

Pastor Victoria Harris

Dr. Victoria Harris is known for her innate ability to encourage, empower and educate people toward professional, spiritual, physical and overall life balance. Her marketplace experience and influence has reached across barriers from serving within the Central Intelligence Agency to the Catholic Archdiocese of Washington. She is certified in sexual assault advocacy, holds a Masters in Christian Counseling and a Doctoral Degree in Theology.

Overseer is a gifted leader, administrator and entrepreneur. Her focus is to build and restore families, that will restore community and bring restoration to our culture. For over 20 years she has served in many capacities within the church and assisted in the building of many businesses, organizations and ministries, as both a mentor and coach.

She has built and established multiple platforms for women to include the national membership based, Fierce Ladies Achieving Ministry and Entrepreneurial Success (F.L.A.M.E.S), the community support and fellowship initiative of Girl, Get Up (GGU) and the Lydia Luncheon, all of which seeks to reach across the intersections of corporate business, non-profit and ministry toward empowerment, establishment and exchange among the balanced and developed woman. In addition to being the CEO of SHE Brands, she is building her family's construction company, Harbro Land and Building Development with her husband and covering Bishop LeVar T. Harris. Through transparency and training she lives out the balance of the corporate woman who is successfully active in marriage, motherhood, ministry, entrepreneurship, self-care and more with one of her greatest honors is being the mother of her daughter, Diamonique.
