

Bahij Khouzami, BCBA, IBA, CDA · Professor of Applied Behavior Analysis, Greenfield University

You have probably already tried something that didn't work.

Maybe the therapy felt generic. Maybe you were handed a program designed for every child except yours. Maybe you saw your child sit through sessions with no real progress and nobody could explain why. You kept hoping things would improve. They didn't.

That is not ABA's fault. That is what happens when ABA is done badly.

AIS exists for families who are done settling. We do not offer generic programs, we do not overbook our caseload, and we do not take on a child unless we know we can move the needle. That is not a marketing line. It is how we have operated since day one.

WHO IS BEHIND AIS

- AIS was founded and is led by Bahij Khouzami, BCBA, IBA, CDA
— a Board Certified Behavior Analyst with over a decade of clinical experience in early intervention and complex autism cases.
- A BCBA is the highest internationally recognised clinical qualification in Applied Behavior Analysis. It means every program your child receives is designed, monitored, and adjusted by someone trained to the standard used in the world's leading ABA institutions.
- Bahij also serves as Professor of Applied Behavior Analysis at Greenfield University in Orlando, Florida. That is not a title for a business card. It means the clinical framework at AIS is held to an academic standard of rigor that most private clinics in the region cannot match.

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR YOUR CHILD

- Your child gets a program built around them, not a shelf template.
Every program is designed from a clinical assessment of your child's specific needs, strengths, and barriers. Nothing is copied from another file.
- You will always know what is happening and why.
We collect data every session. Every decision — what to teach next, what to change, what to stop — is driven by that data. Not opinion, not habit.
- Progress is reviewed weekly, not whenever someone gets around to it.
A BCBA reviews your child's program every week. Drift does not happen here.
- You are part of the program.
Caregiver coaching is built into every AIS program. What happens in the clinic has to generalise to your home. We make sure it does.

What Happens Next

A transparent, pressure-free process — on your terms.

THE INTAKE PROCESS

01 You reached out. That took courage.

Most families wait months before asking for help. The fact that you are reading this means you are already ahead. We will respond to every enquiry within one business day.

02 A 15-minute call — directly with Bahij.

Not a receptionist. Not a coordinator. You speak with the Clinical Director. We ask about your child, your concerns, and your goals. You ask us anything. There is no pitch and no obligation.

03 Clinical intake form.

If the call suggests AIS may be a strong fit, we send you our parent intake form. This gives us the clinical background we need to prepare properly for your intake meeting.

04 The intake meeting.

A structured, face-to-face meeting at our center. We review your child's profile, observe where clinically appropriate, and discuss program options honestly — including if we believe another provider would serve your child better.

05 A written program proposal.

Before you commit to anything, you receive a written proposal: recommended hours, setting, team structure, and full fee breakdown. No surprises. No pressure.

IS AIS THE RIGHT FIT FOR YOUR FAMILY?

AIS works well for families who:

- Want to be actively involved
- Understand progress takes time
- Can commit to recommended hours
- Have tried other services and felt let down
- Want honest clinical feedback

We will tell you honestly if:

- The program fit is not right
- We cannot guarantee quality for your child
- A different provider would serve better
- The timing is not right for your family

"Most families who contact us have been let down before. Our job at that first call is not to sell AIS. It is to tell you the truth about whether we are the right fit for your child."

— Bahij Khouzami, BCBA, IBA, CDA | Founder & Clinical Director, AIS

We limit new intakes each month to protect program quality.

If this feels right, the next step is simple.
