

Remote Mental Health Therapist

Resonance, LLC is currently looking to contract with two mental health providers who are licensed or registered in the state of Oregon to add to our culturally specific and responsive virtual mental health practice!

About Resonance

Resonance, or “feeling felt,” is our capacity to attune to the feeling states of others, and it represents the foundational way services are delivered at this practice. At Resonance, clinicians deeply understand and center the importance of relationships and authentic connection in the therapeutic healing space. In a society that values transactions over people, and in an industry (counseling) that often prioritizes behavior change over holistic mental health as evidence of success, many can overlook the importance of building safety and trust in the therapeutic relationship as an outcome itself (Badenoch, 2018).ⁱ Furthermore, resonance, empathic attunement, and mirroring/reflecting can change the structure of our brains (Siegel, 2013)ⁱⁱ. For Black, Indigenous, and Multiracial People of Color (BIMPOC), safety is often compromised by intentional or unintentional microaggressions in the therapeutic relationship when working with providers who do not have lived experience or deep implicit knowledge of cultural experiences that the client has or is currently facing.

Resonance’s mission is to provide culturally specific and responsive therapy services that center the experiences and psychological safety of BIMPOC clients with intersectional identities and who experience cultural insecurity (gender and sexual minorities of color, neurodivergent folks of color, adoptees of color, multiracial and multiethnic folks, people of color raised in predominantly white cultural spaces, etc.). Resonance offers virtual (telehealth) mental health services for clients based in Oregon. Job Description

Are you a fully licensed mental health therapist or registered associate looking to provide culturally specific services to Black, Indigenous, and Multiracial People of Color with intersecting identities? Are you looking to supplement your practice and/or expand your offerings? If so, Resonance LLC might be a great fit!

Job Highlights:

- 100% remote position
- Extremely flexible, make your own hours
- Competitive commission rate
- Access to colleagues who serve similar clientele for case consultation
- Autonomy and discretion to use modalities and interventions that most align with your theory of practice

Your Role:

- Provide therapeutic counseling services, including assessment, to Black, Indigenous, and Multiracial People of Color with intersecting identities (folks with in/visible disabilities, neurodivergent folks, LGBTQIA+ folks, etc.)
- Provide timely and succinct clinical documentation including assessment and treatment/safety planning
- Understand racial trauma and/or racial microaggressions, including the systems that they are situated in, and how they show up in therapeutic space
- Have an interest in relational theories and interventions (relational cultural therapy, interpersonal neurobiology, attachment theory)

How We Can Help You Succeed:

- Access to an electronic health record (EHR) system with note templates and telehealth platform
- Drop-in group consultation meetings with peers
- Billing services so you never have to chase down a claim reimbursement
- Insurance credentialing for Moda, PacificSource (commercial), Regence Blue Cross Blue Shield, OHP HealthShare and Open Card, and Kaiser for licensed clinicians; OHP HealthShare only for registered associates
- Marketing and referrals
- Optional trainings/mentoring
- Matched Clients: We support you with finding clients aligned with your specialties and demographic preferences

Requirements:

- Education: A Master's degree in Social Work, Psychology, Marriage and Family Therapy, or Mental Health Counseling
- An active, independent state license (LMFT, LCSW, or LPCC) or provisional license (professional counselor associate, marriage and family associate, clinical social work associate)
- For registered associates, you must have your own clinical supervisor by the time agreement is signed
- Ability to make professional evaluations, decisions, and recommendations for treatment planning and implementation
- Exceptional interpersonal skills and empathetic nature
- Strong computer literacy skills

Compensation

- $75 per 60-minute individual session; $35 per 30-minute individual session, commission pay
- Biweekly deposits for private pay; monthly for insurance reimbursements

Apply with your resume to get started today!

- Send resume/CV and cover letter to amanda@resonancetherapy.org
- Include in your cover letter:
 - How your identities and/or lived experience reflects client population served
 - Experience and/or training on providing culturally specific or responsive services
 - Modalities and/or practice approach and preferred interventions (e.g. relational cultural therapy, EMDR, etc.)
- Include three professional references + contact info
