- Notes for Gottlob (Gottlieb) Helber:
Ann Arbor, Michigan, February 27, 1907 - Gottlieb Helber, an unmarried carpenter, fatally shot himself over the right temple this evening with suicidal intent. Suicide seems to run in the family, as his father took his own life by jumping into a cistern some years ago and about a year ago his sister, Mrs. John Pfisterer, ended her existence by hanging. Helber was removed to the University hospital and the surgeons say that there are no hopes for his recovery. Last summer, Helber was accidentally shot in the knee in a friendly scuffle, and this had compelled him to lay off from his work. It is said that Helber lost considerable of his savings a few years ago in the wheat market and this possibly started his troubled condition.

Notes for Theresa Marie Fuchs:

Mrs. Theresa Langbein died at home in Ossian, Iowa, at an early hour on June 8, 1927. Theresa Fuchs was born in Maine, Grand Duchy of Hesse, Germany, on March 26, 1843. When seventeen years of age she came to America, to Newark, New Jersey, where she spent her early womanhood, and where on July 15, 1871, she was united in marriage to Gottlieb Langbein, also a native of Germany. The early years of their married life were spent in Newark, coming to Iowa in 1883. For several years they lived on a farm in Springfield township, Winneshiek County. Later they moved to Ossian where Mr. Langbein passed away on August 11, 1914.

Mrs. Langbein was a lady of education and refinement and because of these and other admirable qualities she was employed, before her marriage, as a private teacher and governess and while thus engaged she had occasion to travel much, both in this country and abroad. Duties of life and advancing years never diminished her interest in public affairs nor did she cease to give encouragement and substantial aid to the distressed. Her life in Ossian has been marked by contentment and Peace. She lived, enjoying books, her neighbors and friends and finding comfort in her home. The deceased maintained a very sturdy appearance until a few weeks ago, gradually, failing as the end drew near. Mrs. Langbein was always an active member of the Community Ladies Aid Society and of the Woman's Relief Corps, of Decorah. She leaves no children, but her memory will be cherished by hosts of friends.

Funeral services were held at two o'clock a.m. Friday, June 10, at the Community church, Rev. E. D. Wells, of Manchester, a former pastor, officiating. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, the W.R.C. of Decorah having charge. Relatives from a distance at ending the funeral were Mrs. Martha Martins of Peoria, Illinois, and Mrs. Amelia Herwig of Chicago, Illinois, great nieces of Mrs. Langbein. To all friends and neighbors who were so kind to our aunt, Mrs. Langbein, during her illness, to the minister, Rev. E.D. Wells, and to the G.A.R., ladies, we extend our most sincere thanks. Mrs. Amelia Herwig, Chicago, Illinois Mrs. Martha Martins Peoria, Illinois.

Furniture Manufactory - The furniture manufactory of Thomas Rauschenberger & Co. is situated on the west side of Jewett, between Huron and Liberty streets, in Ann Arbor, and was built in 1870 by John Rauschenberger, who operated the factory for about seven years, when he sold out to the present proprietors. Although a small building, only 30x40 feet, one and a half stories high, the firm does quite an extensive business and employs seven hands. The furniture manufactured was sold at Detroit for some time, but of late years the firm has sold all their furniture inside the county. The machinery is run by water-power, furnished by a race about one-fourth of a mile long, this race being fed by about a dozen springs.

She was born 09 Mar 1851 in Landsburg, Brandenburg, Prussia, and died 08 Mar 1926 in State Center, Marshall Co, Iowa.

Notes for Johannes Gutekunst:

John Gutekunst, one of the early settlers in State Center, died at Dexter, Michigan Wednesday morning, June 22, 2010. He had been sick only since the Monday preceding. Mrs. Gutekunst and son Giffert, were called from here by telegram on Tuesday, but they did not reach Dexter until Wednesday afternoon and death had ensued by that time. Death was caused by erysipelas. Mr. Gutekunst had been in Michigan about a month looking for farming interests. Before going there he had been in his usual health, but on Monday before his death his son receive a letter which was written on Saturday stating that he was not feeling at all well. The next word from his was a telegram from his physicians summoning his wife and son to his beside.

John Gutekunst was born at Ann Arbor, Michigan September 30, 1835. He came to State Center in 1864 and in 1872 was married to Mary Devers at Detroit, Michigan. She died at Pinckney, Michigan January 12, 1884. In 1888 he was married the second time at Merrill, Iowa to Louisa O Todd, who survives him with their only son, Giffert. Mr. Gutekunst having been a resident of this community nearly half a century, he saw this country transformed from wilderness into a veritable garden. He was a man of keen business acumen and highest integrity. He was a material factor in the development of this community. In his quiet way he was benevolently disposed. This community had met with a loss in his passing away. He was mayor of State Center during the years 1890 and 1891.

Funeral services were held at Dexter, Friday morning and the body was shipped to Chicago, where it was cremated at Oakwood cemetery. The remains were accompanied from Dexter by a delegation from the Masonic lodge there, including Worshipful Mast Charles Case with James Devine and Henry Jewell. They were met in Chicago by Worshipful Master R A Buck, William Vance, Theodore Engle and O F Ecklund, of the local Masonic Lodge, who brought the ashes and accompanied Mrs. Gutekunst and son to State Center, arriving Sunday morning. Brief funeral services were conducted at the home at 2:30 Sunday afternoon by Rev W H Clement, of Vernon Center, Minnesota, and burial was made in Hillside cemetery by the side of his mother.

3413. Jacob Frederick Theophilus¹¹ Gutekunst (Friedrich¹⁰, Anna Maria⁹, Jacob⁸, Catharina⁷ Buhl, Ursula⁶ Killinger, Georg⁵, Anna⁴ Helber, Hans³, Caspar², Michel¹) was born 26 Sep 1831 in Philadelphia, Philadelphia Co, Pennsylvania, and died 28 Apr 1917 in Philadelphia, Philadelphia Co, Pennsylvania. He married (1) Emma Louisa Erskine. She was born 29 Jul 1835 in Philadelphia, Philadelphia Co, Pennsylvania, and died 13 Mar 1880 in Philadelphia, Philadelphia Co, Pennsylvania. He married (2) Sarah A. ? 1884. She was born May 1854 in Pennsylvania, and died Bef. 1910.

Notes for Jacob Frederick Theophilus Gutekunst:

Frederick Gutekunst was the son of a cabinet maker who claimed to have been born in Germantown in Philadelphia and this story of his birthplace is often reproduced in histories. However, according to his obituary in The Photographic Journal of America he was born in Germany, possibly Haiterbach, Württemberg as was his father. Hence, he was born in a "German" "town". The reason we should accept this account is due to the friendship between Mr. Gutekunst and his former assistant and at the time of the obituary the founder and publisher of The Photographic Journal of America, Mr. Edward L. Wilson. Mr. Gutekunst most likely wanted clients visiting his studio and gallery to believe that he was born in the more rural and genteel Germantown than a poor immigrant ghetto along the Delaware River waterfront. His birth date is another matter as there were two different dates published during his lifetime. Additionally, among census records there are different years recorded for his birth. The 1880 Census lists his year of birth as 1831, but other Census' list him as born in 1833 and 1835.

The first listing for Frederick Gutekunst Sr. in Philadelphia is in McElroy's city directory in 1837 as: Gutterhurst, Frederick, carpenter, at St. John Street (currently N. American St.) north of George in the Northern Liberties section of Philadelphia. This would be the block where N. American St. meets Germantown Ave. This was known as a neighborhood of German immigrants and where Philadelphia's second German Catholic Church, St. Peter's, was established. One of the remnants of the German character of this part of town is the German Society of Pennsylvania on Spring Garden St.

Frederick Gutekunst Sr. wanted young Frederick to become a lawyer and so he was indentured for six years to Joseph Simon Cohen, prothonotary to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. However, by the time he was eighteen he became more interested in the art of the daguerreotype and became a frequent visitor to Marcus Aurelius Root's gallery, and his talents turned toward chemistry. One of Frederick's experiments was a method to mass-produce daguerreotypes; although it was a success, it was not financially practical.

Frederick's father found work for him in the drug store owned by the consul for the Kingdom of Wurttemberg in Philadelphia, Frederick Klett, who was also one of the founders of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy from which Frederick Gutekunst graduated in 1853.

He found employment at Avery Toby's drug store at 1235 Market St., later at 451 Market St., and spent two years working there. His interest in photography was renewed and he was able to exchange a homemade battery for a camera owned by Isaac Norris, later the Secretary of the Franklin Institute. His work and ambitions in photography grew and he bought a better lens for five dollars from the "Buckeye Blacksmith" who ran an ambrotype gallery near Toby's drug store, and this was where he was introduced to the ambrotype process. His father, the accomplished cabinetmaker, proceeded to build a camera for the lens and thus began Frederick Gutekunst's amateur career.

Frederick's brother, Louis Gutekunst, was a barber-hair dresser with a business at 4th and Vine and had noticed the talent displayed by Frederick with a camera. When Frederick had mentioned to his brother that a storefront on Arch St. was for rent on Friday and would be a good place for a gallery, Louis secured the property at 706 Arch St. on Monday. F & L Gutekunst photographers opened for business in 1856, and currently there is only one known daguerreotype by Gutekunst. However, by 1859 Louis was again working as a hairdresser at 219 N. 4th Street. The 1856 McElroy's also lists Frederick living at 1220 Ogden in Philadelphia.

When the Civil War began, soldiers came to have their portraits made at the Gutekunst studio, and then officers came, and eventually the generals arrived. The growth of the business meant that it was time for a larger space, and in 1864 Gutekunst moved a few doors up Arch St. to number 712, and occupied the whole building. A full description is found in The Photographic Times & American Photographer, November 1885. One notable feature of the reception room was an "orchestration" which used a large cylinder much like a music box to provide music for waiting patrons.

The portrait of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant seems to have been the work that stirred uniform national interest and set Gutekunst apart from his contemporaries. Here he tells the story of the how it was created. "Grant was stopping at the Continental Hotel at the time, and I sent someone over there to invite him to come to the studio for a sitting. In a short time he strolled in and said he would have come here himself, without an invitation as his brother officers wanted to come to me. When he arrived I was busy in the operating-room with a sitter, and while he waited his turn Grant sauntered around the reception-room, his right hand in his trousers-pocket, his left resting in his negligently worn vest. I kept him waiting as little as possible, and when I came out I found him in the attitude in which he is photographed. 'General', I said, 'that is a very nice position; just keep your hand that way.' Then I took him under the skylight, and he resumed that attitude which was so characteristic while I made the photograph. The picture has been considered the best taken of Grant; it has been used for the statue of him in Galena, and General Sherman sent me a letter in which he asserts his belief that it is the most characteristic of the great General."

Railroads needed photographers to show what was to be seen from a train and what was nearby to induce people to travel. In the 1870s Gutekunst was a photographer for the Pennsylvania Railroad and a collection of stereo views were taken. The Library Company of Philadelphia has a set of these prints some of which can be viewed at LCPIImages.org.

The next great achievement for Gutekunst was the panorama of the 1876 Centennial Exposition held in Fairmount Park in Philadelphia. The description of the work is as follows: "This ten feet long by eighteen inch wide picture was made from seven negatives by William Bell that were taken from a scaffold erected near the Belmont reservoir. The panoramic view printed on a single sheet of paper show all the buildings from Agricultural Hall to the Observatory on George's Hill. The large sheet of albumen paper for this panorama was supplied by the John H. Clemons factory on Sansom Street. The whites of one hundred and twenty five dozen eggs were required to coat the paper. To produce the print the entire sheet had to be exposed to sunlight, one section at a time, under each negative. Careful joining of the negatives was required to prevent a dark line from appearing at each juncture. Each section had to be printed to the same density despite the ever changing light from the sky. After printing out to a much darker shade than desired, the final appearance of the print was achieved through gold toning which had to be evenly applied or some of the blacks would have a bluish cast and others a reddish tone. Great difficulty was also encountered handling such a large sheet of wet paper as it passed through the fixing baths, toning and washing processes. The success with which he achieved a uniform color and tone can be seen today from a framed copy of the print hanging in the Library Company of Philadelphia."

Louis Gutekunst was placed in charge of developing the print and described the process at a meeting of the Photographic Society of Philadelphia in January 1877. The work was met with praise from all over the world. Frederick Gutekunst was recognized for the monumental work with the Cross of the Knights of the Austrian Order from Emperor Franz Joseph I of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. Queen Victoria of Great Britain, and King Victor Emmanuel of Italy also sent similar honors, and the Emperor of Japan rewarded him with two gold-lined bronze vases.

Gutekunst was as much artist as businessman and on a visit to Germany in 1878 he purchased the rights for the Phototype process. One year later upon visit to Philadelphia, J. H. Fitzgibbons, the editor of the St. Louis Practical Photographer, noted that Gutekunst was manufacturing thousands of prints every day. Eventually, this new factory needed to move out of Arch Street and up to 813 Girard Ave where a staff of forty under the supervision of the engraver, James P. Harbeson, kept up with demand for reproduction for publications, etc. Girard Ave was a perfect location for this endeavor since this part of Philadelphia was more industrial and less retail than Arch St.

Some of the products of this venture were illustrations for books such as the Biographical Album of Prominent Pennsylvanians, Artistic Houses, and Artistic Country Seats published by D. Appleton & Co. of New York. Also, Gutekunst began to use what we would now call a panoramic camera which took a photo of one hundred and eighty degrees and from which the studio could produce a print thirty-six inches in length.

On the morning of January 26, 1886, a fire started at 715-719 Arch St. which burned down the five-story building at that address. Additionally, the fire spread across the street to the Gutekunst establishment and caused approximately $10,000 in damage. What impact this had on his business is difficult to estimate because Frederick Gutekunst did not seem to mention this fire in any later interviews. Walt Whitman admired Gutekunst and after recovering from an illness Whitman went to have his portrait taken. Gutekunst took the last professional portrait of Whitman.

By 1893 Gutekunst had been in business almost forty years and an additional studio was needed for the growing enterprise. The new studio was established in an upscale part of Philadelphia at 1700 N. Broad St. with William Braucher as manager. With this Gutekunst also acquired a house nearby at 1842 N. Bouvier St. The success early in his career meant that he could move his home out of Center City Philadelphia and own a home on Pulaski Avenue in Germantown in Philadelphia. A year before his death Gutekunst incorporated his business and some of the older employees became stockholders, but Mr. Braucher resigned at that time.

Frederick Gutekunst died April 27, 1917. Eight weeks earlier he fell down the steps of his N. Bouvier residence returning to his studio after lunch at home. This fall and Bright's disease seem to have caused his death.

Notes for Jacob Friedrich Wurster:

Past and Present of Washtenaw County, Michigan by Samuel W. Beakes, Chicago: The S.J. Clarke Publishing Co., 1906:

Jacob F. Wurster, conducting a profitable dairy business in Ann Arbor, was born in Simmersfeld, Wurtemberg, Germany, March 3, 1877. His father, George Frederick Wurster, a farmer by occupation, is now living in Northfield Township, as is the mother, who in her maidenhood bore the name of Regina Gunther. The brothers of our subject are: George Frederick, a dairyman residing in Northfield Township Martin and John, who are resident farmers of Ann Arbor Township: Adam, who was drowned in Huron river between Ann Arbor and Geddes in April, 1904; and Regina, the wife of Edward Danner, of Northfield Township. Mr. Wurster acquired his early education in Wurtemberg, pursuing his studies there until ten years of age, when he came with his father's family to the new world in 1887, the family home being established in Ann Arbor. After six months they removed to a farm in Northfield Township, and through the succeeding five years Mr. Wurster, of this review, was a student in the district schools. In 1900 he began business as a dealer in milk and owner of a dairy in Ann Arbor, and is still engaged in this line with a patronage that makes his work very profitable.

In 1903 Mr. Wurster was united in marriage to Miss Emma Helber, a daughter of John and Mary Helber, of Ann Arbor, both of whom were born in Wurtemberg, Germany. They have a beautiful home at No. 913 Main Street, South, and are popular in this city, with a circle of friends that is almost co-extensive with the circle of their acquaintance. Mr. Wurster is a member of the Modern Woodmen camp and also the Home Guards of America and he belongs to the Zion Lutheran Church. He is yet a young man, but has already attained success that many an older man might well envy, and in an analyzation of his life work it will be seen that industry and perseverance have been the salient features in his career and constitute the source of his present creditable financial position.

History of Washtenaw County, Michigan: together with sketches of its cities, villages and townships...and biographies of representative citizens: history of Michigan. By Chas. C. Chapman & Co. Chicago: Chas. C. Chapman & Co., 1881.

Furniture Manufactory - The furniture manufactory of Thomas Rauschenberger & Co. is situated on the west side of Jewett, between Huron and Liberty streets, in Ann Arbor, and was built in 1870 by John Rauschenberger, who operated the factory for about seven years, when he sold out to the present proprietors. Although a small building, only 30x40 feet, one and a half stories high, the firm does quite an extensive business and employs seven hands. The furniture manufactured was sold at Detroit for some time, but of late years the firm has sold all their furniture inside the county. The machinery is run by water-power, furnished by a race about one-fourth of a mile long, this race being fed by about a dozen springs.
