The Art Loft

Sue King is a textile artist and printmaker residing in Lancaster, Ohio. She has served as artist in residence at 10 national and state parks and other public lands and created two self-directed residencies, one in the Bighorn National Forest of Wyoming and the other in Penobscot Bay, Maine. Her work focuses on the importance of the natural world and the power of art to educate and persuade the public about the critical need for conservation.

Sue has exhibited widely in Ohio and other states. Her work has been featured in The Columbus Dispatch, Ohio Magazine, and Quilting Arts Magazine where she was a featured artist. She has also written two articles on artist in residence programs for the magazine, appeared in multiple episodes of Quilting Art TV, and was interviewed about her work in the national parks on the Quilting Arts Podcast. She was the recipient of a 2022 Print Day in May prize awarded by the prestigious Boston Printmakers for her collagraphic print, Life in the Extreme. A textile work of the same print was recently acquired by The Department of the Interior Museum in Washington DC as a part of their permanent collection.

When not engaged in studio work, Sue enjoys a daily hiking practice, camping in her new tiny teardrop camper, reading, rewinding her yard with native plants, and traveling. She is a member of Studio Art Quilt Associates, The Ohio Art Guild, Fathom Arts Consortium, and the Women's Art Collective.

ART COZ ARTIST OF THE MONTH

Carrie Turner

Jill of many trades, local artist Carrie Turner has been creating artwork since she was a child. She was influenced by teachers Amy Kennedy and Jerry Westgerdes and famous artists Andy Warhol, Claude Monet (her mother's favorite), and Rene Magritte. Fellow local artists Jessica Spires, Natasha Oliver, Joleen Kinsel, Kristen Brown, Michelle Illing, Yan Sun, Hong Yin, Maggi Jorgensen, and Gene Jorgenson, among many others, inspire and encourage her. This is her first large-scale entirely-new, never-before-seen collection of work. The themes range from nature to human elements and include acrylic paintings and photography work, which are her primary methods of creating art. Carrie has been creating this body of work since the beginning of the year and is excited to share it.

Carrie is currently a member of Artist Colony of Zanesville, Zanesville Appalachian Artist Project (where she serves as Gallery Sitting Coordinator), Southeastern Ohio Watermedia Society, and Coshocton Art Guild. In the past she has also been a member of Columbus Art Party and Eastern Ohio Art Guild and has many friends from her time with those groups. Her work was juried into the 20th Annual Bryn Du Art Show - a national show with 600 entries. Carrie is known for her work as an art model, author of three books published on Amazon, free-lance art teacher, Reiki Master, co-founder of The Artist Collective - which was a studio in The Masonic Temple that curated shows and exhibits featuring local artists and displayed the works of 15 artists, and as the co-owner and lead instructor of the first painting party company in Muskingum County - Spirited Creations - which she co-owns with Allen Deaver. She currently displays in BunkoJess Gallery, 126 Muskingum Avenue, Zanesville, through the blue door on the second floor. In her spare time, she enjoys reading, biking, hiking, practicing yoga, taking photos, lollygagging, daydreaming, and spending time with her cat, husband Andy Turner, and extended friends and family. This show will remain through May 31.

ZAAP Featured Artist of the Month

Monica Crawford

Monica Crawford is an inventive mixed media artist who creates colorful, fresh, and eclectic paintings by combining collage with watercolor and/or acrylic paint. Her inspiration comes from the shapes, colors, and patterns found in nature. She often incorporates an abstract or fanciful interpretation of plants, flowers, birds or fish as a primary focal point or as background elements.

Her visually rich paintings arise from a belief that rediscovering our innate connection to nature is an essential counterbalance to our industrialized and technology-focused society. Exploration through experimentation and play is fundamental to her work. Her paintings often contain intriguing marks made with a palette knife or unusual found objects.

Monica has been exhibiting her artwork at the ZAAP Gallery in Zanesville and was the featured artist there in May 2023. Her work is often shown in other regional venues including The Toll House Art & Gift Shop, MCLS (Muskingum County Library), Bunkojess, and The Works. She is a member of ZAAP, ArtCoz, Coshocton Art Guild, and SEOWS (Southeast Ohio Water Media Society).
