight on either of them; it's just the way things naturally lie. Back when we interviewed the Hounds Below in '12, Stollsteimer insisted that he wanted it to be a real band and not just his band, but that was never going to be the case, given the ages and personalities of those involved (the other members of that band were significantly younger than the singer). With Ponyshow, he's at least grouped himself with two people that he trusts completely, of a similar age, who have the confidence to push their thoughts forward when they need to. Stollsteimer is a big personality and he needs that. Craves it, even.

The references to Pavement and the Pixies are valid. Ponyshow has a sound that is rooted in the '90s — simple bass lines and guitar work providing the framework for dual male-female vocals and Blum's melodic drumming. "I've played with a few drummers and they were all amazing, but with Don it's the weirdest thing," says Stollsteimer. "It's different. Every kick drum hit is on. It's amazing. Leann has the ability to play very difficult bass lines without breaking a sweat, but with this band, it's not what we do. It's like the Motown thing, where they used great jazz musicians who found it easy to play the Motown songs."

Banks was in her early 20s when she joined the Von Bondies, and, in retrospect, that band was starting to wind down. Now 30, she's a lot more experienced and confident. "The only band I'd ever played with before I joined the Von Bondies was Ghost City (with Electric Six's Chris Tait)," says Banks. "It only lasted a year or so — our last show was actually our CD release party. Then I joined the Von Bondies, and I was such a newbie. It took me a minute to find my thing that was me. I'm 30 and I'm still only just coming into what I feel is me. I didn't listen to the Von Bondies before I joined. It was heavy and dark, and I was very into pop — Sloan and the Beatles. But sometimes it's fun to play a couple of notes and really just put it out there and have fun with the whole thing."

It'll be interesting to see how Ponyshow evolves, and you'll get a chance at a first glimpse when the band plays Blowout. Don't expect any Von Bondies tunes, but do expect something interesting from three musicians who are very in tune with each other.

"I always looked at the Blowout as a way to discover bands that you've heard about, and see them live," Stollsteimer says. "Leann's first show with Amy Gore was at Blowout. So if you wanted to see what Leann or Amy or Jackson [Smith] was doing next, you had to go to that show. Now, this will be Ponyshow's first show in Michigan."

Gary Weidmayer of Bridgewater Township is a farmer, born and bred, and almost always has been. He plants corn, winter wheat and soybeans, raises cattle, and sells hay to stable owners for their horses on a farm that his father bought in 1940. But his family ties to the Manchester area go back further than that. His relatives have lived there since at least 1840, when they helped establish and build Bethel United Church of Christ.

"My great-great-grandfather worked on that," said Weidmayer, who said the ancestors of his wife, Karen, also worked on the project. "They were the Kueblers. It was the Kueblers and Weidmayers who built the church," said Karen Weidmayer, who is a secretary at Manchester High School. Both Gary and Karen have attended Bethel church all of their lives.

The family owns 380 acres and rents 750 acres more. Their large, white farmhouse sits on a slight hill amid numerous outbuildings and barns, with two silos tucked behind. He only has two exceptions to his life's work in the farming industry – a three-month stint at a factory and three weeks in the National Guard during the 1967 riots. "I know where I was 40 years ago," he said last week. "I was down there two weeks setting up communications with the 156 signal corps. There was mass confusion. ... After that, everybody needed riot control training."

Something he finds satisfying about farming is taking a tour of his fields on his tractor, especially with his loyal companion, Sparky, the couple's Border Collie, at his side. "That dog will ride the combine, a tractor, the pickup. When the pickup goes down the road, it had better have the dog in it. She will sit and wait for him, or go look for him at the neighbor's," Karen Weidmayer said. Baling hay was on the agenda last Monday, and Gary Weidmayer was a bit discouraged at lunchtime about the decreased amount of hay because of a lack of rainfall. "The last six weeks have been really dry. We don't have irrigation. "We don't have enough acres (of hay), so we can't justify digging a well," Weidmayer said, adding that irrigation would not solve the problem, since that would make the ground too wet in some circumstances to grow hay. "We were hoping for rain, but we get just enough," said Karen Weidmayer. Her husband agreed, remembering the drought of 1988, which ended in mid-July with downpours the rest of the growing year.

Their corn is growing and looks green in the field; however, if there is no rain, the ears may not develop. "The soybeans look good, but if they don't get rain when they're podding up, the pods don't grow," Karen Weidmayer said. She expected the roots of the corn would grow deeper to find water. "Corn is probably our biggest crop here," she said. "It's expensive to grow because of the cost of the fertilizer." The Weidmayers sell the corn to Global Ethanol, a new company in Riga that converts corn to diesel fuel. Weidmayer bought stock in the company because he believes in the future of it as a fuel source, and to help boost the price and demand for corn. Weidmayer said the company uses 50,000 bushels of corn a day, and was getting more efficient at making the product. It sells the by-products as livestock feed, so there is little waste, he said.

Weidmayer is concerned about the future of farming. He foresees a continual decline in the small farm because of the cost of equipment, and the money invested in livestock and crops. "What I look at is, there will be more big farms, not as many small farms," he said. "You plant corn in April or May, and you don't get your money until October or November, and maybe you don't sell it all at once. All of that money is invested. You need to borrow when you need it, and pay it back when you can."

Weidmayer tries to buy and sell cattle every month. He gets double what he pays for them, but he feeds and cares for them for a year before he sells them. It is a big investment, so it helps to have some money coming in every month. Weidmayer served for 14 years on the Farm Credit Board, a board that lends money to farmers, so he knows the bind farmers get into with credit. He knows they need a good banker who knows what they need. During his term on the board, he saw a number of farm foreclosures.

Weidmayer said he used to run a dairy farm, but he and his son, Greg, who had been helping him on the farm, needed to expand and update to make it feasible. They decided to discontinue the dairy side of the business, so Greg got a full-time job with Manchester Village. He helps his father after work, maintaining the farming equipment. The Weidmayer's said they both hope that someday, their son will take over the farm.

The Weidmayer's enjoy the close bond of both of their children living nearby. Their daughter, Amy, and her family live diagonally across the field, from them, with Gary's mother, Irma, on the same road. Greg and his wife, Melanie, are a few houses down. Melanie owns the Manchester Bakery, and Amy was recently elected to the Bridgewater Township Board.

Research Interests & Areas

Chemical nanosensors and microsensors are valuable tools for investigating complex biological systems. These tiny sensors, which have active sensing elements between 100 nm and 10  $\mu$ m wide (about 1/1000th to 1/10th the diameter of a hair), can measure very small changes in concentration in real time with very high spatial resolution. Such advantages can be exploited in two ways. First, a chemical image can be created by systematically measuring the concentrations of chemical species as a function of sensor location. A technique that we extensively employ, Scanning Electrochemical Microscopy (SECM), is based upon this principle. Second, transient and localized changes in the concentration of a chemical species can be monitored in real time using a stationary sensor. This principle serves as the basis of several techniques (such as amperometry and fast-scan voltammetry) for real-time monitoring dynamic biological systems. 5  $\mu$ m microsensor Our research is aimed at combining these two powerful approaches into a single instrument, the Biological Scanning Electrochemical Microscope (BioSECM), particularly for investigating neurotransmitter release from cultured neurons during growth and neurodegeneration. One significant advantage of the BioSECM over other methods for investigating these systems is that topographical and chemical imaging can take place simultaneously. This means that structure-function relationships of neurons (or model neurons) can be studied. Schematic Diagram of the BioSECM Imaging Process Because of the interdisciplinary nature of this research, students from both biology and chemistry (or biochemistry) are needed. Those with an interest or aptitude in instrumentation (e.g. electronics, computer hardware, and computer programming), cell culture, or nanotechnology will find this research particularly rewarding. In order to realize the potential of the BioSECM, substantial improvements in the instrumentation and the sensor must be achieved. These improvements, along with brief descriptions of the biological applications of the instrument, are summarized below. Instrument Improvement In order to use the SECM for high-resolution chemical and topographical imaging of biological samples, we must develop our own hardware, software, and techniques. We have recently developed a method for imaging cultured model neurons directly in the growth media, a critical step toward our long-term goal of measuring release during neuronal development. However, this goal can only be achieved if the BioSECM is adapted to function under incubation conditions (i.e. 37°C, 5% CO<sub>2</sub> atmosphere), and so we are presently developing an incubation chamber suitable for this purpose. BioSECM image (left) of a cultured model neuron recorded with a 5 µm microsensor. The sensor is the heart of the SECM. It provides the specificity necessary for chemical imaging, and its size determines the spatial resolution of the technique. For this reason, a primary thrust of our research is the development of new chemically selective nanosensors and microsensors. Presently, we are working to modify carbon nano-ring sensors so that they are capable of imaging neurotransmitter release and imaging cell morphology with high resolution. We are also developing multifunctional sensors that will be capable of imaging multiple species simultaneously. Applications: Neurodevelopment and synaptogenesis. One distinct advantage of the BioSECM is its capability for imaging both cell morphology and neurotransmitter release. We wish to investigate how neurotransmitter release, both its time course and spatial distribution, changes during neuronal growth and the formation of synapses with other cells, a process known as synaptogenesis. By studying these processes, we can learn fundamental mechanisms involved in neuronal development. Neurodegeneration. The types of microsensors and nanosensors used for the BioSECM are also capable of producing short-lived chemical species that are known to exert oxidative stress on cells. These reactive oxygen species (predominately superoxide, O<sub>2</sub>-, hydroxyl radical, OH, and hydrogen peroxide, H<sub>2</sub>O<sub>2</sub>) are suspected of playing a role in neurodegenerative diseases such as Alzheimer's Disease and Parkinson's Syndrome. We plan to use the BioSECM to apply a local dose of the reactive oxygen species and then image changes in morphology and neurotransmitter release. In this way the role of reactive oxygen species in neurodegeneration can be investigated, and potential therapies evaluated. Scanning Electrochemical Microscopy Imaging of Model Neurons

Cellular damage due to oxidation has been observed in neurodegenerative diseases such as Parkinson's disease and Alzheimer's disease. Scanning Electrochemical Microscopy (SECM) is a technique well suited to study the effects of oxidative damage on cells such as neurons. The electrochemical analysis of model neurons using SECM can provide a unique view of cellular activity and can be used to observe effects on neuronal signaling. It is possible to detect the release of neurotransmitters such as dopamine, norepinephrine, and serotonin from individual cells using these electrochemical techniques (Cannon et al., Borland et al., Travis et al., Adams et al.). The ultramicroelectrode of the SECM can also focally generate the molecules that cause cellular oxidative damage and then the electrode can be used to measure neurotransmitter release from those neurons. We are using SECM in collaboration with the J.E.Baur lab at Illinois State University as a method to investigate the chemical signaling processes that occur between model nerve cells, looking particularly at the effects of oxidative stress and its relationship to neurodegenerative diseases.

Notes for Brett Adam Barron:

Manistee, Michigan - Brett Adam Barron passed away unexpectedly on August 11, 2018 while ascending some of the most rugged and remote ridges of Montana's Crazy Mountains. Brett was a highly intelligent and skilled outdoorsman, volunteering to survey backcountry wildlife populations in unmarked alpine terrain at the time of his death. Brett was a career service member of the US Naval Special Warfare Community, a mentor, athlete, and conservationist with an unmatched spirit. Brett was born on May 6, 1979 to his beloved mother Barbara Ann Barron (deceased) of Ann Arbor, Michigan. After losing his mother at the young age of eight, Brett was raised by his Grandmother Virginia Burr (deceased). He was able to excel despite the loss of his mother, ultimately pursuing finance studies before deciding to enlist with the US Navy at age 19. Brett's passion and competence lead him through multiple deployments with the US Naval Special Warfare Community where he received individual recognition for his diligence and commitment over his 13 years of service. During his time in the service, Brett lived in Virginia Beach and Chicago. Brett competed in numerous triathlons, marathons and ultramarathons including the Boston Marathon, Iron Man Louisville, Iron Man Wisconsin, and Iron Man St. Louis. He acquired chronic physiological complications during his time serving our country and chose to "embrace the suck", as he said, while he relearned to walk, run and swim. After moving to Nashville, he told almost no one of his accomplishments or condition. Instead, he worked to maintain his physical dexterity by bow hunting, hiking, and leading back country land navigation courses.

In recent years Brett returned to Ann Arbor, where he was a volunteer coach for the University of Michigan boxing team. He also volunteered at the Ark music venue and frequently visited his wooded property in Stockbridge, Michigan with close friends and family. He ultimately settled in Manistee Michigan, living in a home surrounded by both Lake Michigan and the National Forest. Brett demonstrated extreme selflessness and humility throughout his life. His fervor for challenge and teamwork served as a lamp to the feet of those he deeply loved, as well as strangers. He was adored by many and will be woefully missed. A service of remembrance will be held for Brett September 14, 2018 at 1:00 p.m. at Zion Lutheran Church in Ann Arbor, Michigan. Visitation will be held from 11:00:00 the day of service. A military service will follow at Bethlehem Cemetery.

Brett is survived by his girlfriend Hannah Huddleston of Huntsville Alabama, Uncle William (Cathy) Burr of Columbus, Indiana, cousins Sarah Burr of Dallas, Texas, Matthew (Emily) Burr of Chelsea, Michigan, Eric (Sarah) Burr of New Bern, North Carolina, godmother Donna Maul of Palm Springs, California, sponsor Norman Weiner of Ann Arbor, Michigan, as well as multiple extended cousins in the Ted (Ruth) Aprill family of Ann Arbor.

Memorial contributions can be made to The Navy SEAL Foundation, Starr Commonwealth (Albion, Michigan), The Rocky Mountain Goat Alliance, or the Park County Sheriff's Office Search and Rescue Team of Park County, Montana.

Notes for Christine Marie Woods:

Born and raised north of Boston, Christine Marie Woods assumed she was in for a normal Saturday night out in the City with her friends in the Spring of 2015. Fresh off of a long twelve-hour shift at the hospital, she nearly cancelled at the last minute. Having only recently moved to the City, Bobby Aprill was still adjusting to life away from his home state of Michigan. After spending the previous two years in Tennessee, he naturally jumped at the opportunity to attend "country night" at a Boston Bar with some of his newly made friends. As both Christine and Bobby stood with their friends enjoying the live band, little did they know they were standing less than 10 feet from each other. The exact details are debatable, but something drew the two together and they eventually found themselves deep in conversation about their favorite music, excitement for the upcoming warm weather, and (Christine's) love of running. Nearly a month later the two went on their first date. In a small candlelit speakeasy in Somerville, the two spent hours talking about life, their dreams, families, and everything in-between. Both felt during that very first date this was something special....and you know the rest!

Experience

- Aug 2015 – Present
- Principal at Warren Consolidated Schools
- Mar 1998 – Present U.S. Director at Kids 4 Afghan Kids
- 1994 – Present Teacher at Northville Public Schools

Education

- Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) candidate Educational Leadership and Policy at Wayne State University
- 1997 – 1999 MAT Education at Marygrove College
- 1983 – 1987 BA French, Elem. & Sec. Ed at University of Michigan
- 1985 – 1986 French spoken and written French at University of Toulouse

Since her graduation from Marygrove College six years ago, Khris Nedam, third grade teacher, has done much more than just teach school-she has helped build one. Armed with a teaching degree and a mastery of French, she taught school in France, Turkey, Afghanistan, and the U. S. But that was just the beginning. In 1998 while she was teaching at Meads Mill Middle School, a contact from Afghanistan shared with her class the condition of the economy, education and family life in Afghanistan. Moved by the account, Nedam and her sixth-grade students founded Kids4AfghanKids, a non-profit organization whose goal is to re-establish educational facilities for boys and girls in Afghanistan.

In three years, they had raised enough money to build a six-room schoolhouse in Afghanistan. Approximately 450 students filled the school when it was built. By 2004 over 1,200 students regularly crowd into the tiny building in shifts. "That rural village now has so much hope for the future of their children," says Nedam. What started as a Northville Public School project became an enterprise with partner schools all across America, as well as schools in Belgium and France. In addition to the school, a medical clinic, bakery/kitchen, guest house, orphanage, and the only deep-water well in the valley have been built. More than 250 babies have been born at the clinic. "Her compassion for the need, purpose and value of this effort is clear, honest and forthright," says Northville Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski. "Her commitment to help people, albeit thousands of miles away, is admirable and worthy of recognition."

Several organizations have assisted the building process such as UNICEF and church organizations. The Northville Rotary and Northville Schools worked together to raise $20,000 in four months. Under the guidance of Nedam, Kids4AfghanKids has received national acclaim and media coverage, including Newsweek and ABC's "20/20 Downtown." More importantly, in 2002 the Center for International Disaster Information (CIDI, Arlington, Virginia) put Kids4AfghanKids on the top of their list as one of the most reliable humanitarian organizations. In 2002 Nedam was honored with the Governor's Service Award, and in 2003 she received the Michigan Association of School Board's "Best of the Best" award. Watching her students here make friends with children half a world away is important to Nedam. And watching them make a dreams come true is even better. "My students have learned an important lesson through a real-life connection," she says. "They've learned that with persistence and hard work, they can make their dreams come true and make a difference in the world."

According to Steven Anderson, principal at Amerman Elementary School, Nedam finds time for everyone and listens with her heart. "Kids4AfghanKids, teaching and being a single parent fill Nedam's days with 'to-do' lists. Despite this, she still manages to find time to draw students and adults out of their daily struggles and focus them on larger issues," he said. Nedam strives to help her students find their own special gifts and to think outside the box. "People are more important than things," says Nedam. "Bills, cleaning, and 'stuff' won't go away. Enjoy the people in your life, laugh, and be a good friend. "Kids today need to understand that differences are okay," she said. "We should support each other in our differences and be willing to reach out and help each other."

Children of Khris Korowin and Rajab Nedam are:

- 11098 i. Sediqa<sup>13</sup> Nedam, born 05 Dec 1994.
- 11099 ii. Sarah Diann Nedam, born Aft. 1995.

Notes for Shadd Allen Whitehead:

Shadd Whitehead has been around firefighters his entire life. A fifth-generation Livonian, he grew up in a farmhouse near Plymouth and Merriman roads where Taco Bell currently stands. There, he lived across the street from Cal Roberts, Livonia's first fire chief, who housed Livonia's first fire truck when it became a department in the 1940s. "They put it in the gas station, and that was Cal Roberts's gas station," he said. "He became the first chief, and housed the fire truck in his own gas station." He worked his way up and became Livonia's fire chief in 2005. But starting Jan. 5, he'll officially be a retired firefighter, opting to spend more time with family and doing mission work in the region and across the globe.

"I've been here close to 28 years," he said. "My one daughter graduates this May in nursing, and so I think that, kind of coupled with where we're at as a family, the Lord was opening some doors and I think there were some things he was making evident to us as a family and we figured that the department is on some really, really solid ground." "I felt it was a good time."

From early exposure into adulthood, Whitehead, a Detroit Catholic Central High School alumnus, has stayed around firefighters, eventually becoming one himself and following in his father's, grandfather's and great-grandfather's footsteps. "It goes back a long ways. There's always been a sense of service in our family," Whitehead said. "For me, there was always a lot of pride and nobility in being able to serve in the community. "I knew, as a small kid, this was what I wanted to do."

After serving in the Air Force, Whitehead returned home and became a firefighter in Commerce Township. He was hired as a Livonia firefighter on his birthday in 1990. When talking about his memories as a firefighter, Whitehead is quick to showcase the other people he's worked with, including fellow firefighters and other leadership in the city ranks. Despite some rough economic times, Whitehead said he's appreciative of the ways the city helped support the firefighters protecting Livonia. "I'm just so impressed with the stability of the city, it's ability to continue to give exceptional services and continually find ways to improve the services yet be conservative fiscally."

He remembers some specific examples he said he'll never forget, including pulling a pair of people out of basement fire early in his career, as well as the horrible wind storms earlier this year that resulted in a record-number of calls that came in without any mutual aid available. With several electrical fires blazing, Whitehead said he'll never forget the effort the city's firefighters put into keeping people safe when winds reached their highest points that night. "That was probably unprecedented, certainly in our city," he said. "To me, that showed the true colors of the Livonia Fire Department and its members."

Livonia Mayor Dennis Wright said Whitehead's love and level of dedication he has to the city is unmatched and will be hard to replace. "He's quite a guy. His compassion is just great," Wright said. "The guy is just a good guy to know. He's very dedicated to the people in this city." Wright said it's his plan to locate a permanent replacement for Whitehead by mid-February. Until then, Deputy Chief Mike Kelly will serve as interim chief after Whitehead's departure.

In retirement, Whitehead said he and his family hopes to do some mission work around the area but also overseas. In doing so, he said he'll not forget all the work his fellow firefighters have done with him throughout the years. "It's not only a joy, it's an honor to lead a group like this who are the best in the business," he said. "It's a privilege."

Notes for Dr. Kaitlyn Elizabeth Hefferan:

Kaitlyn Hefferan, Orthopaedic Surgery Lead, Physician Assistant and Fellowship Director, The Detroit Medical Center

Most recent education: Master of Science, King's College

Certifications: Certified Physician Assistant, PA in Orthopaedics

Kaitlyn Hefferan is the rock star of physician assistants.

Leading a staff of 20, Hefferan not only makes house calls but she also was lead in educating Sports Medicine staff and streamlining the process when the DMC implemented electronic medical records. She even developed custom templates for physicians in Orthopaedics, saving each surgeon an estimated 16 hours a week. Moreover, one of her initiatives is saving DMC $230,000 a year per PA. Hefferan developed and implemented a 12-month post-graduate physician assistant fellowship program at the DMC. It's one of only four such programs in the nation. Within two months, the program was nationally accredited, and she recruited her first trainees two months after that. A member of several industry and community organizations, Hefferan often lets aspiring medical professionals shadow her in the office or operating room and has encouraged high school and college students in the process.

"Whether supporting our physicians or leading the charge to enhance the physician assistant experience, Kate is a force to be reckoned with. She seems to have no 'off' button. And though she repeatedly achieves success, she is never satisfied nor complacent. Instinctively, Kate is an optimal leader and an achiever, by choice," said Chris Cowan, physician assistant in the department of Orthopaedics & Sports Medicine, DMC.

Notes for Erin Elizabeth Fralick:

2014 - History teacher Erin Luckhardt says she may have aspired to a career as a school communicator, but new technologies that make it quick and fun to promote schools on social media didn't exist "back when" she was launching her career. Erin is only 30. It's amazing how quickly Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, Instagram, and blogging platforms have revolutionized how school communities – and everybody else – connect. "Social media is empowering," Luckhardt said. "Traditional media cover the budget angle of schools, but a positive story about student learning or engagement is a 10-second blip on the radar. Social media allows us to tell our own story in a way that can be quickly shared among people with the same interest." Erin, who is a technology mentor at Boyne City Public Schools in Northern Michigan, creates many "Tech Tip Tuesday" tutorials on applications of interest to school communicators.

Teaching with technology was not a major focus of her teacher preparation program at Alma College, but then again she graduated back in 2006. "I graduated thinking that, I could make PowerPoints, so I was golden," Erin said. "At first we were mostly dazzled by the wow factor." It was during her first job teaching social studies at Williamston High School that Erin began embracing technology as a way to make her classes more current, engaging and interactive. In fact, she checked out the media center's LCD projector – a modern-day overhead projector capable of displaying computer data – for classroom use almost every day. By her second year at Williamston, the school board purchased an LCD projector for her room.

Erin's new husband Jon, an engineer, was laid off by a Lansing company. Her mother, Pat Fralick, director of family and community health services for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan, seized an opportunity to lure the couple to Petoskey by finding a position for Jon. Erin was delighted to return to her hometown. (If you've been to Petoskey, you understand.) But there were no full-time teaching jobs to be found. So, she started blogging.

Erin's "Lucky in Love" blog was a smattering of her interests at the time. She and Jon had bought a foreclosure, renovated it, cooked fine meals and – before long – were decorating a nursery. Jon's family and friends in Jackson and Ann Arbor eagerly awaited new posts, especially after baby Liza arrived. Soon Erin started using Facebook, Instagram and Twitter to help her blog find its audience. "It was just for fun, but I was learning a new way to communicate and teach," Erin said. When neighboring Boyne

City Public Schools, on the verge of launching a one-to-one iPad initiative, posted a position to coach teachers on how to integrate the use of technology into instruction, Erin was ready. She created a blog to showcase the district's technology strides. She opened a district Twitter account. She helped teachers adapt to teaching with iPads. She loved the position so much that she decided to pursue a master's in education technology degree through Grand Valley State University. "It was a great job but it was not a teaching contract," Erin said. "When a job teaching eighth grade social studies opened in the district, I applied."

American history from the Revolution to Reconstruction may be part of Erin's DNA. Her father, Mark Fralick, taught eighth-grade social studies at Petoskey Middle School for 30 years. Erin's older brother Gavin Fralick now teaches eighth-grade social studies at Petoskey Middle School – in the same room where their father taught. Mark Fralick recently became principal at Boyne City Elementary School. "Maybe Gavin and I couldn't help following in Dad's footsteps," Erin said. "We weren't raised in a family that flew to Florida for spring break. We had to drive so we could stop at every battlefield on the way so Dad could tell us the story."

Now Erin is telling those same stories – but often in different ways. She's currently on family leave after the birth of her second daughter, Leela, but when she returns to the classroom next month she will resume tweeting a daily "what we did in class" message to parents of her students. "Last spring I tweeted photos of an exercise in which I run an imaginary Mason-Dixon Line down the middle of my room to divide the class," Erin said. "Students argue points from their side of the line." Parents who sign up for her classroom Twitter feed appreciate these glimpses. It's detail some eighth grader wouldn't share at home unless asked about it.

Notes for Douglas Martin Hilton:

Doug M. Hilton October 20, 1941 - May 30, 2009 Portland - Memorial service: 1 p.m. Sat., June 6, 2009 at Foothills Church, 975 Fern Ridge Rd., Stayton. Arrangements by North Santiam Funeral Service.

Martin Douglas Hilton October 20, 1941 - May 30, 2009 Portland - Doug Hilton grew up in West Stayton, where he helped his parents, Clyde and Alice Hilton, run the family farm. He graduated from Cascade High School in 1959 and attended Linfield College in McMinnville. He lived in Albany, Sweet Home, Corvallis and Portland. During that time, Doug and his former wife, Marie Anderson (nee Stanton), had two children, Mike and Kay. In 1980, Doug moved to Phoenix, Arizona, where he met his wife, Jane, to whom he was married for 21 years. Doug, Jane, her two sons, Jeff and Ryan, and Jane's mother moved to Portland in 1988. Doug's 40-year professional career included positions in banking, insurance, other areas of financial management, and various entrepreneurial endeavors. Doug's life was enriched through his passion for mechanical building and restoration projects. From the depths of his various home garages in Portland and Phoenix, Doug built airplanes (Thorpe T-18, BD-7, and E-Racer) and restored both cars and boats (1961 Chevy Corvair Spyder, a 1964 Thompson Lapstrake wooden boat, and a 1941 Chris Craft Runabout). With help from his sons or friends from the neighborhood, Doug would happily work and chat - with beer in hand - on his projects. He was a wonderful friend and neighbor, always ready to just sit and talk when anyone needed an ear.

Doug was a devoted family man - a loving and committed father so proud of all his children: his daughter Kay, music coordinator, and son-in-law Jeremy, stage manager of the Oregon Shakespeare Festival in Ashland; and his son, Mike, a former Air Force lieutenant colonel and fighter pilot who, with his partner Cheryl, currently consults for the Department of Defense. As a doting stepfather to Jeff and Ryan, Doug saw Jeff through college at the University of Oregon, even though he was forever a Beaver fan. He loved and enjoyed the company of Jeff and his partner, Alicia, very much. He faithfully transported Ryan back and forth to work for years, and encouraged him in all his endeavors. Most of all, Doug loved his Janie a whole lot. Doug knew well the art of marriage and family.

Doug is survived by his parents, his wife, his three sons, and his daughter; brother, Dan and his wife Bert of Sisters; grandchildren, Selena Hilton-Aragon of Harrisonburg, Virginia. and Camille Hilton-Aragon of Christiansburg, Virginia; his beloved companion and canine squirrel sentry, Henry; and too-numerous to count friends in Phoenix, Portland and many other places. We will miss our Dougman very much! Special thanks to Rose Marie Tyson, nurse practitioner, and the staff of the Signature Hospice House for their good and faithful care. And always remember, dear Doug, "Measure twice, cut once".

A memorial service will be at 1 p.m. Saturday, June 6, 2009 at Foothills Church in Stayton. Contributions may be made to Oregon Humane Society. Serving the family North Santiam Funeral Service, Stayton. It is foolish and wrong to mourn the men who died. Rather we should thank God that such men lived. - George S. Patton, Jr.

Notes for Judith (Judy) Kalmbach:

Judith (Kalmbach) Wimpee, Psychotherapist and Licensed Professional Counselor passed away December 1, 2017 in San Diego, California after complications from PTE surgery. She was 68 years old. Judy was born to Anne and Neil Kalmbach on October 8, 1949. She graduated from Grass Lake High School in 1967 and later became a flight attendant for Eastern Airlines where she met Vic, her husband and best friend of 31 years. They were married in Miami, Florida on October 11, 1986 and remained in Miami for five years before moving to the Highlands Ranch Area outside of Colorado where they resided until May 2017. While in Colorado, Judy found what would become her passion; she began working in the field of Psychology. Judy obtained her Master's Degree in Psychology Counseling and Counselor Education in 2003 from the University of Colorado at Denver, with a concentration in Marriage and Family Counseling. The success of her Professional Practice can be attributed to the many people she helped throughout her career and from the respect she received from her clients and colleagues. In May 2017, due to ongoing health issues, Judy and Vic moved to Pensacola, Florida where Wayne, her brother and his wife Cindy resided. They made Pensacola their home while Judy was working toward better health and were residents of Florida at the time of her passing.

Judy is survived by her husband, Victor Wimpee; step mother, Janice Kalmbach, step daughters, Tracy Williams and Denise Bauer and their families, brothers Wayne Kalmbach (Cindy) and Larry Kalmbach (Maris), sister-in-law Frances Walker (Paul), along with nieces, nephews and step-grandchild.

A very special thank you to Dr. Steven Moehle and his staff, Blondie, Valerie and Sonya for being so supportive and caring with Judy and for the help and support through this process. To Granny Nannies, for the constant care and services you provided, but most important, for finding Patty. Thank you to our caregiver Patty. There are no words to express how truly amazing and blessed we were to find you, especially Judy. You made her life better in so many ways and we can't ever thank you enough for what you did for her and for our family.
