

Best Man

In my own way
Think I'm the best man in the world
But I know, keep it low
Because the words they just get in the way

Finally made something from nothing
But you didn't want to know me
Finally came to my senses
Now you mean nothing to me

Apologies to knowledge and pride
Didn't think we should ever really bond
Now that feeling grows, from my head down to my toes
No more reason to hide

In my own way
Think I'm the best man in the world
Yeah I know, got to keep it low
For the words they just get in the way

In my own time
Think I can learn to die
First I'll fight, going to get this right
And forgive myself for feeling that way

Now I understand it's about me
Don't give a fuck what you do
No, I won't put you on that mountain
But I ain't trying to step on you, too

Yeah, this clock has been ticking
Years keep rolling by
And I may be an old man
But they'll be no more asking why

Because in my own way
Think I'm the best man in the world
But I know, keep it low
For the words they just get in the way

In my own time
Think I can learn to die
First I'll fight, going to get this right
And forgive myself for thinking that way

Took me long enough to see
It was all inside of me
I just had to believe

That in my own mind
I know I'm the best man in the world

Copyright © 2026 Nicholas Remy