93. Friedrich Ludwig⁶ Burkhardt (Adelaide⁵ Buehler, Gottlieb⁴, Jakob³, Matthaeus², Johann Georg¹) was born 10 Sep 1879 in Saline, Washtenaw Co, Michigan, and died 27 Mar 1941 in Saline, Washtenaw Co, Michigan. He married Caroline Stegmiller 19 Aug 1909 in Saline, Washtenaw Co, Michigan, daughter of John Stegmiller and Mary Lane. She was born 22 Oct 1884 in Manchester Twp, Washtenaw Co, Michigan, and died 08 Sep 1939 in Saline, Washtenaw Co, Michigan.

Notes for Friedrich Ludwig Burkhardt:

Fred L. Burkhardt, a life-long resident of Saline, passed away at his home last Thursday morning March 27, 1941 after an illness of several months. Mr. Burkhardt was born in Saline September 10, 1879, the son of Charles and Adelaida Buehler Burkhardt. He married Miss Caroline Stegmiller of Manchester August 19, 1909. She died September 8, 1939. Mr. Burkhardt's father founded the dry goods business under the name of Burkhardt & Aldrich 70 years ago in the same location years ago the business was taken over by Mr. Burkhardt's two sons, George and Fred, who continued the store under the name of Burkhardt Brothers. Fifteen years ago Fred Burkhardt became sole owner and again the name was changed, to Burkhart Store. Mr. Burkhart was a member of the Saline Rotary Club and St. Thomas Catholic church in Ann Arbor and the Holy Name Society of the church. When the business men of Saline had an indoor baseball team, back in 1911-12-13, Mr. Burkhart played short stop on the team. In 1912 Saline won the state championship. Mr. Burkhart is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Everard Beasley, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and Miss Jeanne Carleen Burkhart; granddaughter, Karyl Jean Beasley, of Milwaukee; a brother, Charles Burkhart; two sisters, Mrs. S. Y. Cotton and Mrs. William Cody.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Thomas Church, Ann Arbor, and burial was in St. Thomas Cemetery. Stores and business places here were closed during the hour of the funeral. Members of the Rotary Club and business associates of Mr. Burkhart were honorary ball bearers.

Sept. 18, 1941 - Of interest to all was the opening of the Burkhart Store on Saturday. While they admired; the store in its new streamlined appearance, many turned back in memory to what it used to be. Being one of the first stores in Saline it is rich in history and has grown along with the community through the changes which the years have brought. The store was built about 1871 and was established by Charles F. Burkhart, grandfather of the present owners, and a Mr. Aldrich carrying lines of groceries, crockery, dry goods, hardware, carpets, curtains, and taking farm produce in exchange for merchandise. G L. Parsons recalls some of the stores of that period as his grandfather had a similar store. He says many of the farmers came to town only once in three or four months, then they drove the team on a wagon, often struggling through mud a foot deep or more. They bought provisions to last for a spell because the trip really meant effort. Usually one store handled all the merchandise any family would require even to the family heating stove.

In 1888 Mr. Burkhart purchased the interest of Mr. Aldrich and for ten years conducted the place alone. He continued the general merchandise, including wallpaper, gloves, fly nets, etc. In 1898 he sold the business to his sons George and Fred. Mrs. Burkhart helped in the store too and increased her circle of friends rapidly. The brothers, through their long experience in the store, were familiar with the wants of the people and continued the policy of handling merchandise which these customers knew was reliable and dishing it out with friendliness and accuracy. The business continued to grow and the reputation of the firm spread for miles around. The brothers had the stairs built which residents recall at the front of the store. On the second floor they had carpets, linoleum, wallpaper and curtains.

Mrs. Gertrude Lutz, who joined the staff in 1913, has a photograph taken inside the store. It is interesting because it shows the manner of display. As was, customary then, coats, dresses and suits were suspended from the ceiling, the cornice, any place where they would be high enough for customers to walk beneath them. The notion counter has always been at the front.

Plainly visible in the picture are the collars, niching and stays which were fastened in neckwear to hold it securely behind the ear. (A neckline in those days really reached the neck and choked it, too.) Counters were the same as they have been until the present remodeling. Along the east side premiums were displayed, shoes, shirt waists, yard goods, underwear. The ribbon counter was large and well-filled. In fact, the stock was so tremendous that the space behind the counters was filled almost to the ceiling. George and Fred Burkhart and Mrs. Lutz are in the picture. In 1927 Fred Burkhart bought out his brother and became sole owner of the store. Groceries were discontinued, as other lines of merchandise were specialized, in and handled, catering to that particular line of trade, the Burkhart store gradually emerged from a general into a dry goods and men's wear store. Jean Carlene Burkhart laughingly recalls the first sale she ever made. She was 13 years old and sold a hat to a lady. She was thrilled and has never forgotten the joy of the moment. Later she was allowed to try a sale on yard goods. She cut through four folds of cloth in trying to cut off the right length of sheeting, but laughs over it now. Mrs. Beasley also recalls her first sale. She too was thrilled because she was allowed to wait on a customer. It chanced the lady wanted to purchase some cheese-cloth. As most of us know, that's one item which is hard to handle and harder still to cut because of the coarse mesh, and the points of the scissors getting tangled in the weave. She became entangled in the cloth and the purchaser told her she thought she could do a better job of cutting the cloth herself, so she dropped the bolt on the counter and told the lady to help herself and ran to the back of the store. But Papa Burkhart had been watching all the time and letting daughter get some experience. He gently but firmly told her to go back to the front of the store and apologize, take the scissors and cut the cloth. So she did. Those who knew Mr. Burkhart can readily imagine the kindness with which he taught his young daughter successful business principles.

After the death of Mr. Burkhart, the question of the future of the store hung in the balance. Mrs. Beasley (Maree) was married and lived in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Miss Jean Carlene had graduated from Cleary College and due to the illness and failing health of her father she had stayed in the store instead of seeking a business connection elsewhere. The question was, should the Burkhart store, the only store which has continued from its establishment to the present day under its original name, be sold. The sisters talked it over and Mrs. Beasley left it up to Jean Carlene to decide. She could sell out and be free to locate where she pleased, continue her schooling or seek a business career in the city, or continue the Burkhart tradition. She was undecided. It had been a severe strain for her, the long weeks of her father's illness, the recent death of her mother, the responsibility of the store, and it seemed like dropping a load to consider selling and starting life over somewhere else. While in this unsettled frame of mind, she walked down to the store one afternoon and looked around. Here were the old counters upon which her grandfather had displayed merchandise, here her father had sold yards and yards of cloth, here she had played as a child, and here she had shouldered the load of ordering, invoicing, unpacking and selling merchandise. Many times she and her father had discussed the future of the store.

He had dreams and plans. He wanted to put in and enlarge the stock. Then his health failed and he gradually slipped more and more of the responsibility from his hands to those of his daughter. She stood thinking of those visits with her father, the shadows of the past became more real, then she knew that the Burkhart store would go on. Here were her friends, the people she had grown up amongst, the house of Burkhart would continue to serve them just as it had in her grandfather's day, her father's time and now. A quiet, thoughtful girl walked slowly home. She did not see the familiar houses with children playing on the lawns and house-wives sitting on the porches, she was seeing a new store rise from the ashes of the past. Freedom, the city, an easy job where she carried no responsibility but her pay-check were not alluring now. Late into the night she and her sister made their plans. It would mean changes, work, responsibility, new things to learn, but the decision was made and they were ready to forge ahead. What took place Saturday was the result of that decision and the efforts which have followed. The remodeled store is very light and attractive but as much as possible of the old store has been retained. The same counters are still used. The tops are solid walnut and have stood the wear of years in a remarkable manner. The fronts of the counters have been painted a rich cream to match the walls, while the ceiling is pale gray. The shelves have been dropped 22 inches at the top and this space is used for display of bedspreads, yard goods and miscellaneous articles. A modernistic counter at the front takes care of handkerchiefs and hose.

Perhaps the greatest change is at the rear in the men's department. A large late-style counter displays handkerchiefs, socks, and ties. The shelves merge into a cabinet which has deep drawers for shirts. Boots and shoes are in concealed cupboards with sliding doors. The cupboards are made so that different sizes are kept in separate compartments. On the west side new shelves have been built which take care of overalls and work pants. Beneath the shelves are cupboards with sliding doors where wampuses, mackinaws, coats of all descriptions may be easily seen. Down through the center of the store four tables will display merchandise, sweaters, blouses, etc. Fluorescent lights have been installed and while enough of the past has been retained so that it is still the Burkhart store, yet one feels the freshness of paint, the crispness of new goods, the rebirth of an old institution to fit the needs of this day and time.

Assisting in the store are Mrs. Lutz, who has endeared herself to all patrons, and Mrs. George Winkle. Five years ago, when Mrs. Lutz was very ill for a length of time, Mrs. Winkle came in to help on Saturdays, holidays and whenever extra was needed. For the past two years she has been a full time helper.

Mrs. Beasley might have been an architect, for she has the mind which can design and figure out how to put ideas into working order. Mrs. Beasley and Miss Burkhart share the credit of the modernized store with Mrs. Lutz and Mrs. Winkle. "We all had ideas, pooled them, and here's the result," We share the work and we share the pleasures, too." Huge baskets of flowers throughout the store Saturday bore witness to the great esteem with which this store is held. Among the local friends who sent flowers was a beautiful basket of dahlias from the Greenhouse, a basket from Mr. and Mrs. Wells of the C. F. Smith store with vivid colors and beautiful blossoms, three baskets from Mrs. Herman Heininger, one featuring purple and gold, one yellow and white, and one of red flowers; a gorgeous bouquet of gladioli from Mrs. Lutz, a bouquet from Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sturtz which fitted into its setting perfectly, asters and rosebuds from the Bridgewater Lumber Company were dainty and sweet. Other friends also sent flowers. Among the firms sending contributions was a basket of giant chrysanthemums from Edson-Moore of Detroit, the Krolick Company of Detroit sent a large basket of red roses, Finck & Co., makers of overalls, sent a basket of orchid colored flowers, Goodrich Company of Detroit also sent flowers, and the Lovely Lady Beauty Salon. It was joy day at the Burkhardt store Saturday. Everyone was happy over the expressions of praise and appreciation from friends and patrons. And now the store is launching forth with a new captain at the wheel and will continue to serve the community in the true Burkhardt style. Another generation is now playing in the store as little Karyl Jean Beasley plays wrapping packages and amuses herself quietly while business moves on. That the building was well built as well as the traditions of business was proved when workmen began tearing out old shelves, partitions, and found most of the wood used to be whitewood, almost extinct now.

Marriage Notes for Marie Burkhardt and Edward Beasley:

Mrs. and Mrs. Fred Burkhardt entertained at a delightful dinner on Valentine's day February 1932, in honor of their daughter, Miss Maree. The occasion marked the announcement of her engagement to Everard Beasley of Battle Creek. The colors at the table were in gold and pink. A centerpiece of pink rose buds in a bronze vase, with pink taper candles at either end. These were surrounded by golden cupids and tiny hearts suspended from gold ribbons. The message was conveyed to the guests on pink and gold valentine hearts. Miss Burkhardt's valentine was a cupid with the ling tied to the bow in his hand. Those entertained were girl-friends of Miss Burkhardt. No- date for the wedding has been arranged, as Miss Burkhardt has returned to Ann Arbor to resume her studies at St. Joseph Hospital School.

St. Thomas Catholic Church in Ann Arbor was the setting for a fall wedding at 10 o'clock Saturday morning October 22, 1932 when Miss Maree A. Burkhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Burkhardt of Saline was united in marriage with Everard J. Beasley, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shurtz of Saline. The nuptial mass was solemnized by Rev. Thomas R. Carey, pastor of the church, in the presence of about seventy guests. Prof. Anthony Whitmire of Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor, played two violin selections before the mass and also played, during the service. While Miss Nell Brown, church organist, contributed, to the recital before the service and played the processional and recessional marches. The bride, who was escorted by her father, also honored her mother by being married on her birthday, chose, a; becoming gown of egg-shell, satin smartly fashioned with a molded bodice and long sweeping skirt cut on the bias. The deep V neckline distinguished, the bodice and the long sleeves had brief puffs at the elbow and were tight fitting to, the wrists where they ended in points. Handmade flowers of the satin at one side at the high waistline formed the only trimming. Her veil formed a long train extending from a tulle and lace cap, ornamented with real orange blossoms. The lace of the cap draped softly from either side to the shoulders. She wore, white slippers and in place of the usual flower's, carried a rosary and white prayer book, family heirlooms, and dainty old lace handkerchief which was made by Miss Katherine Sears of Saline, an intimate friend. Mrs. Christine Harrington of Jackson, the bride's godmother, was matron of honor, and Miss Jean Carleen Burkhardt of Saline, sister of the bride was maid of honor.

The bridesmaids were Miss Gertrude Kearney of Ann Arbor, Miss Alice Schleh and Miss Muriel Woodbridge of Saline and Miss Florine Blackman of Milan. Mrs. Harrington was charmingly attired in a gown of midnight blue velvet, surplice style, with three-quarter length puffed sleeves. Her hat was of the same shade of blue and she wore black suede slippers and eggshell gloves. Miss Burkhardt as maid of honor selected a smart frock of an unusual shade of red velvet, the pleats of the sleeves starting on the shoulders, giving a broadening effect. The skirt was cut on the bias, while the cowl neckline followed the latest, mode and. was especially attractive. Golden brown velvet was selected for the bridesmaids' frocks and all wore small matching hats with tiny nose veils. Two of the bridesmaids' frocks were designed with square necklines, with the high waistline marked by shirring and the long flowering skirts becomingly cut on the bias. Short puffed sleeves were a smart note.

The other two gowns were designed with high necklines with the broad shoulder effect, achieved, through shirring at the shoulders and the sleeves being fashioned of four tiers of velvet. Points at the high waistlines were unusual in the design of the bodices and the skirt were long and full. All of the bridesmaids, including the maid of honor, wore matching suede slippers and velvet gloves. They and the matron of honor each carried a single bronze chrysanthemum. Mrs. Burkhart, mother of the bride, was costumed in a modish gown of deep wine shade of velvet made with a beaded white chiffon yoke. Her accessories included black velvet pumps and a black velvet hat with a tiny nose veil. Mrs. Shurtz aunt of the groom, wore a black chiffon lace dress with black accessories. Both Mrs. Burkhart's and Mrs. Shurtz's corsages were pale yellow rosebuds around orchid sweet peas. George Armstrong of Lansing attended, Mr. Beasley as best man, and the ushers were Leroy Staib of Ypsilanti and Garry Lynch of Ann Arbor, Dickie, Roberts, cousin of the bride, and son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Roberts of Detroit, was attired in a full dress suit, and served as ring bearer.

Following the ceremony a buffet breakfast was served to 50 relatives and friends at the home of the bride's parents. Fall flowers were used throughout the home and white tapers and: white chrysanthemums graced the bride's table. The couple left immediately for their home in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where Mr. Beasley is employed. The bride's traveling costume was a brown swagger suit with a Lapin coat and tweed skirt with which she wore a brown velvet hat with nose veil, and matching suede shoes, and eggshell gloves. Her purse also was of brown suede and she wore a corsage of rosebuds and violets. Mrs. Beasley is a graduate of both St. Thomas school and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital School of Nursing in Ann Arbor, while Mr. Beasley is a graduate of the Michigan State Normal College and Cleary College in Ypsilanti. The rehearsal dinner was given Friday evening at the home of the bride's parents in Saline.

Simple dignity marked the 12 o'clock wedding Thursday, May 1, 1947, at St. Thomas, the Apostle Catholic Church of Ann Arbor where Jean Carleen Burkhart, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederic L. Burkhart was united in holy matrimony to LaVere Vaughn Austin, first son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Austin of Dundee. The impressive double ring service was solemnized by Msgr. Warren W. Peek in the presence of the immediate families. While profound strains of organ music sounded the traditional processional, the bride was escorted by her brother-in-law, E. J. Beasley. They were preceded to the altar of the Blessed Virgin by Miss Clara Bowen of Oakland, California, as maid of honor, and Miss Karyl Jean Beasley of Saline, a niece of Miss Burkhart, as bridesmaid. Soft shades of delphinium blue were chosen, as the color theme. Miss Burkhart wore a smartly styled double peplum, two-piece' deep blue gabardine suit, accentuated by accessories in old ivory. Honoring her mother, the bride carried the white prayer book and pearl rosary, gifts of many years ago. Complementing the bride's costume, her attendants were gowned in subtle prints of modish basque design. Their tiny poke bonnets in matching material and creamy lace mitts were suggested by the veiled "Kate Greenway" hat worn by the bride. Mr. Austin presented his bride with a lapel spray of old ivory gardenias and her two attendants with, shoulder corsages of beautifully shaded pansies, deftly completing the ensembles. The bride's sister, Mrs. E. J. Beasley, chose a dressmaker suit in pale grey with, grey green accessories. Mrs. Austin, the groom's mother, wore beige crepe, with black accessories. The former wore a corsage of pale pink rosebuds, while rosebuds of deep crimson were worn by Mrs. Austin, Roland Kraeger of Dundee was best man. Seating the guests was Glen Austin, the brides groom's brother, of Dundee.

Informal floral arrangements of white snapdragons and yellow daffodils completed the setting for the luncheon served in the candlelight dining room of the Saline hotel, following the ceremony. Acting as hostess, Miss Donna Mae Austin of Dundee, a sister of the bridegroom, seated the eighteen guests. Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Austin were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shurtz, uncle and aunt of Mr. Beasley. The couple left immediately for a honeymoon in Canada. Mrs. Austin, a graduate of Saline High school and Cleary College, Ypsilanti, before entering the Woman' s Army Corp was co-owner of Burkhart Store. Funeral guests are asked to wear Athens school spirit apparel, to dress in purple and white, (the school colors), or in another bright color in honor of Sue. The family is being served by Lighthouse Funeral & Cremation.

Sue was born February 22, 1953 in Coldwater, Michigan to Russell and Leila (Wesner) Lux. She attended Athens Area Schools and graduated in 1971. On January 5, 1974, she married Michael Harvey in Athens. Sue was employed by Athens Area Schools, retiring as secretary of East Leroy Elementary after 32 years of making a meaningful difference in the lives of thousands of children, families and co-workers. Mrs. Harvey could always find a solution, no matter what the problem. She had a great sense of humor. Away from work, Sue remained very active in the Athens community. She was 100% an Athens Indian when it came to sporting events and other activities, especially those involving her children and grandchildren. Family meant everything to her. Over the years, Sue attended Wakeshma Community Church and North Athens Baptist Church. She enjoyed gardening, flowers, reading and spending time with family, where she could be found at the center of everything.

Sue is survived by her husband of 48 years, Mike; their children, Travis (Georgianna Herman) Harvey of Burlington, Michael (Stephanie) Harvey of East Leroy, Matthew (Angi) Harvey of Athens and Casey (Bob Wieck) Harvey of Grand Island, Nebraska; grandchildren, Chase (Courtney), Paije (Michael), Brandi (Charles), Milayna, Kayley, Brandon and Henry; three great-grandchildren; many nieces and nephews; and sisters-in-law, Judy Harvey, Connie Snyder and Kathy Shotko.
