

Believe in Me

I don't believe in caliphs or kings
Diamonds, your rings
Pontiffs, the pope
Don't give me any hope

I don't believe the things
They think and say today
Will mean a thing
When we're all dead

And I don't accept the way
They fight and lose their minds
Destroy the way
We bide our time

I just believe in me and myself
And my thoughts and my welts
This, I can always count on

Lessons that were learned
From those cuts and the burns
Are always there to lean on

If I wake up in the morrow
And I'm filled with so much sorrow
I take solace that it's all on me

And if I still have some regret
You best believe, you better bet
I'll find my own way to just be free

I don't believe in black or white
Left, your right
And pills for pain
Make me insane

And I hate how they like to say
It's clean, when stained
Cut loose, but reigned
Different, when it's all just the same

Oh and they try to downplay the loss
Ignore the stink
Pretend there's no cost
Say it don't sting

I just believe in me and myself
And my thoughts and my welts
This, I can always count on

Lessons that were learned
From those cuts and the burns
Are always there to lean on

If I wake up in the morrow
And I'm filled with all this sorrow
I'll take solace that it's all on me

And if I still have some regret
You best believe, you better bet
I'll find my own way to just be free
