Hi All

My plan for future updates included describing some of the details in the Disclosure Archive where I saw initial details during my week long webinar with Steven Greer in March. However, I just received a video update from Steven Greer which is a great summary of the Archive, along with behind the scenes updates on what the Congress is now doing (actually, not able to do yet), and, of greater importance, is how certain groups are poised or are getting ready to “force” disclosure. At the end of the video Greer also describes the event that Janet and I are going to in California in July.

I normally do my own summary of these videos but this one is very comprehensive and I hope that you are willing to invest 47 minutes to see it:

I have said before that I do not believe in some of the more extreme claims made by Greer although I have now reviewed many of the witness summaries that he has and unless he is making up these summaries by himself then he has some good basis for his claims.

You should note that Greer will not be interviewed by most mainstream media outlets. One obvious reason is that he may be considered crazy so why would a mainstream news outlet want to be associated with him? The other reason, which Greer has evidence for, is that there are covert members of the cover up group that have been placed in senior positions within the mainstream media who are blocking his access. He has many examples of work that he initially was doing with some, like Mike Wallace (of 60 Minutes fame), where Mike told him that he had sole discretion on what stories he did on 60 Minutes only to find out that after spending weeks investigating Greer's allegations he was told “No” by an executive higher up in CBS who Mike never had push back from before. Mike was shocked by this turn down and became quite depressed after.

Enjoy the video.

All the best,

Alan
