

Covid:

I experience that my body has been taken over and is being controlled remotely by others. This applies to motor functions such as breathing, heart rate and muscles and nerves, but also to my emotions. In my opinion, my thoughts are read and directed. There is something called a BCI, a Brain Computer Interface, that can create a connection between a computer and a person's brain. This can be done wirelessly if the person has a brain implant or places a portable BCI on his head because it requires electrodes that detect and transmit brain activity. A wireless BCI using only chips the size of grains of salt also exists, they are called Neurograins and can both measure the brain activity of neurons and transmit it to a computer and stimulate those neurons. Nowadays there are even nanobots that are so small that they can be spread through the air and enter your bloodstream through the membrane in your nose to create a network of tens of thousands of very small sensors in the brain: a BCI. These nanobots, or neural dust, do not require a battery and can be controlled wirelessly from outside the body in several ways, one of which is electromagnetism. They can be sent to different parts of the body and stimulate nerves or muscles or be converted into larger bots that can then cause blood clots in the brain, for example. They are small enough to work at the level of a single neuron, so that communication to and from your brain takes place in real time. This makes it possible for others to control your body at all conceivable levels without having any control over it yourself anymore, with far-reaching consequences.

The existence of a BCI is not a secret or something completely new, Dr. Delgado started with it in the 1950s when he was able to change people's emotions remotely using radio waves and implanted electrodes. Later he was able to do this using only electromagnetism and without electrodes. And in 1976 it was already possible not only to make a wireless EEG of someone, but also to send altered brain waves back to that person and thus make changes in his nervous system. That makes it a wireless BCI and it worked via ultrasound, so even without nanobots or electrodes.

In my experience, influencing someone's behaviour, emotions, thoughts and body is possible. A BCI uses various methods for this, which I will explain briefly below.

1. Directed Energy. This is electromagnetism in the form of a focused beam of energy that exists in different forms across the spectrum: from ELF and VLF (Extremely Low and Very Low Frequency), MMW (Millimeter Waves, radio waves), to high frequency microwaves and lasers. ELF, VLF and radio waves have effects on the human body and can be deadly. Their existence and use as weapons is acknowledged in public documents and described by the US government, the WHO and scientific publications. For example, there is a 1976 document from the DIA, the Defense Intelligence Agency, describing their biological effects.

2. Transcranial Magnetic Stimulism. This involves sending an electric current through a magnetic field in the brain. Depending on the location in the brain that is stimulated, you can influence someone's vision, hearing and thoughts. It requires the recipient to wear a device on his head that creates the magnetic field, but with an internal BCI consisting of thousands of nanobots or neural dust, this is no longer necessary. TMS exists since 1934 at least.

3. Optogenetics is similar to this, it is a form of light manipulation on neurons. Behaviour can also be controlled with this.

4. Vagal Nerve Stimulation. The Vagus Nerve is the nerve that connects the head to the body and runs through the neck. It regulates the parasympathetic nervous system, i.e. breathing, heart rate, digestion, but also energy levels, feelings and behavior. Commands are sent to the rest of the body via this nerve. He can also be stimulated and controlled from the outside.

Regardless of all this, it will be clear that as soon as you have nanobots in your body that are controlled by others, you have lost control over your own body. BCIs exist and are openly discussed, but the fact that they can now be done wirelessly but without surgery or a cap on your head is not yet commonly known. Nanobots make this possible. I think this is one of the things that was in the vaccine.

The existence of everything I say above and much more is openly acknowledged and already exists according to mainstream information. Neural dust consists of mini sensors with which data about organs can be sent wirelessly and with which muscles and nerves can be controlled. It's just that the size of the mini sensors is a million times smaller than the information publicly given. It is possible to move someone else's arm through a wired connection between two people, but as soon as there are nanobots in someone's brain, I think it can also be done wirelessly. It is possible to read someone's thoughts, and that is called synthetic telepathy. It is possible to make a DIY BCI yourself for basic level synthetic telepathy. The brains of different people can be connected wirelessly over a distance of thousands of kilometers. It is possible to send spoken messages directly into the head of a specific person without others hearing it: this is called V2K or microwave hearing and the army even sold devices for it. Biological information can be decoded and converted into digital information, sent over the internet and then translated back into biological information according to a patent. Dreams can be recorded and viewed and this was already possible in 1999.

In my opinion, there are two things missing from what is now common knowledge:

1. The fact that there are nanobots that are as small as 6 nm and can be controlled wirelessly from outside. One nanometer is 1 millionth of a millimeter.
2. Many of the things described above require someone to have an EEG. This has been possible since at least 1976 wirelessly and at such a distance that the person to whom it is happening is not aware of it, and the process works in two directions: changed information can be sent back.

Everything I describe above is known to be possible: it is in documents from the US government and the WHO, public scientific publications, and regular YouTube videos. The United Nations has a list on its site of all Directed Energy Weapons that work on the body, their effect and their required frequency. And most of it can be done without nanobots. Long before the existence of nanobots, the potentially deadly consequences of Directed Energy were already included in PDFs from the US military. DE also allows the vagus nerve to be controlled from the outside and thus feelings and bodily functions. The WHO site and medical research documents state that DE has an effect on muscles, nerves, hormones, proteins and behavior: all without nanobots/electrodes.

Nanobots are necessary though for reading and controlling thoughts and dreams, erasing memories, connecting brains, and the clamping of specific muscles or nerves.

Someone who openly speaks about all this and describes the different effects and forms of BCIs is Dr. James Giordano. He works for Darpa (the US military's research arm), the department of Biowarfare of the Special Forces of the US army, the Pentagon and the European Union's Human Brain Project and often lectures on the current state of neuro-brain technology. He says that nanobots can be used as a weapon, that through a BCI he can read someone's thoughts and adjust his behavior, emotions, memories and body in real time so "live", he explains how they do it and much more. For example, he talks about bio-neurohacking, targeting and eliminating one specific person, causing strokes by means of nanobots in the brain that cause blood clots, that he can make people do things against their will and then take away their memory of it, that changing people's DNA can and does already happen and so on.

I'll put some files in the gallery that I think support my story. There are more on this site and you can hopefully download the rest from the Cloud.

Reptilians:

As unlikely as it sounds, there is a significant group of people on this planet who are not humans. They are beings that can temporarily take on another form, shapeshifters, who pretend to be human. They are called reptilians because in their true form they have characteristics of a reptile. These creatures are highly intelligent and they occupy almost all the top positions in society. They are behind the Covid vaccine. When people have this vaccine in their bodies, they can be remotely controlled in all respects. The following, in my opinion, are based on truth and are imminent, unless humanity can learn in time what is being planned: the New World Order, the WEF 2030 agenda "You will own nothing and you will be happy", forced vaccinations and for those who refuse the vaccine, FEMA camps, mass depopulation through the vaccine, created famines or more viruses, smart cities where people are only allowed to move within their borders for up to 15 minutes, and Tristate City. The latter is a planned supercity of the Netherlands, Flanders and the Ruhr area for 40 million people.

The existence of reptilians has not yet been proven. They can only be distinguished from humans when they sometimes cannot maintain their "human" shape for a while and they temporarily exhibit physical characteristics that are not possible in a human. There is a lot of information about this, but it does not reach people who do not yet know about it: the media do not publish anything about it, and videos about it and accounts of users on social media such as YouTube that report about it are deleted. The videos that do still exist are often so blurry that they are difficult to see.

I have evidence of the following: pupils in eyes that are vertical in shape and not round, like those of a predator; pupils that are square because their vertical shape is covered above and below by a transparent third membrane that reptiles have; that's called a nictitating membrane. Teeth that change from one second to the next. A snake's tongue coming out of a man's mouth. Hands that are not human, or transparent, or with only four fingers for a moment, or with one very long finger, or where the length of the fingers changes. A double chin that swells like a frog's. A woman who sometimes has a penis, sometimes does not. An arm that grows in length from one second to the next.

All these things are not possible in a human being and those who exhibit non-human physical characteristics that are also temporary cannot be human.

As mentioned, the available evidence is kept from the public in several ways. I'll briefly list what I think are the most important things I found:

* Eyes like a reptile: Lopez's eyes change shape in an official music video, Charles' pupils are a vertical line, Michelangelo painted both himself and a woman in the Sistine Chapel with vertical pupils, Courteney Cox had vertical pupils in an episode of Friends (S5E1) which I have on DVD, she also had a nictitating membrane which made her pupil square on her own Instagram account, Joaquin Phoenix shows a reptilian eye at the preview of a Gladiator video from Universal itself, the eagle on the dollar bill has a vertical pupil, but that should not be the case because in real life the bald eagle has a round pupil, and of the two editors of the magazine Flow, one has normal round pupils and the other vertical ones while they were photographed next to each other. There is a lot more, apparently the eyes are the most difficult to control.

* Teeth like a snake or predator: Rutte first has snake teeth and later normal, partly crooked, human teeth that are clearly not dentures, Trump's teeth change from one second to the next in his State of the Union speech, Rosenberg has sharply pointed teeth when he meets Obama during a conference and misses that moment in the official video, Daniel Craig has rat teeth in a movie, Charlize Theron has snake teeth in the movie "Snowwhite and the huntsmen" in a recording that was probably filmed inside a cinema and that part is cut out off the DVD, Angela Bassett and Carrie-Ann Moss have non-human extremely large teeth in films which is not part of their role, Goldie Hawn and her daughter both have snake teeth during interviews, Springsteen is briefly missing a piece of his teeth in an official video from the NOS, which King Willem-Alexander also has his teeth change at several points in a short interview.

* Tongue: Steve Carell and Patrick Macnee have a black thin sharply pointed tongue, Prince Harry sticks his tongue out at a toddler in a flash, but does so that quickly that it is not possible for a human.

* Chin: Bourla (Pfizer CEO) and Katy Perry can puff up their chins like a frog.

* Penis: There are several videos and photos of Michelle Obama in which she appears to have a penis. In the video with Ellen (4.51 m-5.00) it is extremely clear. At a workout later, she doesn't have one. Kate Hudson has what appears to be a small penis one minute, she's holding her hands over it, and the next minute it's gone. Cher briefly has a penis in a 1973 music video with Sonny, you can even see it bouncing.

* Hand: Prince William's hand changes shape and you can see this happening in the video, he goes from 5 to 4 fingers and back again several times in a video when he is a child, Obama's hand is transparent during his State of the Union, you can see his shirt through his hand. Reeves' hand changes several times in his films. Adele briefly has 4 instead of 5 fingers in a Carpool Karaoke episode. Hitler briefly has 2 and later 4 fingers. Goldie Hawn, Kate Middleton and the Japanese princess Masako suddenly have one of their fingers grow extremely long, Jolie temporarily has a strange non-human wrist and hand, Michelangelo painted God with a non-human hand and 6 toes.

* Arm: Michael Jordan's arm grows about 8 inches as he reaches for a ball in an official recording of a basketball game.

* Information I have read online suggests the following: reptilians are often pedophiles, and some eat human flesh. They call that "long pig". I saw a photo in my Facebook feed of a butcher who had parts of a human body in the display case, i.e. a severed hand, etc. There are several tweets from celebrities about eating human meat, especially babies: from Chrissie Teigen, Courteney Cox, Rainn Wilson. Armie Hammer was also said to be a cannibal. In the Netherlands, 413 children from the allowance affair disappeared without trace, 314 of whom were under 5 years old.

* Keanu Reeves was laughingly said to be immortal because he did not visibly age for a while and looks exactly like a French actor from the 19th century. I found another photo of this Paul Mounet and this is 100% the same person as Reeves. They even have identical beards with natural hair growth missing in the exact same places. Trump looks completely identical to Charles Sumner, a 19th century US senator. Jay-Z looks a lot like a photo of a man in New York taken in the early 20th century. There are also photos of Nicolas Cage, John Travolta and Matthew McConaughey of people with the exact same appearance from a century ago. That's at least six celebrities who would have lived before, with completely identical looks. I'm not talking about a similarity, this is copy/paste of the same person. They sometimes also have the same profession or place of residence as their later personality. How is this possible?

* Several celebrities appear to be demons for a moment: Middleton, Brigitte Macron, Barack Obama, the Pope. The Pope's reception hall in the Vatican is in the shape of a snake's head, which is extremely obvious both from the outside and from the inside. Prince William and Kate Middleton attended a children's gala where you see something hanging in the air above their heads that looks like a demon that is eating something or someone. Nobody pays attention to it. The video is from AP.

Counterarguments why this might not be true include:

*The videos have been edited.

This can be seen by someone who knows about editing, it has to do with video compression I believe. I don't think this is the case. If a video has been cut that will show.

* The abnormal pupils are caused by light or an illness.

There is a disease called Coloboma that causes your pupils to not be round. But then that is permanent and not just for a short time. Apart from that, the shape of Coloboma is different for each person and in reptilians it is always a vertical pupil.

Lopez's normal human pupils turn into vertical reptilian stripes in the same video, i.e. in the same setting. John de Mol's eyes also change in a flash within the same interview and with the same light. The editors of Flow, one of whom has reptilian eyes while the other has human eyes, were photographed side by side at the same time.

A number of reptilians, in addition to the black vertical pupils, have white lights reflected in their eyes from probably lamps in the background. Then the pupils themselves must not be the reflection and are separate from it.

*The videos have been blurred by the uploaders themselves.

This is not to the advantage of the creator of the video because the evidence is lost.

Many videos include the link to the original video, which turns out not to exist, even with official recordings. If the video is really doctored, show the real one then? The video of George Bush showing slit pupils was recorded at a Republican conference. The official video of it does exist, but it is so incredibly blurry that you can hardly see that it is him.

In addition, many videos and accounts that post about reptilians are removed by YouTube.

The video of Charles with a very sharp photo in which he has non-human pupils is at the end of a video, but only on tablet: the photo is missing in the desktop version. That could only have been done by someone at the administrator level of YouTube itself.

All this can only be done by Youtube itself. Why would that be so?

The purpose of the vaccine, as I said, is to completely control people by giving others power over their bodies. These are the current rulers: all politicians, celebrities, doctors, judges, police officers, most journalists and media, business people, etc. In fact, humanity is then enslaved to a non-human race. At the moment, planned shootings and stabbings are working to ban not only weapons such as guns, but also knives. If it comes to that, humanity will no longer have any way to defend itself against reptilians, which in their true form appear to be much larger than humans: about one and a half times as large.

JK Rowling actually describes everything literally in her books. She herself has been photographed with a slit pupil. A character in Harry Potter, Mathilda Bagshot, is a snake pretending to be a human. Another character is called Draco Malfoy; which means "snake in bad faith". She mentions kappas: reptilian monsters. She describes how the elves enjoy being slaves: this ties in with the WEF motto "You will own nothing and you'll be happy". She mentions legilimency, the ability to read minds: that is something that reptilians can do naturally, but they have to be close to the person. The vaccine also allows thoughts to be read remotely. And she mentions an imperius spell, with which you can completely impose your will on someone else and make them do what you want. This is also possible with the vaccine.

Finally, I have seen reptilian pupils with my own eyes in acquaintances, strangers and even in family members. I speak from experience when I say that this exists.

Whatsapp:

Not encrypted because time is only relative (2 minutes ago) without a link.

Not encrypted because some messages have no time at all.

I'm in the admin menu because I can edit other people's profiles and delete other people's posts from groups that I'm not an admin of. Files in other people's messages are already in my phone's gallery before I have read the message itself.

Status updates cannot be paused.

The web version of WhatsApp and the app itself are separate: a change in one does not appear in the other.

WhatsApp has Datatestid in the source code.

Instagram:

Not the real Instagram because I never have a time, only a day and year.

Time comments is always in weeks, so 284 w.

Missing time on embeds (embedded message on site).

The time cannot exist because it is only the URL of the post or nothing at all.

Missing number of comments and ability to sort them.

Missed upload option.

Missed translation.

Missing option to PM.

I'm in the admin menu because I could see which private account was sending contributions to @Stoopingnyc.

Has someone else's account in my settings.

Instagram has Datatestid in the source code.

Facebook:

The time lacks a normal date and is for example 23 w.

The time cannot exist because it is only the URL of the post or nothing at all.

There is no time at all with Reels and with the comments of a Live video.

I am in the admin menu in 24 ways. I can change the date of someone else's message, undo a sent chat message two years later, see when my Facebook friends were last online, see and read the comments they get on their temporary 24 hour stories, see who others lastly added as a friend, I am literally an administrator of private groups that I am not even a member of (DIY), I can see all the photos of someone else because they are merged under a heading "photos of", including those in which the person is only tagged, I could send unlimited likes to a post, I can delete my suggested friends myself, I am often literally logged in as the other person, etc.

Links cannot exist because they are only #, so nothing.

I have an account with a normal ID and a second account with nux ID. Nux is Latin for "worthless thing".

The mobile version of Facebook in the browser can't be the real thing because it lacks the number of comments, the comment sorting option, gifs, a delete option for notifications, and is loading comments in a different tab.

The plugin version of Facebook on websites cannot be the real one because you cannot edit your comment. The time of comments lacks a date and is always only relative, so 47 w. The link for functions such as "like" and "reply" is only # and can therefore do nothing.

Facebook has Datatestid in the source code.

Google:

I'm in the admin menu and I can see how and when companies pass information on to Google, I can edit shortcuts so that they are no longer correct, I can edit knowledge panels of others, I could upload photos of the interior of a jewelery store to Google, I can set Google's weather in C or F myself, Google results are cached, Google results are a very small jpg on encrypted.gstatic instead of linking to a site and I can see when they were added to Google.

Google Drive contains Testid in the source code.

Chrome's history on mobile lacks a time stamp and that history can be deleted per site visited. Chrome loads with Example/url which then becomes the normal URL. Downloads are given a date of "Just now" but this still changes to a date, and I can undelete deleted downloads. Chrome mistranslates: itself (in "chrome"), buttons and names on sites, and numbers into letters, among other things. The language, time and location of sites are almost always wrong.

Gmail:

Has emails without a sender ("unknown sender") and without a recipient with an IP that is IP.0.

Normal emails have an IP that is a Bogon, an IP 10.0.0.0, they are not assigned to anyone and are not allowed online. Gmail therefore always lacks an IP from Google.

Emails I send to myself don't even have an IP address, at all.

Emails lack a time zone or timestamp token in the source code, so they could have been sent anywhere in the world. Emails sometimes lack a sender and recipient, but always a valid time and always the IP of Google.

My (previous) telephone number is part of the source code.

The source code contains "This client is void".

I can change the layout of Gmail myself so that I have four inboxes, for example.

Already received emails change their content.

Incoming emails can be translated, outgoing emails cannot.

Drive lacks a folder for Docs and the option to delete files.

The mobile web version of Gmail is essentially the app version but in the browser because it has no logout and emails do not have an individual URL.

Youtube:

I'm in the admin menu because I can delete times from videos, delete others' videos, see when the channels I follow are online, see what others are subscribed to and what playlists they have saved, who their paying members are, the time at the bottom of someone else's video is the editor version of Youtube because I can see which parts of the video have been viewed most often, and so on.

Not the real mobile browser version of Youtube because it does not have a login or account for videos that have comments disabled, it also does not have an account in settings, it lacks the sorting option for comments, upload, notifications, the ability to edit your comment, mute the sound of a video, translation, and more.

Translation is completely lacking, sometimes I have a completely different alphabet that I cannot translate.

Never a time of day.

Cached because videos I have already partly watched start from the homepage at the time I left off.

Videos I am watching have 0 views.

Deleted comments disappear without a trace, as if they never existed.

Twitter:

I'm in the admin menu because I could see that the First Lady of the US was tweeting from an iPhone.

I have the source code of Twitter itself, the feed.

The time of Tweets cannot exist because they are only the URL of the Tweet. Yet that time then changes from just a relative time to a date.

Twitter's source code contains Datatestid.

Reddit:

Isn't the real Reddit because the time is not correct anywhere. I never have a normal date with a time, it is always only 29 d or even 346 d.

I am in the admin menu 16 ways. Deleted posts and comments remain up for me, I am literally logged in as the other person and can see how much Reddit premium that person still has, I can see the powers of the moderators, I can see the number of upvotes that should still be hidden ("score hidden"), in the gangstalker sub there is a moderator message for me about the division of shifts: that is a private sub which I am not a member of.

Urls are only # or void 0: both are non-existent links that cannot work.

Posts with 1600 karma (upvotes) have 0 views.

Buttons appear when logging in and the app changes layout as a result.

Only my deleted comments disappear completely when I delete them: those of others remain, but then it says "deleted/removed".

The various Reddit sites are not linked to each other, so if I am logged in to one, I am not logged in to the other. Sometimes they are even in a different time zone: new Reddit has a European time zone, old Reddit an American one.

All versions of Reddit are missing essential things or have something wrong. The app and new Reddit lack the "parent" function, which allows you to see the main comment to which someone is responding. Reddit is so big that the site doesn't work without this button.

The mobile version of Reddit in the browser lacked the time of a post and the option to delete your post. The parent function was under the wrong button, namely permalink. Mweb is still missing so much that the site is unusable, among other things it has no upload option and you cannot view the thumbnail of threads in advance, or not properly.

Reddit's source code has Datatestid in it.

Pinterest:

Isn't the real Pinterest because pin have no time indication.

No way to change your password.

I can see how often a profile has been viewed.

Everything is Datatestid.

Tiktok:

Watched videos say "Just watched".

Embedded videos on other sites lack a date, the length of the video, and are partly Dutch if the site itself is English.

Videos on the website cannot be paused.

Imgur:

I'm in the administrator menu because I can see from which device people post photos: iPhone or Android. At the bottom there was a message intended for the "site owners".

The mobile web version of Imgur lacks the homepage, search function, who posted the photo, the time, number of points in the photo: all exist in the desktop version.

Quora:

I am in the administrator menu because I could ask a question and provide feedback while not logged in. I could edit other people's questions by changing their category and seeing their stats.

Questions lack the date and who asked them.

The time of answers cannot exist because it is only the URL, there is no timestamp.

Boredpanda:

I'm in the admin menu because I can see what others are upvoting. I can't see who upvoted me.

All links, all functions and my account are void 0. That means they literally cannot work and do nothing.

Had no time for posts. Later this became a relative time but in a way that is not possible because there is literally nothing in the source code; so it is only 3 y. The real time with a date is included as a toggle in the source code.

Disqus:

This is a plugin for websites so people can post comments. All links and functions are #, which means they can't do anything.

The time is wrong because it should be a normal date but is, for example, only 25 d. The link of the time is again just the url of the comment itself.

The edit button on comments disappears after 7 days in a way that is not possible: the countdown time lacks a start.

NRC:

I have never subscribed to NRC, but I can read the newspaper even if I am not logged in.
I can read the archive back to 2003.

ING:

Before and after logging in the URL is in Dutch, when logged in it is English.

My account is incorrect:

The date in my payment overview is only “today” and “yesterday” without a link. This will later become an absolute date and time, but without a time zone, so it can be anywhere in the world.

I have two Oranje savings accounts with the same checking account, which is not possible according to ING. Those savings accounts have exactly the same URL but different data and balances.

I can download statements going back more than 9 years, which should not be possible according to ING itself.

The edit button for the mailing list was missing.

The source code contains “toggle”; which means switching from one state to another. Almost all my sites have this.

SNS-bank:

My account was incorrect because no monthly bank charges were debited. When I discovered this they were added, but without mentioning the period they are for. This is customary at other banks like ING and Rabobank.

SNSbank has Datatestid in its source code.

Wikipedia:

I'm in the admin menu because I can change a page when I'm not logged in.

Dailymail:

I'm in the admin menu because I can see how many people are reading a particular article at that moment.

Links are # and the source code included the note “stop clicks on href= # from scrolling to the top of the page and showing #”. All a # url does and can do is refresh the page.

The time is sometimes only 8 y and cannot exist because there is nothing defining it in the source code.

Funda:

This is a site to sell your home.

I'm in the admin menu because I can see how many times a listing has been viewed. That will affect the marketability of a house.

The date is only “today” without a link.

Amazon:

I am in the administrator menu because I can edit my browsing history per item, I can save the photos in other people's advertisements, and I can adjust Amazon by, for example, removing its logo.

Collection locations for a delivery in Maastricht were in Amersfoort. The AIVD servers are located there.

Marketplace (not the Facebook one, this is American owned Marktplaats):

I am in the admin menu because I can download and save the photos of all advertisements.

That means I could use these photos for my own ads even though I don't own the item:

that's fraud. I can also do that at Amazon, Ebay and Etsy.

The "Nearby" feed only exists after I log in.

Webshop stock:

I can see exactly how many items of something web shops have in stock.

DHL:

I am in the administrator menu because I can remove a shipment from my overview myself.

A package sent to me with DHL arrived with Postnl, via the regular route.

DHL has Data-test, toggle and href= # in the source code.

Paypal:

My address is part of the source code, even if it is not on the page itself.

Includes a tracking script.

Paypal has Datatestid in the source code.

Dutch tax authorities:

Includes tracking and toggle.

You shouldn't be able to log in because the link is only #. There is no logout link.

Downloading my completed tax return is also a # link, and the return itself is missing the receipt date.

Digid:

I am in the administrator menu because I can adjust Digid in several ways: clear the site completely, replace the logo with Google's doodle, and quadruple the usage history.

Digid includes Matomo, a tracking script.

The logout link is wrong: it is digid.nl/uitloggen but it should be my.digid.nl/uitloggen.

On mobile, I can continue to enter numbers in each box during the text message check. That shouldn't be possible and it can't be done on a computer either. So there are two different Digid's.

PRISM:

This is an NSA web surveillance system that can hack everything someone does online.

Edward Snowden revealed its existence. I have the entire code for it, it suddenly appeared in my computer.

Computer:

All my operating systems and devices are not the real ones.

Desktop computer: explorer only has a relative date which is sometimes even "Tomorrow".

When uploading, a file ends up in the folder with the date the file was created and not the date it was uploaded.

Photo app can be opened an unlimited number of times.

Youtube app on desktop in Windows 10 can be opened but does not exist anywhere: not in Chrome and not on the computer.

Tablet: Chrome does not have a time in the history and this can be deleted per site visited. I can adjust the layout of the gallery with my fingers from, for example, 5 photos per line to only 3 photos per line. The Samsung browser is also partly Dutch, just like Chrome.

Phone: With the Samsung phone, open apps and the silent setting are retained when I remove and reinsert the battery. When calling within a Dutch network from a Dutch SIM card, the phone shows "Netherlands" and "Maastricht" next to numbers. Files have a "hidden files" option. The camera app can film and photograph at the same time. The gallery has the date for files as "Today - today". That will be a real date later. Files that others post with their WhatsApp message end up in my gallery, before I have even read the message.

The Nokia phone completely lacks file properties.

The Huawei phone has an incorrect log file, calls are missing the year.

Further:

File lacks the option to delete it.

A file created in 2022 has been modified in 2021.

An error on tablet is named "Keeps stopping".

My SD card has another SD card attached to it that has a barcode and disappears immediately. This also explains why the storage doesn't add up anywhere and even new and empty SD cards lack 12 GB of storage: all my files have an extra small file attached to them that is probably a tracking or spyware file.

Forbes:

I am in the administrator menu because I can see how many times an article has been read.

NYpost:

I am in the administrator menu because I can see how many times an article has been read.

Volkskrant:

There is a Dutch and an English version of the online newspaper. The Dutch one is partly or completely empty. In the English version things are possible that shouldn't be: the newspaper is a jpg, i.e. an image. This image loads up to the full newspaper when clicked. The URL of the newspaper does not exist in the newspaper archive.

Volkskrant's baseuri is just # without even a url. That's not possible because baseuri means base uniform resource identifier and is usually the base url, but it should at least be something.

Buienradar ( a weather app):

For me, Buienradar has Maastricht as part of the site itself, in the menu. I live in Maastricht. Weather forecasts are # and return false, with the option to toggle them.

ANWB (the Dutch version of AA with over a million members):

After logging in, my membership card, complete with subscriber number and name, becomes part of the menu of the site itself.

Bol.com (a big webshop):

If I am not logged in, my name is next to the login, as part of the site itself.

I have a payment confirmation on Bol if I am not logged in.

Chat is not possible because it is only #.

Bol has Datatestid in the source code.

ICScards:

All bank statements are # only and therefore cannot work.

Once again I have a payment confirmation but am not even logged in.

Mijn.Overheid.nl (related to the Tax Service):

Includes tracking and toggle.

You shouldn't be able to log in because the link is only #. There is no logout link.

Mijn.Overheid.nl contains Datatestid.

Postnl:

Loaded or was loaded partly in English.

Instead of a date, the track trace only has "today" or "tomorrow" without a date and without a link.

Logging in and out is void 0 and can therefore do nothing.

Just like with DHL, I can remove a shipment from my overview.

Maastricht City Library:

I am in the administrator menu because loaned books do not show my name but "This customer".

Everything else is wrong:

The location is no longer Maastricht but the USA.

My account is incorrect because I can borrow 6 books at the same time, but I have a subscription for only 4 books at a time.

Chrome is wrong: it shows open tabs from 118 days ago and a history from 1 ½ months earlier, while you should start with a cleared version of Chrome every time you log in.

Three types of buttons are no longer in the right place: those to make a reservation, renew something, and the menu at the top.

A computer that is not in use restarts itself.

Ebay:

I am in the admin menu because I was logged in as the seller of an item I purchased. I can save the photos of all advertisements.

The closest location for me is not Europe but the US.

Etsy:

This is an American site but it suddenly had "Canada" in the menu. Canada is one of the "5 eyes", an intelligence alliance of 5 countries.

I can save the photos with other people's advertisements.

Rumble:

I'm in the admin menu because I can see how much others have earned from their videos.

The time is 47 w and the link of the time is the url.

Patreon:

I'm in the admin menu because I can see how much people receive from those who support them financially.

United Nations:

I am in the administrator menu because I have access to non-public documents such as the PDF with the list of patents of effects of Directed Energy Weapons on bodies, complete with required wavelength and effect obtained. This is in a folder named Torture.

Jumbo:

I am in the administrator menu because I can see how many people follow Jumbo's lists on the site.

The Extras only in the browser is the app version and is so small that it is almost invisible, but it does work: I can enter my details on it.

Jumbo has Datatestid in the source code.

Buzzfeed and Someecards:

Buzzfeed en Someecards had Facebook comments on their pages, just not on mine. I think this is because there are so many things wrong with the Facebook Plugin that they removed it for me: a time of 47 w without a link, no edit option, like and reply are only # so they can't work, etc.

Flickr:

I can change the date a photo was uploaded.

IMDB:

I can change live buttons on the site.

AH:

I am in the administrator menu because AH's website contains the contact information of the suppliers for me.

On my receipts, the quantities of what I buy and the indications "sugar-free" and "zero" are missing.

AH has Datatestid in the source code.

NYtimes:

NYtimes has Datatestid and toggle in the source code.

The site gives a location plus temperature, and for my IP at home in Maastricht it changed from Amersfoort in degrees Fahrenheit, to Amersfoort in degrees Celsius, to The Hague, to Maastricht, to Eijssden and then lost its locator.

NOS:

Everything is embedded/embedded wrong:

YouTube videos do not play on the site itself but go to an external link.

Tweets that are embedded are missing the number of likes and comments and the time is "3 days ago".

Instagram posts that are embedded are missing the number of likes and comments and the time is "17 days ago".

Nu.nl:

Tweets were included incorrectly. Trump's Tweet lacked essential parts and stayed in existence while his account was suspended. It should have been an empty Tweet with a suspended account notification.

Washingtonpost:

Time zone was in Europe and site was partly Dutch, partly English.

Login is #.

Comment section shows "active on page 19", so number of readers at that time

Thuisbezorgd (a takeout delivery site):

Not the real Thuisbezorgd because it has *4 instead of **** as a restaurant rating: that lacks visibility.

I can buy things like soft ice cream and fresh, hot coffee on Thuisbezorgd: neither of which seems possible to me at the real site.

Otto:

Missing an order number with an order.

Page source existed on tablet: that is only possible on a computer.

URLs exist incompletely because the prefix is missing: it is href="/basket/".

Rabobank:

Contains incomplete URLs, such as /particulieren (which means consumers). There is a popup attached to it with the full prefix: rabobank.nl/particulieren. That complete URL does not exist in the source code. There is a note in the source code with "resolve prefix".

Website hosting sites:

Dropbox has testid in the source code.

PCloud, which is said to have very good encryption, has void (0) links.

Blogger: for posts with a video, the video is an image for me and a video for the reader

Godaddy has testid in the source code, links that are # and missing functions

Wordpress is missing, among other things, the resize handles for videos

Source Code:

The system as it is for me cannot be the right one. I think that the source code should not have user data and logged times, as is partly the case with me, and that the source code is only the program code of the website applied to a certain page. I do have user data (things that people post) and times (partly) in the source code, but there are differences within and between websites. Not everything on the page is in F12 and there are things in it that are not on the page. Twitter and Gmail have user data in the source code but not in the page source. Facebook also has people's posts in the page source but not the times of them, and it lacks the ads. If things on the page belong in the source code, they all belong in it and that is not the case.

Furthermore, my address, telephone number and IP should not be part of Paypal, Gmail and Wordpress, because they are in the source code without being on the webpage.

I shouldn't be able to change big sites like Digid, ING, Gmail, Youtube and Amazon.

Urls cannot exist because they are only half and missing the first part.

Urls and links cannot exist because they are only # or void 0: these are links that do nothing.

The source code contains notes like “Todo: create a proper menu out of this”, “Resolve prefix”, “Replace reload with cache”, “Hide href= # and stop it from scrolling” etc.

Mobile websites can be used on desktop.

Websites are not linked: the desktop version is completely separate from the mobile version or is different.

Things only exist after logging in, such as the partial translation option on Twitter, the “In your neighborhood”- feed on Marktplaats, and the former gilding button on Reddit. My name is part of the login in the menu of the site itself when I am not logged in. Maastricht is part of Buienradar itself, in the menu. Feeds are finite. Buttons and comments disappear without this being possible.

Language/Time/Location:

On almost all sites there is something wrong with the language, location or time. The language of the site is (partly) English if it should be Dutch, or vice versa. The location is not the Netherlands or Maastricht, but the United States or Amersfoort (where the AIVD servers are located). The time is either missing altogether or missing a point in time. The time cannot exist because it has no date, or because the time zone is missing so it could be anywhere in the world, or because the time link is only the URL, or because the time is literally only “yesterday/today/tomorrow”, without anything else added. Sites like Facebook, Whatsapp, Instagram, Youtube, Reddit, and Boredpanda should have a normal time with date and time but that is not the case for me. If the site only has a relative date, it is often incorrectly relative, such as with Facebook: 41 weeks ago, or Instagram: 284 weeks ago, or WhatsApp: 7 days ago, or Google: 7 weeks ago.

The combination of all these things indicates a faulty browser, but then the sites should not be able to work. The fact that they do, combined with all the other things that are wrong or missing, indicates that these are not the real sites either.

Jolie:

Angelina Jolie is indirectly the reason the CIA came my way: I looked a little deeper into her life and discovered that Make It Right, Brad Pitt's charity, was committing massive fraud. Then my computer was taken over and things happened to my accounts and websites that only an organization that is behind and admin of all sites can do.

She has several ties to the CIA, was photographed in the Langley building and met with active duty CIA officers. That is not usual.

The CIA has long been associated with drug trafficking. A plane carrying drugs that crashed in Mexico had been flying rendition flights for the CIA. I think she is a so-called “CIA mule”, someone who transports drugs and weapons for the CIA to war zones.

MIR:

Pitt's New Orleans charity for Hurricane Katrina victims. MIR received a lot of money from the government and private individuals for the construction of houses, but did not use this money for that. Instead, it was put in a savings account for 7 years to earn 39% interest and MIR also invested in regular real estate projects. People who “received” a house built by MIR paid for 90% of it themselves through regular mortgages.

MIR siphoned off more than $100 million. The same company that provided the tax returns for MIR also did the audits on those tax returns. The IRS approved everything.

Everything is literally in the 990's, the tax returns.
