Discover the sound of privacy and bring security to your home and business with cutting-edge technology that prevents audio recordings.

Nowadays all mobile devices can record you

Today, almost all the smart devices that surround us have a microphone: watches, telephones, computers, wireless headphones, etc. without neglecting the clandestine listening devices embedded in various objects such as pens, cufflinks, or eyeglasses! With this omnipresence, your business intelligence is more at risk than ever.

Protect the private conversations at your organization or personal space

Discover the sound of privacy and bring security to your home and business with cutting-edge technology that prevents audio recordings.

HARP mini emits discreet sounds, barely audible by humans, preventing most devices from listening or recording. It can conceal speech within an area three feet in diameter.

Easy to use at home or work!

Be yourself in face-to-face conversations with the best portable speech protector technology on the market. With HARP Mini, your nosy neighbors (even ones named Alexa) aren't able to exploit your private life.

Simply activate HARP mini with the touch of a button, or activate it remotely through the mobile app.

In 2014, we created the UNG52 Speech Protector. It's currently being used by governments and top executives around the world to safeguard their in-person discussions by adding a new layer of protection to their voices.

We felt strongly that not only governments or institutions should be provided tools to speak freely. So we created a personalized size HARP, with the same robust, award-winning protection.
