

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact:

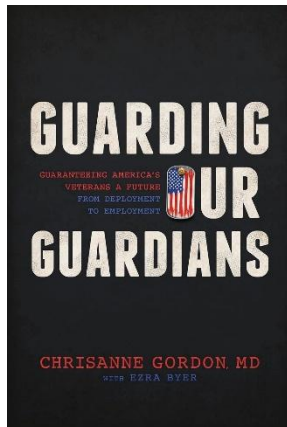

Jennifer Baun

communications@resurrectinglives.org

205.504.4585

Resurrecting Lives Foundation, Founder and Author of “Guarding Our Guardians: Guaranteeing America’s Veterans a Future from Deployment to Employment,” Call to Action, July 29th at Austin Capitol

Resurrecting Lives Foundation is a veterans 501c3 non-profit organization advocating for veterans’ health care, education, and employment opportunities to guarantee a successful transition from military to civilian life

AUSTIN, July 15, 2026 -- Resurrecting Lives Foundation, a non-profit organization focused on raising awareness for the consequences of Traumatic Brain Injuries (TBI) and advocating for suicide prevention strategies among veterans, announced today it will host a public press event on Wednesday, July 29, 2026, at 10 a.m. to officially unveil the powerful new book, “Guarding Our Guardians: Guaranteeing America’s Veterans a Future from Deployment to Employment.” The manuscript is a compelling call to action for the civilian world to actively participate in the future of our nation’s veterans. The event will take place at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial on the grounds of the Austin Capitol at 1100 Congress Avenue, Austin, Texas 78701.

Authored by Resurrecting Lives Foundation Founder Chrisanne Gordon, MD with Ezra Byer, in collaboration with FORBES books, “Guarding Our Guardians” is more than a book; it is a call-to-action requesting community leaders, employers, healthcare systems and citizens across the country to unite in providing a smoother transition while securing a stronger, more supported future for the men and women who have served. Dr. Gordon specializes in coordinating medical care for Traumatic Brain Injuries (TBI), the signature wound of the Global War on Terror (GWOT) and has been collaborating for suicide prevention since Veterans Day 2021, with retired USN Chief, Joe Pisano of Pisano Artistry at Liberty Station.

In the book Dr. Gordon explains the crisis affecting America’s returning warriors. Experts in the fields of the military, medicine, education, and employment reveal what we must change to keep our national promise of life, liberty, and happiness to those who volunteered their lives for ours. Drawing from years of medical experience and her own recovery from brain injury, she shares powerful stories and practical solutions that unite healthcare, education and employment systems to support every veteran's recovery.

"When our nation's Guardians return home, their mission should be over but for too many the battle is just beginning," said Chrisanne Gordon, MD, founder of Resurrecting Lives Foundation. "Traumatic Brain Injuries, Post-Traumatic Stress and systemic barriers keep them from the care, community integration, and the promised future they've earned. This is just one of the reasons we're honored to partner with the City of Austin and support our veterans across the county and the nation."

In addition to Dr. Gordon, the event promises to host state dignitaries, veterans and other distinguished guests.

For more information on the foundation, visit www.resurrectinglives.org.

Resurrecting Lives Foundation

Resurrecting Lives Foundation is a national nonprofit organization focused on raising awareness of the consequences of untreated brain injuries while advocating for services preventing suicides among veterans, allowing a path to a future for those veterans struggling with the signature wound of the Global War on Terror (GWOT), Traumatic Brain Injuries (TBI), and Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD). The foundation connects veterans and their families to resources within their communities to provide health care, education, and employment thereby strengthening the veterans' ties to the community and strengthening the community in return.

Resurrect a Hero – Strengthen a Nation.