Notes for Johannes (Gutekunst) Gute:

1870 Census Owosso, Shiawassee Co, Michigan page 371:

Gute, John 39 Wurtemberg brewer, wife Martha 1833 Wurtemberg, children all born in Michigan: John 15, Albert 13, Clara 9, Louisa 6, Matilda 3, Herman 11/12 July; and Gute, John G. 15 Wurtemberg, Gute, Jacob 70 Wurtemberg and wife Agatha 66 Wurtemberg; also Miller, William 22 Michigan works in brewery, Ndrune, Frederick 20 Germany works in brewery, Gabriel, William 20 Prussia works in cooper shop and Gabriel, Chas. 19 Prussia works in cooper shop

John Gute founded the Owosso Brewery in 1855 on Corunna Ave; Owosso, Michigan.

The Owosso Sanitarium - "Magnetic Mineral Springs and Water Cure"

According to county records, land transfers show ownership through the years to John Bliss - 1844, W.H. Kyte, M.W. Quackenbush, Charles Howard, A.L. Wills and A.L. Williams before John Gute became the owner of Gute Hill. In 1871, Gute developed the property into a mineral bath company, because the water was to have 'curative powers'. Publicity by Gute at the time made great claims for the "health-giving waters." Instead of storing their beer in the cold caverns they heated the mineral springs within and used the baths for a health spa.

People began to visit the spring to bathe in its waters in hopes of curing rheumatism, arthritis and even tuberculosis. One woman, reportedly came from Toronto, Canada, convinced she could be cured by bathing in the spring in Owosso.

In the 1900 Census, it lists George, Herman and Katherine Gute as the proprietors of the Owosso Sanitarium, and that Dr. Frederick W. Noble as the Physician. The site was on the hill (bluff), 1/2 mile south of downtown Owosso, today known as Gute Hill.

That spring, or flowing well, however, had become nearly dry by 1910 and it is interesting to note that it was across the street from the Oak Hill Cemetery, through which, at least some of that 'great tasting spring water' would have been filtered.

In 1909, the German Arbeiter Society let the property go back to the Gute Family, because of financial problems. It was later sold to Bible Holiness Seminary and Holiness Church changed the school's role from a seminary and Bible college to that of a four year Christian liberal arts college.

In June of 1970, the Owosso College cut all ties with the church sponsored affiliation. And in 1972, renamed it, John Wesley College of Owosso.

Notes for Willard J. Turner:

History of Michigan, Volume 4, by Charles Moore.

Willard J. Turner. Among the notable Michigan families none have been more conspicuous in public and professional life nor borne the responsibilities of citizenship with greater dignity and social service than have the Turners during the three generations of their residence; in this state. The law in which many of them gained distinction furnished a fine field in which they were able to contribute their talents and energies to the service of their respective communities and the entire state. Men of the name have been prominent in politics from the territorial era, have served on the bench, both in the Circuit and Supreme Court, and as lawyers have always held a front rank. Willard J. Turner, above named, has been an active member of the bar of Michigan for the past thirty years and for twenty years has been a resident of Muskegon.

Willard J. Turner was born at Corunna, Shiawassee County, Michigan, July 30, 1861, a son of Jerome W. and Martha F. Gregory Turner. The paternal grandparents were Josiah and Eveline (Ellsworth) Turner, the former a native of Vermont and the latter of Connecticut. - They came to Michigan during the territorial period and Josiah Turner took up land in Washtenaw County. He was a lawyer by profession, was elected county judge, probate judge, and for twenty-six years held the office of circuit judge. He was also one of the early members of the Supreme Court of Michigan. He studied law under Bates Turner, his uncle, who was one of the justices of the Supreme Court of Vermont. Josiah Turner was among the original organizers of the Republican Party in Michigan, and was a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1850. The maternal grandfather of the Muskegon lawyer was Edward E. Gregory, who was himself a man of remarkable talent and intellectual attainments. A graduate of Princeton University, he was for many years a minister of the Presbyterian Church. Judge Campbell of the Michigan Supreme court studied Latin under Mr. Gregory. He was a splendid linguist and had a reputation throughout the state as a scholar. Many years of his life were spent as an invalid, but he lived to the venerable age of eighty-four. Jerome W. Turner, father of Willard J., was born at St. Albans, Vermont, in 1836, and died in September, 1907. His wife was born at Saline, in Washtenaw County, Michigan, in 1837, and died in September, 1910. They were married in 1857. Jerome W. Turner was liberally educated, and some years after he had begun his professional career, while a member of the state senate, he made a speech in favor of a bill appropriating money for the State University, and saved the measure from defeat. On this account the university granted him the honorary degree of Master of Arts. He studied law under Judge Fred Whittle, one of the eminent attorneys of the state and an associate of Jacob Howard, at one time attorney general of Michigan. Mr. Turner was admitted to the bar in 1857, and became one of the ablest lawyers in his generation. He made a large fortune and his achievements as a lawyer have a secure place in the history of the state bar. He was very broadly read and possessed considerable genius in literature. He corresponded for a number of papers in the east, and at one time composed a poem under the title of "The Thrasher's Nest," which came under the observation of Oliver Wendell Holmes and received some very favorable comments from that noted critic and author. Jerome W. Turner and wife became the parents of ten children, seven of whom are now living, namely: Jerome E.; Willard J.; Charles G., an attorney and one of the leaders of the bar at Grand Rapids; Eveline, who married a Mr. Decker, a Michigan farmer; Edward E., an attorney, who died in 1901; Horace B., who is in real estate business in the west; and E. P. and Milo, both living in the west. The parents were active members of the Congregational church. Jerome W. Turner went to the war in a Michigan regiment, and at the end of his service held the rank of major. Later he had an active part in Grand Army circles. In politics his support was given to the Republican cause until the Greeley movement in 1872, after which he was a Democrat up to 1890. From that time he supported William McKinley and the Republican principles.

Willard J. Turner is a graduate of the Owosso high school. In 1880 he took up the study of law in his father's office and recited his lessons to his grandfather. On September 11, 1882, he was admitted to the bar and at once started to practice in Owosso. That city remained his home until the spring of 1890, since which time he has lived and been closely identified with the bar of Muskegon, with the exception of two years spent in Detroit. Three months after his removal to Muskegon came his nomination to the office of prosecuting attorney on the Democratic ticket. His opponent was J. C. McLaughlin, now congressman from that district. The county had a normal Republican majority of twenty-five hundred, but Mr. Turner succeeded in overturning that majority and was elected. He had served one term in the same office while living in Owosso. Sometime later the governor offered him the appointment of Deputy Warden 'at the penitentiary, but that honor was declined. He served two years as circuit court commissioner. His practice has always been large and has identified him with many of the most important cases tried in the western courts of Michigan. Mr. J. H. Moore a few years ago appointed him to the office of city attorney. At the first convention of the Progressive party he was nominated for justice of the supreme court, and was defeated by only thirty-five hundred votes, running away ahead of the rest of the ticket.

In 1885 Mr. Turner married Louise Gute, a daughter of John Gute, at one time mayor of the city of Owosso. Three children have been born to their marriage. Willard G., now city editor of the Muskegon Chronicle, graduated from the Muskegon high school and spent one year in Ann Arbor at the State University; Margaret, who has made a fine record as a student, graduated from the high school and later from the teachers' department of Columbia University at New York City, has taught kindergarten in the Muskegon city schools, is an accomplished musician and at the present writing is resuming her studies in music. John G., the youngest, is a member of the class of 1914 in the Muskegon high school. The family worship in the Congregational church and Mr. Turner is active in the fraternity of the Odd Fellows, having made addresses on several occasions for the lodge. His politics is of the Progressive Republican brand.
