Notes for George Fischer:
 History of Washtenaw County, Michigan. By Chas. C. Chapman & Co. Chicago: Chas. C. Chapman & Co., 1881.
 George Fischer (deceased), for over a quarter of a century a well-known citizen of Ann Arbor, was born in Germany, and in his native land received a good literary education. In 1855 he came to America, and first worked in New York City for the small sum of $5 per month. Through the influence of the Weidemans, a family well-known in the county in early days, he came to Ann Arbor. He first was employed by the male members of the above named family in the slaughtering business, and in a short time purchased their store and trade, and was very successful throughout his long business career in this city. In 1871 he erected the costly residence where Mrs. Fischer now resides. On Feb. 12, 1876, while traveling for his health in Europe, and en route for Italy, he was suddenly taken ill, and died in a short time. In 1855 he had married Mary Ann Allmendinger, a daughter of George Allmendinger, who was among the first settlers in this county. Mrs. Fischer became a resident of this county in 1832.

Notes for Daniel Friedrich Allmendinger:

Past and Present of Washtenaw County, Michigan by Samuel W. Beakes, Chicago: The S.J. Clarke Publishing Co., 1906.

Daniel F. Allmendinger was the earliest of the German settlers of Ann Arbor, who was personally known to me up to the time of beginning my present inquiries. He came from the old country, like many others, first to Pennsylvania, afterwards made his way thence, carrying in his knapsack all his possessions, to Danville in western New York, whence he migrated to Ann Arbor, as nearly as I can learn, about the year 1829.

Ann Arbor the First Hundred Years, by Stephenson, Orlando Worth. Ann Arbor chamber of commerce, 1927. Page 89:

Perhaps greater solace has come to these people from the work done in connection with their churches than from any other source. The first few who came worshipped in the village with other Protestant people. But by 1832 feeling was strong for a church of their own. In that year, therefore, Jonathan Henry Mann, representing German settlers in and near Ann Arbor, sent a petition to the Evangelical Missionary Institute of Basel, Switzerland, asking that a pastor might be sent here. In answer to that petition, the Reverend Frederick Schmid was sent to America, arriving in Ann Arbor August 20, 1833. He immediately announced that a service in the German language would be held in a little log schoolhouse in Scio Township, about four miles west of the Court House Square. When this service opened, nearly all the German people in Scio and Ann Arbor were there. This was the first religious gathering of Germans in Michigan Territory. Before the devotionals were over steps had been taken to perfect a church organization, and a date was set upon which more formal action was to be taken. During the last week in August a meeting was held in the home of Daniel F. Allmendinger, about two miles west of the village, and a religious organization created under the name of "The First German Evangelical Society of Scio."

It was decided that a church building should be erected at the earliest possible moment. Mr. Allmendinger presented the society with an acre of ground, and on it, at a total cost of $265.32, a small frame building was erected. The list of members and non-members who contributed to the building fund offers accurate information as to the names of these early German settlers and at the same time it tells us who helped to perfect the organization of this pioneer society. Among the nonmembers were David F. Allmendinger, Ludwig Mayle, John G. Koch, George Kleindop, Frederick Traver, Charles Schmid, John George Allmendinger, Emanuel Wild, Howard Eyley, Jacob Paul, Karl Hornung, George Gutekunst, Andreas Beck, Christian Auch, John Stollsteimer, Gottlieb Nordmann, Frederick Laubengayer, George Prussia, Salome Schweizer and Elizabeth Katherine Allmendinger. The members of the church who contributed to the building fund were Daniel F. Allmendinger, Jonathan Henry Mann, George Straatmen, Jacob Markle, George Mayle, Christian Prussia, Abraham Kroman, Josiah Kroman, John Kroman, John Beck, Jacob Steffe, John M. Schneider, Jacob Stollsteimer, and the minister, Frederick Schmid. Twenty dollars were also given by the Josenhans family, who were still living in Stuttgart, and ten dollars were given by "a friend" living in Philadelphia. On the third of November, members of the "Evangelical Society" again met at Mr. Allmendinger's home and trustees of the society were chosen. The men so honored were Christian Prussia, John Beck and Abraham Kroman. They were to be known as the "Trustees of the First German Evangelical Society of Scio." After some discussion, it was decided to incorporate, so a record of the proceedings was filed in the Court of Washtenaw County under date of December 16, 1834.

Notes for G. Frank Allmendinger:

Past and Present of Washtenaw County, Michigan by Samuel W. Beakes, Chicago: The S.J. Clarke Publishing Co., 1906:

FRANK ALLMENDINGER - Many departments of business activity have felt the stimulus of the co-operation and wise counsel of G. Frank Allmendinger, the secretary and treasurer of the Michigan Milling Company, one of the organizers of the Ann Arbor Organ Company and a director of the Farmers and Mechanics Bank of Ann Arbor. His labor has given impetus to these various business interests, which have proven profitable not alone to the individual stockholder but to the city at large through the promotion of commercial and industrial activity.

Mr. Allmendinger was born in Buffalo, New York, in 1855, his parents being Charles F. and Fanny (Dellenbaugh) Allmendinger. The father was born in Waiblingen near Stuttgart, Wurtemberg, Germany, January 16, 1825, and came to America in 1832 with his father, John G. Allmendinger. The latter married Elizabeth C. Ilge. Charles F. Allmendinger was reared to manhood in Ann Arbor and afterward went to Buffalo, New York, where he spent the remainder of his life with the exception of three years' service in Sherman's army during the Civil war. His death occurred in Buffalo in March, 1890. His wife died when their son, G. Frank Allmendinger, was only a few months old and he is the only representative of their family living in this state. Following his mother's death and while yet an infant the subject of this review was sent to Michigan, where he was reared by his grandparents, making his home with them until their death. He afterward lived with his aunt, Mrs. Mary E. Fischer, the sister of his father, and remained with her until after he had attained his majority. He was educated in Ann Arbor and attended the University of Michigan. He graduated with the class of 1878, receiving the degree of civil engineer, but was unable to make a life work of his chosen profession because engineering work of all kinds was still nearly at a standstill as a result of the panic of 1873. His knowledge of engineering has, however, proved of constant service in the work of constructing and equipping the various plants in which he has been interested. For four years after his graduation Mr. Allmendinger was engaged in farming near Ann Arbor.

In 1882 he became a member of the firm of R. K. Ailes & Company, conducting the Central Flouring Mill, which was located on South First Street. Two years later Mr. Ailes retired and the firm became Allmendinger & Schneider. In 1885 this firm established the Ann Arbor Fruit Works, the predecessor of the Ann Arbor Fruit & Vinegar Company, and in 1892 they became interested in the Ann Arbor Milling Company. In 1900 the Central Milling Company and the Ann Arbor Company together with others engaged in the same line of business consolidated their interests, organizing the Michigan Milling Company, controlling all of the properties which had before been owned by individuals or the firms designated. Of the newly organized corporation Mr. Allmendinger became secretary and treasurer, which has since been his association with the business that from the beginning reached extensive proportions. He was also one of the organizers of the Ann Arbor Organ Company, his cousin, D. F. Allmendinger, the present superintendent, being the prime mover in this enterprise. Our subject is likewise a director of the Farmers and Mechanics Bank of Ann Arbor and in 1899 and 1900 he was the president of the State Millers' Association, while for the past five years he has been the president of the State Bean Jobbers' Association.

Prominent in political circles in Washtenaw County, Mr. Allmendinger gives support to the Republican Party. He was a member of the city council from the first ward for four years and defeated for mayor by a vote of only two when the city gave a strong majority to the opposing party. He was also a candidate for the legislature but was defeated, and he was twice elected from the seventh ward to the position of county supervisor. During his term of service in the council he was a member of the committee which prepared a new charter for the city, making possible many improvements impossible before. Electric lighting was established and the plans for the sewerage system adopted. The lawn extensions which have so beautified the city were inaugurated and the beginning of a park system made in the boulevard and Felch Park. Mr. Allmendinger led the fight against the attempt made by private interests for the possession of Felch Park and probably saved this ground to the city. He was elected county supervisor for the express purpose of attacking certain bills though opposed by the men of his own party interested in them. He was sued for five thousand dollars damages for libel by an official, one of whose bills was assailed, the suit being dropped, however, before coming to trial. The suit was but an incident following the fight against the machine rule which at that time existed in Washtenaw County, and it may be added that the bill was not allowed in full nor was any retraction or apology made by the subject of this sketch. As an endorsement of his course his ward returned him to the board the following year without opposition. He has for the last twelve years been active in city and county affairs, is strongly opposed to misrule and is an advocate of honest politics everywhere.

Mr. Allmendinger has been a member of the board of directors of the University School of Music and chairman of its finance committee since its inception in 1892. He holds a similar position on the governing body of the Students' Christian Association of the University of Michigan. He is one of the trustees of the Congregational church and has been identified with various other organizations. Mr. Allmendinger makes his home with his aunt, Elizabeth C. Allmendinger, who is the oldest living representative, but one of this family, prominent in the pioneer history of the county and the only survivor of a large family of brothers and sisters. She was born in Ann Arbor in 1837 and this city has been her home. For two years after the Civil war she was a teacher of freedmen in the south. She later became instructor in botany in the Ann Arbor high school, and under the direction of Professor M. W. Harrington of the University of Michigan, she assisted in the arrangement of the university herbarium. Her list of flora of Washtenaw County was published in 1881 and embraced three hundred and eighty-one genera and eight hundred and fifty species. This indicates a wonderful variety of plants in this county. Dr. Asa Gray in his botany of the northern states gives one hundred and thirty orders. In Washtenaw county one hundred and one are represented, leaving only twenty-nine without representation.

Miss Allmendinger has been connected with the Congregational Church for many years, and is a member of the Woman's Relief Corps. At the time of the Civil War she was very active in preparing supplies for the sick and wounded, and has been a most worthy woman, whose life has been a helpful one and who has thereby endeared herself to many friends.

Notes for David Friederich Allmendinger:

History of Washtenaw County, Michigan : together with sketches of its cities, villages and townships...and biographies of representative citizens : history of Michigan. By Chas. C. Chapman & Co. Chicago: Chas. C. Chapman & Co., 1881.

Organ Works. - In the year 1867 G. F. Gartner & Son established the Organ Works for the manufacture of pipe and reed organs. He employed several hands, and being from Germany and a first-class workman, he manufactured all his work by hand. He found, after some five years, that this style of work did not suit the people any better than that manufactured by machinery, and also was not as profitable a business as was first supposed. He closed up his business in 1872. In these organ works there was a young man named D. F. Allmendinger, who had entered the works when first started, and mastered the business, and when Mr. Gartner closed his business he opened the Ann Arbor Organ Works. At first the business was but small and carried on in one part of his dwelling house, but in 1880 he built a frame factory 24x40 feet, and two-stories high. He has in his employ three workmen, and turns out 25 to 30 organs per year. His annual sales foot up $2,500. Mr. Allmendinger furnished three churches in Ann Arbor with pipe organs, and they gave general satisfaction. Although only doing a small business at present, yet he turns out pipe and reed organs of a good quality. The manufactory is situated on the northwest corner of First and Washington streets.

David F. Allmendinger House, 1890 at 719 West Washington Street, Ann Arbor. A 1-1/2 acre "Paradise on Washington Street," is how local journalist, Mary Hunt, summarized the David F. Allmendinger estate after reading in a 1905 newspaper article: "There is no prettier sight in Ann Arbor at this time of year than the magnificent grounds of David Allmendinger on West Washington ???_ Mr. Allmendinger has a little Belle Isle park of his own."

David Friedrich Allmendinger was a true American success story. Born in Waiblingen, Wurttemberg, Germany in 1848, he came to America with his parents in 1851. They joined a large extended family which had been immigrating to Washtenaw County from Swabia since 1829. In 1867, Allmendinger was apprenticed to organ builder Gottlieb Gaertner, who taught him the art of organ making and wood carving. He founded the Allmendinger Organ Company in 1872, and his earliest commissions were for organs for the two German churches in town. His real success, however, lay in selling organs to German farm families throughout the county.

He began modestly in the back rooms of his house at the corner of Washington and First Streets. He later built his brick factory here and became Ann Arbor's second largest employer. In 1890 he was successful enough to build this house a few blocks to the west, in a still undeveloped part of town with creeks running through it. The house was a large, white rambling affair with a wrap-around porch and decorative wood trim in the front gable. Allmendinger needed a large house for his family of 13 children but did not believe in ostentation, so his house is simple by comparison with others from this era. He put most of his time and energy into creating his little "Belle Isle," his Garden of Eden.

Early 20th century photographs capture the idyllic lifestyle. The family posed together under a massive oak tree for a portrait in 1905. Allmendinger's interests in landscape gardening were second only to organ making and he created from that acre and a half a dining terrace, a grape arbor, a goldfish pond with water lilies, a larger pond for carp, a croquet lawn, a log cabin, and the rustic gazebo and bridge, not to mention vegetable gardens and fruit trees of many varieties including plum, cherry, pear and apple, and a chicken coop and barn. Most of this he did by damming the creeks that ran through the property, creeks that are now part of the Allen Creek storm drain system.

David Allmendinger died in 1916. His daughter Julia, and her husband, Judge William Murray, sold the house next door, which they had built in 1909, and moved in with her mother. Pat Haskell, a granddaughter of David Allmendinger, remembers Judge Murray as an imposing and portly gentleman, and a real character who smoked five cigars a day and cussed all the time. Murray was the developer of Murray and Mulholland Streets to the south and east of this property. The house continued to be occupied by descendants of the Allmendinger family until 1991.

Allmendinger Organ Factory - 1888, 1895, 1906, 1911 on 120-130 South First Street, Ann Arbor - This block-long group of brick buildings was built in four stages as a factory for the Allmendinger Organ Company. The company was founded in 1872 by David F. Allmendinger, who first worked from his frame house which stood on this site. A descendant of one of Ann Arbor's earliest pioneers, Allmendinger was apprenticed to master organ builder Gottlieb Gaertner in 1867. When Gaertner left for Ohio in 1871 to manage another factory, Allmendinger bought his equipment and married his daughter.

Allmendinger began modestly in the back rooms of his home where he hand-carved his earliest organs, sometimes using soup bones for the keys when ivory was unavailable. A conservative businessman, he preferred to peddle his finished organs personally by wagon, often trading them for flour, wood, and farm products. His earliest commissions were for church organs, but eventually he began to specialize in lightweight, affordable reed organs which many farmers proudly displayed (and played) in their parlors.

By 1888 he was successful enough to establish a stock company and build a four-story brick building (later reduced to two stories after a fire) on Washington Street. In 1895 the company began manufacturing Henderson Pianos as well as Ann Arbor Organs. They built a four-story brick building at the corner of Washington and First Streets, moving Allmendinger's house to a lot just beyond the railroad tracks. The company name was changed to the Ann Arbor Organ Company and a salesroom opened on South Main Street. In 1906 another two story brick section was added along First Street, and in 1911 the final two stories were added.

In 1915 competition from low-cost suppliers such as Sears Roebuck & Co had driven this company and many other small factories out of business. From 1916 to 1926 the buildings housed the Motor Products Company which made windshields for automobiles. By 1930 the buildings were empty and deteriorating.

Mr. Carroll Benz, a local real estate agent, purchased them around 1935 and remodeled various spaces for rent. In 1947 Benz moved his own real estate office into one of the buildings and for almost 40 years this complex was known simply as the "Benz Building," despite the fact that Benz sold the buildings to the University of Michigan in 1969. The University housed several research institutes here until budget cuts in the recession of the 1980s forced the sale of the buildings in 1984. The purchaser, William Martin, with the expertise of Architects 4, completely renovated the building, replacing original windows and creating a modern entry for the 1895 structure.

Except for these changes, the exterior remains much as it was at the height of its days as an organ factory, a time when 5,000 organs and 600 pianos a year were produced and shipped to every state in the Union and to England, Scotland, Australia, the West Indies, and South Africa. These simple brick structures, imposing in size, remain a fine example of utilitarian factory design, reminding us of the days when workers lived in nearby neighborhoods and walked to and from work. In the new lobby, a visitor will find an original Allmendinger Organ and display panels telling the story of the factory, its owner, and the organs he built.

Ann Arbor, Dec. 18, 2016 - An ornate pump organ made by the Allmendinger company in Ann Arbor more than 100 years ago has found a new home downtown. "After all these years, this Allmendinger organ is being returned to a location that is only two blocks from the place it was created," said Ray Detter, a local historian who is among those celebrating the occasion. The Ann Arbor News reports a crew from Michigan Piano Moving carefully relocated the antique instrument from a private residence in the Chelsea area to Hathaway's Hideaway, an event space at 310 S. Ashley St., on Tuesday morning, Dec. 6.

Based on its design, Detter believes the organ was manufactured in the 1880s, though the exact date is unknown. What is known is that it was made by David Allmendinger's company, which operated at the northwest corner of First and Washington streets from the late 1800s to the early 1900s. The old Allmendinger factory still stands today, now an office building owned by First Martin Corp. Rita Fulton, a retired Ann Arbor city housing inspector, said her husband, Ron, the former Ypsilanti Township building director, purchased the organ at a yard sale in Sterling Heights about 20 years ago. When he saw that it was made in Ann Arbor, he decided he had to buy it and "bring it back home." Now two decades later, they've decided to part with the organ. Rita Fulton reached out to Detter for help finding a new permanent home for it. "It's a beautiful piece and still plays very well," said Fulton, who noted it comes with a stool and two pedestal oil lamps. "It's very ornate," she said, referring to the hand-carved designs popular of old Allmendinger organs. "It's quite decorative." First Martin already has multiple Allmendinger organs on display inside the old factory building, which was remodeled into office space in 1984. Other locations were briefly considered before Mary Hathaway, a longtime Ann Arborite and preservationist, agreed to make room for the organ.

"That's wonderful," Hathaway said on Tuesday morning, her eyes lighting up as the organ was set in place against a wall inside Hathaway's Hideaway. "I think the spot is just perfect," said Ellen Ramsburgh of the Ann Arbor Historical Foundation, who was present to witness the delivery. "I think it is," too," Hathaway responded. The organ's new home is a building with a unique history of its own. Once known as the Second Ward Public Building, it was built by the city in 1901 as a polling place and meeting hall for the primarily German residents of the old 2nd Ward. Mary Hathaway and her late husband, John Hathaway, an attorney who served on City Council in the 1960s, bought the building in 1969 when the city was selling surplus property, and today it remains filled with artifacts relating to Ann Arbor history and serves as a space for special events and gatherings. "I think it's a great addition," Hathaway said of the Allmendinger organ, which now sits near an Allmendinger piano. "I wish John could see it." Bill Martin, founder of First Martin Corp., covered the cost of the organ in the interest of preserving it as a piece of local history, and a handful of local preservationists pitched in to cover the rest of the moving costs. As their plan was executed Tuesday morning, some jokingly described it as a successful organ transplant, one of the musical variety.

The Allmendinger organ company was founded in 1872 by David Allmendinger, who first worked out of a house at First and Washington. He got his start as an apprentice to master organ builder Gottlieb Gaertner in 1867. The history of the site and the company are documented in "Historic Ann Arbor: An Architectural Guide" by Susan Wineberg and Patrick McCauley. They note the brick buildings that stand today at 120-130 S. First St. were built in four stages as a factory for Allmendinger's company between 1888 and 1911. As the company grew and changed, it operated under different names over the years, including Ann Arbor Organ Works, the Ann Arbor Organ Company, and the Allmendinger Piano and Organ Company. According to Wineberg's account, Allmendinger began modestly, hand carving his earliest organs in the back of the home, using soup bones for the keys when ivory was in short supply. He personally peddled his handiwork from a wagon and eventually gained a reputation for fine workmanship.

"His first customers were churches, but later he specialized in affordable reed organs that many farmers displayed and played in their parlors," Wineberg writes in "Historic Ann Arbor," noting examples of those organs can be seen at the Kempf House museum next to Liberty Plaza and in an exhibit in the entry of 130 S. First St., along with a history of the company and the family. "In its heyday, the factory made 5,000 organs and 600 pianos a year and shipped them all over the globe," Wineberg writes, noting Allmendinger formed a stock company in 1888 as demand for his instruments grew. He expanded to build Henderson Pianos in 1895 and later Ann Arbor Pianos, and even had a retail shop downtown. Competition from phonographs and large companies such as Sears eventually caused the company to fold. In 1915, the Allmendinger building at First and Washington ceased functioning as an organ and piano factory. Dettner expressed his appreciation to everyone who helped make Tuesday's move possible.

Notes for Helena Sophie Allmendinger:

The passing of Helene Allmendinger last week at the venerable age of 95 deprives life in Ann Arbor of a measure of its sweetness. Miss Allmendinger lived in other places in America and Europe for over a half of century, but his town was home for her. She was born here, visited often, and-homesick-returned to spend her last years in "dear little Ann Arbor." Her life spanned most of the history of the town, and she retained a sharp memory of people events of past years. Some of her favorite stories have been recorded on tape, enriching our community's fund of oral history. These memories will never grow dim.

Helene Allmendinger was born a long time ago, on May 8, 1878, one of thirteen children of David Frederick and Marie Gaertner Allmendinger. She was a month old when the first telephone and Ann Arbor Railroad rolled into town, a year old when the first telephone was installed in Ann Arbor. She was three when President Garfield was shot by Charles J. Guiteau, whose father had been a respected Ann Arbor merchant. Our town didn't have waterworks until 1885, when little Helene was seven. "They got the water from the Huron River," she recalled. One day I turned on the water. A minnow this big came out. So you know what tasty water we had."

The little girl showed early the gift of song that was to shape her life, leading her into a career as a teacher and performer in churches and concert halls across the land. She found it more natural to sing to her mother than to speak. Her grandmother, impatient, would ask. "Why must you sing? Can't you talk German yet?" In fact, German was the only language she could talk, until frequently run up through the hole above the pedals to chew on the leather bellows inside the instrument. "Day after day, many times each week. Teacher Fischer would say, "Helene, tell your father to come. Tje moce have which had been newly extended past the railroad tracks. Allen's Creek flowed on the surface then, so the low area was swampy.

"They bilt the street out, and then they built wooden sidewalks out. Allen's creek ran around a little hill, and that was what it made it soggy. The sidewalk had to go up over this hill. It was all wooden sidewalk, with railings on each side. It was about sixteen feet up in the air, so that was something interesting to walk on!"

Deprived of schooling for two terms when the Panic of 1893 slashed the income of the Organ Works. Helene finally borrowed money for books from a sister, and was able to regain the privilege she prized so dearly. In 1899, she graduated from Ann Arbor High School, then spent two years at the Normal School in Ypsilanti, earning a teaching certificate.

Meanwhile, her father's business had rebounded. Helene's voice training with teacher Pauline Kempf revealed a contralto of great promise. She continued with a Chicago master who taught her how to breathe way down inside. (In recent years, when friends urged her to forsake her apartment on the third floor of an old house on State Street, she brushed aside their concern: the long flights of stairs were no obstacle to one who had learn to breathe!).

Then her father sent her to Europe for more years of study. She was in Paris for nearly three years, in Cologne and Berlin. Just as she was preparing to return, Richard Wagner invited her to sing at Bayreuth. He hesitated, then declined. She had just enough money to get home. She had a brief fling at Wagnerian opera, but rejected it for concert, chour, and studio work. Her appearances on the stage brought her many applications from private pupils, and teaching them was the work she loved best. She opened a studio in Cleveland.

The new Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor finished in 1913.

He married Rebecca Croman 18 Apr 1843 in Scio Twp, Washtenaw Co, Michigan, daughter of John Croman and Elizabeth Nagel. Notes for Carl (Charles) Allmendinger:

History of Washtenaw County, Michigan. By Chas. C. Chapman & Co. Chicago: Chas. C. Chapman & Co., 1881. Page 1280:

Charles Almendinger, farmer, Lodi Township, was born in Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, January 4, 1819. His parents, Daniel F. and Christina Almendinger, were born in Germany, the former September 25, 1793, and the latter August 22, 1782. They started for America in 1817, and suffering many serious drawbacks, arrived at Philadelphia after an eight months' voyage. They had but one penny, a French coin, left, and found work with a dairyman, living about 30 miles from the "Quaker City". Soon After Mr. Almendinger went to Allentown, Pennsylvania, and worked at his trade (a weaver) for some time.

In 1825 he came to this county and bought 160 acres of land from the Government at $1.25 per acre. In March 1830, he started on 'foot-back' for Washtenaw County, and arrived after a long and wearisome journey. He planted a crop of corn on his new land and returned to New York, the following autumn coming out with his family and locating on his farm, in Lodi Township, near Ann Arbor village. He died May 31, 1865, and his wife, June 25, 1846.

Charles was reared on a farm and educated in the log school-house of those pioneer days. On April 18, 1843, he married Rebecca Croman, born in August 1829, and daughter of John and Elizabeth Croman, natives of Pennsylvania, who came to this county in 1829. They have 3 children - Lucy A., born March 1, 1844, wife of Charles McComber, Ann Arbor; Clinton, born October 24, 1845, and married Mary Mead; Sarah J., born March 16, 1849, and wife of Alexander Thompson, of Clackmas County, Oregon.

Mr. Almendinger possesses a good farm, located about three miles from Ann Arbor. He was Vice-President of the Pioneer Society of Washtenaw County for Lodi Township, for three years, and takes a great interest in preserving the pioneer history. His is a Republican. Mr. Almendinger owns a good farm, and is comfortably situated in life. His portrait will be found in the volume, on page 931.

Notes for Johann Georg Schairer:
Past and Present of Washtenaw County, Michigan by Samuel W. Beakes, Chicago: The S.J. Clarke Publishing Co., 1906.

John George Schairer is one of five brothers, all named John, four of them of course known only by middle names. Mr. Schairer came over as a youth, learned here the shoemaker's trade, and is still industriously pounding away on his lap stone. His immigration was in 1836. He soon felt the need of informing himself of the political matters of the country, bought a spelling book and began with the English alphabet to prepare himself to gather the needed information. His memory is a mine upon which one draws with satisfaction. It is an interesting fact that his wife's sister, Mrs. Ebinger, removed from Ann Arbor to Chicago when but few houses occupied the site of that now great city, walking most of the way, attended by the ox wagon which carried the household goods.

SHOCKING FATAL ACCIDENT – John G. Schairer, Killed

A shocking accident robbed Ann Arbor of one of its oldest most respected citizens last evening, and turned a party of merrymakers into sorrow stricken mourners. John G. Schairer, who had rounded out his eighty-four years, was attending the annual reunion of the Allmendinger family at Spring Lake, and at Lakeland, on the way home; at 7 o'clock in the evening he was instantly killed by an Ann Arbor railroad train.

The party to the number of sixty had spent the day at Spring Lake, a short distance east of Lakeland, and had returned to the latter station preparatory to taking the Ann Arbor railroad back to the city. Nearly two hundred people were at the station, and the Allmendinger party was on the north side of the track. The 7:20 train for the south pulled in, and the crowd were making ready to go on board. Just before the trained stopped an elderly man was seen to step on the track from the south side. The engine was scarcely twenty feet away and if everything had gone well he would have had a narrow escape. As it was he stumbled as he was stepping over the nearest rail, and fell directly in the path of the advancing engine.

An unknown man, whose name has not been learned, ran forward and at the imminent peril of his own life seized the prostrate form and tried to drag it across the track. The margin was too narrow, and he saw that handicapped as he was he could not reach a place safety. It was a case of one life or two, so he dropped the burden and just escaped being struck himself.

The accident took place in full view of the waiting crowd, but no one knew who was the victim. The body had been carried under the engine, but one arm was thrown upon the cowcatcher in such a way the face and head were preserved from mutilation. The blood and dust so dimmed the features that no one realized who it was for several minutes. Had the daring attempt at rescue not been made by the stranger the body would have been terribly mangled, as it was lying directly across the rails.

The body was brought to this city last night, and was removed to the Dieterle undertaking establishment. As Lakeland is in Livingston County the Livingston coroner will have to sign the burial certificate.

The circumstances surrounding the death are particularly sad. The descendants of the Allmendinger family to the number of sixty had passed a day of merry making, and Mr. Schairer was one of the most light hearted of the party. His health was excellent and his mind was alert and vigorous as in the days of his early manhood, and he enjoyed every moment of the outing. Confident in this own strength and vitality he would not allow himself to be looked after by his children or grandchildren, but insisted that his age was no handicap and that he was perfectly competent to take care of himself. He was the oldest member of the party, but was not himself a member of the Allmendinger clan. His wife, who was formerly Miss Christina Ruehle was the oldest of the Allmendinger descendants, and the couple would have celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary October 31 of this year.

John G. Schairer was born in Durrweiler, oberant Freudenstadt, Wurtemberg, Germany. He came to Ann Arbor in 1836 and opened a shoemaking establishment. He remained in active business until he was seventy years of age, when he yielded to the wishes of his family and retired. He leaves a widow and eleven children. During the sixty years that the couple had been married there had been only one death in the immediate family, which was that of a daughter, forty years ago. The children are: G.E. Schairer, of Saline; John J. Schairer, of Clint, Texas; Mrs. D.C. Giffard, Mrs. William Steufer; Aaron and Jessie Schairer, of Westport, Nebraska; Mrs. Samuel Krause, Mrs. M. Otto and D.F. Schairer, of this city.

June 13, 1940 - The sale of the Schairer house on Michigan Avenue marks the passing of one of Saline's old homes which has been in that family since 1870. The Schairers were one of the prominent families of Saline and date back to pioneer settlers who came from Germany to Ann Arbor in 1836. It will be remembered that Ann Arbor was a mere settlement then with cow pastures where the University now stands, a cluster of buildings, winding walks, shade trees and shrubbery, making it one of the prettiest campuses in the United States. There were no great department stores, smart dress shops, tea rooms and restaurants, but there were a few stores where staples could be purchased, a hotel to accommodate the traveling public, and people with thrifty ideas and the courage to stick through the hardships of pioneer life to lay the foundation for the present city and industrial life of the community. It was during those early days that foundations were laid for some of the family fortunes which have developed since. John George Schairer was born in Wurtemberg, Germany, February 7, 1820, and with his step-father, John Jacob Jedele, and family came to America in 1836 locating in Ann Arbor. He soon decided that he wanted to take an active part in politics and realized that in order to do so he must become familiar with the English language. So he bought a spelling book and began the study of English words and their proper spelling. With persistence and diligence he mastered the language and later was determined that his children should have an education. On October 31, 1844, he was married in Scio Township to Miss Christina Magdalena Reuhle who was also from Wurtemberg. He was a maker by trade and established a fine business in Ann Arbor. The home was at 40 S. Ashley Street, now the heart of the business district. Here their twelve children were born and all but one lived to manhood and wo1 manhood. Here they celebrated their 50 wedding anniversary and plans were under way to celebrate the 60th when on Labor Day of that year, Sept. 4, 1904, while returning from a picnic celebrating a reunion of the Allmendinger family, Mr. Schairer was killed at Lakeland by a train. Mrs. Schairer lived until September 13, 1907. Rather unusual it is that Rev. Schmid, who was the pastor who confirmed Mrs. Schairer, officiated at her marriage, christened her 12 children and officiated at the funeral of Martha Eva, the only one of the 12 who died before reaching maturity, was also the officiating clergyman at the first wedding in her little flock, that of Louise Henrietta to Chris. Reimold.

George Edward Schairer was born in Ann Arbor August 2, 1845, one of the 12 children of John George and Christina Schairer. He was educated in the Ann Arbor schools and on Feb. 15, 1872, married Miss Sophia Sorg, daughter of Fred and Juliana Sorg of Ann Arbor. She also was educated in the Ann Arbor schools. George Edward Schairer was a carriage and wagon maker and learned his trade in the Lawson and Wurster shop in Ann Arbor. After having learned the trade he went to Cleveland, then to Chicago, St., Charles Illinois, and on to Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, where he practiced his trade for three years; he then returned to Chicago and from there came to Saline in 1870 where he purchased the corner at the corner of Lewis Street and Michigan Avenue. This property then included the site now occupied by Herman Heininger and ran back on Lewis Street for some distance. The part of the Heininger farm implement building was the carriage shop. Here Mr. Schairer built fine carriages and surreys and took great pride in doing his work well. Buyers of that day were as proud of their plush upholstered seats and canopy tops, sturdy bodies, striped wheels and fancy paint jobs as the present automobile buyers are of their streamlined autos.

Mr. Schairer employed several men to help in this work. Aaron Howard was a wagon-maker; Andrew Tuttle a painter; Charles Nellis, a trimmer; Lon Cain, a painter; a Mr. Johnson was the blacksmith; and Ard Lashier, a harness maker. Several of these men boarded in the Schairer home and to accomplish the necessary cooking, baking, and extra housework Mrs. Schairer had help.

One can imagine the hum and stir in the shop those days. How, for instance, the news was passed by word of mouth as workers greeted each other in the morning. Since horses and carriages were the means of transportation that business compared to the garages of today. From this shop fine wagons and carriages built to order were shipped not only in this state but to many states and to many places in the east. Four children were born to the Schairers; they were Edward Oscar, who is a retired army officer and lives in San Francisco; Otto Sorg, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan and lives in Bronsville, New York; Miss Eva Sophia, a graduate of Normal College at Ypsilanti and the University at Madison, Wisconsin, now professor of home economics at the University in Grand Forks, North Dakota; and Bertha Juliana, who is now Mrs. Fred Nissly of Ypsilanti. Mrs. Schairer died while her children were all small, having contracted lingering consumption. Following her death a widowed sister came to live in the family and mother the flock. Mr. Schairer never remarried but kept faithfully to his business, providing for his children and maintaining the home. Miss Bertha succeeded her aunt in homemaking for the family and her father until his death, July 2, 1915.

As the horse and buggy era gave way to the automobile, Mr. Schairer invented a stock and wagon rack which he patented and manufactured until he retired business. Recently an auction was held to dispose of the remaining family possessions after the children had each taken the pieces dearly prized by them. The house was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kern of Bemis road. So after 70 years of sheltering one family, of welcoming a bride, echoing the first cries of baby lips, and watching those same babies slip from boyhood and girlhood to manhood and womanhood, of standing through storm and sunshine, of witnessing birth and death, the old home with its traditions and memories has passed into other hands to start anew a cycle of family history.

He was born in Freudenstadt, Wurtemberg, Germany, on February 7, 1820. Mrs. Schairer's maiden name was Christiana Ruehle. She arrived here from Waiblingen, Wurtemberg, in November 1832, she then being 6 years of age. On Monday last she celebrated her sixty-eight birthday. She did this by giving a tea to her twenty-five grandchildren every one of whom were present as follows: Orlando S. Mr. and Mrs. Schairer were married October 31, 1844, at the bride's home on Dexter Road just west of the city, by the late Rev. F. Schmid. There has resulted from this union five sons and six daughters. J. Reimold of Saginaw; Mrs. D. C. Giffert, Mrs. Wm. Steufer, Aaron M., Jessie E., and Alice Schairer, of West Point, Nebraska, John J. Schairer of Clint, Texas; Mrs. M. Otto, Mrs. Samuel Krause and D. F. Schairer, of Ann Arbor.

This is the first time that the entire family have all been together at one time in the past thirteen years.

As shown above quite a few of the members of the family have come a long distance to attend this celebration. There were also a number of invited guests present who had come from distant states to attend the reunion. Among these were Peter Schairer, a brother of the groom and daughter, of Sebewaing, Michigan, William Steufer, D. C. Giffert and Mrs. Aaron Schairer, of West Point, Nebraska, and Mrs. John Schairer, of Clint, Texas, Mrs. Elizabeth Hirth, of Toledo, came up to extend congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Frey, of Scio, and Alfred, Elizabeth, Mattie, and Clara Schairer of the city were also among the guests. It was twelve o'clock when the family sat down to a bountiful dinner prepared by the old folks. There were nearly fifty in all present, consisting of the sons and daughters of the old folks, their husbands and wives and the grandchildren. The grandchildren united in presenting their grandfather with a beautiful gold-headed cane, and their grandmother with gold-mounted silk umbrella. The children gave their father a well-filled purse of gold. There were numerous other valuable presents. Mr. Geo. Schairer, of Saline, the oldest son was master of ceremonies and called for a number of toasts which were responded to in a very happy way. The day was a very pleasant one to all present and will never be forgotten. The Register wishes many returns of their wedding anniversary to the happy old people.

Notes for Johannes Gutekunst:

John Gutekunst, one of the early settlers in State Center, died at Dexter, Michigan Wednesday morning, June 22, 2010. He had been sick only since the Monday preceding. Mrs. Gutekunst and son Giffert, were called from here by telegram on Tuesday, but they did not reach Dexter until Wednesday afternoon and death had ensued by that time. Death was caused by erysipelas. Mr. Gutekunst had been in Michigan about a month looking for farming interests. Before going there he had been in his usual health, but on Monday before his death his son receive a letter which was written on Saturday stating that he was not feeling at all well. The next word from his was a telegram from his physicians summoning his wife and son to his beside.

John Gutekunst was born at Ann Arbor, Michigan September 30, 1835. He came to State Center in 1864 and in 1872 was married to Mary Devers at Detroit, Michigan. She died at Pinckney, Michigan January 12, 1884. In 1888 he was married the second time at Merrill, Iowa to Louisa O Todd, who survives him with their only son, Giffert. Mr. Gutekunst having been a resident of this community nearly half a century, he saw this country transformed from wilderness into a veritable garden. He was a man of keen business acumen and highest integrity. He was a material factor in the development of this community. In his quiet way he was benevolently disposed. This community had met with a loss in his passing away. He was mayor of State Center during the years 1890 and 1891.

Funeral services were held at Dexter, Friday morning and the body was shipped to Chicago, where it was cremated at Oakwood cemetery. The remains were accompanied from Dexter by a delegation from the Masonic lodge there, including Worshipful Mast Charles Case with James Devine and Henry Jewell. They were met in Chicago by Worshipful Master R A Buck, William Vance, Theodore Engle and O F Ecklund, of the local Masonic Lodge, who brought the ashes and accompanied Mrs. Gutekunst and son to State Center, arriving Sunday morning. Brief funeral services were conducted at the home at 2:30 Sunday afternoon by Rev W H Clement, of Vernon Center, Minnesota, and burial was made in Hillside cemetery by the side of his mother.

Marriage Notes for Vernon Allmendinger and Louise Muir:

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Muir announce the marriage of their daughter, Louise Belle, to Vernon Allmendinger of Ann Arbor. The ceremony took place at 9 o'clock Wednesday evening June 22, 1932 at the Francisco, Salem Methodist Church and was solemnized by Rev. Henry Lenz in the presence of the immediate families. The bride was beautifully gowned in white satin and net and carried a bouquet of white and pink roses and delphinium. She was given away in marriage by her father.

Following the ceremony a wedding lunch was served at the Allmendinger summer home at Crooked Lake. The table was very dainty in its decorations of pink and white and the color scheme was carried out in full throughout the home. The happy couple left under a shower of rice and good wishes for their home in Ann Arbor.

Notes for Julia Johanna Allmendinger:

David F. Allmendinger House, 1890 on 719 West Washington Street, Ann Arbor - A 1-1/2 acre Paradise on Washington Street," is how local journalist, Mary Hunt, summarized the David F.

Allmendinger estate after reading in a 1905 newspaper article: "There is no prettier sight in Ann Arbor at this time of year than the magnificent grounds of David Allmendinger on West Washington ???_ Mr. Allmendinger has a little Belle Isle park of his own."

David Friedrich Allmendinger was a true American success story. Born in Waiblingen, Wurttemberg, Germany in 1848, he came to America with his parents in 1851. They joined a large extended family which had been immigrating to Washtenaw County from Swabia since 1829. In 1867, Allmendinger was apprenticed to organ builder Gottlieb Gaertner, who taught him the art of organ making and wood carving. He founded the Allmendinger Organ Company in 1872, and his earliest commissions were for organs for the two German churches in town. His real success, however, lay in selling organs to German farm families throughout the county.

He began modestly in the back rooms of his house at the corner of Washington and First Streets. He later built his brick factory here and became Ann Arbor's second largest employer. In 1890 he was successful enough to build this house a few blocks to the west, in a still undeveloped part of town with creeks running through it. The house was a large, white rambling affair with a wrap-around porch and decorative wood trim in the front gable. Allmendinger needed a large house for his family of 13 children but did not believe in ostentation, so his house is simple by comparison with others from this era. He put most of his time and energy into creating his little "Belle Isle," his Garden of Eden.

Early 20th century photographs capture the idyllic lifestyle. The family posed together under a massive oak tree for a portrait in 1905. Allmendinger's interests in landscape gardening were second only to organ making and he created from that acre and a half a dining terrace, a grape arbor, a goldfish pond with water lilies, a larger pond for carp, a croquet lawn, a log cabin, and the rustic gazebo and bridge, not to mention vegetable gardens and fruit trees of many varieties including plum, cherry, pear and apple, and a chicken coop and barn. Most of this he did by damming the creeks that ran through the property, creeks that are now part of the Allen Creek storm drain system.

David Allmendinger died in 1916. His daughter Julia, and her husband, Judge William Murray, sold the house next door, which they had built in 1909, and moved in with her mother. Pat Haskell, a granddaughter of David Allmendinger, remembers Judge Murray as an imposing and portly gentleman, and a real character who smoked five cigars a day and cussed all the time. Murray was the developer of Murray and Mulholland Streets to the south and east of this property. The house continued to be occupied by descendants of the Allmendinger family until 1991.

Notes for William H. Murray:

Past and Present of Washtenaw County, Michigan by Samuel W. Beakes, Chicago: The S.J. Clarke Publishing Co., 1906:

William H. Murray, the senior member of the law firm of Murray & Storm, of Ann Arbor, was born in York Township, Washtenaw County, in 1875. His grandfather, Andrew Murray, was a native of Scotland and in early life joined an Irish regiment, which came to America in 1812. Together with other members of the military command he deserted the British ranks and joined the United States army, his sympathy being with the republic. Following the close of hostilities he settled in Monroe, Michigan, where he followed farming. Unto him and his wife Maria were born five children, of whom two are yet living, Daniel and Mrs. Ellen Roberts. Daniel Murray, born in Monroe, Michigan, removed from that place to York Township, Washtenaw County, in 1864 and has since been closely identified with agricultural interests there. He married Miss Catherine McInnes, a native of London, England, and they have become the parents of eight children, of whom seven are yet living, as follows: Mary A.; Donald, who married Louisa Wardell and follows farming in Augusta township; Andrew, a resident farmer of York Township, who married Hattie Blood; John, an agriculturist of Augusta Township, who married Elizabeth Wanty; Ella, the wife of Lucian Lock, M. D., a physician of Haverhill, Ohio; Edwin W., also a farmer of Augusta Township, who married Elizabeth Feldman; and William H., who is the youngest of the family.

In the township of his nativity William H. Murray was reared to manhood and after mastering the elementary branches of learning he completed a high-school course, being graduated with the class of 1893. Subsequently he entered the University of Michigan, where he won his degree of Bachelor of Laws, in 1895, and his degree of Master of Law, in 1896, having completed the literary and law courses, Between the two periods of his university courses he read law in the office of Edward Weeks, an attorney of Detroit, with whom he spent the summer months, and in 1897 he entered upon the practice of his chosen profession in Ann Arbor, where he has gained a creditable position. In 1901 he admitted Carl T. Storm to a partnership under the firm style of Murray & Storm, and this relation has since been maintained. Mr. Murray has been very successful and the recognition of his natural intellectual endowments, his laudable ambition and his strong determination lead the public to predict for him a successful future. His political allegiance is given to the democracy and for the past six years he served as circuit court commissioner, his term expiring in the fall of 1904. He is also one of the directors of the German American Savings Bank, one of the recently established financial institutions of the city, and has an office in the German American Bank Building at the corner of Liberty and Main Street, south.

In October, 1900, in Ann Arbor, Mr. Murray was married to Miss Julia J. Allmendinger, a daughter of David F. Allmendinger, an old resident of the city. Marriage Notes for Bertha Schairer and Frederick Nissley:

A beautiful wedding took place Tuesday morning June 27, 1933 at 10 o'clock, when Miss Bertha Schairer and Mr. Fred H. Nissly of Ypsilanti exchanged vows. Rev. David Porter of the First Presbyterian Church in Ypsilanti performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Eva Schairer, of Grand Forks, North Dakota, and the groom by Arthur Nissly of Detroit. The bride wore a gown of rose silk lace and carried her mother's wedding handkerchief and a shower bouquet of brides roses and delphinium, and the bridesmaid carried a bouquet of pink Killarney roses.

The old-fashioned mantle in the living room was banked by lacy sprays of alder blossoms and the stately stems of hollyhocks. In front of this were baskets of roses and delphinium and on the mantle were Hiawatha roses and delphinium. After the ring ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Nissly left for a short wedding trip, after which they return to, Saline for the summer. In the fall they will reside in Ypsilanti. Mrs. Nissly received a cablegram from her brother, Otto S. Schairer, of the R.C.A. of London, England, extending his best wishes and congratulations.

Marriage Notes for Aaron Schairer and Josephine Muir:

June 8, 1933 - More than 200 guests registered Sunday at the A. M. Schairer home, when Mr. and Mrs. Schairer held open house for their friends in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, solemnized at Ann Arbor, Michigan, May 17, 1883. Mr. and Mrs. Schairer have lived in West Pont for 49 years of the half century of their married life. Among out of town well-wishers joining the local friends in the Sunday calls were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Killoran and daughter Catherine, of Norfolk; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rich, Mrs. Norman Davis, Mrs. Christina Nelight, Mrs. C. W. Feldman, Miss Minnie Baumann, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sterling, Mrs. R. B. Hasselquist and Richard Krause, all of Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Taggart and daughter, Sally, of Sioux City, Iowa; Mrs. J.W. Merriman, and daughter, Jean, of Dallas, Texas; Mrs. Gus Von Essen of Oakland, Romig Krause of Bancroft; Mrs. Leonard Hobel and little son of Leigh; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Baas of Beecher; Mr. and Mrs. D. Gifts of flowers and many other tokens of esteem of friends and organizations, in which Mr. and Mrs. Schairer have found association during their long residence here, were on display in the home which was beautifully decorated with flowers as a setting for the happy occasion. Last evening, the evening of the golden wedding day, the immediate family, some of them guests from afar, observed the anniversary at a dinner, covers being laid for 23 persons. The home decorations of flowers and the golden appointments for the tables made an appropriate setting. The dinner was served in three courses and was interspersed and followed by an informal program of toasts and reminiscences, with Mrs. Sam Krause as toastmistress. Following the dinner a happy evening of renewing association with visiting relatives and reminiscences of former associations was greatly enjoyed. Diversional episodes introducing much merriment included a charivari by neighbor friends of Mrs. Schairer, who appeared early in the evening and were treated to refreshments for reward; a charivari by the family group later in the evening and a Shower of comical gifts which the golden wedding bride was required to open and display. The gift display of the Sunday occasion had meantime been augmented by gifts brought by the relatives.

Out of town relatives included were a daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Blanchard, of Omaha, who arrived Saturday and are still guests at the family home, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Schairer and daughters Delphia Anne and Delta Loue, of Clint, Texas and her niece. Miss Eileen Bramwell, of Tornillo, Texas, who arrived on Sunday; Mrs. W. H. Huelster and Mrs. Sam Krause of Grand Rapids, Michigan, sisters of Mr. Schairer, who arrived Tuesday and are leaving today; and two nieces of Mr. Schairer, Mrs. Robert Staeber of Kalamazoo, Michigan, and Miss Elizabeth Reimold of South Bend, Indiana, who arrived on Tuesday.

Harriet enjoyed gardening, golf, and bowling, but her hand-painted holiday bells will be treasured by many forever. She will be remembered as a woman with great generosity of spirit and self. She was an inspiration to all that knew her - especially her grandchildren. The family would like to thank Dr. Alan Dengiz and his staff at Senior Health and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. He married Maria Virginia Donahue 26 Mar 1921 in Ann Arbor, Washtenaw Co, Michigan, daughter of Joseph Donahue and Marion Cattett. She was born 01 Oct 1892 in Baltimore, Baltimore Co, Maryland, and died 17 Mar 1987 in Ann Arbor, Washtenaw Co, Michigan.

Notes for Ernest John Allmendinger:

Ernest "Aqua" Allmendinger (August 25, 1890 – May 7, 1973) was an All-American college football player. A native of Ann Arbor, Michigan, Allmendinger played right guard and right tackle at Ann Arbor High School, for teams that lost one game in three seasons. He acquired the nickname "Aqua" after working as a waterboy for railroad building crews.

University of Michigan - Allmendinger played the guard position at the University of Michigan from 1911–1913. In November 1913, Allmendinger helped Michigan to a 17–0 win over Cornell leading The Washington Post to report: "Allmendinger played a brilliant game on the defense. Three hundred Michigan rooters, headed by their brass band, paraded and snake-danced after the game." At the end of the 1913 season, Allmendinger was picked as an All-Western guard on nearly all of the honorary All-Western teams. A newspaper account in the summer of 1917 described Allmendinger's progression as follows:

"Allmendinger, a young giant in perfect physical condition tried unsuccessfully for two years to make the varsity eleven. His quiet temperament was the handicap and during these years Coach Yost declared that if Allmendinger 'could get good and mad once, he would be one of the greatest linemen in the game.' The third season Yost became desperate. He used third degree methods, and finally the giant awoke, Allmendinger became a demon on the gridiron, nearly every western critic put him on their all-star elevens and some experts thought he should have made the All-American."

In July 1917, as the United States entered World War I, Allmendinger enrolled in the U.S. Army, I Company, 31st Michigan Infantry, becoming "another University of Michigan athlete to answer his country's call." Allmendinger was one of several prominent football players commissioned at Fort Sheridan in the fall of 1917; others included former Michigan All-Americans Albert Benbrook and James B. Craig. On Thanksgiving Day 1917, with the country's top players in the military, an All-Star game between the country's top Army and Navy players was held at Stagg Field in Chicago. Allmendinger was the starting right tackle on the Army team. Because of the war, Walter Camp did not select an All-America team in 1917. Instead, Camp named an All-America service team in 1917, recognizing the country's top football players serving in the military. Allmendinger was named to Camp's 1917 All-Service team. Allmendinger rose to the rank of captain before being discharged in 1919. He also worked as an assistant football coach at Michigan during the 1919 season.

Allmendinger received a forestry degree from the University of Michigan and worked in the western forests after graduating. He later worked for 34 years as an engineer for the Washtenaw County Road Commission from 1921–1954, and after that for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

Ernest J. (Aqua) Allmendinger, a U-M All-America football player, born and raised in Ann Arbor, died Monday. He was 82 years old and lived at 814 Henry Street. A robust man who loved to walk, Allmendinger was an Ann Arbor High graduate who went on to become an All-America guard under Fielding H. Yost just before World War I. He then served his community for years as a city councilman, county road commission manager County Board of Supervisors member and staff member of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority. Allmendinger loved a challenge.

He certainly was not one of the biggest All-Americans ever to play for Michigan but what he lacked in size he made up in determination. After graduation from high school he worked for the railroad to strengthen his body for Michigan football. "Aquas just like a blacksmith," said Coach Yost when Allmendinger reported for practice to start the 1913 season. Michigan won six games that fall, lost one, and scored 175 points to its opponents' 21. It wasn't until 1917 that Walter Camp named Allmendinger an All-America and it was after he had played for the Camp Sheridan, Alabama, team. He served in the infantry and was discharged in 1919 as a captain.

Allmendinger earned three varsity football letters at Ann Arbor High and later became one of four Ann Arbor High football players to become All-Americans at Michigan. The group includes John Maulbetsch, halfback, 1914; Otto Pommerening, tackle, 1928, and Bob Westfall, fullback, 1941.

Allmendinger earned a Bachelor of Science degree in forestry at Michigan. During the summers of 1912 and 1923 he was employed by the Canadian Pacific Railroad in British Columbia. Following his studies at Michigan, he served as Yost's assistant for a year and later coached briefly at the South Dakota School of Mines and the Colorado School of Mines.

He was city councilman in 1927 and 1929 and in 1946-47 was president of the Washtenaw Historical Society. He also served as president of the Washtenaw County Audubon Society, the Ann Arbor Engineer's and the Michigan Parks and Forestry Association.

He joined the Washtenaw County Road Commission in 1921 was a foreman and was named acting manager and later its superintendent during World War II. In 1949, and for a period of several years, he served as volunteer veterans' reemployment rights committeeman for the county. His years of service with the Road Commission totaled 35 and retired in 1960 after six years with the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority. After his retirement, he served for a time as a member of the County Board of Supervisors representing the Third Ward. The post as that time was appointive.

He was born on August 25, 1890, the son of Henry and Wilhelmina Kraus Allmendinger and married Marie V. Donohue on March 26, 1921. He was a member of the Zion Lutheran Church and the Thursday Noon Men's Luncheon Club. He was a familiar face among just about all local gatherings of Michigan letterman.

Surviving are his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Robert (Marian) Swinck of Ann Arbor and Mrs. Warren (Doris) Danekind of Oregon, Ohio, six grandchildren, two great-grandsons and a niece, Mrs. Norman (Leah) Nelson of Lucerne.

Cremation has taken place. A memorial service will be held at 4 p.m. Thursday at Zion Lutheran Church with the Rev. Fred Holtfreter officiating. Contributions may be made to the Zion Lutheran Memorial Fund. The family will receive friends in the Stellohorn Room of the church following services.

Notes for Robert Edward Muehlig:

Edward R. Muehlig, 83, owner of the Muehlig and Lanphear Hardware store at 311 S. Main Street and a lifelong resident of Ann Arbor, died suddenly last night April 27, 1960 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital after a week's illness. His home was at 801 W. Liberty Street. Mr. Muehlig was born on Dec. 24, 1876, in Ann Arbor, a son of John and Lydia Volz Muehlig. He and Lydia W. Guenther of Ann Arbor were married on Sept. 24, 1903. She survives.

He started in the hardware business here at the Muehlig and Schmid Hardware, located at 205 S. Main Street, in 1888. In 1929, Mr. Muehlig and the late O. Don Lanphear bough the business from an uncle, Edwin Muehlig, and moved it to its present location. Mr. Muehlig bought out the Lanphear interest in 1947. He was a member of Zion Lutheran Church and had served the church council for more than 25 years. Mr. Muehlig was a life member of Golden Rule Masonic Lodge, No. 159, F&AM.

Survivors, in addition to his wife, include two sons, Erwin W. Muehlig, who was associated with his father in the hardware store, and Robert E. Muehlig of the Muehlig Funeral Home; and four grandchildren, Kathleen C., Carol A., Linda D., and Gary R., all of Ann Arbor.

Funeral services for Mr. Muehlig will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the Muehlig Chapel, with the Rev. Ralph B. Piper officiating. Burial will follow in Forest Hill Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home. Memorial contributions may be made to Zion Lutheran Church.

Sept. 15, 1961 – Muehlig & Lanphear Hardware, which has conducted business operations at 311 S. Main Street since 1929, is going out of business. The firm owned by Erwin Muehlig and his brother, Robert E. Muehlig, assistant manager of the Muehlig Funeral Chapel, Inc. Erwin said all hardware stock and fixtures are involved in a special sale prior to closing out the business in settlement of the Edward Muehlig Estate.

The late Edward Muehlig, who died a year ago, owned the hardware firm, sharing ownership with the late Donald Lanphear until he sold his interest to Mr. Muehlig in 1947. Mr. Lanphear died three years ago. Neither of the Muehlig's can recall when the hardware firm was originated. Prior to 1929, it was located at 205 S. Main and was known as Muehlig and Schmid Hardware. Before that the firm was called Schuh & Muehlig.

Erwin Muehlig said the close-out sale is expected to last three to four weeks. Mrs. James J. O'Kane of Ann Arbor owns the building which houses the hardware store. So far the store has not been leased to another concern. Mrs. O'Kane husband said.

Before O'SULLIVAN, PHILLIPS and EDWARDS, Circuit Judges.

Plaintiff-appellant, George W. Butler, sought a decree requiring defendant Charles W. Attwood<sup>1</sup> and the several defendants Finzel to transfer to Butler one half of those shares of stock of a Michigan corporation, Unistrut Corporation, which had become the subject of a buy-and-sell agreement between Attwood and the Finzels. Right to such relief was bottomed upon a claim that an antecedent contract between Butler and Attwood entitled Butler to purchase one-half of any stock in the corporation which became available for purchase by Attwood. Butler offered, with proper tender, to purchase one-half of the 34,000 shares covered by the Attwood-Finzel contract at the contract price of $12.50 per share. The District Judge in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Michigan, Southern Division, sustained plaintiff's claim that Attwood's refusal to accord Butler the right to purchase such shares breached the earlier agreement between Butler and Attwood. He held that Butler was entitled to specific performance against the defendants Attwood, but denied such relief as to defendants Finzel because of his holding that "Attwood did not enter into the [Attwood-Finzel] contract as an agent or fiduciary of Butler." The complaint was dismissed as to the Finzels. Butler appeals, arguing that relief against the Attwoods alone is worthless to him inasmuch as defendants Attwood and Finzel have failed to consummate the sale of the involved shares to the Attwoods and assert that it has been mutually abandoned.<sup>2</sup> Butler claims that equity can and should grant relief against the Finzels as well as the Attwoods. Defendants Attwood's cross-appeal asks reversal of the judgment against them on the asserted ground that, contrary to the District Judge's holding, the Attwoods' refusal to allow Butler to share in the purchase of the Finzel stock did not breach any contractual duty owed to Butler. This is a diversity action, Michigan law controlling substantive rights.

George W. Butler, plaintiff-appellant, a citizen of Illinois, Charles W. Attwood, defendant-appellees' decedent, and appellee George J. O. Finzel, were, prior and subsequent to December 5, 1944, substantial owners of shares of the capital stock of the Unistrut Corporation, a fabricator of a metal framing system. These men were all directors of Unistrut and participated in its operation during the times here involved. Until his death, Attwood was president and the chief executive officer of the corporation; Butler and a corporation owned by him were its sales representatives; and Finzel was the company's treasurer.

Shortly before December 5, 1944, Butler, Attwood and Finzel attended a Unistrut directors' meeting where it was disclosed that brothers by the name of Henderson desired to sell their holdings of 36,091 shares of Unistrut. Butler raised the money to buy this stock, and on December 5, 1944, he and Attwood went to the Hendersons and paid the purchase price, Butler acquiring the Henderson shares. Returning from this visit to the Hendersons, Attwood remarked to Butler that acquisition of the Henderson shares would give Butler "the controlling stock of the company" and then stated: "you ought to agree to sell me enough stock out of this block that you have just purchased * * * so that you and I will hold identically the same number of shares." Butler acquiesced, and at his office Attwood wrote out the agreement (Exhibit D) which is the basis of this lawsuit. It was signed by Attwood and Butler and, in Attwood's handwriting, is in words and figures as follows:

"Dec. 5-1944. "Agreement is made this date between Geo W Butler & Chas W Attwood that the stock purchased from James F. Henderson and Wm A. Henderson by Geo W. Butler amounting to the following shares of Unistrut Corp. stock: —

James Henderson 18822 shares Wm Henderson 17269 " _____ Total 36091 shares shall be divided between the two aforesaid parties as follows: —

Geo W Butler 28130 shares Chas W Attwood 7961 " _____ Total 36091 " and that any future purchases of stock shall be made on a 50-50 basis between the two parties and that at some future time an agreement for coverage of all contingencies will be drawn between the parties.
"Signed — Chas W. Attwood Geo W. Butler."

Thereupon 7,961 of the 36,091 shares acquired from the Hendersons were transferred from Butler to Attwood at the price which Butler had paid for them. Butler took Attwood's note for the price "to be paid off as he [Attwood] could." At the end of this transaction, the share holdings of Attwood and Butler, with shares held by their respective wives, were Butler, 42,085 and Attwood, 42,085, out of a then outstanding total issue of 100,000 shares.

From the foregoing beginning and until the making of the Attwood-Finzel contract on March 13, 1964, Attwood and Butler, with a few insubstantial exceptions hereinafter noted, fulfilled their 1944 agreement by advising each other of opportunities to acquire blocks of Unistrut stock and purchasing the same on a "50-50 basis," including additional shares issued by the corporation. In these acquisitions Attwood and Butler were mutually accorded the privilege of vesting parts of the acquisitions in members of their families and in the case of Butler, in a corporation owned by himself and his wife, which acted as the then exclusive sales agency of Unistrut products. These acquisitions were substantial and, as the price of the stock was going up, at substantial prices. By the time of the Attwood-Finzel contract of 1964, the shareholdings of the Butler and Attwood "groups" were Butler, 157,622 and Attwood, 159,136 shares.

The above slight disparity and departure from a strict "50-50" ownership by the parties came about through separate acquisitions of a few odd lot shares by the Attwood and Butler groups at different times and under special circumstances. Appellees Attwood and Finzel, however, now assert that these separate acquisitions demonstrate that the 1944 "50-50" contract was not considered a binding agreement by the parties, had been mutually abandoned, or so breached as to now forbid equitable relief to Butler. The District Judge considered that these odd lot acquisitions did not support such contentions and, without detailing the evidence of the circumstances involved, we agree with the District Judge. Parts of his findings which we quote below portray the District Judge's view in this regard.

We proceed then to consider such of the remaining contentions of the appeal and cross-appeal as call for discussion: first, cross-appellants' charge that the December 5, 1944, contract was not a binding, complete and enforceable contract; and, second, appellant's contention that equity required a decree directing the Finzels to complete the sale of the 34,000 shares of Unistrut stock which was the subject of the 1964 buy-and-sell agreement between them and Attwood.

1. Was the 5C-50 memorandum of 1944 a binding and enforceable contract?

In lieu of relevant discussion by us and with the supplementary qualifications which we will discuss hereinafter, we set out the following recitations from the findings and conclusions of the District Judge, Honorable Wade H. McCree, now a member of this Court:

"1) The 1944 agreement is an enforceable contract, and although the relevant phrase that 'any future purchases of stock shall be on a 50-50 basis between the two parties' is ambiguous, this ambiguity is not fatal to validity. Courts do not favor the destruction of contracts because of indefiniteness and hold that uncertainty may be resolved by subsequent acts, conduct, declarations or agreements of the parties. Waites v. Miller, 244 Mich. 267 [221 N.W. 171] (1928), Band v. Hazel Park Development Co., 337 Mich. 626 [60 N.W.2d 333] (1953).

"2) The provision for future contingencies looks to subsequent agreement on details, absent which agreement, the law imposes suppletive terms of cash to be paid within a reasonable time. Duke v. Miller, 355 Mich. 540 543 [94 N.W.2d 819] (1959), Goldberg v. Mitchell, 318 Mich. 281, 285 [28 N.W.2d 118] (Opinion of Butzel, J.) (1947)

* * * * *

"4) The evidence shows that the parties interpreted the ambiguous phrase to require one party to communicate the existence of opportunities to purchase stock in the company to the other party who would then be privileged to purchase one-half of the amount offered for sale. This procedure was followed in all but two instances. The first involved the so-called Handyside transaction where Attwood knew of the offering and did not seek to participate possibly because he had no financial capacity since he had not yet repaid the loan made to purchase from Henderson. The second involved the Hannah transaction, July 15, 1958 which involved an insignificant number of shares, the purchase of which did not create any inequality of holding but had a tendency to equalize the existing holdings of the parties.

"5) Evidence of the conduct of the parties shows further that the agreement did not require the party discovering the purchase opportunity to acquire the stock with a resale of one-half the amount to the other party but only to communicate to the other party the opportunity for direct purchase of one-half the amount offered for sale. Such stock could be purchased either directly by such party or by someone designated by him.

"6) Evidence of the conduct of the parties shows that the parties meant by 50-50 equality of purchase, the maintenance of an equal ownership of stock by the parties and their designates characterized as the Chicago Group (Butler) and the Wayne Group (Attwood).

"7) The evidence further shows that the respective groups included employees, associates, subordinates or family members of the parties.

"8) The evidence shows that any stock offered for sale to either Butler or Attwood, irrespective of the source, and whether from a member of the Chicago Group or the Wayne Group, was subject to the 1944 agreement, unless that stock had previously been the subject of a purchase under the terms of the 1944 agreement.

"9) Therefore the Finzel offering which is the subject of this lawsuit, represents an opportunity to acquire stock which should have been communicated by Attwood to Butler in order to afford him the opportunity to purchase one-half of the offering.

"10) Therefore Attwood's conduct in refusing to afford Butler this opportunity constitutes a breach of the 1944 agreement.

"11) The equitable remedy of specific performance is available to Butler since the stock is closely held and is not available on the market and is therefore unique."

The District Judge expressed his view that the agreement that "any future purchases of stock shall be on a 50-50 basis between the two parties," is ambiguous. We entertain some doubt as to whether it can be said that this language is unclear, but such doubt in no way impairs our confidence in the validity of the trial judge's conclusion. It could be argued that the clause was without ambiguity. It was the product primarily of Attwood's desire that the holdings of himself and Butler should, by the transaction of December 4, 1944, be made equal and that such equality be continued. This purpose was clearly and completely expressed. The memorandum prepared by Attwood stated "Agreement is made * * * that any future purchases of stock shall be made on a 50-50 basis between the two parties." Such language was indeed completely expressive of the basic agreement upon which the minds of the contracting parties had met. Its deficiency, if any, resides in its failure to set out in minutiae the mechanics to be employed when occasion would arise to implement it. But enforcement will not be denied because of missing details. The parties themselves had no difficulty on the several occasions when they abided by and performed their mutual undertaking; there was no uncertainty as to how those transactions were to be carried out. All that was necessary was the acquisition from the seller of the involved stock certificates and the payment of the purchase price. Michigan announced its relevant rule in Waites v. Miller, 244 Mich. 267, 272, 221 N.W. 171, 173 (1928), as follows:

"Courts do not favor the destruction of contracts because of indefiniteness and hold that uncertainty may be removed by subsequent acts, conduct, declarations, or agreements of the parties." and that enforcement will not be denied where, "The missing details are of a nature which the court may properly fix and settle." 244 Mich. at 272, 221 N.W. at 173.

Appellees Attwood and Finzel argue, however, that a binding agreement did not come into being on December 5, 1944, because of the clause which followed the basic agreement, to wit: "and that at some future time an agreement for coverage of all contingencies will be drawn between all parties." We are not impressed that such clause was intended or could be read as qualifying or rendering conditional the clear, basic and mutual understanding that "any future purchases of stock shall be on a 50-50 basis." The use of the word "contingencies" was in no way indicative that the parties considered that they had failed to agree upon any term essential to a present contract. An uncomplicated definition of a "contingency" and one that fits here is "something that may or may not happen." Webster's Third New International Dictionary, 493. Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation v. Bullard, 313 Mass. 72, 77, 46 N.E.2d 557, 561, 146 A.L.R. 772, 779 (1943). Giving that meaning to "contingencies" we cannot view the clause in which it was employed as detracting from the completeness of the meeting of the minds of the parties or as imposing a condition on the binding force of the basic agreement.

Even if we regard the contingency clause as leaving undefined the mechanical details for performance, that does not except this case from the general powers of equity to provide means of carrying out a basic contract where there has been a failure to agree upon some non-essential term. Cf. Borg-Warner Corp. v. Anchor Coupling Co., 16 Ill. 2d 234, 156 N.E.2d 513 (1959); City of Los Angeles v. Superior Court, 51 Cal. 2d 423, 433, 333 P.2d 745, 750 (1959). We think that language of Professor Corbin is peculiarly apt in the context of this lawsuit; he says:

"Even though certain matters are expressly left to be agreed upon in the future, they may not be regarded by the parties as essential to their present agreement." 1 Corbin on Contracts, Sec. 29, p. 89, 90 (1963).

And again:

"The Court will be more ready to find that the apparently incomplete agreement was in fact complete and required the payment and acceptance of a 'reasonable' price or a performance on 'reasonable terms' in case the parties have already [as in this case] rendered some substantial performance or have taken other material action upon their existing expressions of agreement." 1 Corbin on Contracts, Sec. 29, p. 93

(1963), citing Morris v. Ballard, 56 App.D.C. 383, 16 F.2d 175 (1926), 49 A.L.R. 1461.

Such is the view of the Michigan courts. Waites v. Miller, 244 Mich. 267, 221 N.W. 171 (1928); Band v. Hazel Park Development Co., 337 Mich. 626, 628, 60 N.W.2d 333 (1953). We agree, therefore, with the District Judge that the law "imposes supplementary terms of cash to be paid within a reasonable time." Duke v. Miller, 355 Mich. 540, 543, 94 N.W.2d 819, 820 (1959); Goldberg v. Mitchell, 318 Mich. 281, 285, 28 N.W.2d 118 (1947). And we look upon his opinion as a fully supportive finding of fact that the parties here did not consider that any essential term was missing from the contract of December 5, 1944.

Attwood and Finzel finally support their claim that no agreement was accomplished by the memorandum of December 5, 1944, by referring to the fact that in 1944 and again in 1948 Butler proposed to Attwood that they enter into an agreement whereby in the future neither would sell any of his then holdings of Unistrut without first offering such shares to the other. Attwood declined to execute such contract. We do not look upon the foregoing as a failure of the parties to agree upon something that was in their minds when they made the contract in suit — there is no evidence that the making of such agreement was requisite to the binding force of the original contract, and it was in no sense a means of or necessary to performance thereof. The parties' own consistent obedience to the basic "50-50" contract after Attwood's rejection of Butler's two buy-and-sell proposals clearly portrays their awareness that Attwood rejection did not impair their original mutual undertaking.

We affirm the District Judge's holding that the December 5, 1944, memorandum created a binding contract, that defendant Attwood's 1964 contract with Finzel, coupled with his refusal to offer one-half of the Finzel shares to Butler, was a breach of the 1944 contract and that Butler is entitled to specific performance of such contract.

2. Can equity enforce consummation of the 1964 Attwood-Finzel contract?

The District Judge was of the view that since Finzel was not a party to the 1944 contract between Butler and Attwood, and "since Attwood did not enter into the contract [the 1964 Attwood-Finzel contract] as an agent or fiduciary of Butler, Finzel is not subject to the order of the court for specific performance." In view of his finding that the substantial equities were all on the side of Butler, we are satisfied that the denial of specific performance against Finzel was not an exercise of discretion or merely a withholding of equity's grace, but instead a conclusion that, as a matter of law, equity was powerless to bring Finzel within the reach of its decree. The chancellor, we decide, underestimated his authority.

The decree as entered merely provided that if Attwood should acquire any of Finzel's shares under the 1964 agreement or otherwise, he would have to afford Butler an opportunity to purchase half of them. In view of the claim of appellees, Attwood and Finzel, that the 1964 contract was mutually abandoned,

3 the decree as entered was an empty victory for Butler. Defendants Finzel offered no evidence and made no claim that they would be prejudiced by being required to perform their agreement with Attwood. Consummation of the sale would divest the Finzels of all ownership interest in Unistrut, and George J. O. Finzel who, with his wife, was the owner of 31,000 of the total 34,000 shares agreed to be sold to Attwood, testified that he had intended that, following completion of the sale, he would take at least a six months leave of absence and then retire from his long-held position as an executive of Unistrut. He testified that he had altered his position in such regard since the litigation started. Asked whether he knew of Attwood's agreement with Butler, he answered that he first "became aware of this so-called written agreement" after he had made his deal with Attwood, but conceded that he "had heard there was some agreement." We are satisfied that the Finzels' willingness to abandon the 1964 agreement and their vigorous resistance to the relief here sought by plaintiff, evidences a purpose to assist a breach of the Butler-Attwood contract.

4 It is not claimed that the Finzels would not have made their deal with Attwood had they been aware that Butler would acquire one-half of the shares they were selling. Their agreement with Attwood contained no limitation on his right of resale and indeed they expressly agreed to sell to Attwood or to "his nominee or nominees." Appellees' brief refers to the Attwood-Finzel contract as providing "for the possible purchase" by Attwood and on oral argument counsel talked of it being an "option." It was, rather, a binding agreement covering all details of performance, and at the commencement of the lawsuit Attwood had paid the required down payment of $10,000 and the Finzels had, in turn, endorsed in blank their shares of stock and delivered them to the National Bank of Detroit to be there held in escrow until the balance of the purchase price, $415,000, was paid. Prior to the date when such balance was due, this suit was commenced by Butler with tender to Attwood of the amount of the down payment and tender to the bank of the entire balance of the purchase price against delivery to Butler, at the option of Attwood and Finzel, of all or any part (not less than half) of the shares held in escrow. This tender has been kept good and an order of the District Court provides that pending this appeal, the 34,000 shares on deposit with the bank "shall not be removed from that Branch and their present deliverable state shall not be altered." The District Court's denominated Order Granting Supersedeas further provided that "The Finzel defendants will be retained as parties defendant for, and solely for, the purposes of the appeal taken by Plaintiff from a part of the judgment in this action * * *." Obedience to a decree of specific performance that will include the Finzels can, therefore, be easily accomplished.

Plaintiff plants his request for relief first upon the general principle that "equity considers that done which ought to be done," and second, that by the Attwood-Finzel contract of 1964, Attwood acquired a vested right to purchase the Finzels' shares and to the extent of one-half of those shares held such right as a constructive trustee for Butler, such shares becoming impressed with a constructive trust of which Butler is a beneficiary. Butler further contends that his beneficial rights could not be and were not destroyed by the claimed mutual abandonment of the Attwood-Finzel contract. We hold that Butler is entitled to the relief sought.

In so holding we need not make precise selection of which of the many instruments of equity's power we employ. Certainly under the factual findings of the District Judge, Butler ought to be permitted to have done what was needed to be done to protect his legal and equitable rights, provided of course that rights of others of equal stature will not thereby be impaired. We have pointed out that no rights of the Finzels will be so impaired. Resistance to extending the remedy to the Finzels is made first by claiming that the Butler-Attwood 50-50 contract of 1944 is not enforceable. We have already discussed and found invalid this claim. An alternate position of the Finzels who, in their address to us, do not speak separately from the Attwoods, is that no res came into being upon which a constructive trust could be impressed. We consider that the right of Attwood to acquire and the obligation of the Finzels to sell the involved shares created a res upon which to impose a trust for Butler's benefit.

We need not attempt embellishment of the literature of equity by our own expatiation on its high purpose and broad reach. We have repeated the familiar tenet that equity considers that done which ought to be done. Candler v. Donaldson, 272 F.2d 374, 377 (CA 6, 1959). Judge Talbot Smith of the United States District Court of Michigan, and speaking then for the Supreme Court of Michigan as an Associate Justice thereof, in Kent v. Klein, 352 Mich. 652, 91 N.W.2d 11 (1958) well articulated this principle. In that case, Michigan chose a constructive trust as the means of doing equity when a daughter became her mother's grantee to a piece of land which the mother had intended should be held for a mentally deficient son. The daughter had no part in the arrangements which prompted the mother to deed the land to her and refused to carry out the agreement that had been made between the mother and another son in vesting the title in the daughter. She resisted a suit brought to carry out the mother's intention. While the facts of the case do not precisely fit our own, Justice Smith's observations are pertinent here. After repeating the equity rule that "equity * * * regards that as seen which ought to be seen, and, having so seen, as done that which ought to be done" he spoke of the doctrine of constructive trust as follows:

"What is overlooked in all of this is the fact that the constructive trust is not a trust at all, any more than a quasi-contract is a contract. See 4 Scott on the Law of Trusts, § 462.1 Both are remedial devices. This constructive trust, as it was put by Mr. Justice Cardozo, 'is the formula through which the conscience of equity finds expression. * * *'" 352 Mich. at 656, 91 N.W.2d at 14. (Emphasis supplied.)

In the case at bar it will conform to equity to hold that to the extent of one-half thereof, Attwood acquired the right to buy Finzel's shares as constructive trustee for Butler and we observe no impediment to employing as a remedial device a decree which will direct the carrying out of the Attwood-Finzel contract, thereby to fulfill the constructive trust. Dealing further with the subject, Justice Smith quoted from Weir v. Union Trust Co., 188 Mich. 452, 463, 154 N.W. 357, 360:

"Such trusts [constructive] are also known as trusts ex maleficio or ex delicto, or involuntary trusts, and their forms and varieties are practically without limit, being raised by courts of equity whenever it becomes necessary to prevent a failure of justice." 352 Mich. at 658, 91 N.W.2d at 14.

Such doctrine was reiterated in Digby v. Thorson, 319 Mich. 524, 539, 30 N.W.2d 266, 272 (1948).

We are at once aware that after Attwood and the Finzels made their contract on March 13, 1964, and before final consummation, they were, except for equity's intrusion, at liberty to mutually cancel it. Indeed they would be free after a consummation to restore the pre-contract status quo. But we consider that plaintiff Butler at the inception of the binding contract became a beneficiary thereof and his rights as such were placed and remained in the chancellor's hands. Suit was started while the contract was still executory and in force. Equity may identify Attwood in the Attwood-Finzel contract as a trustee for Butler to the extent of one-half of the shares, or consider Butler included in the words "or his nominee" which followed Attwood's name. We think that the District Judge's finding that "Attwood did not enter into the contract as * * * fiduciary of Butler" is a conclusion of law inconsistent with his findings of fact.

Counsel's and our own research has produced little decisional law fitting nicely into the facts of the case before us. This however, should not forbid our fashioning an effective "remedial device" if it can be done without offense to the general rules of equity. Pomeroy supports a view that Butler acquired an enforceable interest in the Attwood-Finzel contract; after reciting the principle that equity "imputes an intention to fulfill an obligation," the author goes on to say:

"The principle is applied in those cases where a court of equity is called upon to determine whether an equitable estate or interest in certain subject matter belongs to A, in pursuance of an obligation which rested upon B, although B, in acquiring the subject matter, has not expressed or indicated in any manner an intention on his part of performing such an obligation; that is, he did not acquire the subject matter for the avowed purpose of fulfilling this duty.

"Notwithstanding the absence of such an avowed intention, a court of equity may proceed upon the presumption that B did intend to perform his duty; may hold that the subject matter was acquired with that design, and that in consequence of such purpose an equitable estate in it belongs to A." 2 Pomeroy's Equity Jurisprudence, p. 182 (1941)

Appellees refer us to no authority directly or indirectly forbidding the remedial device we order. Appellants cite Opdyke v. Kent Liquor Mart, Inc., 181 A.2d 579 (Del.1962); Veranth v. Moravitz, 205 Minn. 24, 284 N.W. 849 (1939); and Harmer v. Armstrong, 1 Ch. 65 (Court of Appeals of England, 1934), as authority for the proposition that the beneficiary of a constructive trust may assert his rights thereunder against a third party, a stranger to the antecedent arrangement which brought about the trust, but a party to the later contract upon which the trust was imposed. The cited cases generally support such contention, but we content ourselves with discussion of the English case, Harmer v. Armstrong. In that case, three persons, Harmer, King and Armstrong, agreed to attempt purchase of a business owned by Vallancey Press, Ltd. Armstrong was to negotiate for it and succeeded in coming to an agreement of purchase, which he made in his own name. Thereafter, and because of dissatisfaction with the terms of an attempted arrangement between himself and his associates for his employment as manager of the enterprise, Armstrong repudiated the plan to have Harmer and King included in the purchase, and asked Vallancey Press, Ltd. to release him from the contract of purchase. Before such release was accomplished, "the writ in this action was issued." (This refers to an action by Harmer and King against Armstrong and Vallancey Press, Ltd., for specific performance of the purchase agreement that Armstrong had made with Vallancey). Shortly thereafter, Vallancey released Armstrong and made a new sale to one Sumner who was then aware of the claims of Harmer and King. Thus, this English case presented the question of whether specific performance could be decreed against a third party, Vallancey Press, Ltd., a stranger to the antecedent contract out of which the plaintiffs' rights arose. As in the case at bar, the trial chancellor found the equities in favor of the plaintiffs, but for various reasons considered that, in the action before him, specific performance could not be decreed against Vallancey or its new purchaser, Sumner. The Court of Appeals reversed, and we quote relevant observations of its judges:

"Whenever a party under a contract, at the date when he enters into it is (or thereafter constitutes himself) a trustee for a third party that party has a right conferred upon him by way of property to sue on the contract whether the contract be under seal or not and can, according to well settled principles, enforce that right in equity, joining the trustee as a defendant to the action." 1 Ch. at 88.

* * * * *

"The learned judge, having heard the evidence, has come to the clear conclusion that there was a trust and that the trustee had committed a breach of trust in not enforcing the contract. In these circumstances, I think that the present case is plainly one in which the Court ought to act on the equitable rule and decree specific performance of the contract." 1 Ch. at 89.

After disposing of a technical question, Lord Hanworth concluded:

"* * * we ought to say that in all the circumstances of the case we are prepared, as all the parties are before the court, to give the remedy to which they would ultimately become entitled after greater expenditure and greater delay, namely, specific performance of the contract — the contract in which the defendant Armstrong will share together with the plaintiffs.

"In those circumstances we shall allow the appeal, discharge the order made as to an enquiry as to damages, declare the rights of the plaintiffs, and make an order for specific performance." 1 Ch. at 85.

This English decision is, of course, not binding on us but we find ourselves in agreement with the practicability of its use of equity's power. In the case at bar, all parties are before the Court, and the shares of stock and the money to pay for them are available, so that the District Judge has all of the materials from which to fashion the needed "remedial device". We hold that plaintiff is entitled to enforcement for his benefit of the Attwood-Finzel contract to the extent necessary to specific performance of his 1944 contract with Attwood and that the decree therefor should include the appellees Finzel within its command.

We affirm the Judgment of the District Court in all respects except in its dismissal of the Finzels and its denial of specific performance as to them. The cause is remanded to the District Court for further proceedings consistent herewith.

1 Charles W. Attwood died during the pendency of the cause and James W. Attwood and Warren Russell Attwood, co-executors of his will, were substituted for him as defendants

2 Butler did not seek damages against Attwood for breach of contract, presumably because damages could not be adequately measured

3 During the pendency of the litigation in the District Court Attwood and the Finzels entered into successive agreements extending the time of performance of their 1964 contract to a date beyond the judgment of the District Judge, but presumably made no extensions thereafter

4 Defendants Attwood and Finzel have been represented throughout this litigation by the same counsel, one of whom is and has been a director of Unistrut

Notes for Otto Sorg Schairer:

In the March 28, 1931, issue of the Michigan Alumnus, a magazine published by the alumni association of the University of Michigan, on a special page called "Who's Who in the Alumni University" appeared a brief sketch of Otto S. Schairer, brother of Misses Bertha Schairer of Saline and Eva Schairer of North Dakota, and A. M. Schairer of West Point, Nebraska.

Mr. Schairer was a graduate of the local high school and entered the University of Michigan in 1897. His rise upon graduation was rapid as disclosed in the following which is quoted from the Alumnus:

"Otto S. Schairer, '01, '02e, joined the Westinghouse Company after receiving his engineering degree as a graduate student, and a year later became a member of the Westinghouse Patent Department. Since that time he has specialized in patent law, being admitted to the bar of Pennsylvania in 1912. In 1919 he was appointed Director of Patent Development; of the Westinghouse concern and in 1926 was made manager of the patent department. The Radio Corporation of America secured Mr. Schairer's services in 1929 and his rise with them has been rapid. Beginning as Director of Patent Development, he was named Vice-President in charge of the Patent Department by the board of Directors in March 1930. Mr. Schairer was born at Saline, Michigan, and Mrs. Schairer was Elizabeth B. Swift, '00."

Notes for George Swift Schairer:

Newport News, Virginia, Feb. 22, 1959 - George S. Schairer, director of research for Boeing Airplane Company, will discuss "A Designer's Look at the STOL (Short Take - Off and Landing)" before members of the Hampton Roads Section, Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences, at 8 Wednesday night in the East Area Administration Building, National Aeronautics and Space Administration Langley Research Center. Schairer received the IAS's Sylvanus Albert Reed Award in 1949 "for his analytical and experimental work contributing to the design and development of large, swept winged, high-speed aircraft." In 1951, he was elected a fellow in the IAS. Swarthmore College conferred upon Schairer an honorary doctor engineering degree last year the American Society of Mechanical Engineers named him to its Spirit of St. Louis Medal.

A former member of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics committee on aerodynamics, he presently belongs to the U. S. Air Force Scientific Advisory Board and the steering group of the Department of Defense Advisory Panel on Aeronautics. Schairer has been directly involved in the aerodynamic design and development of all Boeing airplanes since 1939. These include the 307 Stratoliner the B-17 Flying Fortress, the B-29 Superfortress, the B-50, the XPBB-1 Sea Ranger and the XF8B-1. More recently, he helped develop the C-97 Stratofreighter, the 377 Stratocruiser, the B-47 Stratojet, the B-52 Stratofortress, the 707 Jet Stratoliner and the KC-135 Stratotanker.

A native of Wilksburg, Pennsylvania, Schairer received a bachelor's degree in general engineering at Swarthmore in 1934. He received a master's degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology a year later and joined the Bendix Production Corp. at South Bend, Ind. From 1937 to 1939. he was in charge of wind tunnel testing at Consolidated Aircraft, now Convair, at San Diego, California. Schairer began work at Boeing as head of the aerodynamics unit in 1939. He became staff engineer for aerodynamics and power plant in 1943 and chief of the technical staff in 1951, was promoted to assistant chief engineer in 1956 and was named director of research in 1957.

Chicago, Dec. 15, 2004 - George S. Schairer, an aerodynamics expert at Boeing whose design innovations became standard on virtually all types of military and passenger jet planes, has died in Kirkland, Washington. He was 91. Mr. Schairer died Oct. 28 of Alzheimer's disease, according to a son, George E. Schairer. Toward the end of World War II, Mr. Schairer was part of a team of scientists rummaging through technical data at German research sites vacated by retreating troops. He found test results supporting the usefulness of a wing design that had recently been considered at Boeing, where he was chief of aerodynamics. Upon returning from Germany, Mr. Schairer led Boeing's engineers in designing large planes with wings angled back about 35 degrees, rather than extending straight out from the body of the plane. Such swept wings, considered odd at the time, prevented the development of shock waves that imperiled newly available jet planes as they approached the speed of sound. The first large swept-wing jet, the B-47 Stratojet, had a top speed of 600 m.p.h., about 200 m.p.h. faster than anything Boeing had built before World War II. The B-52, an even larger bomber, soon followed. By 1958, Boeing had introduced the 707, the first passenger jet. Mr. Schairer and his engineers also placed jet engines in pods beneath the wings, a now common arrangement that helps prevent engines from overheating. He joined Boeing as aerodynamics chief in 1939 and helped develop the 307 Stratoliner, the first plane to maintain normal air pressure throughout its confines, as well as two bombers widely used by the Allied Forces during World War II: the B-17, called the Flying Fortress; and the B-29 Superfortress. He retired as corporate vice president for research in 1978. Survivors also include his wife, Pauline, and two daughters.

Robert E. Staebler, 55, president of the Kalamazoo Paper Box Co., was found shot to death in the basement of his company's plant late today June 10, 1933 by his son, Richard. Dr. R. G. Relatives were quoted as saying that financial worries coupled with the extreme heat of the last week might have caused the act. Staebler, for many years a leader in business, civic and church circles here, was born in Ann Arbor. He was' a former member of the Kalamazoo school board.

The hostesses are Mrs. Leo F. Wolcott, Mrs. W. T. Duncan and Mrs. C. S. Kerr. Setting for the bridal party will be the Wolcott home at 3143 Wheeling Street, where Spring flowers will decorate the rooms. The lovely honoree will receive a linen gift shower. Miss Schairer and her twin sister, Miss Deltah Loue Schairer, will greet guests wearing identical frocks of silk in Spring print design. A George Washington theme will be featured in table appointments and decor. The buffet table, spread Larry with lace will be centered by red, white and blue flowers. Assisting with the courtesy will be Mrs. Jack McNutt, daughter of last Mrs. Duncan; Mrs. E. J. Treat of Artesia, N. M., daughter of Mrs. Kerr, and Mrs. Henry Weiss of Maryville, Mo., daughter of Mrs. Wolcott. Mrs. Weiss and her two young sons are guests in the Wolcott home at present. Red and white carnations were placed throughout the reception rooms for the occasion. Two large red satin hearts encircled with flowers framed photographs of the affianced couple, to form an unusual centerpiece for the tea table. He married (2) Henrietta Winkler 04 Aug 1974 in Kansas City, Missouri. She was born 20 Mar 1926.

Notes for David Kingsley Dalke:

David Kingsley Dalke, 84, died surrounded by his family, on December 18, 2014. Born in Battle Creek, Michigan, to Paul and Sarah Dalke, David was an iconic individual. The single event that would define so much of his life was joining the United States Navy, at age 17. He served for 20 years on submarines, and was privileged to serve on the initial crew as a sonar man on the first U.S. ballistic missile submarine, the U.S.S. George Washington. He served as Chief of the Boat of the U.S.S. Grenadier, and of the six boats on which he served, he earned the title of "Plank Owner" on two. His travels and adventures in the Navy and on water instilled a love of both in David. The sea remained a passion throughout his life.

After retiring from the Navy, he earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Industrial Arts from the University of Missouri, Columbia. After many years as a shop teacher, he began a third career teaching Jr. high school, with specialties in math and remedial reading. While he was earning his Master's degree in Education from the University of Missouri, he met his second wife, Henrietta Nemitoff, who was also earning a Master's degree in Nursing Education. They married and moved to Miami, Florida.

After 17 years in the Miami-Dade school system, he retired and moved with Henrietta to Niceville, FL, and later they built their dream home in Viera, Florida. In their retirement, they traveled extensively, including two around-the-world cruises, and visited more than three dozen countries. His hobbies including sailing (his boats included "The Suzy" and "The Shayne Lady"), kite-flying, shell collecting, and creating driftwood sculptures. In 1978, David and Henri discovered and bought a piece of Sanibel Island. They returned twice a year, each and every year for 36 years, sharing that slip of paradise with their children, grandchildren, and friends. He was involved in the U.S. Submarine Veterans (Snub Harbor Base), and a member of the Holland Club. He was a Past Master of Oleeta-West Dade Masonic Lodge, a 32nd Degree in Scottish Rite, and was a Shriner.

David is survived by his wife, Henrietta Dalke; his daughter, Susan (and Paul) Stevens; his step-children, Tobi (and Ralph) Rettig, Rabbi Arthur (and Leslie) Nemitoff, Rita (and Ron Schonwetter), and Ethel (and George) Walsh.; his siblings, Arthur (and Sue) Dalke, Dorothy Myers, and Martha Lee Hindman. In addition, 11 grandchildren called him Zayde: Jacob Eichenbaum, Nathan Crews, Miriam (and Adam) Gold, Sara (and Oded) Shainin, Rachel Schonwetter, Elana Nemitoff, William Nemitoff, Jonathan Schonwetter, and Taylor Stevens.

Funeral services will be 1:00pm Sunday, December 21, at The Louis Memorial Chapel with burial to follow in Rose Hill Cemetery. His family and friends will gather to say farewell to an unforgettable character. As he was remembered, an echo of David's favorite saying was heard, "I am a curmudgeon, but my wife is nice."

Marian Louise Allmendinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Allmendinger, Ann Arbor, and Robert Christian Zwinck of Fowlerville were married at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 28, 1941, in the parish hall of Zion Lutheran Church, Ann Arbor, by the Reverend Ernest C. Stellhorn. A cousin of the bride, Mrs. Edwin Walters of Dearborn, played the wedding marches. The couple stood in front of the fireplace, at either side of which baskets of white gladioli, delphinium, and gypsophila were used with huckleberry foliage and tall candelabra with white candies. The Golden Cross of the church was on the center of the mantle. An heirloom French veil of the bridegroom's family was worn by Miss Allmendinger, with a beige crepe costume suit and beige and white accessories. White orchids and stephanotis formed her corsage. The bride's sister, Doris, as maid of honor, wore a softly-tailored sheer dress of green crepe, with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses and gypsophila. Robert Ohlsson of Highland Park acted as best man. Mr. Ohlsson has been the roommate of the bridegroom for the past five years while they attended the University. Miss Allmendinger was also a student at the University of Michigan. The bride's mother, Mrs. Allmendinger, wore a navy-blue chiffon dress with a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Zwinck wore a powder blue sheer dress with a corsage of pink roses.

A reception was held following the double ring ceremony. Phyllis Rye and Marilyn Mahlke, friends of the bride, served. The rehearsal dinner was given at the Corner House. Many showers and luncheons were given the bride during the preceding two weeks. Guests from away were Mrs. Norman Nelson, Flint; Mrs. Victor Allmendinger, Owosso; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Allmendinger and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allerton, with their son, Robert, of Detroit; and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Zwinck and their daughter, Janet Marie, of New York City. Notes for Kathleen Cheryl Muehlig:

KATHLEEN "KATHY" (MUEHLIG) CRAMER of Ypsilanti, Michigan, age 66, died on July 9, 2013, from complications of multiple sclerosis. She is survived by her husband, Don Cramer, and her cousins, Carol Muehlig of Ann Arbor and Linda Muehlig, of Northampton, Massachusetts. She was preceded in death by her mother, Adelyn "Fay" Muehlig, and father, Erwin Muehlig.

Kathie graduated from Ann Arbor High School and attended the University of Michigan (1964-68), where she studied languages and engineering, and Washtenaw Community College (1968-70), where she studied languages and mathematics. She graduated from Eastern Michigan University with a BBA in business computing in 1979. At Eastern, she first worked at the school library, and in 1983, began working in the University Computing department in financial aid and then in student systems. When she was diagnosed with MS in 1993, she continued to work at the university and then from home, until her retirement in 2005.

Don and Kathie first met in 1967 and discovered their mutual interests in computers, motorcycles, theater, and cats. They became engaged in 1969 and were married on July 11, 1970 at the First Congregational Church in Ypsilanti, departing after the reception on a motorcycle, with Kathie wearing her wedding veil. In the 1970s, they often joined the Michigan Cycle Conservation Club for trail rides.

Kathie was a hobbyist in the fiber arts. Knitting (and shopping at yarn stores) was her favorite, with rug-hooking being a close second. She also did some spinning, weaving, macrame and bobbin lace. Kathie played Dungeons and Dragons, and later became an avid online "gamer" in multi-player adventure/fantasy games, interests that she eagerly pursued for almost three decades. Don and Kathie enjoyed trips to Seattle, Charleston, South Carolina, and a trip to London and the Isle of Man, but their favorite trip was a Smithsonian cruise on the Alaskan inside passage, a late celebration of their 20th anniversary. In 1998, they custom-designed and built their timber-framed home in Ypsilanti with accessibility features to accommodate Kathie and her mobility scooter. Kathie didn't allow MS to discourage her in any way. A memorial service will be held in late July at the Muehlig funeral chapel in Ann Arbor.

Science degree in chemical engineering. After graduation in 1941, he worked for Dupont for five years conducting research on explosives to be used during World War II. During that time he met Fair, his wife of 60 years. At the end of the war, he returned to Michigan to work for Unistrut Corporation, founded originally by his father in 1926. He started as superintendent of production and became president in 1964. As a long time Wayne resident, he participated in many community activities. He was instrumental in transforming the Village of Wayne into the City of Wayne. He was a director of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority and chairman of the City Charter Commission. He served as councilman for four years and as the city's mayor from 1962 to 1966. He was a powerful force in establishing a vision for the future of the city and was respected by all those who worked with him.

He was an active member of the First Congregational Church of Wayne, and served as the chairman of it's building commission, overseeing the renovation and reconstruction of the sanctuary. Under his guidance, Unistrut grew to become an Internationally known company with a wide variety of building products distributed throughout the United States and overseas. In 1974, Unistrut Corporation merged with GTE Corporation (now Verizon Communications). At this time he retired and formed GeoBlonics Corporation, for the purpose of conducting independent scientific research. His work led him to an association with Olivet College where he taught a course in bio-magnetics and served on the board of trustees. His private research continued with vigor in spite of the debilitating affect of Parkinson's disease, which took his life after a 20 year struggle. He is survived by Fair, his wife of 60 years, three sons, Joe, Mark and Paul and four grandchildren, Kira, Brandon, John and Mark. Arrangements by Harry J. Will Funeral Home, Wayne, Michigan.

Notes for Eleanor Fair Howell:

Eleanor Fair Attwood, 89, of Bonita Springs, Florida died peacefully on February 28, 2006. She was born in Easton, Pennsylvania on November 8, 1916. Her father was a Presbyterian minister, and her mother sang in the choir. She graduated from Rider College with a B.A. in English and accepted a job at IBM in Wilmington, Delaware where she excelled as an executive secretary. While there, she met Jim, her husband of 60 years. After World War II, they moved to Wayne, Michigan where they raised three boys. Fair and her husband were very active in the First Congregational Church of Wayne and many community groups.

After Jim's retirement from Unistrut Corporation, they moved to Bonita Springs, Florida where she was his loving and caring companion. Her unrelenting optimism and personal sacrifice enabled Jim to battle the debilitating effects of Parkinson's disease for 22 years. Because of her efforts, he experienced a quality of life that is rarely possible for someone with such an affliction. Through the difficult times, Fair provided her husband and family with spiritual strength, courage, and determination to overcome adversity and ensure a bright tomorrow. She also was the spark which ignited joy in those around her and made the good times much better. Fair was a wonderful mother, a friend to many, and an inspiration to those who knew her. She will be remembered as an extraordinary individual.

Fair is now reunited with her husband, Jim. She is survived by four grandchildren: Kira, John, Brandon and Mark; and her three sons, Joe (Judy) of Minnetonka, Minnesota, Mark (BJ) of Richmond, Virginia, and Paul (Kandra) of Bonita Springs, Florida who consider themselves very fortunate to have had such a wonderful mother.

Daniel Frederick<sup>10</sup> Neiswender (Alice Mattie<sup>9</sup> Reimold, Louise Henriette<sup>8</sup> Schairer, Christiana Magdalena<sup>7</sup> Ruehle, Eva Magdalena<sup>6</sup> Allmendinger, Georg David<sup>5</sup>, Samson<sup>4</sup>, Paul<sup>3</sup>, Michael<sup>2</sup>, Georg<sup>1</sup>) was born 12 Jan 1930 in South Bend, St. Joseph Co, Indiana, and died 14 May 2006 in Mandeville, St. Tammany Co, Louisiana. He married Barbara Ann Hodgins. She was born 02 Dec 1930 in South Bend, St. Joseph Co, Indiana, and died 26 Nov 2015.

Notes for Barbara Ann Hodgins:

Barbara Pate lost her battle with Alzheimer's disease on November 26, 2015 at the age of 84. Barbara was born in South Bend, Indiana, on December 2, 1930. She was preceded in death by her her parents, Minnie Bell Nicholson Hodgins and William Leroy Hodgins; and her sisters, Myra Flowers and Coral Hacker; her first husband, Daniel Neiswender; and her second husband, Sidney K. Pate. She is survived by one sister, Lois Hedrick; and daughter, Emily Neiswender Mosley, son-in-law, Thomas Mosley, and her beloved grandson, Matthew, of Ridgeland, Mississippi.

Barbara had an idyllic childhood, especially after her father, returning from military service, moved the family to a farm in a small village called Puddletown in rural Indiana. This is no doubt where she developed her love of nature. As a teen, she attended Studebaker High and graduated Summa Cum Laude. In 1950, she married Dan Neiswender and the couple moved to Bloomington where she worked as the secretary for the head of the art department at Indiana University. The couple then moved to New Orleans, Louisiana and in 1960, welcomed their only child. Barbara worked as a secretary at the Delgado Museum, which later became known as the New Orleans Museum of Art. During her tenure, she advanced to the position of Assistant Director for Development at NOMA. She was highly successful in acquiring grants and raising funds and was instrumental in procuring exhibits such as The Treasures of Tutankhamun, the Febergé Collection, many permanent art acquisitions, and major building expansions. She fully embraced the life and culture of New Orleans, attended St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and loved raising her daughter, while being able to travel the world for her work.

In 1983, she married Sidney K. Pate. The couple had a rich life full of family and friends. They enjoyed traveling, and a cruise to England on the Queen Elizabeth II to visit her mother's homeland was a highlight. Barbara retired from NOMA in 1988 after a very fulfilling 30-year career, and the Pates moved to their property in Covington, Louisiana. There, Barbara was able to reconnect with her love of nature by gardening, canoeing and tending to the property. Indoor loves included cooking, especially her homegrown vegetables, needlework, and reading and was a member of several book clubs. The couple attended Christ Episcopal Church where Barbara helped in the office and was involved with many volunteer projects. In 1993, they welcomed the birth of their only grandchild, Matthew, the true love of her life.

After Sidney's death in 2010, Barbara moved to Ridgeland, Mississippi to live with her daughter who cared for her with Alzheimer's disease. Barbara was respected and loved by co-workers and had many life-long friends who appreciated her generosity, warmth and wit. She was a loving and devoted wife, mother, and grandmother. She will be greatly missed by her family.

Allmendinger teaches both Introduction to Earth Sciences and more advanced courses in structural geology at Cornell University. He is widely recognized as an educator in his discipline thanks to numerous short courses he has taught over the years as well as the lecture notes, on-line demos, and teaching software available on his web page. Notes for Dr. Stanley R. (Stan) Bushouse:

Coldwater - Dr. Stanley R Bushouse of Coldwater passed away on Thanksgiving Day, November 26, 2020, with his wife and five children by his side at Ascension Borgess Hospital. Stan was born in Kalamazoo, Michigan on November 17, 1940, the eldest son of Robert and Florence Bushouse. He grew up in Kalamazoo and graduated from Kalamazoo Central High School in 1958. He then went onto Western Michigan University, earning degrees of a Bachelor of Science in 1964, Master of Arts in 1969, and Doctorate of Education in 1976. He started his teaching career in Burr Oak in 1962 and then taught physics at Coldwater High School for ten years. After two years of serving as Principal at Bloomingdale High School, he then spent 17 years as Principal at Coldwater High School. Stan completed his career as Director of Curriculum and Technology for Coldwater Community Schools. In 1989 he was named Outstanding Principal of the Year by the Michigan Association of Secondary School Principals. Stan was a reflective, passionate, and innovative visionary who made a profound impact on education, his colleagues, and his students. Stan served his community for more than 30 years on the Branch County Board of Mental Health (Pines Behavioral Health).

He was a basketball coach and supported the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts in different capacities for many years. Throughout his life, he was a participant and supporter of the arts. He was a long-time volunteer for the Tibbits Theater, most recently involved as the Co-Chair of Kids' Art Rocks. This year, he served as one of the Honorary Co-Chairs of the 100th Anniversary Campaign for the Kalamazoo Symphony Orchestra. Stan and Judy were high school sweethearts and married November 30, 1963. Their marriage of 57 years was a true partnership. Together, they loved traveling and had visited 49 states (Alaska was next). Their travels ranged from spending eight weeks exploring Europe as a young married couple, to tent camping as a family of seven across the country, to touring South Africa together. Their journeys always included visits with family and friends along the way. Stan had a niche for finding the most unique, excellent restaurants. As much as they loved their travels, his favorite place was their home of 51 years on Randall Lake where they spent time with family and friends on the boat or around the campfire, hosting gatherings and even a wedding. As a father, family always came first. Stan was loving, encouraging, reliable, and had exceptional patience, guiding his children in finding the right answers. They knew he would always be there for them, supporting in challenging times and rejoicing in accomplishments. He was so proud of his five kids and 12 grandchildren, never missing any of the countless field trips, sporting events, piano and dance recitals, band concerts, and ice skating events.

Stan was preceded in death by his parents. He is survived by his wife of 57 years, Judy Staebler Bushouse; his children: Kristen Crandle of Portage, Wendy VanStone of Fort Wayne, Indiana, Steven Bushouse of Coldwater, Karen (Greg) Grogan of Westfield, Indiana, and Deborah (Jerry) Thenen of Marshall; his siblings: "Susie" Ann (Ken) Clark of Kalamazoo and Gary (Lyn) Bushouse of San Juan Capistrano, California; his 12 grandchildren: Austin, Mady, and Mallory Crandle, Jenna and Carter VanStone, Jacob, Hannah, and Grant Grogan, Xander, Luka, Garrett, and Leta Thenen; and numerous nieces, nephews, and cousins.

An in-person memorial service will be delayed until next summer or until it is safe to gather. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be given in his name to Tibbits Opera Foundation, Kalamazoo Symphony Orchestra, or the Branch County Community Foundation. Lighthouse Funeral & Cremation Services.

Notes for James Edward Staebler:

James (Jim) Staebler passed away Jan. 27, 2022 at his home in Lovell, Wyoming at the age of 77. He was born 1944 in Kalamazoo, Michigan to Dorothy and Richard Staebler, a birthday present for Richard. He enjoyed many wonderful times in his treasured home and neighborhood. Childhood trips with his family, including a trip to California with a tour led by an engaging guide, inspired a passion for nature, the outdoors, and the stories and history behind the many natural and manmade sights that captivated him. Jim graduated from Culver Military Academy and attended DePauw University before serving in the army as a 1st lieutenant in Vietnam. Upon his return Jim pursued his interest in the great outdoors and graduated from Western Michigan University in the field of geology. Jim enjoyed a lifelong career as an interpretive park ranger for the National Park Service working at Joshua Tree, Grand Canyon, Dinosaur National Monument, Zion National Park, and Bighorn National Recreation Area. Zion was a beloved area that he explored extensively, covering countless miles on backpacking trips and guiding hikes for the public and friends and family. He had a passion for connecting people to the beauty and history of the national parks and loved leading ranger hikes and giving slide-show presentations. In 1983 he transferred to Bighorn Canyon to raise a family there. He thoroughly enjoyed hikes, boat trips, and in particular two flights over the Bighorn Canyon while also exploring many other beautiful areas throughout Wyoming and Montana with family outings and camping trips. Guiding school field trips and giving class room presentations was another highlight of Jim's career and he particularly treasured a week-long Yellowstone expedition with Cody 6th graders and his daughter. Jim also enjoyed the arts, classical music, and the heritage of the Kalamazoo Symphony Orchestra, founded by his grandmother Leta Snow. Visiting historic sites in areas like Washington DC and throughout Europe further drove his appreciation of history and the many sight-seeing opportunities out there. He was grateful to have visited 49 states and had hoped to get to Alaska and to de-plane and step foot on and explore more of Hawaii.

Jim was preceded in death by his parents, siblings Richard (Jean) Staebler, Dorothy Jean (Charles) Williams, and brother-in-law, Stan Bushouse. He is survived by his sister, Judy Bushouse, three children

Kristine (Benjamin), James, and Gary, and his four grandchildren.

Services will be finalized at a later date. In lieu of flowers a donation to a charity of your choice may be made. Haskell Funeral Home, Lovell Wyoming.

She married G. Clay Hollister 1967. He was born 1942 in New York.

Notes for G. Clay Hollister:

Jaffrey — As the rain pitter-pattered on the deck of Clay Hollister's 134-year-old home Wednesday morning, he tried in short time to recount the colorful stories of his past, highlighting memories featuring the likes of Martin Scorsese, Richard Nixon and friends of Sesame Street. To say Hollister, 74, has lived an extraordinary life is an understatement; his rich past could fill volumes on the wooden bookshelves of his stately home, where he has a sweeping view of Mount Monadnock.

"We fell in love with it the second we saw it," Hollister said of the place he and his wife, Caroline Hollister, have called home since 2001. "It needed new plumbing, new electric, and a new roof at the time. ... It sits on just 3.6 acres, but who cares." It's the only house built in the town at an elevation of 2,200 feet, with the majestic mountain, which crests at 3,165 feet, in its backdrop. The Hollisters retired in Caroline's hometown of Jaffrey roughly 15 years ago, but remain active in the Monadnock Region. The two were college sweethearts who once traveled the world together — and then some.

Clay Hollister, the son of a U.S. Navy man, was born in New York City and grew up in Greenwich, Connecticut. He went on to study English at Duke University in North Carolina, where he met Caroline, a beautiful young actress with whom he was in the university's drama society. "Meeting her was a game changer," he said with a smile. The two married in 1967, just six months before Hollister deployed to Vietnam. He landed there in February 1968 on the heels of one of the largest military campaigns of the war, the Tet Offensive, and served a total of 14 months as a cameraman, forever preserving an infantry's operations.

Hollister received his draft notice while studying film at New York University Tisch School of the Arts.

He enrolled at the university after returning from Nigeria as a U.S. Peace Corps volunteer. In Nigeria, he developed an interest in educational films, which he used as a teaching tool in his English classes in the early 1960s. "It was very challenging for a kid from Greenwich to be pushed into the bush of Nigeria, but it was also a phenomenal experience," Hollister said of his volunteer work abroad. When he returned home to America, he realized he wanted to make films like the ones his students valued, and believed film school was a gateway to realizing that dream. Hollister, though, completed only the first year of the two-year program before he was drafted into military service. But the stories from his film school days live on, including the one about his now-famous classmate Martin Scorsese. Hollister recalled that Scorsese — whose work as a director, producer, actor and screenwriter spans more than four decades — excelled at a young age. Students were required to produce a three-minute short film for class, and Hollister said Scorsese's was "terrific." "I don't remember the topic, but I'm sure he was given an 'A.' He received all kinds of applause." Hollister isn't an Oscar or Golden Globe winner, but he did leave his mark on the film industry before a lengthy career in U.S. government.

One of his early gigs was for The November Group, which served as Richard Nixon's private advertising agency during the 1972 presidential campaign. That group of skilled advertisers and producers was a wing of the Committee for the Re-election of the President. The job worked out well at first, but then Nixon's second term quickly unraveled in the Watergate scandal, Hollister said. The dominoes fell with the June 1972 break-in at the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee at the Watergate office complex. And so did the credibility of those employed with The November Group. "I knew a lot of people in the industry, but they were reluctant, if not somewhat hostile, to work with us," he said.

Hollister struggled to find work, but he had a family to support, including newborn daughter, Gambrill, and so he couldn't give up. On a bit of a whim, he decided to accept a job offer in 1974 at the International College, a secondary school founded in Beirut, Lebanon. The college's president wanted to partner with one of the television stations in Beirut to provide educational programming like that offered in America. At that time the Middle East was "booming with oil money" and "buying up television stations all over," Hollister said. The family's first year in Beirut was good, but during year two a civil war broke out. Consequently, no one cared anymore about producing educational programming for kids — and rightfully so, Hollister said. "It was dangerous, a very unnerving time. We evacuated to Greece twice. We thought it was over, and then in 1976 we were captured by the Palestine Liberation Army," he recalled.

He was living with his wife and two daughters, Gambrill and Sarah, in the village of Damour, 12 kilometers from Beirut. The army had fired directly at homes in the village and so the expatriates there retreated to the college, Hollister said. The Palestinian fighters, though, didn't realize the people were educators and not village natives, he noted. When the army surrounded the college, Hollister chose to open the door and let them in. The alternative was death. His family was arrested at gunpoint and held for two weeks. Their captors fed them food ransacked from the village. "We did finally get out, with the clothes on our back and our children," Hollister said. Immediately after his release, he traveled to Beirut to tell his boss he'd had enough and was going home.

The Hollister family flew back to Jaffrey and took refuge in a cottage Caroline's family owned on Harkness Road. As she and the two girls took needed time to heal, Hollister traveled back and forth to Washington, D.C., where he had professional connections, in hopes of finding more permanent work. And after a few months, he did. Hollister landed a job in media education with the National Fire Protection Administration, later called the U.S. Fire Administration. His proudest achievement was working with The Children's Television Workshop, which created Sesame Street, to teach preschool children fire safety. The project encouraged children to "stop, drop and roll" and "crawl low in smoke." "I can say I brought Sesame Street into the fire world," Hollister said with delight. "The biggest issue at that time, and still is, is children and fire safety. That program made a huge difference." Hollister's story could easily end there, or years earlier, but it doesn't. In fact, some of what he calls his most meaningful work was with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), where he was employed for 27 years.

He held various positions within the agency and worked his way up to the very top, retiring as associate director and acting chief of staff after Sept. 11, 2001. Today, FEMA is not an independent agency; rather it is one of more than 20 different federal departments that operate under the U.S. Department of Homeland Security. Following the 9/11 terrorist attacks, FEMA's focus shifted from responding to natural disasters to preparing for man-made ones, Hollister said. And it was at that time, he chose to bow out. "9/11 was not my kind of disaster. I didn't want to work in that world. I'm glad, though, and thankful, that there are people who do.”

Until that September morning, the Oklahoma City bombing was the worst terrorist attack to take place on U.S. soil. More than 20 years later, Hollister remembers the home-grown attack all too well; he responded in its aftermath. Hollister led the search and rescue teams, including the dogs who he said were psychologically traumatized after not finding many people alive in the rubble. Hollister had responded to places throughout the country after hurricanes, tornadoes and earthquakes, but Oklahoma City was unlike anything he had ever experienced before. “It was intentional; it wasn’t an act of God. It was just malicious and evil,” he said. “That gave us a taste of 9/11 in the emergency world.”

Although retired, Hollister hasn’t left his work entirely behind; he is Jaffrey’s emergency management director. In the administrative role, he works closely with the town’s first-responders to develop and update emergency plans that can be implemented in a moment’s notice. Hollister, who previously served two terms as selectman, said he was recruited by Mike Hartman, then Jaffrey’s town manager. His work at the national level didn’t go unnoticed by those in the small town, who believed he was most qualified for the position.

But those same people, including his wife, tell him he should set aside time to reflect and write an autobiography. After all, his stories could fill volumes. “Maybe one day I’ll stop being an emergency manager and become an author,” he said with a wink. “One day.”

May 7, 2016 - G. Clay Hollister Age: 74 Family: Wife, Caroline Hollister, president of the Board of Trustees for The Park Theatre in Jaffrey; two grown daughters, Gambrell Wagner of Texas and Sarah Perkins of North Carolina; and five grandchildren Hometown: Born in New York City; resident of Jaffrey since 2001 Education: Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Duke University in Durham, North Carolina; Master of Science degree in telecommunications from George Washington University in Washington, D.C.; attended National War College in Washington, D.C. Occupation: Retired federal senior executive Hobbies: Reading, building model boats and cars, tackling maintenance projects at his Jaffrey home

How is retiring in the country after spending much of your childhood and professional life in urban areas? Answer: “The Forest Society owns the mile-long road (to the house), but the owner has to maintain it, and we have a right of way. I clean the culverts, plow it and snow blow. It’s been a huge adjustment for me. I was a desk guy all my life. What did I know about tractors? I had an electric mower.”

What did you enjoy most about working for the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA)? Answer: “The close interaction with the people, both those who worked for me and those who needed help. We were absolutely committed to getting people back on their feet; that was our mission, and we all felt that.”

Notes for Stephen Holden Krause:

Keene -- Stephen Holden Krause, 56, died Oct. 12, 2009, in Peterborough. He was born on Sept. 23, 1953, in Washington, D.C, moved to Jaffrey when he was a year old and lived at what is now Match Point. He was the youngest son of the late B. Leonard Krause and Helen Frances Bean and grandson of the late Ellen Holden and Delcie David Bean. He attended Jaffrey Grade School, was a member of the town's Boy Scout Troop, the Babe Ruth League and the United Church of Jaffrey. While at Jaffrey Grade School, he began a life-long love of music with the study of the French horn and trumpet. For several years he played the echo to the ceremonial taps at Veterans' Day and Memorial Day observances in Jaffrey. He attended St. Paul's School in Concord from 1966 to 1972, where he played ice hockey, soccer, and tennis and continued his musical studies. During his St. Paul's years he began his tournament tennis play in the annual Jaffrey Open Invitational Tennis Tournament and won numerous singles and doubles events.

Mr. Krause majored in psychology at the University of New Hampshire, where he met his future wife, Colleen O'Brien who was then a teaching assistant in the department. After graduating in 1976, he won the men's singles in the Jaffrey Open Invitational Tennis Tournament and, shortly thereafter, was elected to the General Court to represent Jaffrey and Rindge.

Demonstrating a keen sense of politics and a passion for the field, Stephen was selected by Judd Gregg to be his first campaign manager. After a successful campaign, Stephen then went to Washington, DC to work for Congressman James Cleveland. He continued to be active in New Hampshire Republican Party affairs throughout his life. He campaigned vigorously for candidates at all levels of office and was a familiar figure at polling places at elections over the past 30 years.

Steve and Colleen married on July 13, 1980, and settled in Keene where he served as executive director of the Keene Chamber of Commerce. In 1984, Stephen joined the Jaffrey Fire Protection Company, a subsidiary of DD Bean and Sons, where he rose to the position of vice president. In later years, he became a director of DD Bean and Sons and served as secretary, then vice president and co-owner of the corporation. Stephen was a long-time member of the Jaffrey Economic Development Commission, trustee and vice president of The Park Theatre, a member of the Monadnock Region board of directors of the NH Charitable Foundation, and, for more than 15 years, director and treasurer of the Cheshire County YMCA where he chaired the capital campaign for Camp Takodah's new Dining Hall. In addition to being an accomplished golfer, Stephen was also president of the board of directors of the Keene Racquet Club, started the first all-girl ice hockey team in Keene, coached boys' and girls' ice hockey, soft ball and t-ball, and played in the Keene and Jaffrey Open Invitational Tennis Tournaments.

Stephen and his wife were Mixed Doubles Champions of the Keene Tennis Tournament in 1992 and 2007. He was co-captain of the United States Tennis Association Senior Men's doubles team that twice won first place in New England and advanced to the national events in Tucson, Arizona and Indian Wells, California. Stephen was an avid gardener who took great pleasure in the gardens around his home in Keene. He grew tomatoes and raspberries and had several beds of cutting flowers, rhododendrons and lilacs.

Stephen is the cherished husband of 29 years to Colleen O'Brien Krause, and beloved father of his son, Nicholas O'Brien Krause, and daughters Caitlin O'Brien Krause, Allison O'Brien Krause and Kerry O'Brien Krause. He will be greatly missed by his brother Charles Holden Krause, sister Caroline Krause Hollister and many nieces and nephews, as well as cousins throughout the Monadnock Region. His brother Leonard Holden Krause died in 1989.

Calling Hours will be at the Cournoyer Funeral Home, 33 River Street (Rt. 202) in Jaffrey on Thursday from 6 to 9 p.m. Funeral services will be on Friday at 10 a.m. in the United Church of Christ in Central Square, Keene, with a reception following in the Parish Hall. Donations in lieu of flowers may be sent to Camp Takodah at the Cheshire County YMCA, P.O. Box 647, Keene 03431.

Marriage Notes for Anna Staebler and Evan Lewis:

Evan Lewis and I (Anna Therese Staebler) met at my high school senior prom (thanks Abigail and Morgan). After prom, we talked every now and then, but didn't stay in touch much. We went our separate ways for freshman year of college, but ended up both transferring to Kennesaw State for our sophomore year. I found out that Evan was at KSU when his classmate, a friend of mine from high school, messaged in our group text and said that he had a class with Abigail's prom date. I Snapchatted Evan and told him that I just transferred to Kennesaw too. Even though Evan took 8 hours to open my Snapchat, we ended up going on our first date at Tin Lizzy's in early October 2016. After lots of food and shopping dates, we made our relationship official on November 29th, 2016.

Evan asked me to marry him on the beach in Hilton Head Island, South Carolina on February 16th, 2019. He asked me to take a walk on the beach before we headed to dinner. Little did I know, Kendyll had been in Hilton Head scoping out the perfect proposal spot and texting Evan for hours. Evan proposed on the cutest little boardwalk and Kendyll was there hiding out to capture the whole thing! We spent the night celebrating the best way we know how...eating way too much food.

Evan and I are getting married on May 2nd, 2020. We are so excited to start this journey and spend the rest of our lives together. We are so thankful that God brought us together in the most unexpected way. We can't wait to spend the day celebrating with family and friends!

Notes for Erin A. Brulport:

Hello! My name is Erin Staebler, and I am your child's social studies teacher this year. When I first graduated from Miami University in 2001, I had a major in marketing and a minor in economics. I sold disability insurance for a total of three years. After abandoning my fear of "being a quitter", I realized that I was much better suited in a career that fosters growth, collaboration, and gives back to the community. After leaving my career in insurance, I completed my Masters in Education in Middle Childhood in 2005. I was fortunate to be hired at New Albany Middle School where I completed my student teaching.

This is my 12th year of teaching, and it is a joy for me to come to school each day! I taught 6th grade social studies for 9 years, and this is my third year teaching 7th grade. I feel fortunate to be working with middle school students who never fail to surprise me with their energy and perspectives. New Albany provides so many opportunities for personal and professional growth, and I am glad to take advantage of so many of them. I love trying out new, creative, researched based educational strategies to engage and challenge students. It brings me so much joy to see students questioning, analyzing, and engaging with the curriculum that has such a pointed and lasting impact on our modern world. As an educator of history, I am constantly asking the question, "How does this relate to our lives now?" and "What can we learn from this past event?" Students will be challenged to answer these questions, for as George Santayana stated, "Those who do not remember the past are condemned to repeat it." I enjoy working with parents to help their children achieve all that they can as young people.

In addition to the classroom, I have lead student service learning tours to Peru (2015) and Nicaragua (2016.) I will be returning to Peru this summer (2018) for a customized service learning tour of Peru including tours of Lima, Cusco, Machu Picchu, and the Amazon. Taking students on these international service learning tours has breathed incredible life into my career. To witness first hand students taking in the beauty of these countries while experiencing life in a developing nation has expanded my heart. Like me, students have returned with a greater sense of compassion and understanding after working alongside community members in a community-driven, sustainable service project. I am looking forward to taking students to Tanzania with Mrs. May in the summer of 2019.

In my personal life, I am married (Mike) with two children Claire (9) and Graham (6.) I have a long-haired chihuahua named Buster. I love spending time with friends and family. My passions include: reading, traveling, practicing yoga and Spanish and outdoor play.
