Consign Extraordinary Treasures at Our Exclusive 2026 Auction Events

We invite you to join us for a remarkable opportunity to showcase and discover extraordinary treasures. Whether you're a collector, enthusiast, or someone looking to consign valuable items, future House of Craven Auctions are not to be missed! We're thrilled to present an exclusive online global auction event with a seller's commission rate of just thirty percent (30.0%) — lower than fees charged by platforms like 1st Dibs or Cherish! Don't miss out on this limited opportunity.

Limited Spaces

House of Craven is now seeking consignments for our 2026-2027 Auctions. House of Craven will finalize our remaining consignment choices at least six (6) weeks prior to an Auction. We will also gladly review and consider other items with a fair market value of $500 and above. Don't miss the chance to be a part of the dynamic sales that already include important works by: Tiffany Studios (L.C.T. Favre Glass); Andy Warhol; Roy Lichtenstein; Paul Rousso; Hector Molne; Mid-Century Modern Furniture by B&B Italia; Roche Bobois; and Baker McGuire Furniture; and Estate Jewelry by Van Cleef & Arpels; Rolex; Cartier and Royal Crown Derby Old Imari dinnerware and vintage automobiles.

Why House of Craven?

We're focused. House of Craven is the only international auction house to focus exclusively on the defining movements of the 20th and 21st Centuries. We reflect contemporary culture in everything we do and have set ourselves apart as a vibrant force in the art market because of it.

We're global. Based in Miami | Palm Beach | Charleston, our clients have collections all over the world. We can help you get your work to the right auction in the right place at the right time.

We're innovative. House of Craven is committed to helping clients enjoy and engage with our auctions in customized ways that are best suited to them, reimagining what it means to be a reliable platform for buying and selling contemporary art and design in the digital age.
