

Rescue Myself

Been running for so long
Don't know which way to go
So, so many roads
But too, too few choices

Been running for so long
Not taking time to be
And not much looking back
This isn't the life for me

When I finally take a breath
There's nothing there to see
Not much to enjoy
This isn't the life for me

Something like a dream
Somebody comes to save me
But if I don't wake up
I'll just be waiting, waiting, waiting

I have to rescue myself
No looking outside
It's all up to me
Remember the pride

I have to rescue myself
No looking outside
It's all up to me
What I need is inside

I have to rescue myself
Time to decide
Will these eyes stay shut
Or finally open wide?

Drifting through the world
Floating through the air
Has its perks, has its charms
Avoiding so many cares

But there's a price to be paid
It comes with a cost
Too much has been missing
How much have I lost?

It's time for a change
Do I have the heart?
What's my compass?
Where do even I start?

Something like a dream
Somebody comes to save me
But if I don't wake up
I'll just be waiting, waiting, waiting

I have to rescue myself
No looking outside
It's all up to me
Remember the pride

I have to rescue myself
No looking outside
It's all up to me
What I need is inside

I have to rescue myself
Time to decide
Will these eyes stay shut
Or finally open wide?

So, so many questions
But I think I've found the answers
So, so many questions
But I think I've found the answers
So, so many questions
But I think I've found the answers
So, so many questions
But I think I've found the answers

I have to rescue myself
I have to rescue myself
I have to rescue myself
I have to rescue myself

I'm just going to have to rescue myself

Copyright © 2026 Nicholas Remy