AT NASHVILLE

4 GOOD GOVERNMENT AND THE 14,010 REGISTERED
VOTERS WHO SIGNED THE NASHVILLE TAXPAYER PROTECTION ACT,
Plaintiffs,

v.

THE DAVIDSON COUNTY ELECTION COMMISSION
AS PART OF THE METROPOLITAN GOVERNMENT OF NASHVILLE-DAVIDSON COUNTY, Defendant.

CASE NO. 21-300-IV

PLAINTIFFS' MOTION AND MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF EXPEDITED TRIAL ON THE SIGNATURE REQUIREMENT FOR THE NASHVILLE
TAXPAYER PROTECTION ACT (DECLARATORY ACTION)

Plaintiffs, including the entity promoting the 2021 Nashville Taxpayer Protection Act (“NTPA”) initiative at issue and the registered voters who signed and supported such initiative, bring this facial and as applied First and Fourteenth Amendment challenge against the decision of the Davidson County Election Commission (“Election Commission”), which will refuse to count the 14,010 signatures filed with the Metro Clerk in support of their proposed Charter Amendments. (Exhibit A).

Plaintiffs seek both prospective relief and monetary damages from Defendant, which acted pursuant to a policy or custom, under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. See Monell v. Department of Social Services, 436 U.S. 658 (1978). Since the June 14, 2021 election day is closely approaching, and the exclusion of Plaintiffs' initiative from that ballot will cause irreparable harm to Plaintiffs and voters in Nashville, Plaintiffs have moved under Rule of Civil Procedure 65 for preliminary relief.

As explained below, the Election Commission’s refusal to count the proffered signatures is unconstitutional, both facially and as-applied, under the First and Fourteenth Amendments for two separate reasons: (1) it constitutes a content-based restriction on speech that cannot pass strict scrutiny; and (2) it acts as an impermissible prior restraint that fails to abide by the First and Fourteenth Amendment's procedural safeguards. Defendant should accordingly be temporarily restrained and/or preliminarily enjoined from refusing to count and verify the 14,010 signatures of registered voters.

Facts in Support of Expedited Trial on Signature Requirement

On March 25, 2021, 4GG submitted over 14,010 signatures to the Metropolitan Clerk's Office. Plaintiffs' initiative satisfied all of the procedural requirements proscribed by law, exceeded the signature threshold required by Metro Charter, and fully complied with state and local laws. (Complaint at ¶¶ 7-8).

On March 26, 2021, various media organizations began to report that the Election Commission's Administrator of Elections, Jeff Roberts, claimed that 4GG had not submitted a sufficient number of signatures, and that the signature threshold is in excess of 33,000. (See Exhibit B). This requirement is presumably based on the November 2020 state and federal election, which is not an appropriate election to base the signature requirement.

On or about April 1, 2021, the Election Commission gave notice on its website of its next meeting set for April 6, 2021. As of April 5, 2021, no meeting agenda had been published. (Complaint at ¶ 7-8).

Summary of Argument for an Expedited Trial on the Signature Requirement.

The Election Commission is engaging in voter suppression by spreading false and misleading information with regard to the signature requirement to place their six (6) charter amendments on the June 14, 2021 ballot. The Administrator of Elections, Jeff Roberts, public statements are patently false and misleading and clearly calculated to undermine the citizens expressing their right to vote.

An expedited trial is necessary to clear up a simple question that has been specifically addressed recently by the Court of Appeals. In Fraternal Order of Police et al v Metropolitan Government of Nashville Davidson County, Tennessee et al, 582 S.W.3d 212, 218, 2019 Tenn.App. (“FOP v Metro.”), the Court of Appeals answered the precise question of how the signature requirement is determined under Article § 19.01 of the Metro Charter. Also helpful in the Court’s analysis is Metro Legal’s appellee brief, which sets out the standard the Appellate Court ultimately adopted. (Exhibits C & D).

Despite the Metropolitan Department of Law (“Metro Legal”) and the Elections Commission participation in the FOP v Metro lawsuit in 2018, both appear to intend to ignore the clear law in this area for no other purpose than to suppress voter enfranchisement.

This Court can answer this question in part by a review of the FOP v Metro case, but will require the testimony of AOE Jeff Roberts to determine the exact number of signatures required. Plaintiffs further assert the Election Commission does not know and cannot know the exact number of signatures required: the 33,000 figure is merely a bluff to cover up its own ignorance and harm the citizens.

Plaintiffs ask for an expedited trial no later than April 15, 2021. Plaintiff further request that AOE Jeff Roberts be required to testify at trial, and that Plaintiff be permitted to depose Jeff Roberts on or before April 8, 2021, or in the alternative Mr. Roberts be required to answer under oath written questions related to this issue.

Argument

Section 19.01 of the Davidson County Charter provides, inter alia.

"This Charter may be amended subsequent to its adoption in the following manner:

"An amendment or amendments may be proposed ... (2) upon petition filed with the metropolitan clerk: signed by ten (10) per cent of the number of the registered voters of Nashville-Davidson County voting in the preceding general election, the verification of the signatures to be made by the Davidson County Election Commission and certified to the metropolitan clerk. . . .

"The metropolitan clerk shall immediately certify to the county commissioners of election a copy of such resolution or petition and it shall thereupon be the duty of said commissioners of election to hold a referendum election with respect thereto. . . .

"The council shall not adopt a resolution proposing amendments to this Charter more often than twice during the term of office of members of said council, nor shall any such amendment or amendments be submitted by petition more often than once in each two years."

Accordingly, Plaintiffs are required to gather signatures equal to 10% of the number of people who voted in the "preceding general election." The 14,010 signatures were submitted to the Metro Clerk on March 25, 2021. As definitively articulated by the Court of Appeals in FOP v Metro, "the question is, which prior election is the "preceding general election" for Metro Charter § 19.01 purposes?

Plaintiffs assert the August 6, 2020 election is the clear "preceding general election" under Tennessee law. Presumably, based on AOE Jeff Roberts' erroneous public statements, the Election Commission will claim the state and federal election on November 4, 2020, is the "preceding general election." The Election Commission is wrong for the following reasons:

First, as correctly argued by Metro Legal in its appellee brief, only two appellate decisions interpret the phrase "general election" as used in the Metropolitan Charter - the Wise and Wallace cases. Wallace summarized Wise and noted outright the phrase "general election" as used in the Charter encompasses more than the every-four-year "general metropolitan election":

That the intent of the drafters of the Charter was to draw a distinction between "general metropolitan elections" and all other general elections" is evidenced by the use of these distinct phrases within section 15.03 to address different events. We do not read the use of the distinct phrases "general metropolitan election" and "general election" to be merely accidental. Rather, we view the two phrases to have been intentionally and thoughtfully employed to refer to different elections. The former phrase refers to the particular general election at which the Mayor, Vice Mayor, Councilmen-at-Large, and District Councilmen are elected in August of each fourth odd-numbered year, beginning in 1971, as called for in section 15.0 1 of the Charter. In contrast, the latter phrase refers more broadly to any municipal general election, including but not limited to general metropolitan elections. In other words "general metropolitan elections" are one unique type of the broader category of municipal "general elections." All municipal "general elections" however are not "general metropolitan elections."

Wallace v. Metro. Gov't of Nashville, 546 S.W.3d 47, 55 (Tenn. 2018) (emphasis added, citing Wise v. State ex rel. Wise v. Judd, 655 S.W.2d 952 (Tenn. 1983)).

This mattered in FOP v Metro, because prior to turning in their signatures in August 2018, there was special election for Mayor in May 2018, and state and federal elections in November 2016. (There being no elections in 2017). Metro asserted in FOP v Metro the "preceding general election" was the August 2016 general election. Nearly identical facts are presented in this case.¹

1. Is the November 4, 2020 election a basis for calculating the signature requirement?

The answer is simply "no." The Court of appeals answered this question clearly and unequivocally in FOP v Metro when it posited the question "which prior election is the "preceding general election"? (Id at 218). The Appellate Court answered holding:

The Supreme Court in Wallace also explained the case of State ex rel. Wise v. Judd, 655 S.W.2d 952 (Tenn. 1983). The Wallace court stated:

the issue in Wise was whether the phrase "preceding general election" as used in section 19.01 of the Charter is limited to a municipal general election or includes a state or federal general election. There was in Wise no dispute that both the August 1979 "general metropolitan election" and the August 1982 "general election" were municipal general elections which would qualify for purposes of section 19.01. The question was whether the

November 1982 state general election also would qualify. Our holding in Wise was that the phrase "preceding general election" as used in section 19.01 of the Charter refers to municipal general elections, not to state or federal general elections.

Id. at 57-58 (citations and footnote omitted). The Wise opinion determined that the term "preceding general election" in § 19.01 of the Metropolitan Charter referred to the previous metropolitan general election rather than a state general election, namely the August 1982 election. Wise, 655 S.W.2d at 953. (Id. at 219). (bold added).

The FOP v Metro Court tackled whether the November 2016 state and federal election would be considered a “preceding general election.”

The November 2016 election has also been suggested as being the appropriate "preceding general election." However, no metro offices were on the ballot. State and federal offices were on the ballot, as well as city commissioners for Belle Meade, Forest Hills and Goodlettsville. Wise held that "the phrase 'preceding general election' as used in section 19.01 of the Charter refers to municipal general elections, not to state or federal general elections." Wallace, 546 S.W.3d at 58 (citing Wise, 655 S.W.2d at 953). Thus, the November 2016 election cannot be used to determine the number of signatures needed for the petition. (Id.).(bold added).

Defendant will be hard pressed to declare the November 2016 state and federal election was any different than the November 2018 state and federal election. They were the exact same apart from the candidates running for office.

2. Is the August 6, 2020 election a basis for calculating the signature requirement?

The simple answer is “yes and no,” and depends on analysis of the different types of elections held that day. There two (2) vastly different types of municipal elections held that day, 1) special elections, and 2), a general election of the Assessor of Property.

A. Special Elections

On the August 6, 2020, registered voters could cast a vote in any of four (4) municipal ballots. Three (3) of the four (4) ballots were unqualified as a “general election” because they were to fill vacant positions due to in instances of death and/or retirement. Only the fourth remaining ballot qualified as a “general election” due to the metropolitan office on this ballot.

Under Metro Charter § 19.01 a “preceding general election” excludes persons voting in state and federal primaries, or in special elections (i.e. filling vacant positions due to death or retirement). Accordingly, a review of the four (4) election held on August 6, 2020 is required.

- On August 6, 2020, a special election was held to elect a Chancellor for Part I of the Chancery Courts. A special election was required due to the retirement of Chancellor Claudia Bonnyman in 2019. (Complaint ¶ 17).
- On August 6, 2020, a special election was held to elect a Criminal Court Judge for Division 4 of the Criminal Courts. A special election was required due to Judge Seth Norman’s 2018 retirement. (Complaint ¶ 18).
- On August 6, 2020, a special election was held to elect a Metro Trustee. A special election was required due to the Charlie Cardwell’s 2019 death. (Complaint ¶ 19).

In FOP v Metro the Appellate Court specifically address whether “special elections” were to be considered in determining the signature requirement under Metro Charter § 19.01.

Several elections have been proposed as the "preceding general election" in this case. The most recent election is the May 24, 2018 election for mayor and one district council member. This was a special election to fill vacancies, however, not a general election. See Wallace, 546 S.W.3d at 56. Thus, the May 24, 2018 election cannot be used to determine the number of signatures needed for the petition. (Id.) (emphasis added).

Thus, much like in FOP v Metro, special elections are not to be counted in determining the signature requirement under § 19.01. The May 24, 2018 election was for the offices of “Mayor of Metropolitan Nashville & vacant District Council position.” (Metro Appellate brief at 6, Ex. C). Metro Legal answered its own question as to whether the May 24, 20218 election was a “preceding general election” by stating in its brief:

No, because this was a special election. There is no such thing as a special general election. McPherson v. Everett, at 679.

No doubt Metro may change its position now to suppress the voters' ability to vote on the 2021 NTPA, but it cannot deny its steadfast rejection of special elections to determine the signature requirement in FOP v Metro.

B. Assessor of Property Election

The signature requirement must be based on the Assessor of Property election held on August 6, 2020, which satisfies the conditions for the "preceding general election." This was the ONLY election that qualifies as a "preceding general election," and thus it is the baseline to calculate the 10% requirement.

In FOP v Metro there was considerable discussion regarding whether the Assessor of Property was a state or municipal election. Metro Legal and the trial court found the August 2016 election was the "preceding general election." The FOP asserted the nature of the Assessor of Property's office meant an election for the same was not a "municipal election," and thus could not qualify as a "preceding general election." The issue's discussion is not relevant to this case except for the fact the Court of Appeals clearly held:

We conclude, as did the trial court, that the proper election to use to calculate the number of signatures required on the referendum petition, the preceding general election, was the election held on August 4, 2016.

It should also be noted that on August 4, 2016 the only municipal office on the ballot was for the Assessor of Property.

Although obviously not controlling, Metro supported this reasoning in its appellate brief in answering the question of whether the Assessor's election was a "preceding general election":

Yes, because the election of the Metro Assessor of Property is a municipal general election. Wallace holds that the phrase "general election" includes more than just general metropolitan elections:

[G]eneral metropolitan elections" are one unique type of the broader category of municipal "general elections." All municipal "general elections," however, are not "general metropolitan elections.

Wallace at 55.

3. The number of signatures required is 9,319.

This Court should answer the pertinent question of how many voters cast a ballot in the August 6, 2020 "preceding general election." This is not how many people voted that day, or how many voters requested certain a Democrat, Republican or only a general ballot. The question is how many people voted in an election that counts as a "general election" under Charter § 19.01?

Plaintiffs assert this calculation is quite simple. The Election Commission's certified results indicated the following votes were cast in the Assessor of Property election:

Candidate	Election Day	Absentee	Early	FS/PV	Total Votes
Wilhoite	28,690	23,257	38,379	853	91,179
Write-In	845	266	898	9	2,018
				Total:	93,197

(Exhibit E)

Ten percent (10%) of 93,197 is 9,317. This court should find after an expedited trial that the signature requirement is 9,319 signatures of registered voters, instead of the 33,000+ stated by AOE Jeff Roberts and spread in the media.

CONCLUSION

The Election Commission and Metro Legal have a history of engaging in attempts to suppress the citizens' right to vote on Charter Amendments. This latest attempt of disseminating false information to the public concerning the signature requirement is part of an orchestrated scheme to deny the citizens a right to vote. This issue is relatively simple, and the law is clear. The Election Commission should not be permitted to make up new law or requirements to the detriment of the citizens. Plaintiffs respectfully move the Court to issue preliminary relief.

1. To set this matter for an expedited trial on the single issue of the signature requirement under Metro Charter § 19.01;
2. To issue an order allowing the prompt and immediate deposition of the Administrator of Elections Jeff Roberts to be questioned concerning the August 6, 2020 election results and any other pertinent election;
3. To require the election Commission to immediately commence verifying the 14,010 signatures submitted to the Metro Clerk on March 25, 2021; and,
4. For whatever relief is equitable and just.

Group files 14K signatures to push for Nashville property tax vote. Is that enough?

Yihyun Jeong Nashville Tennessean

Published 4:25 p.m. CT Mar. 25, 2021 | Updated 5:42 p.m. CT Mar. 26, 2021

A local attorney filed about 14,000 signatures with the city clerk Thursday seeking a referendum to limit Nashville's property tax rate along with a slate of other measures that would limit Metro government.

But before any debate over the merits of the proposed Metro Charter amendments, an initial challenge is expected on how many signatures are needed to place the issue before voters.

The Metro Charter states a charter amendment may be proposed to Davidson County voters if a petition is signed by 10% of the number of voters who cast ballots in the "preceding general election."

More: Nashville chamber defends city's property tax hike amid new petition challenge

Nashville election administrator Jeff Roberts, basing the number on the November election, says 31,212 signatures are needed. But attorney Jim Roberts, who is leading the "Nashville Taxpayer Protection Act" initiative, is going off the August election when there was lower turnout. He said he needs only 12,142.

"I will absolutely challenge this," Roberts told The Tennessean.

The coming debate is reminiscent of a 2018 lawsuit when the local police union challenged Metro's verification of signatures collected by Community Oversight Now to hold a public vote for a new civilian police oversight board.

The legal challenge centered over which election should be used to determine how many signatures are needed to qualify the measure. A judge later dismissed the lawsuit.

The Davidson County Election Commission will have to verify the signatures before taking up whether the proposed charter amendments should go before voters for a requested June 14 special election. It would come just weeks before the city will have to finalize its operating budget and set a tax levy for the next fiscal year.

The decision could likely be passed, once again, to a judge.

Roberts went to court with the city in October over the legality and form of his first petition. A judge ultimately struck down that version.

He said Thursday he's confident there will be an election as he believes at least one measure will successfully get on the ballot. With no scheduled Metro election this year, it would trigger a special election estimated to cost the city more than $800,000 to hold.

A spokesperson for Mayor John Cooper said Thursday the mayor is "focused on Nashville's rebound, not on yet another failed referendum attempt."

"This is a distraction," spokesperson Andrea Fanta said in a statement. "As a community and as a government, we are focused on the work ahead as we rebound from Nashville's most challenging year."

Metro Clerk Elizabeth Waites confirmed receiving 14,010 signatures Thursday. It's about half of what Roberts collected for his first petition, despite the 200,000 petitions he said were mailed out last month.

He attributed lower returns to a combination of cold weather, the recent snow storm and a "good bit of apathy," after how the first referendum push played out.

Roberts declined to disclose who funded the effort but estimated he collected donations from about 40 people, largely from "downtown Nashville."

He and the group dubbed "4 Good Government" want to set the city's property tax rate for the next two fiscal years to the level it was before the Metro Council approved a 34% increase. They also want to cap future increases to 3% without voter approval.

The petition also seeks to:

- Eliminate lifetime or other benefits for elected officials.

- Require any charter amendments approved by voters after Jan. 1, 2021, to be amended only by voters.

Block any transfer of publicly owned land without the support of 31 council members, and require the transfer of any property valued at $5 million or more, and leases extending 20 years, go before voters.

Have any Nashville pro sports facilities or related commercial facilities "revert to public property" if no games are played for more than 24 months or if a team leaves Nashville. Lower the amount of signatures needed to trigger a recall election from 15% to 10% of the people who voted in the district or area of the official in the preceding Metro general election, while also extending the days to collect signatures from 30 to 75 days of the date the notice is filed. Prohibit the recalled official's name from appearing on a recall ballot, though that person may qualify as a write-in candidate.

STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES

The question in this case is whether Community Oversight Now gathered a sufficient number of signatures to have their proposed charter amendment appear on the November 6, 2018 ballot. The Davidson County Election Commission determined that they did gather enough signatures. The Trial Court agreed. The number of signatures needed to place a proposed charter amendment on the ballot depends on how many people voted in the “preceding general election”.

The Supreme Court recently determined that the phrase “general election” as used in the Metro Charter encompasses more than the every four year “general metropolitan election”. Wallace v. Metro. Gov't of Nashville, 546 S.W.3d 47, 55 (Tenn. 2018). Did the Trial Court err in finding that the preceding general election did not have to be an every four-year general metropolitan election?

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Plaintiffs (“the FOP”) filed this lawsuit on August 21, 2018. (T.R. 1). Community Oversight Now was permitted to intervene by agreed order. (T.R. 37).

The Metropolitan Government filed its brief on September 10, 2018, addressing the merits of the dispute. (T.R.342). Community Oversight Now filed a Motion to Dismiss based on standing. (T.R. 326).

The Court dismissed the case in an order entered September 19, 2018. (T.R. 391). Plaintiffs appealed on September 20, 2018. (T.R. 414). Community Oversight Now filed a motion to alter or amend the same day, which was denied in an order entered September 21, 2018. (T.R. 439).

FACTS

On August 1, 2018, Community Oversight Now submitted a petition to amend the Metropolitan Charter. (A.R. 1) A statement with the petition stated that it contained an estimated 8,269 signatures. (Id.).

An amendment to the Metropolitan Charter may be proposed through a petition process that garners a certain number of registered voters' signatures. The number of signatures required depends on how many people voted in the "preceding general election":

This Charter may be amended subsequent to its adoption in the following manner: An amendment or amendments may be proposed ... upon petition filed with the metropolitan clerk, signed by ten (10) per cent of the number of the registered voters of Nashville-Davidson County voting in the preceding general election, the verification of the signatures to be made by the Davidson County Election Commission and certified to the metropolitan clerk. (Emphasis added).

Metropolitan Charter § 19.01 (T.R. 50).

On August 15, 2018, the Election Commission met and determined that the preceding general election was the August 4, 2016 election. (A.R. 30). In the August 4, 2016 General Election, 47,074 registered voters cast their ballot. (T.R. 43). Therefore, 4,708 signatures would constitute ten percent of these voters. Davidson County Election Commission determined that there were at least 4,801 valid signatures accompanying the Community Oversight Board Petition. (T.R. 30). The Commission voted at their August 15, 2018 meeting to accept these verified signatures as meeting the requirements of Metropolitan Charter § 19.01. (Id.).

ARGUMENT

I. STANDARD OF REVIEW.

A motion to dismiss is reviewed de novo. West v. Schofield, 468 S.W.3d 482, 489 (Tenn. 2015). Interpretation of the Metropolitan Charter is a question of law. Cty. of Shelby v. Tompkins, 241 S.W.3d 500, 505 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2007).

II. THE TRIAL COURT CORRECTLY DETERMINED THAT SUFFICIENT PETITION SIGNATURES WERE GATHERED.

A. THE SUPREME COURT HAS HELD THAT THE “PRECEDING GENERAL ELECTION” IN METRO CHARTER § 19.01 MAY BE A “GENERAL METROPOLITAN ELECTION” OR A “GENERAL ELECTION.”

The number of signatures needed to place a proposed charter amendment on the ballot depends on how many people voted in the “preceding general election”:

This Charter may be amended subsequent to its adoption in the following manner: An amendment or amendments may be proposed ... upon petition filed with the metropolitan clerk, signed by ten (10) per cent of the number of the registered voters of Nashville-Davidson County voting in the preceding general election, the verification of the signatures to be made by the Davidson County Election Commission and certified to the metropolitan clerk.

Metropolitan Charter § 19.01 (T.R. 50).

There are only two appellate decisions interpreting the phrase “general election” as used in the Metropolitan Charter – the Wise and Wallace cases. Wallace summarized Wise and noted outright that the phrase “general election” as used in the Charter encompasses more than the every four year “general metropolitan election”:

That the intent of the drafters of the Charter was to draw a distinction between “general metropolitan elections” and all other “general elections” is evidenced by the use of these distinct phrases within section 15.03 to address different events. We do not read the use of the distinct phrases “general metropolitan election” and “general election” to be merely accidental. Rather, we view the two phrases to have been intentionally and thoughtfully employed to refer to different elections. The former phrase refers to the particular general election at which the Mayor, Vice Mayor, Councilmen-at-Large, and District Councilmen are elected in August of each fourth odd-numbered year, beginning in 1971, as called for in section 15.01 of the Charter. In contrast, the latter phrase refers more broadly to any municipal general election, including but not limited to general metropolitan elections. In other words, “general metropolitan elections” are one unique type of the broader category of municipal “general elections.” All municipal “general elections.” however, are not “general metropolitan elections.”

Wallace v. Metro. Gov't of Nashville, 546 S.W.3d 47, 55 (Tenn. 2018) (emphasis added, citing Wise v. State ex rel. Wise v. Judd, 655 S.W.2d 952 (Tenn. 1983)).

B. THE FOP IS MISTAKEN WHEN IT ASSERTS THAT THE AUGUST 6, 2015 METROPOLITAN ELECTION MUST BE TREATED AS THE “PRECEDING GENERAL ELECTION.”

The FOP takes the position that the August 6, 2015 election (the general metropolitan election where the Mayor, Vice-Mayor and Council are elected) must be the “preceding general election” used to calculate the 10% figure needed.

But this interpretation ignores the holding of Wallace, which is that the Charter uses the term “general election” broadly to include more than just general metropolitan elections:

Our holding in Wise was that the phrase “preceding general election” as used in section 19.01 of the Charter refers to municipal general elections....

Wallace at 55–58 (emphasis in original).

Chancellor Kilcrease was correct in Wise when he included both the August 1982 election (a general municipal election) and the August 1979 election (a general metropolitan election) as qualifying elections, and selected the August 1982 election, and its 9,473 signature threshold, as the most recent preceding election that would be used to determine if there were sufficient signatures.

Applying Wise and Wallace, the Charter does not treat the phrase “general election” as synonymous with “general metropolitan election.” The August 4, 2016 election (which included the election of the Metropolitan¹ Assessor of Property²) meets the Charter's definition of "general election," and is closer in time than the August 2015 election. Therefore, it is the correct general election to use to calculate the number of signatures necessary for a Charter amendment petition.

¹ The FOP states that Nashville is the first consolidated government, but this is not correct. New Orleans (1805), Boston (1821), Philadelphia (1854), San Francisco (1856), New York (1890's), and Denver (1902) are some of the consolidated governments that preceded Nashville. <https://www.mtas.tennessee.edu/knowledgebase/consolidation-city-and-county-governments-look-history-and-outcome-based-research>.

² The FOP argues that the election of the Metropolitan Assessor of Property is a state election. However, this argument was not raised below and cannot be raised for the first time on appeal. Waters v. Farr, 291 S.W.3d 873, 918 (Tenn. 2009).

In addition, this argument is incorrect. The FOP's claim that a county office is a "state election" relies on a definition (T.C.A. § 2-1-104(a)(28) that is clearly drafted to distinguish it from the definition of "federal election" (T.C.A. § 2-1-104(a)(9). If Plaintiffs' logic prevailed, all "district" offices (Metro Council) would also be state elections. This would be a skewed reading of state law.

In another skewed reading of state law, the FOP refer to T.C.A. § 2-13-208(a)'s discussion of non-partisan municipal elections without mentioning 208(b), which addresses metropolitan governments and offices and states that the Charter controls certain offices.

Plaintiffs assert that the Metro Charter preserves the Office of Assessor with the duties assigned by state law, but do not recognize that the Metropolitan Assessor is a uniquely local office with unique duties created by the Metropolitan Charter. Winter v. Allen, 212 Tenn. 84, 95, 367 S.W.2d 785, 790 (1963) (“[W]e hold that it is the duty of Metropolitan County Tax Assessor to make assessments of merchants' ad valorem taxes and that the Metropolitan Trustee shall collect such taxes, such duties, functions and responsibilities thereof being effectively and constitutionally transferred from the office of County Court Clerk by said Charter to the said Tax Assessor and Trustee.”).

In addition to the unique duties assigned by the Metropolitan Charter, the Metropolitan Government is responsible for the Assessor's salary and legal liability. See State ex rel. Winstead v. Moody, 596 S.W.2d 811, 813 (Tenn.1980) & Pharris v. Looper, 6 F. Supp. 2d 720, 730, 1998 WL 276131 (M.D. Tenn. 1998). The Metropolitan Assessor is a uniquely local metropolitan office. There is no merit in the suggestion that it is insufficient or unworthy for use as a measurement for the number of signatures needed to amend the Metropolitan Charter.

C. THE FOP IS MISTAKEN WHEN IT ASSERTS THAT THE SPECIAL ELECTION TO FILL THE MAYORAL VACANCY (THE MAY 24, 2018 ELECTION) MUST BE TREATED AS THE “PRECEDING GENERAL ELECTION.”

The FOP takes the alternative position that the May 24, 2018 special election to fill the mayoral vacancy is the “preceding general election” that should be used for calculating the 10% number required by Charter § 19.01. (T.R. 1, ¶ 32).

The FOP attempts to define “general election” as any non-primary election. This is a colloquial definition of general election, but is not the more specific meaning of the phrase as it is used in the Metro Charter. Charter Articles 15 and 19 discuss several types of elections: general, metropolitan general, referendum elections and special elections. In Wallace, the Supreme Court held that the use of distinct phrases is evidence that the intent of the drafters was to draw a distinction between them. Applying this interpretation, the Supreme Court determined a special election was necessary to fill the mayoral vacancy, pursuant to §15.03³ of the Charter.

The May 24, 2018 election was a special election, as ordered by the Wallace Supreme Court in its final paragraph: “The Commission is hereby ordered to set a special election in accordance with Tennessee Code Annotated section 2-14-102(a).” Wallace at 58. State law treats special elections and general elections as different types of elections:

³ Charter §15.03 requires special elections to fill a mayoral vacancy that will exist more than 12 months prior to the next general metropolitan election and makes a distinction between special and general elections:

If in such special election to fill a vacancy for the unexpired term of the office of mayor or district council member, or in the general election at which time a vacancy in the office of vice mayor or councilmember-at-large, no candidate shall receive a majority of all the votes cast for such office, a runoff election shall be held five (5) weeks subsequent to the first special election to fill a vacancy in accordance with the provisions hereinbefore set forth in the case of a general metropolitan election. The provisions of section 15.01 hereof with respect to voting in general metropolitan elections and with respect to qualifying as a candidate shall apply to special elections and to general elections at which time a vacancy is filled. (emphasis added).

Special elections shall be held when a vacancy in any office is required to be filled by election at other times than those fixed for general election.

TENN. CODE ANN. § 2-14-101. Therefore an election cannot be both a special election and a general election.

The fact that an election cannot be both a special election and a general election was emphasized by the Supreme Court in McPherson v. Everett, a case involving when to fill a vacancy in the office of County Clerk. 594 S.W.2d 677 (Tenn. 1980). The state election administrator had instructed counties to fill any county vacancies with the May presidential primary, “as a special general election for such office for the unexpired term.” Id. at 679. The Supreme Court disagreed stating: “There is no such process as a ‘special general’ election. This is a contradiction in terms.” Id. at 680, fn. 8 (emphasis added).

This distinction is also commonly recognized as black letter law:

- See ELECTION, Black's Law Dictionary (10th ed. 2014) [“general election (16c) 1. An election that occurs at a regular interval of time. — Also termed regular election.”]
- See ELECTION, Black's Law Dictionary (10th ed. 2014) [“special election (1836) An election that occurs in an interim between general elections, usu. to fill a sudden vacancy in office.”]

Special and general elections are distinct creatures and are incompatible in the context of state law and the Metropolitan Charter. McPherson v. Everett, supra, TENN. CODE ANN. § 2-14-101; Metropolitan Charter Articles 15 & 19. For this reason, the special election held on May 24, 2018 cannot be the “preceding general election” to measure the signature threshold.

D. THE ELECTION COMMISSION WAS CORRECT WHEN IT DETERMINED THAT AUGUST 4, 2016 WAS THE MOST RECENT PRECEDING GENERAL ELECTION.

A review of elections discussed in the Petition shows that the Election Commission was correct when it determined that August 4, 2016 was the most recent preceding general election. The fourth column below shows why an election is or is not the preceding general election:

Date of election	Offices on ballot	Number of votes cast	Preceding general election?
May 24, 2018	Mayor of Metropolitan Nashville & vacant Metro District Council position	82,368	No, because this was a special election. There is no such thing as a special general election. McPherson v. Everett , at 679.
November 8, 2016	U.S and State offices, City Commissioners for Belle Meade, Forest Hills, and Goodlettsville	252,926	No, because these were state and federal elections, not Metropolitan Government elections. Wallace explains that state and federal elections cannot be the “preceding general election”: Our holding in Wise was that the phrase “preceding general election” as used in section 19.01 of the Charter refers to municipal general elections, not to state or federal general elections. Id. We did not hold, nor did we intend to hold, that the phrases “general metropolitan election” and “general election” are synonymous for purposes of section 15.03 of the Charter. Wallace at 58. Belle Meade, Forest Hills and Goodlettsville are “smaller city” municipalities that exist within a metropolitan government.
August 4, 2016	Primary election for U.S. and State offices, vacant Metro District Council position, Metro Assessor of Property, School Board	47,074	Yes, because the election of the Metro Assessor of Property is a municipal general election. Wallace holds that the phrase “general election” includes more than just general metropolitan elections: [G]eneral metropolitan elections” are one unique type of the broader category of municipal “general elections.” All municipal “general elections,” however, are not “general metropolitan elections.” Wallace at 55.

III. MOOTNESS.

The Metropolitan Government relies on and incorporates by reference its filings with this Court that were made in response to Community Oversight’s Motion to Dismiss.

CONCLUSION

The FOP is attempting to narrow the definition of “general election” to mean solely “general metropolitan election.” But the Wallace Supreme Court has already held that general elections, as used in the Charter, are a broad category, which include (but are not limited to) general metropolitan elections.

There is no basis for defying the Wallace holding and creating a new definition of general election in this case. Applying the Wallace Court’s decision, the Election Commission correctly determined that the August 4, 2016 general election is the preceding general election that is used to measure the number of signatures required for a charter amendment petition. The Trial Court’s order upholding the Election Commission’s decision should be affirmed.

Opinion

[*214] The Election Commission of the Metropolitan Government of Nashville and Davidson County, Tennessee used the August 4, 2016 election as the proper election for determining the appropriate number of signatures needed on the petition to hold a referendum on whether to create a police oversight board. Certain individuals and the Fraternal Order of Police [2] ("FOP") disagreed and sought a writ of certiorari. The trial court agreed with the election commission and affirmed its action. The individuals and the FOP appealed. We affirm.

OPINION

On August 1, 2018, Community Oversight Now ("CON") filed with the Metropolitan Clerk a petition for a referendum to be placed on the November 6, 2018 ballot containing a proposal to amend the Metro charter to establish a police oversight board. Pursuant to section 19.01 of the Metro charter, such a petition must be "signed by ten (10) per cent of the number of the registered voters of Nashville-Davidson County voting in the preceding general election." The Davidson County Election Commission staff began analyzing the 8,269 signatures on CON's petition. The commission met on August 15, 2018, and the staff reported that it had reviewed 6,491 of the signatures; 4,801 signatures were verified and 1,690 had been rejected. The commission determined that the preceding general election was the August 4, 2016 election in which 47,074 voters cast their ballots; thus, 4,708 signatures would constitute ten percent. The commission voted to accept the verified signatures as meeting the requirements of the Metro charter.

The FOP and [3] individual current and retired police officers filed a petition for writ of certiorari and supersedeas and writ of mandamus from the decision of the Davidson County Election Commission in circuit court¹ challenging the validity of the referendum based upon the theory that the referendum petition did not contain enough verified signatures. By agreed order, CON was permitted to intervene. The circuit court expedited the proceedings [*215] and, after a hearing on September 14, 2018, the court entered a final order on September 19, 2018, in which it agreed with the election commission's determination that the preceding general election was held on August 4, 2016, and affirmed the decision of the commission. CON filed a motion to alter or amend, which the circuit court denied on September 21, 2018. The FOP appealed. Post-appeal motions will be discussed below.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

Review of the election commission's decision is by common law writ of certiorari. McFarland v. Pemberton, 530 S.W.3d 76, 104 \(Tenn. 2017\).

Reviewing courts may grant relief only when the board or agency whose decision is being reviewed has exceeded its jurisdiction or has acted illegally, arbitrarily, or fraudulently.

Review under a common-law writ of certiorari does not extend [4] to a redetermination of the facts found by the board or agency whose decision is being reviewed. The courts may not (1) inquire into the intrinsic correctness of the decision, (2) reweigh the evidence, or (3) substitute their judgment for that of the board or agency. However, they may review the record solely to determine whether it contains any material evidence to support the decision because a decision without evidentiary support is an arbitrary one.

ANALYSIS

Motion to Dismiss

The FOP filed a motion to expedite the appeal and a reach-down motion in the Supreme Court in an attempt to have the case resolved prior to the November 6 election. On Sept. 26, 2018, this Court granted an expedited schedule that would set the oral argument for after the election, stating:

The election is now less than forty-five days away, and the military and overseas ballots have already been mailed. Absentee ballots must be mailed no later than October 7, 2018, and early voting begins on October 17, 2018. Moreover, Metro concedes that the appeal will not be moot after the election and that the results of the referendum can be held void if the appellants ultimately [5] prevail on appeal. Given that ballots have already been mailed, the impracticality of obtaining a record and briefs in such a short period of time, and the availability of an adequate remedy after the election, it is not feasible for this court to render a decision prior to the November 6, 2018 election. Nevertheless, the court finds it to be in the interest of the public and the parties to shorten the schedules within which the parties and the trial court clerk are to fulfill their respective obligations so this court may render a decision as soon as is reasonably possible.

On September 27, 2018, the Supreme Court denied the reach-down motion. On October 9, 2018, this Court denied CON's motion to dismiss the appeal as moot, "without prejudice to the parties addressing the same issues in their briefs." On October 14, 2018, CON filed a Tenn. Rule App. P. 10 motion asking the Tennessee Supreme Court:

To vacate the Court of Appeals' September 26, 2018 Order holding that "the appeal will not be moot after the election and that the results of the referendum can be held void . . . , and . . . To order the Court of Appeals to adjudicate Community Oversight Now's Motion to [*216] Dismiss the instant appeal for loss of [6] subject matter jurisdiction before the November 6, 2018 election."

The motion was promptly denied by the Supreme Court on October 16, 2018.

On the afternoon of December 4, 2018, the day before oral argument, CON filed another motion to dismiss.

This one was based on the proposition that the instant action is an election contest which must be filed in chancery court within five days of the certification of the election results, which occurred on November 26, 2018. Oral argument was heard the next day. The Court gave Metro five days to respond to CON's motion and the FOP five days after that to respond.

Metro's response is surprising. As a matter of background, in response to the first motion to expedite referenced above, Metro argued that the case should not be expedited: "there is no value in expediting the case — it can be resolved during and even after the November 6, 2018 election without harm to Petitioners or the public. In contrast, rushing the case, and causing any disruption in the election, will cause substantial harm to the public." Metro expressly stated to this court:

There is no harm in having the public go ahead and vote on the referendum, now that the election process has [7] begun. If this Court decides that there were an insufficient number of signatures to place the proposed charter amendment on the ballot, there is a remedy - the results can be treated as a nullity

Petitioner's citations to cases considered moot are not relevant to this case In this case, the FOP et al. have brought their case before the election is to be held and have not waited many months before asking the case to be expedited. There is no reason that this case cannot be resolved in due course by the appellate courts.²

For these reasons, Respondents ask that this motion to expedite be denied.

In contrast, now, post-election, when CON seeks to dismiss the case for failure to file an election contest, Metro reverses direction like a boomerang, and says, in effect, "This case is really an election contest to void the election. It should be brought under Tenn. Code Ann. § 2-17-101\(b\)!" Suddenly, mootness is relevant, and the concerns about disrupting the election have been consigned to the dustbin of history.³

In its response, the FOP argues that challenges to what should be on the ballot are properly brought before the election, citing Barrett v. Giles County, No. M2010-02018-COA-R3-CV, 2011 Tenn. App. LEXIS 548, 2011 WL 4600431 \(Tenn. Ct. App. Oct. 5, 2011\). CON filed a reply [8] to the FOP's response maintaining that the claim that the election must be invalidated "constitutes an election contest," and that it is too late to file an election contest.

The court in Barrett observed that:

"In Forbes v. Bell, 816 S.W.2d 716 \(Tenn. 1991\), our Supreme Court discussed at length the procedures for having an election set aside pursuant to Tenn. Code Ann. § 2-17-101, et seq. The Forbes Court began by observing that there are two grounds upon which an election contest can be based. The first ground involves a claim that the election was valid, but that the contestant, rather than the contestee, would be the winner if the outcome was properly determined. [*217] Id. at 719. If the contestant is successful in court, the proper relief in this type of case is a judgment declaring the contestant the winner. The second ground is a claim that the election was null and void. Id. The proper remedy in this second situation, if the contestant is successful in court, is to order a new election."

Barrett, 2011 Tenn. App. LEXIS 548, 2011 WL 4600431, at *2 (quoting Stuart v. Anderson Cnty. Election Comm'n, 237 S.W.3d 297, 303 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2007)). The first ground does not apply. As for the second ground, Tennessee case law is that an election may be voided by "(1) fraud and illegality rendering the election uncertain or (2) enough illegal ballots having been cast to call the election into doubt." Barrett, 2011 Tenn. App. LEXIS 548, 2011 WL 4600431, at *3; see also Forbes v. Bell, 816 S.W.2d 716, 719-20 \(Tenn. 1991\) (quoting [9] Millar v. Thomas, 657 S.W.2d 750, 751 \(Tenn. 1983\)). This case does not involve allegations of illegal ballots or fraud. This matter is not an election contest.⁴

⁴ Further support for this matter not being an election contest is found in the language of Tenn. Code Ann. § 2-17-101\(b\) itself:

The incumbent office holder and any candidate for the office may contest the outcome of an election for the office. Any campaign committee or individual which has charge of a campaign for the adoption or rejection of a question submitted to the people may contest the election on the question.

Challenges to what should be on the ballot "should ordinarily be brought before the election — preferably in time for the issue to be resolved before the ballots have to be printed and before the start of absentee and early voting." Barrett, 2011 Tenn. App. LEXIS 548, 2011 WL 4600431, at *4. This case was filed before the election, going through an administrative process with the election commission, and a circuit court challenge by writ of certiorari before appealing to this Court. Even then, the FOP sought to expedite this case before this Court and the Tennessee Supreme Court. We do not know what more the FOP could have done to advance this matter. To now require them to file a new lawsuit to litigate once again what has already been decided by the election commission and the circuit court, or to hold that they failed to file such a lawsuit [10] and therefore cannot have heard the claim that they have so earnestly pressed forward, would be an injustice and not in the public interest.

The motion to dismiss is denied.

Standing

In this case, an examination of standing begins with Tenn. Code Ann. § 27-9-101: "Anyone who may be aggrieved by any final order or judgment of any board or commission functioning under the laws of this state may have the order or judgment reviewed by the courts, where not otherwise specifically provided, in the manner provided by this chapter." Our Supreme Court has held:

In order to have standing to file a petition for a common-law writ of certiorari, the party filing the petition must demonstrate that it is "aggrieved" by the decision sought to be reviewed. For the purposes of Tenn. Code Ann. § 27-9-101, to be "aggrieved," a party must be able to show a special interest in the agency's final decision or that it is subject to a special injury not common to the public generally. The party must also show that it was a party to the agency proceedings sought to be reviewed.

the agency's decision to place the [11] referendum on the ballot in a manner singularly different from the effect on the general public. They have standing.

Mootness

Metro and CON argue that this case is now moot because the election has taken place. At the risk of being repetitious, we must again point out that, in response to the first motion to expedite, Metro argued that the case should not be expedited: "there is no value in expediting the case — it can be resolved during and even after the November 6, 2018 election without harm to Petitioners or the public. In contrast, rushing the case, and causing any disruption in the election, will cause substantial harm to the public." At this juncture, Metro cannot take the opposite position.

As stated earlier, we recognized in this Court's order of September 26, 2018, that an appellate decision could not be rendered before the election. In particular, we stated:

Given that ballots have already been mailed, the impracticality of obtaining a record and briefs in such a short period of time, and the availability of an adequate remedy after the election, it is not feasible for this court to render a decision prior to the November 6, 2018 election. Nevertheless, the court finds it to [12] be in the interest of the public and the parties to shorten the schedules within which the parties and the trial court clerk are to fulfill their respective obligations so this court may render a decision as soon as is reasonably possible.

Implicit in our order is a determination that, under the peculiar circumstances of this case, the matter would not be moot. The resolution of this matter would go forward. We adhere to this decision.⁵

Interpretation of Charter Provision

The FOP challenges the number of signatures on the petition. The relevant portion of the Metropolitan Charter is § 19.01, which states in pertinent part:

⁵ As previously noted, on October 12, 2018, CON filed a Tenn. R. App. P. 10 application asking the Supreme Court to vacate the Court of Appeals' September 26, 2018 Order and to order the Court of Appeals to decide CON's motion to dismiss. Two days later, the Supreme Court denied the application. Based on the language of Tenn. R. App. P. 10(a), one may infer that the Supreme Court determined that the Court of Appeals had not "so far departed from the accepted and usual course of judicial proceedings as to require immediate review," or that the extraordinary appeal was not necessary "for complete determination of the action on appeal."

This Charter may be amended subsequent to its adoption in the following manner:

An amendment or amendments may be proposed . . . (2) upon petition filed with the metropolitan clerk, signed by ten (10) per cent of the number of the registered voters of Nashville-Davidson County voting in the preceding general election, the verification of the signatures to be made by the Davidson County Election Commission and certified to the metropolitan clerk. Such resolution or petition shall also prescribe a date not less than eighty (80) [days] subsequent to the date of its filing for the ^[13] holding of a referendum election at which the electorate of the metropolitan government will vote to ratify or to reject the amendments proposed.

The question is, which prior election is the "preceding general election"?

The Tennessee Supreme Court has addressed the meaning of the term "general [*219] election," as used in the Metropolitan Charter. In Wallace v. Metropolitan Government of Nashville & Davidson County, 546 S.W.3d 47, 55 \(Tenn. 2018\), the Court examined the terms "general metropolitan election," and "general election," which are both found in the Metropolitan Charter:

We do not read the use of the distinct phrases "general metropolitan election" and "general election" to be merely accidental. Rather, we view the two phrases to have been intentionally and thoughtfully employed to refer to different elections. The former phrase refers to the particular general election at which the Mayor, Vice Mayor, Councilmen-at-Large, and District Councilmen are elected in August of each fourth odd-numbered year, beginning in 1971, as called for in section 15.01 of the Charter. In contrast, the latter phrase refers more broadly to any municipal general election, including but not limited to general metropolitan elections. In other words, "general metropolitan elections" are one unique type of the broader ^[14] category of municipal "general elections." All municipal "general elections," however, are not "general metropolitan elections."

The Supreme Court in Wallace also explained the case of State ex rel. Wise v. Judd, 655 S.W.2d 952 \(Tenn. 1983\). The Wallace court stated:

the issue in Wise was whether the phrase "preceding general election" as used in section 19.01 of the Charter is limited to a municipal general election or includes a state or federal general election. There was in Wise no dispute that both the August 1979 "general metropolitan election" and the August 1982 "general election" were municipal general elections which would qualify for purposes of section 19.01. The question was whether the November 1982 state general election also would qualify. Our holding in Wise was that the phrase "preceding general election" as used in section 19.01 of the Charter refers to municipal general elections, not to state or federal general elections.

Id. at 57-58 (citations and footnote omitted). The Wise opinion determined that the term "preceding general election" in § 19.01 of the Metropolitan Charter referred to the previous metropolitan general election rather than a state general election, namely the August 1982 election. Wise, 655 S.W.2d at 953.

Several elections have been proposed as the "preceding general election" in ^[15] this case. The most recent election is the May 24, 2018 election for mayor and one district council member. This was a special election to fill vacancies, however, not a general election. See Wallace, 546 S.W.3d at 56. Thus, the May 24, 2018 election cannot be used to determine the number of signatures needed for the petition.

The November 2016 election has also been suggested as being the appropriate "preceding general election." However, no metro offices were on the ballot. State and federal offices were on the ballot, as well as city commissioners for Belle Meade, Forest Hills and Goodlettsville. Wise held that "the phrase 'preceding general election' as used in section 19.01 of the Charter refers to municipal general elections, not to state or federal general elections." Wallace, 546 S.W.3d at 58 (citing Wise, 655 S.W.2d at 953). Thus, the November 2016 election cannot be used to determine the number of signatures needed for the petition.

Metro and CON contend, and the election commission and trial court found, that the August 4, 2016 election is the one to use. FOP disagrees. The issue turns on whether the election for Metropolitan Assessor ^[*220] of Property is a state or a municipal general election.

A metropolitan government is a consolidation of the functions vested ^[16] in a municipal corporation and the county in which it lies. Tenn. Const., Art. XI, Sec. 9, Para. 9; Tenn. Code Ann. § 7-2-108\(a\)\(1\), \(16\). In the course of this consolidation, the charter may alter or even abolish "city and county offices, departments, boards, commissions, agencies and functions, except where otherwise provided in . . . [Tenn. Code Ann. Title 7, Ch. 1-6] or prohibited by the Constitution of Tennessee." Tenn. Code Ann. § 7-2-108\(a\) \(16\). Indeed, our Supreme Court has held that the constitutional offices found in Article 7, Section 1 of the Tennessee Constitution cannot be abolished. Metro. Gov't of Nashville & Davidson Cnty v. Poe, 215 Tenn. 53, 383 S.W.2d 265, 268 \(Tenn. 1964\). Thus, the office of assessor of property cannot be abolished.

The Metropolitan Charter retains the office of assessor of property, but calls the office the metropolitan tax assessor. Metro Charter, § 8.113. Title changes are permissible. Tenn. Code Ann. § 7-2-108\(a\)\(14\). Changes in duties are also permissible. Winter v. Allen, 212 Tenn. 84, 367 S.W.2d 785, 789-90 \(Tenn. 1963\) (upholding the transfer of the duty to assess merchants' ad valorem taxes from the county court clerk to the metropolitan tax assessor). The county official becomes a metropolitan government official. Poe, 383 S.W.2d at 277 ("The Sheriff is a Metropolitan officer and as such he is bound by the functional, budgetary and purchasing provisions of the Charter . . .").

The FOP maintains that the election for assessor is a state election, based in part on the fact that in Title 2 of the Tennessee Code Annotated, "state election" is defined as "an election [^{17}] held to: . . . Choose state, county or district officers." Tenn. Code Ann. § 2-1-104\(a\)\(28\)\(B\). This definition is limited to Title 2, and even then just applies "unless a different meaning is clearly intended." Tenn. Code Ann. § 2-1-104\(a\). No definitions of "municipal election," "municipal general election," "metropolitan election," or "metropolitan general election," are found in Tenn. Code Ann. § 2-1-104. In the context of Title 2, it is evident that "state election" is used to distinguish certain elections from a "federal election." See Tenn. Code Ann. § 2-8-108\(b\) ("All election documents pertaining to a federal election shall be preserved by the county election commission for twenty-two (22) months."); Tenn. Code Ann. § 2-10-119 ("Transfers of funds or assets from a candidate's campaign committee or account for a federal election to a political campaign committee of or for such candidate for public office in this state is prohibited.").

If a sheriff is a "Metropolitan officer," Poe, 383 S.W.2d at 277, then it follows logically that the assessor of property is as well. Furthermore, the Metropolitan Charter designates the assessor as such. Metro Charter, § 8.113 ("The county tax assessor, elected for a term of four (4) years and provided for by general law in Tennessee Code Annotated, sections 67-1-502 to 67-1-505, inclusive, shall be the metropolitan tax assessor."). Because the assessor is a metropolitan [^{18}] officer, the general election for the assessor is a municipal general election.

The FOP also contends that the election for assessor is a partisan election and cannot be a municipal election because "municipal elections shall be nonpartisan." Tenn. Code Ann. § 2-13-208\(a\). However, Tenn. Code Ann. § 2-13-208\(b\) specifically addresses metropolitan governments, stating:

In any county having a metropolitan form of government, the election of the county mayor and the members of the [^{21}] legislative body of such metropolitan government shall be considered to be municipal elections within the meaning of this section; however, this section shall not be construed to require a partisan election for any other officers of the metropolitan government if the charter of such metropolitan government provides that elections for such officers shall be nonpartisan.

(Emphasis added). We read this statute in accord with the natural and ordinary meaning of the words used. Embraer Aircraft Maint. Servs., Inc. v. AeroCentury Corp., 538 S.W.3d 404, 410 \(Tenn. 2017\). The last portion of subsection \(b\) allows a metropolitan government to have nonpartisan elections for "any other officers of the metropolitan government," by providing for such nonpartisan elections in the charter. The Metropolitan Charter of Nashville and Davidson County does not so provide as to the assessor; [^{19}] therefore the election is partisan as provided in the general law.

We conclude, as did the trial court, that the proper election to use to calculate the number of signatures required on the referendum petition, the preceding general election, was the election held on August 4, 2016.

CONCLUSION

The judgment of the trial court is affirmed and this matter is remanded with costs of appeal assessed against the appellants, for which execution may issue if necessary.
