About Me

Level 3 Early Years Practitioner
Teacher Status

I have been involved with St Agnes Nursery for many years. I first worked here in 1993 when my children attended St Agnes School, then I returned in 2012. I have loved being part of the nursery over the years and particularly enjoy encouraging the children to have a love of books and all things creative. I use my artistic skills to involve the children in exciting and challenging activities.

In my spare time I enjoy going on long walks with my husband, son and grandson. We all love visiting our beautiful coastline and exploring the lake district. I also love to facetime my family in New Zealand. I enjoy listening to live music and reading quietly in my garden.

Jill fills our nursery with a love of stories and art. You can feel her love of books when she reads aloud. Jill's teaching background means she knows just how to spark those little imaginations. She loves to get the children exploring famous artists creating their own versions of Van Gogh's Sunflowers, or swirling colours like Kandinsky! Jill sees each child as a little artist, a little storyteller and she cherishes every moment of their creative journey, that's what makes Jill such a special early years educator!
