“I was born into a traditional Punjabi family where expectations were set, but my heart craved something beyond the ordinary. I always believed that a woman’s journey doesn’t have to be confined to the rules society lays down, and that belief has been my driving force. My career started with one photoshoot for Times magazine, an opportunity that opened the doors to a future I could never have imagined. From there, I went on to win titles like Mrs. India International Beautiful Skin 2018 and Maharashtrachi Soundaryavati 24 Tejaswini Maharashtraji 24. These awards were more than just about physical beauty—they were a reflection of my dedication, resilience, and the strength to inspire others.

Throughout my career, I’ve made sure to never limit myself. From walking on the fashion runway to starring in TV serials and commercials, my presence has graced magazines and screens. But I didn’t stop there. Being named Director Maharashtra State by GCCR and the Inspirational Diva has been an incredibly humbling recognition, a title I wear with pride. I strive to inspire others to chase their dreams with unrelenting passion because I know firsthand that with determination, anything is achievable.

I also dove into PR, where I manage publicity for films, fashion events, and exhibitions, working with names like Media I Click, Ira International, and Next Stage Events. Behind the scenes, I contribute to the success of many projects, and that satisfaction fuels my ambition.

Fitness and balance are essential in my life, so I pursued certification in numerology, delving into occult sciences. Integrating these principles into my daily life has helped me maintain balance while thriving professionally.

My journey is proof that dreams can’t be defined by boundaries or limitations. It’s about setting your own path and breaking through every barrier. As I always say, “Give the girl the right shoes, and she can conquer the world.” This is my belief, my mantra, and I live it every day—pushing myself to new heights and inspiring others to chase their own dreams.”
