Scripture's Use of Scripture in the Old Testament

Three Instincts for Identifying Allusions | BY MATTHEW SWALE

Readers of the Old Testament often notice similarities between two texts, but are they intentional or imagined connections? Because the Old Testament does not usually signal its use of Scripture as explicitly as the New Testament (e.g., "It is written"), the task calls for unique instincts. After explaining why and how the Old Testament uses other Old Testament texts, this book equips readers with a three-part method to move beyond hunches to interpreting the Old Testament's beautiful interconnections.

MATTHEW SWALE (PhD, Midwestern Baptist Theological Seminary) is assistant professor of Bible and Church Ministry at Warner University in Lake Wales, FL.

The Bible With and Without Jesus

Pilgrims to Fatima

A Spiritual Guide

BY MARCO VIGNATI

These pages arise from the desire to preserve the priority dimension of pilgrimage, which is prayer, and to remind every pilgrim that by coming to Fatima he or she becomes part of a people. And the story of the 'people of Fatima' begins with the call of three children, which immediately extends, with an eye to the world, to the Portuguese people tested in those years by the consequences of the Great War and the 'religious war' initiated by the Republican government. To the 'Lady of the Rosary', who asked them to pray for peace, to do penance, to intercede for the Pope, this people gave a response of extraordinary openness to the Mystery; and in this way, as Pope Francis observed, the events of Fatima wove a 'mantle of Light that Our Lady, starting from this Portugal rich in hope, extended over the four corners of the Earth'.

Pilgrims to Lourdes

A Spiritual Guide

BY MARCO VIGNATI

The book was born from the experience of over thirty years of pilgrimage and is animated above all by two aims. The first is to preserve the priority dimension of pilgrimage, which is prayer, the second is to become aware that when we go on pilgrimage we become part of a people that has preceded us and traced out a history. The history of the 'people of Lourdes' began when the Immaculate Virgin called a young woman – Bernadette Soubirous – and, through her, France and the whole world were invited to pray, to do penance, to intercede for the Pope, 'to build a chapel and go in procession'.

The Story, The Message, Vol. 2, 1994 - to present

BY MARCO VIGNATI

Our Lady – Gospa in Croatian – of Medjugorje is a very sweet mother, strongly exhorting to peace and conversion of hearts. For over forty years she has been gathering around her a people of believers. This second volume deals with the time between the end of the war in Bosnia and the present day: Medjugorje definitively assumes its shrine character by developing that “program” that began in 1981. A new state (Bosnia-Herzegovina) is born, pilgrimages resume and the essential contents of the message are strengthened. Ecclesial life here takes on the contours of Catholic universality, calls for the unity of the people of God that faithfully follows the Gospel and faces, with prayer and faith, some of the great struggles that the Church and humanity must endure, such as “modernism” and wars, heirs of an atheistic, material and immanentist vision of existence.

Fogoler

An Istrian Family Story | BY GRAZIA DEL TREPPO

This story takes us live to those days: it chills and warms at the same time, there are the sudden arrests, the persecutions, the foibe. Witnessing these horrors, Grazia Del Treppo kindles a hope that continues to shine in the darkness: it is the fire of the fogoler, the hearth, which trembles without ever going out. It is the fire of memory, of family stories, of joyful scents and distant children's laughter.

GRAZIA DEL TREPPO (Pola, 1941) left her hometown at the age of 10 to move to Turin. One of her life's goals is to raise awareness of the plight of the Istrian exiles, with the desire for a profound reconciliation between Italian exiles, Italians who "remained," and Croats.

Filippo Neri

The Genius of Christian Friendship | BY PINA BAGLIONI

Filippo Neri (Pippo bono, for the people) simply let himself be loved by the Lord and was therefore lovable. Philip was proclaimed a saint by Pope Gregory XV on 12 March 1622.

Irene Nemirovsky

The Writer Who Lived Two Lives | BY CINZIA BIGLIOSI

In this essay, Cinzia Bigliosi traces the life and work of Irène Némirovsky (Kiev 1903 – Auschwitz 1942), a successful author of the 1930s who returned to the limelight, after decades of oblivion, with the resounding posthumous Suite française (2004). A writer of exile (French by culture, Jewish and Russian by birth), a merciless witness to a world inhabited by shady businessmen, mothers suffering from bovineism, bewildered nannies and neglected, selfish daughters, Irène Némirovsky tamed, not without contradictions, the constant themes in her work – such as the denial of origins, heredity, the terror of ageing, careerism and sacrifice – with a personal stamp that was the result of her proud awareness of a completely unique originality.

CINZIA BIGLIOSI has edited works by Irène Némirovsky and the collection of unpublished works King of an Hour (Ares, 2021) by Élisabeth Gille, the writer's youngest daughter, Mirador.

Scientist and Catholic

An Essay on Pierre Duhem | BY STANLEY L. JAKI

Pierre Duhem (1861–1916) was one of the few true geniuses around the turn of the century. He excelled in theoretical mechanics and thermodynamics, wrote the most incisive philosophical interpretation of the meaning of physical laws, and discovered, to his own great surprise, the medieval, Christian origins of Newtonian physics. In the first half of this book, Fr. Jaki presents a systematic portrayal of the dramatic life and work of Duhem, the Catholic scientist. In the second half of the book, he offers twenty-seven selections – some of which appear here in English for the first time – from Duhem's writings, as illustrations of the perfect unity in him of science and Catholic faith.

STANLEY L. JAKI a Hungarian-born Benedictine priest, is Distinguished University Professor at Seton Hall University, South Orange, N.J.
