Santa's Mailbag

Hello Everyone!!!

With the riding season in full swing, I am getting a lot of questions about used motorcycles- what's a good buy, how to know if the bike is safe and roadworthy, etc.

Buying a used motorcycle can be a great way to save money, but it comes with some risk if you're not careful. Whether you're buying from a private seller or dealership, it's essential to inspect the bike thoroughly, check the paperwork, and understand its maintenance history. All these factors help you know if it's a good idea to invest in the bike!

Here are some things to look for: This checklist will help you avoid unwanted surprises and ensure you're getting a solid ride.

- General Condition: Cleanliness- A clean bike shows pride of ownership.
- Bodywork: Look for dents, cracks, or scratches—especially on tanks and fairings.
- Rust/Corrosion: Check frame, bolts, chain, and exhaust.
- Leaks: Look underneath the bike and around seals for oil or coolant leaks.
- Tires & Wheels: Tread Depth- Tires should have at least 2-3 mm of tread.
- Age of Tires. Check the DOT date; tires older than 5 years should be replaced.
- Wheels: Inspect for dents, cracks, or wobbling.
- Controls & Cables: Throttle & Clutch, should move smoothly and snap back.
- Brakes: Squeeze levers—should feel firm, not spongy.
- Cables: Check for fraying, rust, or stiffness.
- Electrical System. Battery. Look for corrosion on terminals, test voltage if possible.
- Lights: Test all lights, headlight, brake light, signals.
- Horn & Display: Ensure everything on the dash works.

- Engine & Transmission: Startup. Cold start should be smooth and without odd noises.
- Idle & Rev. Listen for knocking, ticking, or backfires.
- Clutch/Gears: Test ride to ensure smooth shifting. Check to confirm 5 or 6 speeds.
- Suspension & Brakes: Forks and shocks. No leaks or bottoming out.
- Brakes. Pads should have material left; rotors shouldn't be grooved.
- Paperwork & History: Ownership Title/Registration. VIN should match the frame and documents. Service Records. Look for regular oil changes and scheduled maintenance.
- Accident History: Ask directly and inspect for repainting or mismatched parts. Also, a good idea is to take the vin number to a registry and check accident and lien history.
- Extras & Modifications: Aftermarket Parts. Understand what's stock and what's modified.
- OEM Parts Included. Check if original parts come with the bike.
- Accessories: Any added luggage, guards, windshields, etc.
- Bring a friend who is familiar with that brand, get the VIN number and call your local dealer to see when warranty expires, or if there are any recalls on the motorcycle.
- If you can test ride it, do it. If it doesn't feel right, walk away.

Once the sale is complete, always remember to enjoy the ride!!

Dad Joke!

Dad: What is the difference between a piano, a tuna, and a pot of glue?

Me: I don't know.

Dad: You can tuna piano, but you can't piano a tuna.

Me: What about the pot of glue?

Dad: I knew you would get stuck on that!

Santa on run for toys

Santa Claus hopped on his Harley Davidson Sunday and led more than 400 bikers through Edmonton for "Toy Run '85" to collect gifts for Santas Anonymous.

The Westmount Shopping Centre parking lot was jammed with leather-clad bikers. Many had strapped enormous stuffed toys to their motorbikes, before the 1:30 p.m. start of the parade.

Jan Steenson, who helped organize the second running of the annual event, estimated more than 400 bikes showed up — a big increase over the 250 bikes involved in last year's toy run.

. . . more than 400 bikes joined the parade

After being warned by Santa, played by Graham Easton, to keep their helmets on during the run to Capilano Shopping Centre, the group rumbled off toward 118th Avenue.

Escorted by police, the bikers rolled along a route which took them through downtown on Jasper Avenue before crossing the North Saskatchewan River on the Capilano Freeway.

At Capilano Shopping Centre, the group deposited stuffed animals, games and puzzles in a two-metre-high pile and then applauded police for their assistance.
