

Jennifer Kaufman

Speaker, Author, Grandmother

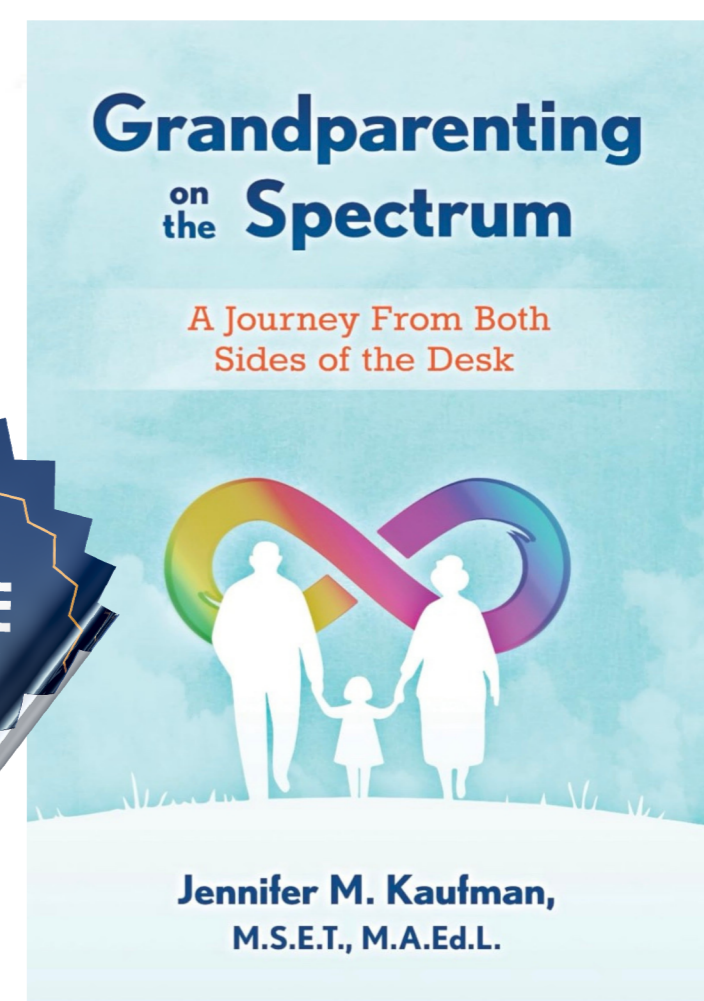

Empowering Grandparents.
Strengthening Families.
Bridging the Autism Conversation.

SIGNATURE TOPICS

-  Understanding Autism Through Two Perspectives
-  Building Meaningful Connections
-  Supporting the Family System
-  Practical Strategies for Common Situations
-  Grandparent Self-Care and Resources

Meet Jennifer Kaufman

Jennifer Kaufman, M.S.E.T., M.A.Ed.L. brings a rare dual perspective to autism education and family support. As both the principal of a specialized school for students with autism, and the grandmother of a child on the autism spectrum, she bridges professional expertise with deeply personal experience. With over 20 years in special education and 15 years as a school principal, Jennifer has transformed her unique insights into practical guidance for families navigating the autism journey.

As seen on

Autism is being diagnosed more frequently, and today's families are navigating complex, intergenerational caregiving roles. While parents often have access to resources and communities, we are lacking in spaces for grandparents and the grandparent perspective is rarely heard.

Jennifer Kaufman shines a light on this missing perspective. Her work validates and empowers grandparents, giving them the tools to connect, support, and grow alongside their families. In a space filled with voices, hers fills a long-overdue gap – with compassion, clarity, and lived relevance.

Perfect For

- Autism & Neurodiversity Conferences
- Keynotes
- Family & Parenting Organizations
- Grandparenting Groups
- Education Conferences & Events
- Senior living communities
- Caregiver support groups
- Nonprofits focused on special needs
- Podcasts
- Panels

Get In Touch!

Booking Inquiries

Booking@jenniferkaufmanspeaks.com

(201)497-0536