Notes for Harry Geiple Bubb:
Active. Healthy. Enjoying retirement. So reports Harry Bubb, who retired from Pacific Life in 1990. Harry first joined the company in 1950 in the Group Insurance Division, and, after a 40-year career, retired as CEO. "I enjoyed my time in business, and now I'm very much enjoying retirement," Harry remarked.

Harry was born in a mining town in southern Colorado. His father ran the local mining operation; Harry was one of three children. He remembers roaming the Colorado countryside with his friends, camping out, and hunting for small game. The family moved to El Paso, Texas, when Harry was 10. It was there he first learned to fly airplanes, a skill which would later lead him to become a U.S. Navy pilot during World War II. After graduating from high school in Texas, Harry attended Stanford University. When World War II broke out, he enlisted. He returned to Stanford to get his bachelor's degree, and then went on to Stanford Business School. He received a job offer from Pacific Mutual, which he decided to accept. He explained, "Although I knew nothing about insurance, I liked California and wanted to stay." His one condition of acceptance of employment, however, was that his new employers first allow him six months to travel. They agreed.

He visited post-World War II Europe with friends. Although many places were still recovering from the war, it was an experience he thoroughly enjoyed. He remembers taking a long side trip alone to Spain, where he was able to use the Spanish he learned growing up in the Southwest. He recalled, "The people spoke Castilian Spanish, and were correcting my language all the time. They told me I'd be better off speaking English—and were probably right!" At the end of the trip he reported to work at Pacific Mutual "flat broke," and asked for a $50 advance to get started. It surprised his new managers, but they agreed. His long and successful career at the company had begun.

As the years passed, Harry rose through the ranks and saw many changes. These included the installation of the company's first computer, which was contained in the only air-conditioned room in the company's downtown Los Angeles headquarters. He also recalled the excitement among the staff when the office headquarters was re-located to Newport Beach. The relocation plans were launched after consultants warned it would be increasingly difficult to find the needed support staff in the downtown area. Harry also recalls the growth and expansion of the company into areas besides "individual" insurance.

This, he believes, has helped make Pacific Life the large, successful, and nationally recognized company it is today.

Harry now lives with his wife, Berdie, in Newport Beach. Four of the couples' five children live in the area. Since retiring, he and Berdie have traveled extensively. He is an avid hunter, and regularly visits Mexico to hunt a variety of game birds. Other hunting trips have taken him to South America, Scotland, and Alaska. He also enjoys playing poker with other retired Pacific Life executives, and spending time with his 12 grandchildren.

Harry and Berdie recently returned from a two-week trip along the Oregon coast, where they visited family, attended the annual Shakespeare Festival in Ashland, and enjoyed the wine country.

Harry's pleased to report that he's enjoying good heath—although his hearing isn't what it used to be—and that retirement has been good to him. He concluded, "Berdie and I are very much enjoying ourselves."

Newport Beach, California (January 12, 2022) – Harry G. Bubb, former chief executive officer of Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company from 1986-1989, passed away on December 21, 2021, at the age of 97. Mr. Bubb was employed with Pacific Mutual, now known as Pacific Life Insurance Company, starting in 1949 with the group insurance program. He was elected president in 1975 and chief executive officer and president in 1986. Mr. Bubb was named chairman and chief executive officer in September 1987 when Pacific Mutual was California's largest life insurance firm. He retired in 1990.

Mr. Bubb was born in a mining town in southern Colorado where his father ran the local mining operation. After graduating from high school in Texas, Mr. Bubb attended Stanford University. When World War II broke out, he enlisted as a U.S. Navy pilot. Following the war, he returned to Stanford to get his bachelor's degree and went on to Stanford Business School. He received a job offer from Pacific Mutual and accepted on the condition that his new employers first allow him six months to travel. They agreed and he visited post-World War II Europe with friends. At the end of the trip, he reported to work at Pacific Mutual "flat broke" and asked for a $50 advance to get started. His long and successful career at the company had begun.

Mr. Bubb saw many changes during his time at Pacific Mutual including the installation of the company's first computer and the home office relocation from Los Angeles to Newport Beach, California. Mr. Bubb also took an early leadership role in understanding how the onset of the AIDS epidemic in the 1980's impacted life insurance companies. Mr. Bubb foresaw the importance of long-term care planning and was quoted as saying, "People have the impression that long-term care is somehow taken care of by Medicare. That just isn't so. What our industry can do is make available more programs that would provide…this is one of the things I expect us to have done before I leave." This is just one example of how Mr. Bubb was always forward-looking to how the life insurance industry and Pacific Life could improve.

Over the years, Mr. Bubb served as chairman of the World Affairs Council of Orange County, a director with the California Chamber of Commerce and the Orange County Business Committee for the Arts, as well as a trustee with the Newport Harbor Art Museum and a member of the California Parks Foundation Advisory Council. He was instrumental in the formation of Pacific Life's employee volunteer program, a group of passionate and dedicated individuals who wish to give freely of their time to make a difference in the community. The program, which will be celebrating its 37th anniversary in 2022, attributes its long-standing success to the support and vision of Mr. Bubb and acknowledges him annually with the presentation of the Harry G. Bubb Award for Outstanding Volunteerism to one employee who has dedicated an exceptional amount of volunteer hours during the year. "I had the privilege of knowing Harry in my early years at Pacific Life," said Jim Morris, chairman, president and CEO of Pacific Life. "He was a kind man who loved being around his employees and loved wearing cowboy boots to special company events. We recognize Harry and the tremendous impact he has had on how Pacific Life has grown."

Mr. Bubb and his wife, Berdie, were longtime residents of Newport Beach and raised five children. In his retirement, he and his wife traveled extensively and spent time with their 12 grandchildren. Mr. Bubb will be remembered for his leadership and commitment to Pacific Life. The company extends our thoughts to his family during this time.

Notes for Bruce Edward Flinchbaugh:

Bruce Edward Flinchbaugh, 63, of Dallas, died Monday, Feb. 1, 2016 in The Medical Center of Plano from injuries suffered in a fall. Bruce was born Nov. 4, 1952, in Dayton, Ohio, to James and Jean (Turner) Flinchbaugh. He graduated from Otterbein College in 1975 with a degree in Math and earned a Ph.D. in Computer Science from The Ohio State University in 1980. He was later named a Distinguished Alumnus of both schools. Bruce worked at Texas Instruments in Dallas from 1982 to 2012, becoming a TI Fellow and director of the Video & Image Processing Laboratory. He led R&D projects for many TI products, including the design of imaging, video and vision algorithms for embedded processors in video surveillance, digital video recorder, digital camera/phone, media player, and automotive vision applications. He was TI's principal investigator for DARPA Image Understanding Research in the 1990s. He held over 20 patents for TI technology, and published or presented in over 75 technical forums including journals, industry magazines, conferences and universities. Bruce was a wonderful husband, father, brother, friend, and role model. He was a loving and positive life force for his family and so many people. He had a unique, witty sense of humor that spread throughout his family. He was always exercising his creativity with projects; he found so much joy in photography, home improvement, and data analysis, to name a few. Before having kids, he brewed his own beer in a bathtub. He loved cooking burgers/steak on the grill. He made the best waffles. He loved maintaining the purple martin house in the backyard. He loved being a butler during Halloween. He loved playing card games, like O'Heck, with his family. He loved music, wrote hundreds of songs during his youth, and that love for music inspired and uplifted his family.

Bruce loved his wife Mary with all his heart. They married on Sept. 29, 1979, sharing 36 years of a fruitful and exemplary marriage. They were a wonderful team and had so many memories and adventures together. He also loved his parents, siblings, and other relatives. Bruce admired the good in everyone. He was an incredibly proud fan of his son and daughter, John and Anne, and supported them every step of the way through both joyous and difficult times. He had an uncanny way of articulating and sharing the accomplishments of others in ways that they wouldn't even recognize themselves. He shared a love for the game of baseball, the Reds in childhood, and the Rangers in adulthood with his son John. He led an annual Texas Rangers season-ticket draft with friends and colleagues. John so greatly enjoyed going to hundreds of games with him, capped off by watching the Rangers advance to the World Series in 2011. He was always fascinated with the intricacies of the game, the endless hypothetical scenarios you could imagine taking place, and how the rules would impact them. Combining this with John's love for the game and statistics, it is just one example of countless father-son bonding experiences that will forever be cherished and held dearly close. Baseball has so many intricacies; it is a timeless game. Bruce had a deep appreciation of all kinds of intricacies; his positive impact and example on our lives is timeless. In retirement, Bruce enjoyed exploring the world with his wife, the love of his life, affectionately called MJ, be it a cruise, road trip, flight, or night together on the couch. He became a dedicated runner, training with the Dallas Running Club, logging more than 1,000 miles a year, and shattering his personal record with 1,550 miles in 2015. Bruce completed 5Ks, 10Ks, half-marathons, marathons and ultras. He inspired his son and daughter to take on running as well. He was predeceased by his parents.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Fontana; son and wife, John Flinchbaugh and Jessica Ngo; daughter, Anne Flinchbaugh; sister and husband, Nancy Flinchbaugh and Steve Schlather; brother and wife, Paul and Angela Flinchbaugh; and mother-in-law, Victoria Fontana.

Kinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nunzio Kinney, 871 Branch Court, Hazleton, took place Sept. 3, 1988 at noon in Our Lady of Grace R.C. Church. The Rev. Richard Ghezzi performed the double ring ceremony. John and Jared Peters, nephews of the bride, served as altar boys. Joseph McGarry, accompanied by Denise Ann Gogola, sang "With You I'm Born Again," "Perhaps Love," "Wedding Song," "Hail Mary. Gentle Woman," "Prayer of St. Francis," "We Share Your Love," and "Always." Offertory gifts were presented by the bridegroom's parents.

Vases of spider mums decorated the altars, pews were marked with white satin bows, and an arrangement of white carnations tied with blue ribbon was placed on the altar in memory of the bride's father. Flowers also were placed at the statue of the Blessed Mother. and long- stemmed red roses were presented to the mothers of the couple at the sign of peace. Teal and white balloons were released by the guests as the couple left the church. After a reception at Zola's Lamp Post Lounge, Harleigh, the couple left for a honeymoon in Aruba. They now reside in Hazleton.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, selected a designer gown of white satin with a torso bodice trimmed with beaded silk embroidered lace, a Queen Anne neckline and Victorian sleeves. Her flowing skirt accented with appliques had a scalloped embroidered lace outlined hemline and a cathedral train with detailed applique trim. She wore a layered fingertip-length veil of silk illusion attached to a circle wreath of pearls, silk blossoms and wired pearls with an illusion pouf at the back, and carried a cascade bouquet of miniature carnations, roses, euphorbia and gardenias with a handkerchief in memory of her late father woven through the flowers.

Vicky Nicholas, Hazleton, was the maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of teal satin with along torso bodice, sweet- heart neckline, lace trimmed above-the-elbow-length sleeves with ruffles, and a full gathered skirt which formed a ruffled satin and lace peplum topped with a butterfly bow at the back. She wore an aqua silk blossom head-piece spray with wired and hanging pearls, and carried an arm bouquet of pink snapdragons, alstromeria lilies and carnations with a pink satin bow and streamers.

Karen Clement, White Haven, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Janet Peters, Freeland, and Barbara Pitten, White Haven, also sisters of the bride; Joni Moses, Freeland, sister-in- law of the bride: and Meme Jacobs, Great Falls, Virginia, cousin of the bride. Their gowns, head- pieces and bouquets were identical to those of the honor attendant. Lindsey Pitten, White Haven, and Alison Moses, Freeland, nieces of the bride, were the flower girls. Their white floor- length gowns had teal accents similar in style to those of the other attendants, and they carried fireside baskets of miniature white and pink carnations with teal satin ribbons.

Michael Kinney, Hazleton, brother of the bride, was the best man, and ushers were Albert Moses, Freeland, brother of the bride; Frank Gigliotti, Philadelphia, cousin of the bridegroom; Don Hutton, West Hazleton; Jim Tarone, Hazleton, cousin of the bridegroom. and Donald Hanincheck, Hazleton. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Moses selected a peach georgette tea-length dress and matching fingertip-length jacket with a cummerbund waistline, double peplum skirt and beaded bishop sleeves. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of white and peach silk roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a teal lusterglo tea-length dress with long tapered sleeves and an attached criss-cross tunic edged with rhinestone trim. She wore matching accessories and a wrist corsage of silk gardenias.

The bride, who was graduated in 1982 from Hazleton High School, earned a bachelor of science degree in management and industrial relations from Wilkes College in 1986, and is employed by First Eastern Bank. A graduate of Hazleton High School, the bridegroom is employed by All-Steel Inc. The bride was honored at a shower given by her mother, the bridegroom's mother and her attendants at Zola's Lamp Post Lounge, and the rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at their home.

Dallastown - Esther Marie (Godfrey) Hengst, 92, was surrounded by her family when she was called home on Wednesday, January 22, 2020. She was the wife of the late Geurian E. Hengst, to whom she was married for 68 years before his passing in November 2014. Born on April 21, 1927 in North Hopewell Township, she was a daughter of the late Curtis C. and Edna May (Keeney) Godfrey. Esther was a devoted wife, loving mother, caring grandmother, and a generous and spirited member of the community. Known for her infectious giggle and pleasant personality, she was also strong and independent, with a heart of gold. She was a social butterfly and warmed the hearts of people of all ages - as evidenced at her 90th birthday party, which was attended by more than 90 of her closest family members and friends.

A creative and talented seamstress, Esther worked for various sewing factories in Red Lion and Windsor, while helping her husband run their farm in Felton. Over the years, she also worked for Tastysnack, McCrory Stores, Yorktowne Cabinets, Grandma's Country Kitchen as well as doing various jobs for the York Fairgrounds like counting pumpkin seeds and ironing clothes for Grandstand stars; Brittney Spears and Kenny Rogers to name a few. She loved country music and collecting teapots, taking walks, reading, cooking and sewing. She also enjoyed watching Lawrence Welk, Jeopardy and Wheel of Fortune. She went out of her way to help others, cook special meals and desserts for her family, friends and neighbors, and sew projects - from simple mending and decorative pillows and curtains for her home to making quilts for her grandchildren and dresses for her great-grandchildren's American Dolls. Esther loved to spend time with her family and her smile, humor and kindness will be deeply missed, however; those who loved her will continue to carry on her warm and generous spirit. Esther was a dedicated member of Chapel United Methodist Church where she attended the Crusaders for Christ Sunday School class and frequently served on the Chow Chow committee.

Notes for Mary Emma Knaub:

Mary Emma Knaub Sims, 80, of Jefferson City, passed away after an extended illness on Sept. 24, 2002. She was born Aug. 20, 1922, in Dallastown, Pennsylvania, the daughter of James Wilbur Knaub and Cordelia Naomi (Stiles) Knaub. Mary was a very kind, generous and hardworking person who was loved by all who knew her. She was known by many for her interests, including bridge, golf, hiking, gardening and bird watching. She grew up in the Dallastown area of Pennsylvania and as a child was an avid baseball player. The story was often told of the neighborhood boys who would frequently do the dishes for her so she could pitch for them in the neighborhood games. Mary lost her mother at an early age and was raised lovingly by her stepmother, Romaine V. Flinchbaugh.

Mary attended the York County School of Nursing, and after graduating found herself working as the chief operating room nurse and head surgical scrub nurse for the urology department of the Cleveland Clinic. She was an independent, free-spirited woman and at the time, very proud to be the first among her friends to own an FM radio, on which she avidly listened to the Cleveland Indians baseball games. She also had one of the first Dumont televisions. It was in Cleveland where she met the love of her life, James R. Sims Jr. She and Dick married on March 5, 1953, in Cleveland. After several years of traveling about the U.S. and Europe with her husband "Doctor Dick" in the military, they moved to Helena with their young family. Mary was a very loving mother and fully devoted to her husband and family. She gave of herself wholeheartedly and selflessly.

In their early years in Helena, Dick and Mary often took the family out in the country, camping out, cooking hot dogs over open fires, hiking and generally having fun. Mary was known by her children to be exceptionally wise and caring when it came to family matters. In the late 60's, it was this trait that led her to insist on moving the family to the country, when they moved to Jefferson City. In Jefferson City, Mary was well known by all the neighbors and they always loved to see her whenever they could.

Mary was preceded in death by her parents and stepmother; her husband, James R. Sims Jr.; daughter, Laura Jane Sims Swindle; and brothers Wilson Knaub and Mahlon Knaub. She is survived by a daughter, Mary Kay DeMers, and her husband, George, of Jefferson City; sons James Richard Sims III and his wife, Suzanne, of Denver, John Franklin Sims of Helena and Michael Richard Sims of Clancy. She is also survived by son-in-law Tom Swindle and his wife, Katherine; granddaughters Jennifer Swindle, Josey Sims and Kady DeMers; and grandsons Tizer and Bridger DeMers, and Jacob and Isaac Sims.

A celebration of remembrance will be held for Mary on Oct. 19 at the Montana Club. A brief eulogy will begin at 4 p.m., followed by music and hors d' oeuvres. The family suggests memorials to the Farm in the Dell Foundation, 1208 Poplar, Helena, Montana.

Notes for Dr. James Richard Sims, Jr.:

James Richard Sims, Jr., was born to James Richard Sims and Clara Goodwyn Sims on Oct. 12, 1927, in Waxahachie, Texas. He died May 3, 2002, in a motorcycling accident atop the Great Divide at MacDonald Pass near Helena. He was returning to Helena from a leisurely day trip to Missoula. Sims spent most of his childhood in Texas, and his hobby, even as a very young boy, centered around flying. He and a close friend, Jack Conly, built model airplanes and eventually progressed to motorized models. His lifelong interest in aviation was formed during his teen years.

In 1944, he graduated from Woodrow Wilson High School in Dallas and entered the University of Texas in Austin. While attending pre-med school in Austin, Dick worked as a night watchman at a small private airfield. In 1945, Dick entered Southwestern Medical School in Dallas. In 1949, he received his M.D. from Southwestern Medical School at the age of 21. Dick and Ada Virginia Payne were married in Texas in 1949. Their son, James Richard III, was born in 1950. They later separated and were divorced. Dick's sister, Peggy, remembers the 1950s fondly, with Dick and those close to him often traveling to Minnesota on family fishing trips. Dick was especially fond of Peggy's husband, Dan Morgan, a veteran of World War II in the European theater. Dan was like the older brother Dick never had.

In 1952, Dick moved to Cleveland for a surgical residency and it was there that he met Mary Emma Knaub, a chief operating room nurse. On March5, 1953, they were married in Cleveland. In 1953, Dick began his military career and enlisted in the U.S. Army. At the time, he was due to report to San Antonio, but later was ordered to delay his entry into the service for a year. Dick and Mary went to Mountain View, Montana, where he practiced medicine. Mary Kay, their first daughter, was born in Mountain View.

In July 1954, the Army assigned him to duty at Denver's Fitzsimmons Army Hospital for training as an ear, nose and throat surgeon. Laura Jane, their second daughter, was born while they were stationed in Denver. In 1955, Dick was ordered to Germany, where he served as the battalion surgeon for the 510 Tank Battalion and the 18th Engineer Battalion. Dick and Mary's son John Franklin Sims was born in Frankfort, Germany.

The next year, Dick and his family returned to the States and he completed his surgical residency at the Omaha, Nebraska, Veterans Administration hospital. The youngest in the family, Michael Richard Sims, was born in Omaha. In 1959, Dick and Mary and their family moved to Helena, where they were swayed into putting roots down by then – Gov. Forrest Anderson and the – Judge Victor Fall. At the time, Dick was the first-ever board-certified surgeon in town. After the end of his formal military career, Dick remained active in the Army Reserves and commanded the 396th Station Hospital in Helena until the mid-70s. He attained the rank of a full colonel and later was promoted to the rank of brigadier general.

In their early years in Helena, Dick and Mary often took the family out in the country, camping out, cooking hot dogs over open firers, hiking and generally having fun. It was not unusual for Dick to build an ice-skating rink in the back yard to play whiffle ball with the kids in the evenings. The family enjoyed many fun activities such as the stock car races at the Valley Speedway, where Dick normally volunteered as the track physician. The family remembers the night Dick entered and won the spectator's race in a car owned and raced by the LaFromboise brothers. After making its rounds through the local grade school with the children, the trophy spent much of its life on the fireplace mantle. Sims often did things to delight the children.

Other times, the Sims family took in football games at Vigilante Stadium, watching son Jim play quarterback for the Helena High Bengals. Dick and Mary often loaded the rest of the family up in the car or airplane and watched Jim play football around the state. Dick took his young family to the nearby Belmont Ski Hill and helped them learn to ski. Dick also enjoyed hunting and fishing with his friends. Dick loved to debate current issues. He was interested in all forms of government and in the mid-60's ran for state legislature as a Democrat. IN one unusual form of campaigning, Dick found himself in the Wild Bull Chariot race at the Vigilante Stampede. Unfortunately, his family remembers, the bull won the contest by goring Sims in the thumb.

Sims belonged to several community service organizations in the Helena area. He became a Mason in 1963 when he was initiated as an Entered Apprentice in King Solomon Lodge #9 AF&AM in Helena. Sims went on to the degree of a Fellow Craft and reached the sublime degree of a Master Mason shortly thereafter. Dick was also a Scottish Rite Mason and a Shriner. He was active member of the Helena Jaycees and other organizations during these years.

In the late 60's. Dick and Mary purchased the family "ranch," on Prickly Pear Creek near Jefferson City, Dick and his family purchased the land from Alexander Grant Swaney, a Montanan well-known for his generosity, kindness and humanitarian beliefs. Mr. Swaney continued to live nearby with his daughter, Alexandra (Sandra) Swaney. The Sims family was blessed to know and live near the Swaneys and learned a great deal from Mr. Swaney and his family. After a year or two of spending weekends on Prickly Pear Creek, Dick and Mary moved the family to the ranch at Jefferson City and they made it their home. Dick lived there until his death.

Dick's enthusiasm and willingness to help the communities around Helena was well known. He often traveled to the small towns around Helena to perform surgery or provide medical services. Once while flying alone to Townsend in a small private airplane, is plane crashed I severe weather. Despite the near fatal crash, Dick continued to Townsend with the help of some local ranchers – and a potato chip delivery truck – and helped his patients.

In 1982, Dick and Mary temporarily moved to Santa Rosa, California, to begin a tour of duty as Commanding General of the Second Hospital Center. Dick and Mary enjoyed their stay in Santa Rosa and made many friends there before moving back to their home at Jefferson City in 1987. Never one to sit still very long, Dick renewed his interest in flying in the early 1990s. He renewed his private pilot's rating and also earned as instrument rating. Also in the early 90s, Dick became interested in experimental aircraft, and became involved in starting Montana Coyote, a manufacturer of kit airplanes. The business was built at the Helena Reginal Airport and continued for many years employing a dozen of people. Although Dick had retired from the Reserves in the mid 70's, he later returned to t he active Reserves when the Commanding General of the 96th ARCOM, headquartered in Salt Lake City, asked him to complete for the Second Hospital Center. The Second Hospital Center was the command-and-control headquarters for units that stretched from Hawaii to Heidelberg, Germany.

Sims was one of about 45 colonels applying for the job and after rejoining Reserves and going through Advanced Officer's School, Command, General Staff School and The War College, Dick was appointed Brigadier General. He was notified of this appointment on Christmas Eve of 1981. Service in the military was woven throughout Dick's life and it also enhanced his medical career. Over the years he studied surgery at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D.C., and he studied trauma surgery at San Antonio. He spent time on the faculty of the ATLS (Advanced Trauma Life Support) Team for the Army and traveled around teaching. For this work, Sims received not one Legion of Merit, but two. Thus, he was entitled to wear the ribbon with an oak leaf cluster. The official criteria for such an award is as follows: "Exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services to the United States."

Throughout his life, Dick maintained an interest in finance and banking. He was involved in the creation of three banks – First Security, Valley Bank and, most recently, Mountain View Bank in 1991. He was a member of Mountain West's board of directors up until the time of his death. In the last year or two of Dick's life, he began to shift his interests from business to recreation. He traveled and visited family and recently began "relearning" skiing so he could spend time on the ski hill with friends and grandchildren. Motorcycling became more important to him and he had recently re-entered politics, filing to run for the Montana Legislature as a Libertarian.

Dick was preceded in death by his parents, daughter Laura Jane Sims Swindle and siter Hazel Sims Lynch. He is survived by his wife, Mary, of Jefferson City; a sister Peggy Morgan and her husband, Dan, of Dallas; a daughter, Mary Kay DeMers and her husband, George, of Jefferson City; sons James Richard Sims III and his wife Suzanne, of Denver; John Franklin Sims of Helena and Michael Richard Sims of Clancy. He is also survived by son-in-law Tom Swindle and his wife Katherine' grandchildren Jennifer Swindle, Josey Sims and KadyDeMers and grandsons Tizer and Bridger Demers and Jacob and Isaac Sims.

Memorial services were held May 7 in Helena at the Consistory Shrine Temple. Lowell Bartels officiated, with music by Sandra Swaney and organist Joe Munzenreider. There was a flag ceremony by the Montana National Guard and Major Gen. John Prendergast presented a flag to the family. Taps and Reveille were by Eric Burke. The family suggests memorials to the Farm in the Dell Foundation, 1208 Poplar or an organization of the donor's choice.

Joyce L. (Wollaston) Diehl passed away peacefully on February 5, 2018 after a brief illness. Joyce was born on September 22, 1929 and resided in the City of Newark her entire life. Her beginning years were on Wollaston Avenue.

Joyce is survived by her husband of 53 years, Roger Diehl. She is also survived by her sons: James L. Ford, III and is wife, Teresa of Lewes, Delaware and John W. Ford of Elkton, Maryland. Grandchildren: Jacob Ford of Lewes, Delaware and Maren Langford and her husband, Ryan of Ann Arbor, Michigan. Great grandchildren: Silas Langford and Reese Langford. Joyce is also survived by many nieces and nephews. Her parents were George Wesley and Frances Wollaston. Joyce was also predeceased by her five brothers, Fred, Bob, Charles, Dick and Jim.

Joyce attended Newark High School and the University of Delaware. She worked at Chrysler and as a school teacher before becoming a full-time homemaker.

A love of laughter, jokes and stories embodied her full life. Joyce had a great sense of humor and always had her own way of making everyone smile. No family gathering was complete without her. With the ability to remember in extreme detail, one of her greatest gifts was sharing cherished memories with her family and friends. The sparkle in her eye and the ornery smile always made you wonder what was coming next. Even if you already heard the story. Affectionately called "Leesie" by many loved ones, Joyce also had her own innovative names for many things. The Joyce-isms have already carried to two more generations.

A great and prolific writer of letters to her friends and family, Joyce added personal touches including special stamps, cute stickers to seal the envelope, pictures and articles. Getting a letter from Joyce was pure entertainment and the next best thing to being with her. Joyce loved to play the piano and enjoyed old movies, the Phillies, Jeopardy and collecting decorative owls. She was creative and artistic, loved to play cards, board games and watch game shows. Above all she loved her family and they will miss her heartwarming, loving ways each and every day.

A celebration of Joyce's life will be held at 11am on Monday, February 12, 2018 at R.T. Foard & Jones Funeral Home, 122 W. Main St., Newark, Delaware 19711, where family and friends may visit beginning at 10am. Burial will be held privately. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made payable to the "COPD Foundation, Inc." and sent in care of the funeral home.

Notes for Edith Joan Perry:

Winter Haven - With sadness and appreciation of a long, well-lived life, the family of Joan Perry Murphy announces her passing at home in Winter Haven, Florida, on November 28, 2017 at 91 years old. Born May 6, 1926 in Mont Alto, Pennsylvania, she spent the first years of her life living on the campus of the Pennsylvania State Forest Academy, where her father was a professor. The family moved to Knoxville, Tennessee in the early 1930s, and she graduated from Knoxville High School (Class of 1944) where she played leadership roles in the Thespians, Top Hat, and Hiking Clubs. In her senior year, she was awarded Honorary Major in the Junior Unit of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, a role she continued into college at the University of Tennessee. At UT, she joined the Delta DeltaDelta Sorority, remaining active as an alumni through most of her life. After marrying Alvin R. Murphy, Jr. in 1947, her young family moved to Winter Haven, Florida, where she worked as a medical stenographer for 5 years.

An avid member of the Lake Region Country Club Women's Golf Association, her strategy placed accuracy above distance and won her admiration from her friends, which resulted in a hole-in-one before her powerful driving husband could make his. After the kids left the nest, Joan and her husband took many trips, exploring several countries in Europe and the British Isles. Summers were often spent in Knoxville where she enjoyed gardening, more golf, and family. After her husband's retirement, the couple maintained a summer residence in Blowing Rock, NC in close proximity to many of their friends.

She is predeceased by her parents, George Sargent Perry and Edith May Barshinger, and her siblings Mary (Clifford) Wayland, Katherine (Robert) Newton, Cornelia (Martin) Black, and Robert (Nancy) Perry. Fondly referred to by the nickname she called her mother, 'Munno' will be lovingly remembered by her surviving husband of 71 years, Alvin R. Murphy Jr., children Michael Murphy and Catherine (John Manuel) Murphy, grandchildren Kevin Murphy, Steven (Amy) Murphy, Jackson Manuel, and Allison Manuel, and great-grandchildren Jacob and Emma Murphy.

A Celebration of Life service has been set for Saturday, December 16 at Ott-Laughlin Funeral Home, 645 W Central Ave, Winter Haven, Florida, beginning at 11:00 AM. The family will have a time for visitation starting at 10:00 AM until the service begins. Interment will be at a later date at Greenwood Cemetery in Knoxville, Tennessee. Joan loved hiking in Tennessee, so in lieu of flowers, memorials may be given in Joan Murphy's name to the Smoky Mountains Hiking Club, P.O. Box 51592, Knoxville, Tennessee 37950-1592. As Joan would say when asked if she'd like chocolate for dessert, 'You'd better believe it!'

Notes for Ronald Charles Kohr:

Ronald C. Kohr bought Lauxmont Mansion and farms from John Wayne “The Duke”. Raised prize winning cattle with his wife Laura Jones Kohr in 1971. He enjoyed going to John’s ranch on Thanksgiving in the 1960'S and 70'S. Ron leaves behind his wife Laura Jones Kohr and children: Ronald Jr., Archie II and Ollie, Katy Trefrey, Betsy Kohr, Laura E. Kohr.

Ronald will be laid to rest at his home/mansion, in the Lauxmont Gardens, next to a giant rock.

Lauxmont Farms is a three-generation family-owned estate, operated by the Kohr family since 1973. The 100% organic farm, perched high atop the Susquehanna River in Wrightsville, is home to champion horses, historic legacy, and striking architecture. The Lauxmont Estate structures were designed by the famed New York architecture firm of Delano & Aldrich, known for their understated elegance and unique outside living spaces. They are also hailed for designing the American Embassy in Paris, the Japanese Embassy in Washington, DC, and John D. Rockefeller’s home Kykuit, along the banks of the Hudson River.

The architectural pieces at Lauxmont are entrenched in the classic Beaux Arts style, a favored approach for grand public buildings and opulent mansions, which combines classical Greek and Roman architecture with Renaissance ideas.At the heart of Lauxmont Farms is a family dedicated to preserving the rich character of the estate and sustained by a passion to share the beauty and unmatched charm of the property with those seeking a perfect place for their perfect day.

Dec 6, 2006 — Laura B. Kohr didn't see the potential in Lauxmont Farms that her husband did before he bought the nearly 1,400 acres in 1973.The pastures were overgrown with brush and sumac. The mansion hadn't been painted or wallpapered in years.Ron Kohr Sr. purchased the farm overlooking the Susquehanna River four years after the previous owner, Dr. George T. Pack, died. Kohr paid a little more than $1 million.

The Kohr family worked to restore the place, raised cattle and horses and later opened a wedding venue."It's a special place, it truly is. We feel the Lord put us here to take care of it," Laura Kohr told a York Daily Record reporter in 1985 after "Good Morning America" filmed the farm as part of a story about life along the river.

Notes for Laura B. Jones:

Laura B. Kohr of Lauxmont Farms, passed away on her beloved Lauxmont Farms May 20, 2005. She was 69 years old. She was born in Cherry Grove, New Jersey, January 24, 1936. Mrs. Kohr graduated from Moore College of Art and Design. She married her husband of 41 years, Ron C. Kohr in York in 1959. Together they managed the New England Division of Kohr Bros. Frozen Custard, and opened Kohr Farms beef houses in the Philadelphia area. They purchased Lauxmont Farms in 1971 where she and her husband, Ron, bred and raised champion Hereford cattle, Standardbred horses, and Thoroughbred horses.

On the farm, she raised her six children, Ron, Katy, Archie, Ollie, Betsy, and Laura E. and her thirteen grandchildren, Annie, Charlie, Talula, Gabriella, Adele, Elias, Jonathan, Ethan, Max, Royal, Wynnie, Jacob, Bernice.

Mrs. Kohr's interests included preserving and restoring the homes, barns, and gardens of Lauxmont Farms back to their original condition. She enjoyed sharing these passions by hosting over 500 weddings and opening her home, gardens, and farm to the following organizations: YWCA, St. John Lutheran School, National Geographic Magazine, York Daily Record, Vision Quest Wagon Train, The Historical Society of York, International Flying Farmers, Contact-York Garden Tour, Young Men's Christian Association of York and York County, The First Presbyterian Church of York, Soviet American Peace Child, Historic York, Inc., Historic Wrightsville, York County Garden Tour, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Horse Farm Tour, Susquehanna Waldorf School, Burma Mission, Eastern York High School Scholarship Home & Garden Tour, Eastern York High School Art Auction, York County Libraries, Kreutz Creek Library, and many school field days. Being of Native American descent, Laura Kohr believed that the Indian burial ground on the south end of Lauxmont Farms should never be disturbed. On purchasing the farm in 1971 she converted the six acre area from being tilled to grazing pasture. She was also instrumental in preserving agricultural easements on any portion of the farm that was sold and put the main farm into Ag Security. Her Japanese Garden interests included extensive correspondence and research with Japan. During her last trip to Japan, she was greatly honored with a personal tour of the Japanese Emperor's garden. Laura and Ron were personal friends of John "Duke" Wayne and enjoyed his company at 26BAR, his Hereford cattle ranch in Scotsdale, Arizona, for Thanksgiving dinners during the 1960s and 1970s. Laura Kohr is a Deacon at the First Presbyterian Church of York and pilgrim to the Holy Land , a member of Crystal Cathedral, Calif., a founding sponsor of the York County Ag Council, a member of the United States Trotting Association, The American Hereford Association, The Farm Bureau, and the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce. Laura Kohr, like her husband, Ron, was a good steward of her beloved family farm and greatly appreciated the community's heartfelt support her family and her beloved farm received during the past very difficult year.

She leaves three daughters, Katy Trefrey, Betsy Kohr, and Laura E. Kohr, three sons, Ron Kohr Jr, Archie Kohr II, and Ollie Kohr, all of Lauxmont Farms; 13 grandchildren; one sister, Flossie Thomas of Sinton, Texas; and two brothers, Wendell Jones of Lancaster, and Charlie Jones of Lebanon.

The viewing is from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday at her home Lauxmont Farms main house of Wrightsville, 1155 Long Level Road. The service is at 3 p.m. Wednesday at First Presbyterian Church of York, 225 E. Market St., with her pastor, the Rev. John Morgan, officiating. After the service she will be buried at Lauxmont Farms next to her beloved husband, Ron Kohr. Reception at Lauxmont Gardens afterwards. The public is welcome to attend. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to First Presbyterian Church of York, 225 E. Market St., York, Pennsylvania 17403.

Elton Kohr, Jr.

Kohr's is known regionally for its frozen custard, but I knew Elton Kohr from working for him at Kohr's Orangeade at the Allentown Fair for a few years. Someday I may add a short story I'd written about that experience, but for now, just know that he taught many people the art of making perfect orangeade. In a metal tumbler, you'd use fresh-squeezed orange juice, a blast of sugar-water mix from a tap, ice, and put it on a milkshake blender so it became frothy. In the annual summer heat of the fair, it was a cool and wholesome treat enjoyed by many. Business always tripled on rainy nights, as people crowded in to buy a drink and earn the right to huddle under our stand's canopy.

Once you were trained, you didn't interact much with Elton, who relied on his senior people to supervise. Having more than one stand at the fair, he spent his days going back and forth to see how each was doing. He was a plain-spoken man, clear and brief in what he needed to teach you. I liked his simplicity and directness. Some employees feared him a bit, thinking him strict or humorless, but I found he had a very sly and dry humor which was very cute and liked him very much.

I never knew that his father had been into the breeding of racehorses, and it seems that Elton Jr. and his wife continued that tradition.

Nancy Suzanne[10] Leader (Mary Ethel[9] McDowell, Ella Yost[8] Herbst, Charles[7], Julia Ann[6] Diehl, Charles[5], Johann Karl (Charles)[4], Adam Charles[3], Johann Adam[2], Hans Georg[1]) was born 05 Dec 1936 in York, York Co, Pennsylvania. She married Stephen VanHekle Snyder, twin Jun 1958, son of Garrett Snyder and Elizabeth VanHekle. He was born 25 Aug 1936 in York Co, Pennsylvania, and died 26 Sep 2023 in Richmond, Virginia.

Notes for Stephen VanHekle Snyder, twin:

Captain Stephen Van Hekle Snyder, USN (Retired), left us peacefully on September 26, 2023, in Richmond, Virginia, at the age of 87. Steve was born in 1936 in York PA, to Garrett P. Snyder, Jr., and Elizabeth Sidney (Van Hekle) Snyder. He shared his childhood with twin brother Phillip Van Hekle Snyder and older sister Elizabeth “Betsy” Van Hekle (Snyder) Haviland, being raised in Haddonfield, New Jersey, and later moving to York when their father became the Administrator of York Hospital. As a teenager, Steve met the love of his life, Nancy Suzanne Leader, in English class at William Penn Senior High School in York. After graduating from William Penn in 1954, he studied chemical engineering for a year at Cornell University before entering the U.S. Naval Academy through the NROTC Program. He graduated from the Academy in 1959, a member of the Fourth Company. Steve married Nancy, his wife of 64 years, at St. Paul’s Lutheran Church in York on June 13, 1959. A devoted couple for nearly 70 years, their marriage was a true partnership, together raising two children, four grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Following graduation Steve reported to the USS GYATT (DDG-1), where he served in the Engineering Department and was Engineering Officer during his third year on board. After his tour on GYATT he reported to the USS BOLD (MSO-424) as Executive Officer, and then to the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, California, where he earned an MS in Systems Analysis. Following a tour in the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations (OP-06C), he served as Executive Officer of the USS HAROLD J. ELLISON (DD-864). Steve then served in the Bureau of Naval Personnel before reporting as Commanding Officer of the USS VREELAND (FF-1068) which was homeported in Athens, Greece in the early 1970s. It was his greatest honor to take VREELAND and her crew to “Kieler Woche“ (Kiel Week), the annual Kiel Canal invitational sailing festival. Subsequent to his command tour, Steve was again assigned to the Bureau of Naval Personnel. He then attended the U.S. Naval War College before his last assignment as Executive Assistant to the Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Research, Engineering and Systems. He retired from the Navy in 1982, working as a human resources manager for PEPCO and as a consultant in the private sector. While on active duty, Steve and Nancy made their homes in Newport, Rhode Island, Charleston, South Carolina, Monterey, California, Virginia Beach, Virginia, Kifissia Greece, and the suburbs of Washington DC. They enjoyed attending USNA Class of 1959 reunions and Steve was an active participant in class activities. After retiring, they lived in Williamsburg, Providence Forge and Richmond, Virginia.

Steve counted among his most noteworthy accomplishments completion of the US Marine Corp Marathon in 1978 and the New York City Marathon in 1980. He eventually became a dedicated walker, clocking up to five miles daily for as long as he could. He was an avid football fan, rooting for Navy and the Washington NFL team. Steve enjoyed playing and watching golf (especially The Masters) and worked as a Starter/Ranger at the Golden Horseshoe golf course in Williamsburg for over 10 years. He devoted many happy hours to jigsaw puzzling and was tickled to see that trait pass on to some of his grandchildren. Active in his church communities wherever they lived, Steve also volunteered for the Red Cross, rang the bell for the Salvation Army and enthusiastically supported The Seeing Eye, which provides guide dogs for blind people. He was most proud to be honored in 2006 by the Colonial Virginia Chapter of the American Red Cross for donating over 23 gallons of blood, ultimately nearing 30 gallons as his lifetime donation achievement.

Steve and Nancy enjoyed traveling over their years together, and, in 2009, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with family on a cruise to the Caribbean. For many years, Steve and Nancy enjoyed spending time with their children and grandchildren at Ships Watch in Duck, North Carolina, and for over 40 years had celebrated many anniversaries and special occasions in Capon Springs, West Virginia. Family, friends, fidelity, and faith were what mattered most to Steve. He took pride in the passions and talents of his children and grandchildren - and his love for them was known by all. He was a generous man, a consummate gentleman and a patriot who modeled integrity, discipline, and thoughtfulness. As a dear friend so eloquently put it, Steve was a man of rare moral character - his kindness and compassion live on in us and we will forever remember him.

Steve is survived by his wife, Nancy; daughter Mary Elizabeth “Mary Beth” (Snyder) Tombes and husband Robert of Richmond, Virginia; son Stephen Van Hekle Snyder, Jr., and wife Tracy (Master) of York, Pennsylvania; grandchildren, Emily Suzanne (Tombes) Figley and husband Matthew of Boston, Massachusetts; Rial Margaret (Tombes) Carver and husband Elliott of Manhattan, Kansas; Kennedy Elizabeth and Nickolas Stephen Snyder of York; and great-grandchildren, Owen Brooks and Maysie Ramona Figley, and Laurel Margaret Carver. He is also survived by beloved extended family, cousins, nieces, nephews, shipmates, classmates, and co-workers.

Steve’s care has been entrusted to Bliley’s Funeral Home in Richmond, Virginia, where his obituary may be viewed on-line. A memorial service will be held at the U.S. Naval Academy Chapel in Annapolis, Maryland, followed by inurnment with military honors at the USNA Columbarium, on November 21st, 2023 at 10:30am. Memorial donations may be directed to The Seeing Eye, PO Box 375, Morristown, New Jersey, 07963-0375 9 or the American Red Cross, PO Box 37839, Boone, Iowa, 50037-0839.

Notes for Leo Aaron Schultz:

Like only a slightly more famous son of Hoboken, New Jersey, once sang, Leo Schultz did it his way. Husband, father, grandfather and self-made businessman, Leo Schultz, passed away Monday, April 4, 2016, at his home in Oxnard, California, at the age of 85. Leo was born on May 28, 1930 in Hoboken, New Jersey, to Meyer and Pauline Schultz. When Frank Sinatra sang, "I've lived a life that's full . . . But more than this, I did it my way," he echoed Leo's daily marching song. Leo worked a variety of odd jobs, including milkman and gas station attendant, so he was able support his family until he could establish himself in the insurance business and build his little empire. He briefly left the business to run a fast-food franchise, "Sam's Roast Beef," then returned to the business he knew and loved most and built it back up, eventually moving the agency from Santa Monica to Ventura County 30 years ago. Leo was always seeking a new business venture. In addition to continuing to work in the insurance industry, he earned his real estate license at the age of 83, and most recently was in the process of trying to launch a perfume called, "Leona." He was driven and stubborn to the end, going out on his own terms.

He is survived by his wife, Jane Schultz; daughters, Shelly Schultz and Teri Jenkins; son and daughter-in-law Jeff and Jeanne Schultz; four grandchildren Justine and Evan Jenkins, Josh and Sierra Schultz; two step-children, Kimberly Destler and Albert Gersh. Leo was preceded in death by his first wife, Madeleine in 2010.

A special heartfelt thanks to caretakers, Hozumi, Jesse and Michele, to Livingston Memorial Hospice, and to Carol, Rebecca and the staff at Northern Health Insurance Services. Memorial service will be held Wednesday, April 6,2016, 10 AM, at the Ted Mayr Funeral Home, 3150 Loma Vista Road, Ventura. Internment will immediately follow at Ivy Lawn Memorial Park, 5400 Valentine Road, Ventura. In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations to the American Caneer Society. Arrangements are under the direction of the Ted Mayr Funeral Home, 3150 Loma Vista Road, Ventura.

Marriage Notes for Jane Gilbert and Donald Glenn:

The charm of simplicity was keynote of the wedding of Miss Jane E. Gilbert and Donald R. Glenn Saturday, Feb. 26, 1955. The ceremony was at the Immaculate Conception Church where the altar has been decorated with white stock and pink carnations. The Rev. Thomas O'Connell officiated at the Nuptial Mass.

The reception was at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gilbert 0f 232 Stedman Place, the newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Glenn leaving from there for Florida. The two are motoring, heading for the camp where young Glenn is in training with the Boston Red Sox. After the five weeks of training, there will be six months in the Eastern states for Monrovia couple. Both young people are graduates of Monrovia-Durate High School, young Glenn signed up there by the Red Sox during his senior year. The former Miss Gilbert went on to Pasadena City College after graduation.

It was a double ring ceremony uniting the two young people, the rites witnessed by about 80. The guest list was comprised of relatives and a few intimate friends. Miss Janice York was attendant for the bride. The maid of honor wore an iridescent taffeta ranging from turquoise to green, the bouffant frock cut along simple lines and effectively complemented with a bouquet of red rosebuds.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown made with Duchess lace bodice with net yoke, and skirt of shimmering satin worn beneath a filmy cascade of net, cut ankle length. Wit it she wore a headpiece of heirloom lace imbedded with beads, with attached fingertip veil of illusion net. Her flowers were white rosebuds and stephanotis. Duane Therien was best man for the bridegroom who is son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Glenn of 734 E. Lime Ave. Seating guests were Eugene Rosen and Paul Armas.

Mrs. Gilbert was hostess at the reception which followed at her home on Stedman Place, the mother of the bride smartly clad in navy knit dress worn with navy accessories and pink carnation corsage. The mother of the bridegroom was in the navy too, her frock also given accent with pink carnations. The three-tiered cake served at the late morning gathering was surrounded with white camellias and served to guests along with singer sandwiches, coffee and punch.

Notes for Sidney Benjamin Gersh:

June 25, 1968 - There's nothing quite as educational in the automotive sales business as "on the job training" and Sid Gersh got into the thick of it quickly after college graduation (Roosevelt University, Chicago) as a salesman with the huge Z. Frank Chevrolet agency in the "Windy City. With some "fast learning" under his belt, he plunged deeper into the game and established Mark Motors, operating it for three years until, like so many mid-westerners, he pulled stakes and headed west, in 1952. Advertising and promotion had become one of his "long suits" and he dabbled a bit in this field (promotion al lithography) for major television studios, before returning to the auto fraternity at Courtesy Ford in Paramount, owned by Dick Niver, his present boss. When that dealership moved to Burbank. Sid moved to Coberly Ford in Los Angeles, and late last year he took over reins at Burbank Ford, as general sales manager. Aside from his business, he has great interest in thoroughbred horses, which he raises and breeds. He has one, named Kaltime, due to race soon at Hollywood Park. But horses aside, he's busy at work, at Burbank Ford, to play his part in making the projection of "Bunky" Knudsen, president of the Ford Motor Co., that the 1968 model rear will produce 9,300,000 sales of new cars in the country, come true.

In spite of his disability Craig went on to become a very successful investment broker in Beverly Hills, working for ML Stern & Co., UBS, and Primary Wealth Management until his recent retirement.

Craig was an inspiration to everyone he met. He was a true friend you could count on, always quick with a joke or a smile. Craig loved boating, classic cars, western movies, playing poker, and traveling to Las Vegas and local beaches on sunny days. Mostly he enjoyed having his friends and family over to his home and sitting by the fireplace or enjoying the sun in his gar den. Every day we had with Craig was a gift. Every time we asked him how he was Craig would say," I've got the Sun on my Face and I'm Lovin' Life".

Craig is survived by his mother Jane Gersh-Schultz, his step- father Leo Schultz, Sister Kimberly Wilson, Brother Albert Gersh, Sister Kathleen Sizer, Brother Eric Glenn, Nieces Lyric Wilson, Pearl Wilson and Kaitlyn Sizer, nephew Hayden Sizer and natural father Don Glenn. Mike Road (born Milton Brustin; March 18, 1918 – April 14, 2013) was an American voice actor and Warner Bros. television series contract player whose television career dates back to the 1950s and in films to the 1940s. Road was born in Malden in Middlesex County, Massachusetts. He got his start as an actor in school plays while in Malden High School, which led to him joining a theatre troupe in Boston. His Broadway debut came in the late 1930s in the short-lived play Doodle Dandy of the U.S.A. He supported himself by doing odd jobs such as usher, waiter, truck driver, delivery man and sign painter.

Road had a role in the play The Moonvine. His film career had also begun by this time. Between 1943 and 1946, he appeared in Gildersleeve on Broadway, Tender Comrade, Music in Manhattan, Heavenly Days and several other motion pictures. In 1946, he returned to the stage, playing the lead role in Dear Ruth. By 1952, Road had been elected director of The John Hancock Summer Theatre. In 1955, Road made his directorial debut in Sweden with the film Den Underbara Lognen, starring Signe Hasso.

In the late 1950s, his television career also took off. He portrayed Marshal Tom Sellers on the 1958–59 NBC western series Buckskin, co-starring with Sally Brophy and Tom Nolan. Road guest starred twice on Maverick as Bart Maverick's rival Pearly Gates. He was also a regular on the ABC/Warner Brothers detective series Surfside 6, as well as on The Roaring 20s.[2] He appeared in the series The Alaskans and Lawman, and in other venues: Sea Hunt, Gunsmoke, I Dream of Jeannie, Bewitched, The Wild, Wild West ("The Night of the Tottering Tontine", S2E16, as Martin Dexter), and Alias Smith and Jones (episode: "Shootout at Diablo Station", 1971).

In his two appearances on the western series Colt .45, Road played Jesse James in "Alias Mr. Howard". He was also cast as a bandit-turned-storekeeper in the segment "Arizona Anderson", which aired on February 14, 1960.

As a voice actor, Road is best known as Race Bannon on Hanna-Barbera's Jonny Quest (1964–1965). During this time, he guest starred as Go-Go Ravine on The Flintstones episode "Fred Meets Hercurock". He was also the voice of Zandor on The Herculoids (1967), Ugh the Giant Caveman on Space Ghost and Dino Boy (1966), John Butler on Valley of the Dinosaurs (1974), and Reed Richards on The New Fantastic Four in 1978. Road retired from voice acting after reprising his role as Zandor in Hanna-Barbera’s Space Stars in 1981.

He returned to directing plays on the stage in the 1970s. In 1973, Road won the Los Angeles Drama Critics' Circle Award for Come Slowly Eden. He directed Toni Gerry in the drama one-woman play Hanna Speaks in 1988.

She was born 1918.

Notes for George Leon Nace:

I, George Nace of Sutherlin, Oregon, would like to tell my experience of World War II. I was born in Middlesex, Pennsylvania, on October 9, 1925. I was raised on a farm in Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania, where I walked behind a plow with a pair of mules, from age eight. I stayed on the farm until World War II started. I was 17 and rather than wait to be drafted, I joined the Navy in August 1943.

My six weeks of boot camp training was at Great Lakes, Illinois. When finished with training, we were put on a troop train with the blinds pulled down; we were not told where we were going. After about five days on the train, we ended in Shoemaker, California. We were then taken to San Francisco, California, where the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Saratoga was in dry dock at Hunter's Point.

After we took a torpedo hit on the Pacific Ocean, I was put on the ship Division #1, which was the Deck Hand Gunnery Division. There were a couple of weeks of scrubbing decks, chipping paint and painting until I was assigned to the Boat Division. I was given the title of coxswain of two whale boats and a captain's gig. I stayed on the captain's gig except for general quarters (battle stations), and then I was second loader on a five-inch double gun turret. My job on the captain's gig was to usher the captain and lieutenants to shore when we pulled into port or anchored out in port.

When we left San Francisco heading for Hawaii, I got seasick before we had even gone under the Golden Gate Bridge. (In fact, I've gone under the Golden Gate more times than I've been over it.) When we reached Hawaii, we tied up at Hickam Field, where we loaded the aircraft. When at sea we always had plenty of protection with us, generally two battleships and four destroyers, because we could not go very fast. The carrier was as long as three football fields and carried 3,500 men, mostly sailors with 50 marines. It was just like a small city. We sailed the Pacific Ocean for the three-and-a-half years that I was on it, from 1943 to 1946 covering the Solomon Islands; Sydney, Australia; Perth, Australia; Ceylon; India, and within 20 miles of Japan. The planes on the carrier were F4F Hellcats, TBM torpedo planes and F4U Corsairs. Over Iwo Jima, we were hit with 18 kamikaze planes. We shot down 10 of their planes and hit eight. We buried 140 of our men at sea. When the war was over, we took the carrier to Bikini Atoll. It was sunk with the atomic bomb test. The carrier was built in 1925, so it was as old as I was. It had done its duty, including "magic carpet runs" (bringing back troops from Hawaii). In fact, we made 10 trips. It was quite an experience for an old farm boy.

August 12, 1973 - A 15-year-old West Des Moines youth pleaded innocent Saturday to a charge of driving while intoxicated and traffic charges stemming from a 120 miles-per-hour chase earlier Saturday between West Des Moines and Booneville, authorities said. The youth, identified as Robert James Dice, 15, of 305 Woodland Ave., was released on $700 bond after an appearance before Magistrate John P. McNerney.

Officers said Dice and two other 15-year-olds were arrested about three miles west of West Des Moines on Iowa Highway 90 at a police roadblock. Police said the car being chased almost struck Patrolman Colin McBee as the driver attempted to drive around a patrol car parked across Highway 90. The car then stopped and the youths were arrested, police said. Dice was identified by police as the driver of the car. The youths who were riding in the car were referred to juvenile officers.

Police said the chase began after Patrolman Robert rushing saw a car speeding on Interstate Highway 235 near Twenty-second Street in West Des Moines. Records Saturday showed that Dice has been charged with driving while intoxicated, four speeding violations, driving without a license, driving without lights and disobeying a police officer's signal to stop.

Robert Foust[10] Keller (Russell Conwell[9], Zana Irene[8] Diehl, Peter A.[7], Levi[6], John Adam[5], Johann Karl (Charles)[4], Adam Charles[3], Johann Adam[2], Hans Georg[1]) was born 11 Dec 1918 in Glen Rock, York Co, Pennsylvania, and died 20 Sep 1999 in Glen Rock, York Co, Pennsylvania. She was born 03 Feb 1919 in Motherwell, North Lanarkshire, Scotland, and died 03 Mar 1985 in Glen Rock, York Co, Pennsylvania.

Notes for Lillian Diana (Lulu) Ash:

Lillian "Lulu" Rex Keller, 82, of Howell passed away peacefully on Thursday, March 3, 2016. Lulu believed that "life is not measured by the breaths you take, but by the moments that take your breath away" and she had many breath-taking moments in her lifetime. Born in Roselle Park, Long Island, Lulu lived with her parents, Anny Henriksen and David Ash, and sister, Vivian in West Hempstead, Long Island. She attended P.S. 30 and after moving to Westerliegh, Staten Island, she graduated with honors from Curtis High School where she sang in the choir. After high school Lillian married the boy next door: Wilson A. Rex III, a tugboat captain and C&W musician. They had two children; Kristian, who was born on his father's birthday in 1952 and Karin, who was born on Mother's Day in 1960, just after the family moved to Winston Park in Howell, New Jersey. In Howell, Lulu was a proud founding member of the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, where she was a Vacation Bible School teacher and a volunteer in many capacities for more than five decades. God's love was one of the things that took Lulu's breath away. She always said he was "sitting on her shoulder." Lulu managed Howell Lanes for two decades, was an avid bowler, and taught the sport to many, including seniors and children with special needs. She was a Director of the Monmouth County Women's Bowling Association (1969-1973) and a member of the Women's International Bowling Congress, and bowled in more than 20 national tournaments across the US. She retired from Howell Lanes in 1986, when she married her second husband Bob Keller and they set off to travel the nation in their RV, wintering in Apache Junction and Bullhead City, Arizona and Laughlin, Nevada. She met Bob while attending the Eastern Region Bowling Proprietors Assoc. conference in Atlantic City. His sparkling blue eyes were also one of the things that took her breath away and it was love from the start. Lulu's true calling was caring for people. She was called "Aunt Lu" or

"Grandma Lulu" by generations of her many friends' children and was always there for all of them with comfort, advice or shelter. When she first moved to Howell, she volunteered for the ambulance squad. In her later years, she was a member of the Howell Women's Club and a caring hospice volunteer. This work also took her breath away and strengthened her faith in God and her love of family. Lulu was proud of her Norwegian heritage and was a member of Sons of Norway Lodge #3-439 in Point Pleasant since 1975. She loved visits from her Norwegian relatives and took her son and daughter to Norway for her 70th birthday to see her mother's homeland and visit with relatives. That trip was full of moments that took her breath away- not just by the sights, but by the laughter that always ensued when any of us tried speaking Norwegian, especially her favorite toast: "Ein skoal, dein skoal, allaganskaflickor skoal!"
She last resided at Brandywine Senior Living in Howell, where she made very good friends, played piano in the parlor, and called Bingo. If you knew Lillian, you knew she loved the ocean and the beach, which never failed to take her breath away. Notes for James H. Chubb, Jr.:

James H. Chubb Jr, aka Papa Bear, Grandpapa, Grampino, Pa Jim, Bear, Jim passed onto the all you can eat banquet stage in his life peacefully, with remote control in his hands on the day the stock market climbed to its second highest peak of 2015, namely Tuesday September 8, 2015 at 10:00 am in York, PA. We think the jubilation of the market bounce back gave him the optimism he needed to bounce onto the next party of his life. Grampino was a man of many noble traits, regarded by all as a true mensch with an enviable wit and panache for fun. He was an eternal foodie, wine connoisseur, wanderluster, erudite, linguist, basketball star, tennis aficionado, ski lover, joy-seeker and sincere and unique husband, father and friend. Papa Bear loved to regale us with his uniquely contagious, tear-inducing hearty laugh, telling stories of his great adventures (some aggrandized for effect as per his charming Irish-roots), and/or stories about some remote piece of history and philosophy that only a few could truly follow/comprehend. He balanced this appetite for knowledge with an equal fervor for ice cream and potato chips. He loved to laugh, and he loved to love, and he did so deeply for all those close to him.

Jim had a spectacular, aircraft-carrier-sized dose of charm. He could convert a stranger into a friend within minutes with his joyful spirit and interesting life stories (from escaping gunfire in the Congo; to avoiding kidnapping by the Brigate Rosse in Italy; to needing Navy rescue having entangled the USS Shangri La in hay bales in a maneuver to avoid hitting floating cows - we are not kidding all this really happened). He was a man who, by way of character, clear moral compass, and fair thinking, won the trust and respect of so many who had the good fortune to know him.

Bear's fan group includes his beloved wife of 16 years Susan D. Chubb; his two daughters Christina L. Chubb Carosi (veterinarian living in Verona, Italy with husband Andrea and children Jovanna and Alessandro) and Caroline K. Chubb Calderon (management consultant living in Maplewood, New Jersey with her husband Felipe and children Sebastian and Mattias); his step-daughters Kim Foley (mother living in Arnold, Maryland with her husband Steve and children Elizabeth and James) and Elizabeth Orendorf (mother living in Dallastown, Pennsylvania with her husband Sean and children Nathaniel, Olivia and Nicholas); sister Kathy Smyser; many in-laws, nieces, nephews and an international army of friends and confidants made over a lifetime of a nomadic existence rich in happy experiences and strong human connections.

Having just returned from a spectacular "Grande Odyssey D'Europe" (a month-long trip to France, Italy and Germany with his daughters to visit his old stomping grounds, see life-long friends and indulge in exquisite delicacies), and having seen and laughed with many close friends over Labor Day weekend, his heart was filled with cheer. What an exquisite way to pass onto the next chapter. He only regretted having to leave prematurely his beloved wife and his accomplished and admired, loved and cherished children and grandchildren.

Jim was born at the York Hospital on March 23, 1938, grew up in York, Pennsylvania and graduated from William Penn Senior High in 1956. He went onto Dartmouth College from which he graduated in 1960, joined the US NAVY-received his commission and served 31/2 years aboard the aircraft carrier USS Shangri La. The navy stimulated his curiosity about the world and sent him into a Marco Polo mode that pretty much describes the course of his life. He went on to Columbia University, where he received an MBA majoring in International Business and began his career with Uniroyal which took him to Scotland, England, Germany and Belgium where things began to get serious. He became Marketing Director for France, Belgium and Germany and then by a fluke of fate, moved on as CFO for Switzerland, Holland, Denmark, Zaire (Congo) and Italy. Italy was fateful and he assumed CFO/COO role with an Italian joint venture company and as a result lived on Lake Como for fifteen years. He then transitioned to SIV, the Italian glass conglomerate, as a general manager for their international operations in Germany, France, Belgium, Sweden and Spain after a very successful negotiation on their behalf with the Chrysler Corporation. Homesickness brought him back to the U.S. where he assumed the presidency of Sandretto Plastics Machinery USA in Michigan. Due to the terminal illness of his then wife, Inge Zimmermann of Munich, Germany, he moved back to Germany on a consulting assignment that eventually led to his taking up an appointment with the Continental Tire Company as CFO/COO of the company's Eastern European operations at Barum Continental, in Prague, Czech Republic where he was a Member of the Board.

The list of Jim's accomplishments is remarkable, but in truth his greatest accomplishment is how he made you feel - special. In his honor, we'd love for you to make someone feel special today and everyday, and celebrate his life by eating something delectable with lots of gusto and laughter surrounded by friends.

Should you be moved to, please remember him by contributing in his name to your charity of choice or to the Dartmouth College Fund in lieu of flowers. A private burial will be held at the convenience of his family, and you are welcome to help us celebrate his joyous life on Friday, September 18, 2015 at the Country Club of York, 1400 Country Club Road, York between 12:00 and 2:30 p.m. Arrangements by the Etzweiler Funeral Homes and Cremation Service, 1111 East Market Street, York, Pennsylvania 17403.

He was born 18 Jun 1954 in Allentown, Lehigh Co, Pennsylvania, and died 23 Jun 2007 in Exton, Chester Co, Pennsylvania.

Notes for James Patrick Mack:
James Patrick Mack, "Jim", 66 of Lords Valley, Pennsylvania, died peacefully, at his home on Monday, December 28, 2020. His career as a Human Resources Professional spanned 40+ years in many different states and towns. He is remembered fondly by those who worked with him and has been referred to by many as the best boss they've ever had. Most recently, Jim retired as HR Director of B. Braun Medical, Inc., located in Allentown, Pennsylvania, in 2012. Jim was a proud U.S. Marine Corp (1st Battalion, 6th Marine, 2nd Division, Camp Lejeune) veteran serving from 1972 to 1974. The son of the late Russell and Dolores (Litzenberger) Mack, Jim was born June 18, 1954 in Allentown, Pennsylvania.

He was married to Mary (Nugent) Mack on June 23, 2007 in Exton, Pennsylvania. James leaves behind his wife Mary; children: Erica (Mack) Cisneros and her husband, Sergio, of Macungie, Pennsylvania, David Mack and his wife, Lauren, of Milton, Pennsylvania, Nick McCormick and his wife, Trish, of Glenmoore, Pennsylvania, Angie (McCormick) Atchie and her husband, Josh, of Liverpool, New York, and Michael McCormick of West Chester, Pennsylvania; sister Dianna (Mack) Miller and her husband, Clint, of Hubert, North Carolina; nephew, Christopher George and his wife, Lorena of Swansboro, North Carolina and eight grandchildren: Alexis, Owen, Alyssa, Jude, Macy, Nathaniel, Ellia and Lucas.

Jim will be remembered as a man who enjoyed a funny story and had many to tell, albeit those of the tall tale variety which he managed to improve with each retelling. He was a master of history, his family's private "historical genius" who could recall the specific dates, locations, and names of the people involved in any historical event. He truly loved the great outdoors. Especially time spent camping, canoeing, kayaking, or hiking with his loved ones. He was a defender of all wildlife and took tremendous joy in feeding his "critters" every morning on his property located in his beloved Pocono Mountains. Jim knew how to make anything more fun. Playing a game of Yahtzee with the grandkids – wild rides in Jim's version of the game -- or a car ride that easily became an adventure with Jim behind the wheel. In short, Jim made everything and everyone around him feel so very special. He will truly be missed by all that knew and loved him but will always remain in our hearts. As Jim would say, "Peace, love, and soul… Okay, love you, see ya, bye-bye!" In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made in Jim's memory to either Wounded Warrior Project or to the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation area. Services and cremation will be private at the request of the family. A Celebration of Life with Military Honors will be planned in the near future at Hawk Mountain.

Charlie became Chad at Florida Presbyterian College (now Eckerd College) in St. Petersburg, Florida where he played two years of baseball and two years of tennis graduating in 1971. Continuing his education Chad went to University of North Carolina Business School receiving his MBA in 1973. In the late 1970's Chad accepted Jesus as his Lord and Savior and he embarked upon his faith journey that continued the remainder of his life. Together Chad and Anne had a "mountaintop" experience and became a part of a small group that after 44 years continues to meet together to pursue God's desires for our lives. Chad attended Bible Study Fellowship for many years. Chad was currently involved in Orchard Men's Bible Study and Anchor Sunday School Class at Peachtree Presbyterian Church. Notes for Jody Harlacher:

June 14, 2021, Portrait of the top painting craftsman - Jody Harlacher "has more artist in him than he admits," says Zach Ausherman of Mike Ausherman Painting. A resident of Dover, Jody has been named the "Craftsman of the Year" by the Painting Contractors Association, a national organization based in St. Louis. The award is officially named the L.E. Travis Jr. Craftsman of the Year, honoring a painter who excels at his work. Jody, 61, (he proudly points out he was born at the former West Side Hospital in York) has been a professional contract painter since 1988 when he joined the Ausherman team. A 1977 graduate of the York County Vo-Tech School in carpentry and cabinetmaking, he worked for Boring Furniture, Boring Manufacturing and Yorktowne Kitchens before working with his father in his painting businesses prior to joining Ausherman.

Over the years, he has become an expert with matching paint and stain colors. His high quality work can been seen across the area, most recently in his intricate work on a large 1837 home in Gettysburg with a series of unique porches. Over the years, he has used his expertise in repainting the original Glatfelter Mansion in Spring Grove and helping to restore the former Hahn Home (now Kuhner Associates Funeral Directors) after a fire damaged the interior of the building. Jody, who decided to "go part-time" as a painter on May 1, says his "knowledge comes from experience and training classes" he has taken over the years. In nominating Jody for the award, Zach Ausherman, who refers to himself as the company's "Chief Vision Officer," wrote: "A notable interior project was a large three-story stairwell in a one-hundred-year-old home." He went on to praise Jody's technique with stains. 'With stain, the talent is in blending stains to match the existing. A few times a year, we'll have stain projects where the substrate causes lighter or darker spots. Jody has the ability to modify the stain to darken or lighten those spots."

When it comes to paints, Jody has "the ability to manipulate paint to match colors by adding pigments. A few times a year, he'll add white, amber or others needed to make the paint color needed for that project." Indeed, that is what he did on the Gettysburg house project. Jody Harlacher also shares his knowledge with other members of the Ausherman painting crews. "Each spring he runs our ladder safety program for the company," Zach Ausherman writes. He is "adamant about cleanliness and keeping things in order" as well as "making sure he and his crew are wearing proper PPE for dust and paint particles; from dust masks to properly fitting respirators."

Now that he has reduced his schedule to part-time, Jody says he will have time to work on family projects for his son, two daughters, and his wife, Brenda. And, oh yes, "time for fishing," a favorite activity

Ausherman Painting has 18 employees with a market area including York and Adams Counties, as well as Mechanicsburg and Camp Hill. Jody Harlacher is proud of his York County roots and York County can be proud of Jody Harlacher and his brush with fame as the painting craftsman of the year.

She was always an avid reader and member of the same book club of lovely ladies in Stony Brook for more than 30 years.

In 1996 she received certification as a Life Coach and coached clients of all ages. She coached clients at John T. Mather Hospital in Port Jefferson, New York, The Stony Brook School, and countless others all over the country. Marie was recognized as a community leader and awarded a plaque by the Leeds Martin Luther Commemorative Breakfast Committee. She was twice nominated for the Leeds Chamber of Commerce Citizen of the Year for her work on behalf of her hometown. She served on a number of community and civic organizations.

In 1998, Marie organized the Leeds Historical Society and served two years as its first president. She led the group of historical society volunteers and others in a number of major projects funded by grants she secured for the organization. Beginning with the research, naming and marking of the Historic Stagecoach Route through Leeds that later became an Alabama Scenic Byway followed by restoration and furnishing of the historic Rowan House. She worked with a group of volunteers in improvements at the Historic Leeds Depot and served as chairman of a landscaping committee for the grounds. She secured two state historic markers for the site, one for the depot and for the grounds in honor of the railroad steel-driving icon John Henry. The landscaping project included a replica of the town well that once occupied the center of Historic Ninth Street near the depot.

She won approval from the Leeds Park and Recreation Board and the Leeds City Council in 1999 for a perpetual land lease on her plans and drawings for the development of a historical park on the SW side of the Little Cahaba River and Leeds Memorial Park. The historical park includes a curved brick wall monument in honor of three Medal of Honor recipients from Leeds. She formed an ad-hoc committee of historical society members and other volunteers to renovate and decorate the area at the Wright Community Center used for the Leeds City Council meetings. She worked with faculty advisor Maggie Shannon at Leeds High School to reactivate the 1948 membership schools O&S chapter in the International Society of High School Journalists and worked with Shannon and the students to restart the publication of the student newspaper, The Greenwave, after an absence of almost 50 years. She served as editor-in-chief in the schools student newspaper (1948-49). She began her career in journalism by reporting school news for the Leeds News in her junior year under publisher/editor Edmund Blair.

For most of her adult life Marie was involved in newspaper work. She covered three counties as a correspondent for the Birmingham Post-Herald and later for The Birmingham News, life style editor at the St. Clair News-Aegis, education editor at the Talladega Daily Home and worked as a freelance writer for a number of state and national publications. Following her retirement, she became a part-time staff writer for the Leeds News and a contributing writer for the Daily Herald, a local internet magazine. While attending Jacksonville State College (University), she served as front-page editor of the college newspaper and on the staff of the college yearbook. She was employed part time while in college in the advertising-layout department of the Gadsden Times. While living in New Orleans and Gulfport, Mississippi she was a freelance writer and contributor to the Gulfport Herald and the Times Picayune.

In 1986, she became the published author of “Modern Indians of Alabama: Remnants of the Removal” that won an award in the non-fictional book category by the National Federation of Press Women, of which she was an active member and contributing writing for a number of years for the NFPW’s magazine, Press Women. She was adopted in the Echota Cherokee Tribe of Alabama for her supportive reports and articles on the state-recognized Indian tribes and the organization of the state’s first Indian Affairs Commission. She was given the Indian name “Talking Leaves,” Sequoya’s descriptive words for the white man’s printed pages. The adoption ceremony was the first in the state since Indian Removal on the Trail of Tears in the 1830’s. In 2008, she wrote an outdoor historical play, Listen to that Cold Steel Ring, to call attention to and honor the legendary railroad tunnels in the Dunnavant community. The play was presented as part of the Leeds Downtown Folk Festival for five consecutive years.

Marie was a member of Leeds First Baptist Church and a founding member of the Ashley Manor II weekly Bible study and devotional group and taught the class for several years. In lieu of flowers the family is suggesting memorial gifts be made in Marie’s memory for Rowan Oaks to the Leeds Historical Society, PO Box 465, Leeds, Alabama 35094, or to Carpenters for Christ, Leeds First Baptist Church, 7481 Parkway Drive, Leeds, Alabama 35094.

Notes for Karen Ann Garrett:

Superior Court of Pennsylvania.Karen A. TREGONING, Appellee v. Walter WILTSCHEK and Monica Del Carmen Gomez Perez Appeal of Walter Wiltschek, Appellant.Decided: August 20, 2001

Before: CAVANAUGH, OLSZEWSKI and BECK, JJ. Richard K. Konkel, York, for appellant. Susan A. Docktor, York, for Guardian Ad Litem, appellee. Kathleen J. Prendergast, York, for Tregoning, appellee.

1 This is an interlocutory appeal from the lower court's order requiring appellant, Walter Wiltschek, to submit to a blood test for the purpose of determining paternity. Because we find that appellee, Karen A. Tregoning, is estopped from denying the paternity of Mr. Wiltschek, we reverse.

2 The dispute between the parties relates to Jazmin Wiltschek, born on January 31, 1995, to her natural mother, defendant below Monica del Carmen Gomez Perez, in Santiago, Chile.1 Appellant was named as the father on the birth certificate. Also on January 31, 1995, appellant and Ms. Gomez Perez purported to marry one another, despite appellant's being married to appellee at the time. Two weeks later, appellant and the natural mother took Jazmin from Chile to Toronto, Canada, where appellee awaited their arrival. (At that time, appellee had in her custody a child the parties sought to adopt, but was later returned to the child's birth mother in York County pursuant to court order.) Ms. Gomez Perez returned to Chile where she has remained. Although Walter and Karen had become divorced, they lived together as a family unit with Jazmin in Europe for the next two years and then returned to the United States in April, 1997. They parted company later in 1997. In early 1998, Karen married Maurice Tregoning, and she and Jazmin took up residence with him and his two adolescent children. Walter frequently traveled internationally for extended periods of time on business. During the years 1998, 1999, and 2000, he maintained contact with Jazmin and exercised custody over her one night per week during those times he was in the United States.

3 In August, 2000, appellant assumed sole custody of Jazmin. He enrolled her in a religious school and did not advise appellee of her whereabouts. Custody litigation ensued, and the parties have agreed to a temporary custody order, which is not at issue on appeal. The only portion of the lower court order before us is the order that appellant submit to a blood test, pursuant to 23 Pa.C.S.A. § 5104.2

4 The statutory authority for the court ordering of blood tests to determine paternity is as follows:

In any matter subject to this section in which paternity, parentage or identity of a child is a relevant fact, the court, upon its own initiative or upon suggestion made by or on behalf of any person whose blood is involved, may or, upon motion of any party to the action made at a time so as not to delay the proceedings unduly, shall order the mother, child and alleged father to submit to blood tests. If any party refuses to submit to the tests, the court may resolve the question of paternity, parentage of identity of a child against the party or enforce its order if the rights of others and the interests of justice so require.

23 Pa.C.S.A. § 5104(c).

5 Whether to allow paternity testing raises issues of presumptive paternity, estoppel, and both societal and familial interests. Strayer v. Ryan, 725 A.2d 785, 787-788, n. 1 (Pa.Super.1999). The presumption of paternity only applies in cases where the policy of preservation of marriages may be advanced. Fish v. Behers, 559 Pa. 523, 741 A.2d 721 (1999). Where there is no longer an intact family or marriage to preserve, the presumption of paternity is inapplicable. Id. A party may be estopped from denying a husband's paternity of a child if either the husband or the wife holds the child out to be the child of the marriage. Id. As explained by the supreme court:

Estoppel in paternity actions is merely the legal determination that because of a person's conduct (e.g., holding out the child as his own, or supporting the child) that person, regardless of his true biological status, will not be permitted to deny parentage, nor will the child's mother who has participated in this conduct be permitted to sue a third party for support, claiming that the third party is the true father.

Under certain circumstances, a person might be estopped from challenging paternity where that person has by his or her conduct accepted a given person as the father of the child. The estoppel cases indicate that where the principle is operative, blood tests may be irrelevant, for the law will not permit a person in these situations to challenge the status which he or she has previously accepted.

Id., at 723 (quoting Freedman v. McCandless, 539 Pa. 584, 654 A.2d 529, 532-533 (1995) and Jones v. Trojak, 535 Pa. 95, 634 A.2d 201, 206 (1993)).

6 In the instant case, the evidence establishes that appellee previously accepted appellant's holding himself out as the father of Jazmin. The following facts of record are probative: ?1) Jazmin bears appellant's last name; ?2) appellant is named as Jazmin's father on her birth certificate; ?3) appellee lived as a family unit with appellant and Jazmin in Europe for the first two years of Jazmin's life; ?4) appellee filed a petition for custody on August 29, 2000, throughout which she identified and referred to appellant as “father;” ?5) appellant's Austrian passport issued in 1995 listed Jazmin as his daughter; ?and 6) appellee filed an emergency custody petition on November 6, 2000, in which she again throughout referred to appellant as the “father.”

7 Appellee has previously accepted the status of appellant as the father of Jazmin. During the period of time between 1995 and 1997 it served appellee's interest for appellant to be considered the father of Jazmin since it was expedient and enabled both parties to travel together with Jazmin as a functional family unit. Now appellee would find it in her interest for appellant to be considered a third party with only in loco parentis status given her plans to formally adopt Jazmin with her current husband. The law will not countenance this attempt to selectively employ principles so fundamental to the well-being of the child involved in an issue of paternity. Public policy demands that children have the right to certainty in their relationships with their parents. Bahl v. Lambert Farms, Inc., 2001 PASuper 125, 18, 773 A.2d 1256 (2001). As we quoted in Bahl:

Estoppel is based on the public policy that children should be secure in knowing who their parents are. If a certain person has acted as the parent and bonded with the child, the child should not be required to suffer the potentially damaging trauma that may come from being told that the father he has known all his life is not in fact his father. Fish v. Behers, 741 A.2d at 724 (citations omitted).

Id.

8 There can be no other reasonable reading of the record but that when it suited appellee's interests she accepted appellant's role as the father of Jazmin. That position having been accepted and promoted by both parties requires the conclusion that appellee is now legally estopped from asserting a challenge to the paternity of appellant.

9 Since appellee is estopped from challenging the paternity of appellant, the blood tests are rendered irrelevant. We conclude that it was error for the lower court to order testing of appellant since he has never denied paternity and since appellee's actions evidence her prior acceptance of appellant as the father of Jazmin. See Fish v. Behers, supra.

10 We note the limits of our ruling in this matter. It does not decide any issue of custody or support. We are not faced with issues regarding termination of appellant's parental rights or legal adoption of Jazmin by the Tregonings. Nor are we asked to render judgment regarding the means by which these parties obtained custody of Jazmin from her native Chile without necessity of involvement of the legal system.

11 Order reversed to the extent it required appellant to submit to a blood test. Case remanded. Jurisdiction is relinquished.

1 I respectfully dissent. I would find that neither the presumption of paternity nor principles of estoppel apply to this difficult and complex custody case.

2 Appellant Walter Wiltschek (“Walter”) asserts that he is the biological father of the child in question. He also asserts that Monica Del Carmen Gomez Perez (“Monica”), a named appellant, is the child's biological mother. The petition for custody is brought by appellee, Karen A. Tregoning (“Karen”), who is the former wife of Walter. She does not allege any biological relationship to the child.

3 Walter argues that he should not be subject to paternity testing because he has acted as the child's father for a period of years and therefore he, Walter, would be estopped from asserting otherwise if he attempted to do so. In addition, he draws the court's attention to the fact that he is named as the child's father on her birth certificate, that he is the only father she has ever known, that her American citizenship is at risk if he is deemed not to be her biological father and that the child's putative biological mother, Monica, entered into a stipulation agreement granting him full custody.

4 Karen argues that Walter's name on the birth certificate was fraudulent and done only to allow him to leave Chile unimpeded, with the child in his custody. She draws the court's attention to the fact that Walter has traveled throughout the world in the years since the child's birth and that Walter's marriage to Monica, the putative biological mother, was invalid because he was already married to her (Karen) at the time. She also states that she and Walter divorced in 1995 but the child continued to live with and be cared for by her. She claims (and Walter concedes) that Walter has never paid child support and that the longest amount of time Walter spent living with the child (ten months) occurred some five years ago.

5 The trial court, faced with the complicated events of this case, recognized the need for DNA testing, testimony from the child's putative biological mother and the appointment of a guardian ad litem to represent the child. The court ordered all of the above, while at the same time returning the matter to the status quo, i.e., custody with Karen and visitation with Walter. I can find no error in this interim resolution and instead see it as the most appropriate way in which to proceed.

6 The presumption of paternity is plainly inapplicable. Not only is there no intact family or marriage to preserve, there was no intact family into which the child was born. Fish v. Behers, 559 Pa. 523, 741 A.2d 721, 723 (1999); Brinkley v. King, 549 Pa. 241, 701 A.2d 176, 181 (1997). Further, the principle of estoppel does not apply here, as there is little or no evidence that Karen held the child out as Walter's daughter. Instead, according to Karen's testimony, the parties engaged in a rather complex ruse designed to allow them continued custody of the little girl at the center of this controversy.

7 I would find that Walter's failure to support the child and his extended absences from her, coupled with the fact that she has been in Karen's care for several years, make application of estoppel principles against Karen inappropriate. Further, I believe the methods employed by the trial court to resolve this case are not only proper under the law, but also appropriate under the circumstances. In particular, I would rely on 23 Pa.C.S.A.

§ 5104, the statute which empowers the court to order testing. Section 5104 clearly leaves to the court the discretion to order testing where appropriate.

8 Rather than reverse the order entered below, I would affirm it and permit the matter to proceed. That way the trial judge, who is in the best position to assess the child's best interests, as well as evaluate the parties' rights and motives, will be privy to as much relevant information as possible in reaching his decision on custody.

He was born September 9, 1948 in Hartford, son of Joseph C. Martinelli of Boca Raton, Florida and the late Laura Lee (Willis) Martinelli and had lived in Simsbury all his life. Fred was a 1966 graduate of Henry James Memorial High School and a 1972 graduate of the University of Hartford. He worked for 25 years for Pioneer Steel Ball Company, Unionville, a family business started by his grandfather, Nicholas Martinelli with whom he had a very special bond. Mr. Martinelli was currently the president of FM Associates in West Simsbury and an AFLAC agent. Raising puppies and showing their beloved dogs became a family affair with everyone filling a role. Fred loved people and always saw the good in everyone and everything. He was always willing to lend a hand at a moments notice and it seemed he could do just about anything when it came to fixing things, especially Kathy's computer. He will be deeply missed by his family and all who knew him.

July 2010 - Malvern – Stephen Beattie worked for the Mills County roads department for 27 years. He devoted much of his adult life to responding to emergency calls for Malvern's Volunteer Fire Department. His lifelong friend, Karl Hertz, ran the funeral home in Malvern. Hertz was a respected civic leader. At one time, he served as the small town's mayor. Neither man had a criminal history.

Both have been implicated in a case involving allegations of sexually abusing a local teenage boy. "This was a very unsettling matter for the community of Malvern, and those people associated with the community, because of the nature of the allegations and the people involved," Mills County Attorney Marci McClellan said Thursday. Hertz, 62, committed suicide April 16, several hours after sheriff's deputy Kim Clark served him with a search warrant. Two days earlier, deputies had received allegations that Hertz and Beattie had sexually abused a 17-year-old boy who worked at Hertz's funeral home. Hertz's death spawned a flurry of rumors in the town of 1,200 but brought few answers until Thursday. That's when authorities unveiled the results of their four-month investigation.

"I think people are glad they're finally opening up about it instead of feeling like they're pushing things under the rug," said Angie Connor, who works at the Casey's General Store in Malvern. Several people declined to comment for this article, citing close relationships with the families connected to the case. "It's going to be a bad deal no matter what," said Cindy Bowley, former owner of Bowley's Bistro in downtown Malvern.

An arrest warrant has been issued for Beattie, 55, who faces one felony charge of third-degree sexual abuse and two serious misdemeanors: Lascivious acts with a minor and indecent exposure. The felony charge carries a 10-year prison term if he is convicted. "My client has said from the beginning that he is not guilty of anything and that he has not committed any criminal act," said Beattie's lawyer, James Martin Davis of Omaha. Beattie was arrested by Council Bluffs Police Thursday night and was transferred to Mills County Jail in Glenwood.

McClellan said that if Hertz were alive, he would have faced the same charges as Beattie plus additional charges for similar acts involving another juvenile male, age 14. Mills County Sheriff Gene Goos said the criminal investigation is closed unless other possible victims contact his office. The criminal complaint against Beattie makes these allegations: On April 14, Mercy Hospital in Council Bluffs contacted the Sheriff's Office about a possible sexual assault involving a juvenile boy.

A 17-year-old boy and his parents spoke with a sheriff's deputy. The next day, Project Harmony interviewed the boy and he provided details about alleged sexual encounters with Beattie and Hertz. The boy told authorities that on April 14 he and Beattie were in the basement of Hertz's home, changing light bulbs. Beattie worked as a part-time handyman for Hertz. The boy got off the ladder and Beattie asked him to sit on the couch. Beattie performed oral sex on the boy, according to the criminal complaint. Hertz later took the boy to the Mansfield-Hertz Funeral Home where, according to the complaint, they performed oral sex on each other. Hertz then took the boy home. The boy told authorities he had worked for Hertz for three years and had engaged in similar conduct with Hertz for the previous seven months. Hertz also showed the teen pornographic images on the computer in the basement of the funeral home, according to the complaint.

On the night of April 15, the Sheriff's Office obtained a DNA sample from Hertz after serving search warrants for physical evidence from his home and businesses, including bedding, clothing and a computer. The Sheriff's Office obtained a DNA sample from Beattie on April 16.
McClellan said April 14 marked the first time that sheriff's deputies had received allegations of sexual misconduct involving either man. She said Hertz's suicide affected the investigation. "This investigation was just in its infancy," she said. "We had not had any prior contact with Mr. Hertz prior to executing the search warrant. We had not done any interviews with him yet. We did not know what we had." McClellan said authorities found Hertz's DNA on clothing that belonged to the alleged victim, but they did not find Beattie's DNA on the same clothing. Davis said Beattie now works as a traveling medical equipment salesman in Iowa and Nebraska. He said the Hertz suicide complicates the case against Beattie. "He's a critical player who is now missing," Davis said. "One of the key witnesses is now deceased. This kid alleges that a sexual act took place against his will, so now it's this kid's word against my client's word."

Notes for Bari Joy Keller:
Joyce Keller-Brown - Who would have thought? After graduating from college in the late 1970's, I wanted to use my business skills to help people. The answer was right under my nose, and I didn't see it at first. You see, growing up in Glen Rock, my Dad's insurance office was in our home. I was around the industry every day of my life. Eventually my father persuaded me to just give it a try. Now, over thirty-seven years later, it was one of the best decisions of my life. Helping people and lifting up our community is what an insurance career is about. The protection we provide makes sure that liability losses are paid, lives are mended, properties are rebuilt, autos are repaired, and incomes are protected. Insurance is not just another product to be priced and sold off the shelf. Intelligent, intentional insurance changes lives, saves lives, and preserves a way of life. I recommend the career to anyone who wants to make a difference in their community.

One of the most important things to me is our community. My mantra is to support our local community and to help promote its economy and way of life. This life mission drives me to volunteer with organizations that have a similar purpose. You will find me helping at my church, non-profits that support human service needs, and organizations that shore up agriculture and the rich history of York County. In my spare time you will find me with my hands in the soil. My herb garden adds special zest to life and the garden keeps us stocked with locally grown, healthy food. The abundant life of the Susquehanna Valley's rolling hills and fertile land is something worth cherishing.

My three children are what I cherish the most. Jeff and I were blessed with twins over a quarter century ago. Now Ben and Emily are off in the Army and Navy protecting this grand country. We are so very proud of them and ask for your prayers and support that they and all those in the military serve well and come home safe. Just like me, our oldest daughter was exposed to insurance her whole life and joined the agency a few years after college. My pride swells to know that she makes the fifth generation in the family business, continuing the lineage from 1899. What has made the long history possible is consistent exceptional experiences delivered with compassion and integrity.

6053 i. Sarah M.[12] Brown, born Apr 1982.
6054 ii. Benjamin J. Brown, twin, born Jun 1987.

Notes for Jon Doyle Witman:

Jon Doyle Witman (born June 1, 1972) is an American former professional football player. He played college football at Penn State and was a Pittsburgh Steelers fullback for six seasons (1996–2001). Witman was born in 1972 to young parents (then 21 and 17) and was raised in Wrightsville, Pennsylvania, a small borough along the Susquehanna River, east of York in the south central part of the state. He played football at Eastern York High School in Wrightsville, where he led the team in back-to-back titles. From there Witman moved to Penn State and was a member of its 1994 undefeated Rose Bowl-winning Nittany Lions football team, pairing with Brian Milne at the fullback position.

In 1996, Witman was the 92nd draft pick, in the third round by the Pittsburgh Steelers, with whom he started 43 games until his retirement in 2001. He had not been available for any combines, due to a hamstring injury. In his rookie year with the Steelers, Witman earned the team's "Joe Greene Great Performance Award". He got hurt five games into the 2000 season and Dan Kreider took the fullback position for the remaining 10 games. Witman returned for the 2001 season and his last game was the Steelers' January 2002 AFC Championship loss to the New England Patriots.

Witman lost over $1 million in the 2008 stock market crash and as of late 2016, he was going through chapter 13 bankruptcy. Continuing pain from back and ankle fusion surgeries kept him from daily work and he gave his landscaping business to his brother. Witman became addicted to opioid medication and had two DUI crashes in 2016, both for which he was sentenced in 2017. Faced with severe depression, he considered suicide in 2014 but his wife found help through the National Football League Players Association. After months in detox, rehab, and a halfway house, and more rehab after some relapses, in March 2018 he was reported as having been clean and sober since November 2016.

Witman's father, Keith, a Vietnam-Marine who worked for 30 years at York's Harley-Davidson plant, died of cancer in February 2018. Witman has been partnered with his wife since 1990, the start of their junior year in high school. An initial date didn't go well two years earlier, but they got back together after it became evident he was still interested. One of their four sons, Cole, played lacrosse at Eastern York High School as of 2017. Cole transferred to York Catholic High School for his last two seasons before committing in 2019 to college lacrosse at the University of Tampa. In 2020, he was named to the Sunshine State Conference spring honor roll, and in 2021 was on the lacrosse team roster at York College of Pennsylvania.

Jon Witman and wife Michelle on his struggle with addictive opioid pain medications and their life now Published: Mar. 21, 2018, 11:30 a.m.

In Part 1 of a wide-ranging interview with Jon Witman, the former Penn State fullback from the mid-‘90s, spoke about his dying position and his distaste for finesse football, both at the college and NFL level where played six seasons with the Pittsburgh Steelers. Upon his retirement in 2002, a different life set in, one with which the York County native had trouble dealing. He missed his involvement with a game he loved and the teammates he loved as brothers. And he hurt. Especially in his lower back and one ankle. A back-fusion surgery didn’t help. The pain persisted. That’s where we pick up Part 2.

A decade and a half of football, first at Eastern York High, then Penn State during the early ‘90s glory years, then a 6-year tenure with the Steelers, took its toll on Jon Witman’s body. He was used as a battering ram in offensive schemes that now seem archaic. He was essentially an offensive lineman stationed in the backfield, rarely carrying the ball, commonly leading feature backs such as Ki-Jana Carter and Jerome Bettis into the scrimmage maelstrom, human dynamite enlisted to blow holes in defenses through which they ran. And it was not until Witman quit playing that the tolls began to pile up. “My disc ended up shattering over time, just smushing," Witman said recently. "I lost all fuction. The fluid between the discs was no more."

And there began a battle with opioid pain medications that lasted for well over a decade. As Witman and his wife Michelle tell it, he's lucky to be alive. It has been anything but a straight line to his clean state for the past 16 months. And the specter of his addiction is never far from their door. But, for right now, he sounds good, his voice clear and his mind lucid: "I'm free of that bull----. I'm in a lot better place, now, trust me. I have no shame." And the drug store worth of pain meds, facilitated by a doctor who no longer practices, had put him in a delirious existence: "I had a stint, honestly. I got into them hardcore, man. Really hardcore." Thanks to the diligence of Michelle, his faithful partner since their junior year at Eastern York High in 1990, Witman got help through the NFL Players Association and three detox and therapy clinics. He seems to have found at least a temporary peace.

Though he must take regular dosage of a maintenance drug under his therapy conditions and still is without a driver's license under probation for a DUI accident related to his prior addiction, by all accounts Witman is leading a happier and more stable life, one he and his wife say has been clean and sober for since November 2016. They have known each other for over three decades, since first going on a movie date as high school freshmen, one that didn't end particularly well. Jon picked the film: Stephen King's horror classic Pet Sematary.

"I didn't really like him," Michelle recalled, laughing. "That was a one-and-done deal." But two years later during the summer before their junior years, the relationship rekindled. Late one July night, Jon and his friends parked his car down the road from Michelle's house, sneaked up and began trying to wake her by tossing a brush off an upstairs bedroom window. Unfortunately, it was not Michelle's bedroom, but her parents'. Her father got out bed, saw the boys, ran across the street, got a license number of the car and reported it to police. When they returned with Witman's name, Michelle suddenly knew Jon had something of a crush going. Charges were not filed. But thanks to the township cops, love bloomed.

It lasted through Witman's Penn State tenure (1991-95) while Michelle was attending nursing school back home in Hanover, then through six years in Pittsburgh as Jon became a dependable blocking back with the Bill Cowher-led teams of the era. It's fair to say that, at the time of Witman's retirement from the Steelers in 2002, the addictive properties of opioid pain medications were not as commonly cautioned as they should have been. Drug makers successfully peddled the fallacy that they had been re-engineered to be less addictive. Many doctors handed out scrips to patients in pain and sent them on their merry way.

Of course, anyone who plays in the NFL has already been introduced to the drug culture. That came to light most dramatically two decades ago when Packers Hall of Fame quarterback Brett Favre, then a relatively young man, pulled himself out of football for months citing a pain-med addiction. Witman was Favre's contemporary, playing at the same time. Michelle saw what Jon did to keep playing: "They give them everything they want to get them back out on that field," said Michelle. "They give them shots, whatever, so they can continue to play." And the players are usually willing participants in the vicious circle because they want to not only compete but keep their jobs. By the time Witman ran the progression of his addiction, he had taken Percocet, oxycodone, Vicodin, oxycontin, methodone and Ketamine which is used by anesthesiologists. He began snorting the drugs. One of his four sons saw him doing it. "It was going on for years," said Michelle. "And I knew he was using stuff. I confronted him numerous times, but he would never admit it to me. There were all these signs. Bloody tissues everywhere."

One day, Michelle went to a loft room her husband frequented and began poking around. Under a nightstand she found a container. In it were paraphernalia Jon used to cut up and crush his meds for snorting. "He wasn't bathing or showering. Just not taking care of himself," said Michelle. "It was awful. "But I'd confront him and he'd be like, 'No, no, I'm taking what I'm allowed to take, what my doctor's giving me.' But it was above and beyond." Michelle knew Jon was in pain. She said she later discovered he was able to acquire 900 methadone tabs per month, many from a particularly unscrupulous doctor who's no longer in practice. "He was to the point where he was almost suicidal. He was depressed. Definitely another person from who he was." How did she know he was thinking of suicide? "Because he would make comments. He would just say things. He had guns and stuff in his room. And we have guns in the house because we're hunters. "But there were just a lot of signs. He had hit rock-bottom."

At their sons' sports contests, Jon would sometimes nod off and drool on himself, Michelle recounted. She said empathetic fellow parents would try to help him the best they could, taking Jon out for lunch and talking to him. But it was a downward spiral no one could stop. The Witmans' house in wooded land in eastern York County was submitted to a sheriff's sale. Notice was sent that the electricity would soon be shut off. Michelle went out to go to work one day and her car had been repossessed. "I was in bad shape, man," Jon now admits. "I almost lost my family."

Late in 2014, at a loss for what to do, Michelle consulted an NFL wives club on Facebook. They pointed her toward the Behavioral Health of the Palm Beaches rehabilitation clinic (known as BHOPB) in Palm Beach, Fla. Witman's 2½-month stay there was paid for by an agreement reached by the NFL Players Association with the league. Nearly half of his stay involved solely detox. Though it was only the first of three visits to detox centers over the next two years, Witman remembers it as a turning point: "I was down there for 32 days. That's how bad my addiction was. "They sent me to a psych ward initially. The first week I was under 24-hour surveillance." That was because one night around midnight, under his eighth day of withdrawal from the high volume of methadone he'd been taking, Witman said his back hurt so much that he went to the bathtub to soak in hot water and he apparently went to sleep: "By 4 a.m., I still hadn't come out. They came to check on me. I must have hit the plug [lever]. The water had overflowed to the toilet and the shower curtain was pulled down over my head. They thought I was trying to commit suicide and I wasn't." That's how he ended up in the clinic's psychiatry sector for a week.

Witman said his drug addiction was solely due to pain in his back. He regularly talked to other former NFL players there with the same sort of afflictions. After over 70 days total at BHOPB, including detox and recovery, Witman was transferred to a halfway house in Pensacola, Fla., to work on his transition to daily clean life for another two months. That was only the first of three stints at rehab clinics. He came home in February 2015. "I was willing to give him another shot," said Michelle. "Because it was years and years of living… not so nicely. He'd not been good with the kids." There were relapses. Jon left home to live with his brother and began using again.

Michelle told him he either had to return to rehab or they were done. Jon re-entered a clinic in Indiana in the April 2015, then another in Michigan in September 2016 after Jon wrecked his truck, Michelle called the police and he tested positive for drugs. He was cited for his second DUI within the year. The third rehab clinic was the Eisenhower Center in Ann Arbor, Mich. They weaned Jon from his addiction with the help of Suboxone, a powerful narcotic used to treat a broad class of opioid addicts including those who've been hooked on heroin. He's still on it, which worries Michelle. But, at this point, she's willing to trade that substitute dependence for stability. It's a sort of tenuous truce with addiction. "We work out as a family. We have a little gym in our garage. Jon does a lot of upper-body stuff because his ankle hurts too much."

All of the Witman boys played football. Young Jon (22) is out of college and is a mechanic. Evyn (20) is in college now. But Cole (17) and Brennan (15) are still home and budding lacrosse phenoms. Cole is headed to lax power Johns Hopkins on a partial scholarship. Niece Emma (6) is also living with the family. Jon writes up workout programs for Michelle and the boys and they all execute them every day. And he's been clean since late 2016; random drug testing initiated after his DUI has confirmed it. And that's the most important thing, Michelle affirmed: "Physically, he's limited to what he can do because of his back and his ankle. But otherwise, he's doing well. We're moving right along."

Witman's back pain has subsided some due to regular massage and chiropractic therapy, but also due to two stem-cell injections. "It's not bad," Jon said. "It could be better, but it's a lot better than it was. The stem cell injections have helped a lot. "And luckily, my wife has done a lot. I'm in a lot better place now."

Feb. 8, 2017 - Former Pittsburgh Steeler and York County native Jon Witman told a York County judge Wednesday that a Michigan-based treatment program, along with the efforts of his wife, have helped free him of his dependence on prescription medication. "My wife has been a savior from day one," Witman, 44, of Hellam Township, said. "I should be dead by now." The former fullback also told Judge Richard K. Renn it was the treatment he received at the Eisenhower Center's rural Manchester, Michigan, location that finally made a significant difference for him, by dealing with all facets of his issues. Witman was in York County Court on Wednesday to be sentenced in one DUI case and to plead guilty and be sentenced on a second.

Court documents indicate Witman wasn't drinking in either case. He was impaired by a morphine painkiller and the muscle relaxant Soma — "the stuff that was prescribed to me," he said. As a professional football player, Witman suffered injuries that continue to cause him chronic pain. But defense attorney Chris Ferro told the judge that Witman has made it clear he would do it all over again, even if he knew as a younger man what the consequences would be. Witman has been candid in the past with the media regarding his struggles with painkillers.

The first crash: Lower Windsor Township Police filed charges against Witman after he crashed on Abels Road near Circle Drive in Wrightsville about 5:20 p.m. Feb. 4, 2016, according to court records. Police Chief Tim Caldwell has said Witman's vehicle hit a guard rail and became stuck on it. Lower Windsor Police Cpl. James Thomas was on his way home from work when he drove past the crash scene and alerted on-duty Patrolman Kevin Leach, who responded to the scene and investigated, Caldwell said. Former Pittsburgh Steeler pleads guilty to Wrightsville DUI

A blood test later found morphine and Soma in Witman's system, court documents state. As part of a negotiated plea agreement, Witman was sentenced to six months of intensive probation, with the first three days on electronically monitored house arrest. Renn also ordered Witman to remain on the Avertest controlled-substance monitoring program throughout that six months and required the retired football player to pay a $1,000 fine and court costs.

No prison: Also Wednesday, Witman pleaded guilty to second-offense DUI for a Hellam Township incident last fall and avoided a month in prison. In that case, Renn ordered Witman to serve 30 days to six months in York County Prison. However, the judge noted the 30-plus days Witman spent at the Eisenhower Center will count toward his 30 days in prison, effectively giving him a time-served sentence. Renn imposed a $750 fine and court costs and ordered the sentence run consecutive to Witman's first sentence.

The second crash: On the night of Sept. 10, Witman's wife called 911 to report that her husband was intoxicated and had crashed his vehicle into a tree, according to court documents. Hellam Township Police Sgt. Drew Heistand responded and found the front of Witman's Dodge Ram smashed in, documents state. "It appeared he hit an evergreen tree very hard," the sergeant wrote in court documents. "The right rear tire was also flat and appeared to be driven on for a distance."

Heistand told The York Dispatch that bits of branches and pine needles were stuck in the truck's grill. He also said he later located the tree that Witman struck. Witman said he was driving on Schmuck Road, missed the stop sign, traveled across Mount Pisgah Road and ran into a pine tree, documents state. "I'm actually thankful my wife called (911)," Witman said in court on Wednesday.

Pain issues: He told Renn he'd gone through treatment before, but it hadn't worked. "I got off my meds, but nobody dealt with my pain issues," Witman said, adding his stint in the Eisenhower Center addressed all his issues. It was the NFL that found the center and helped fund Witman's visit, according to Ferro, who said the organization "has really been wonderful" in helping Witman deal with his issues. "He asked for help, and he got it," the attorney said, calling it a success story. Renn noted that 10 years ago, the NFL's response could have been quite different.

Wrightsville native: Witman was raised in Wrightsville and was a star football player for Eastern York High School. He then played football at Penn State and was on the Nittany Lions' 1994 Rose Bowl championship team. Witman was drafted by the Steelers in 1996 and played for them for six seasons.
