Notes for Johann Jacob Reyer:

Information from Will Reyer:

John Jacob Reyer (assuming he Anglicized his name almost immediately) emigrated from Stuttgart (or vicinity) in 1881 at age 18. He was allegedly the oldest of 9 siblings, 3 brothers, 6 sisters in total.

This eldest status is now proven to be not true. My grandfather said his dad got off the boat in New York City with $3 to his name and couldn't speak a word of English. I was also told he worked for a dairyman in upstate New York briefly. Since he died in 1945 when I was two I have no recollections of him.

A copy sent by a second cousin in Fremont of my great-grandparents' 50th wedding anniversary article from 1937 in a local paper gave some primary documentation to several more facts:

My great-grandfather, John Jacob Reyer emigrated in 1881, located in Detroit. In 1884 a sister came over. On the ship she met Anna Marie Rentschler, who was going to Marshall, Michigan to live with an aunt. The young women became friends and Reyer's sister introduced him to his future wife.

John Jacob Reyer was married to Anna Marie Rentschler on April 28, 1887 by a Lutheran minister in Marshall, Michigan. His name in the Calhoun County Marriages book is shown misspelled as Rayner.

His residence was shown as Isabella County (Michigan) and in fact the couple lived 7 years there before moving to Marshall. Both my grandfather and his older sister were born near Rosebush north of Mt. Pleasant.

The witnesses for this marriage were shown to be a Frederick Rentschler (assuming a brother of the bride) and a Cami Walz. This Frederick Rentschler married a Rosa Schick on 24 November, 1887, later the same year.

The woman in the Death Certificate (above, who died of tuberculosis) from 1901, my great-grandfather's older sister, was therefore named Anna Marie Reyer Rentschler after her marriage to John Rentschler sometime in the same year, 1887, according to the death certificate. My great-grandfather's wife, then became Anna Marie Rentschler Reyer, adding to the confusion. I can find no marriage in Calhoun Co.: Anna Marie Reyer to John Rentschler.

In addition, two years ago when he was 93, my father suddenly tells me a tale I'd never before heard that his grandparents (John Jacob and Anna Marie Rentschler Reyer) supposedly took a trip in the 1920's by train to Spokane, Washington to visit a sister who emigrated after him. If this is true it couldn't be his older sister as she died in 1901 (above). My father could still talk consistently coherently at that time but I wondered if he was confusing Seattle with Spokane, at opposite ends of the state. I have to assume he was telling a true and accurate story. This would be three siblings emigrating if true.
