

Old Stone Church - February 2026

Welcome to February

Valentine's Day poses a dilemma for Christians. The love-themed holiday and all its commercial trappings took over store shelves on December 26th. Based on conversations and social media posts, love and relationships are on people's minds this time of year.

Saint Valentine's Day is traced to several early Christian martyrs named Valentine. The most common link is to a third-century Roman priest who was executed for defying Emperor Claudius II. Tradition holds that St. Valentine secretly performed Christian weddings when marriage was restricted.

St. Valentine is associated with sacrificial love, fidelity and faithfulness. Valentine's Day gradually merged with romantic traditions and succumbed to commercial pressures. Now Western culture associates February 14th with greeting cards, chocolates, jewelry and marriage proposals.

Yet, love is a much broader subject than just romanticism. Never assume that everyone is in a romantic relationship. There is love in families, friendships, churches and communities.

Love encourages us to love others well through generosity and forgiveness. We should make caring for people who are alone on Valentine's Day our outward focus. I suggest you consider sending homebound members a Card, letting them know their church families are thinking about them.

Valentine's Day can feel spiritually shallow because popular culture often reduces love to romantic relationships. Scripture offers a richer vocabulary that Christians can reclaim.

Despite what Hallmark, florists and chocolatiers say, we aren't required to observe Valentine's Day. Many in our congregations will benefit from biblical insights about God's love. I'll be starting a supper-time Bible study on Thursdays and I can guarantee we'll be talking a lot about Love.
