

Now save even more when you switch to a heat pump!

HEEHRA rebates available through TECH Clean California are here! Income-qualified Californians can save even more when they make the switch to a heat pump HVAC system. HEEHRA rebates are only available through TECH Clean California-certified contractors.

Scan
to visit switchison.org and begin stacking your savings

Need to update your HVAC system?

This is a great time to make the switch to a new heat pump HVAC system with TECH Clean California incentives. And now, income-qualified, single family households in California can save up to an extra $8,000, depending on household income.

By stacking the new HEEHRA rebate with TECH Clean California incentives and other utility, local, state, and other rebates and incentives, you can get cleaner, energy-saving heat pump equipment as an affordable upgrade.

How do you get a HEEHRA rebate?

Visit switchison.org and find a TECH Clean California contractor. TECH Clean California contractors and TECH staff can help connect your projects to other available incentives based on your income and your location so you get maximum savings..

HEEHRA rebates available through TECH Clean California will help Californians save money on energy bills, improve energy efficiency, reduce greenhouse gas emissions, and improve indoor air quality.

Have a multifamily property?

Property owners of multifamily housing serving income-qualified residents can also save on heat pump technologies and other electrification measures with HEEHRA rebates available through TECH Clean California.

TECH.info@energy-solution.com

HEEHRA rebates are funded by the Inflation Reduction Act (IRA), are overseen by the U.S. Department of Energy and managed by the California Energy Commission. TECH Clean California is administering the first phase of the HEEHRA Program. TECH Clean California is funded by California ratepayers and taxpayers and administered by Southern California Edison Company under the auspices of the California Public Utilities Commission.

