

NEED GUN DOG, WHALEBACK WILL HELP

By Bruce Lindsay Club Funder,

I raised German Wirehaired Pointers for 35 years. So, I should Know a good hunting dog when I see one! See Website on them:

As Eric Labar, Dog Trainer, said to me at Whaleback, “What more do you want from Ted? He makes game; is steady to point; and retrieves to 3 feet in front of you?”

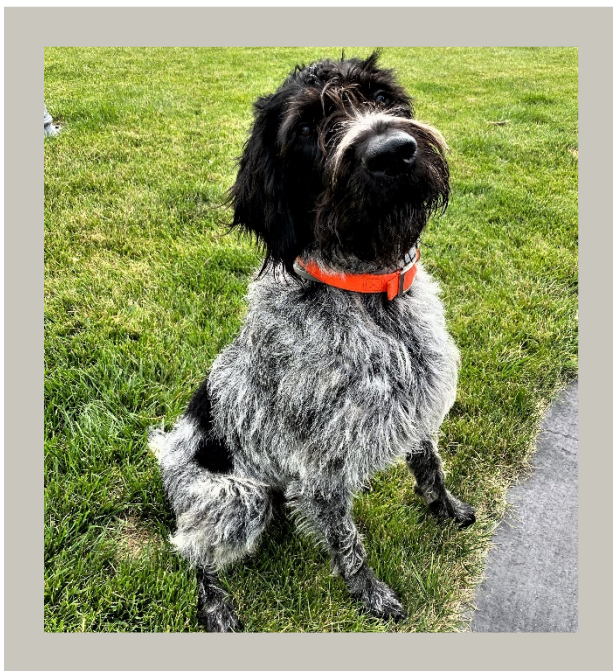

So, all hunters want a dog who has a good nose, good confirmation, is biddable, and able to take commands. Whaleback has the unusual opportunity to help a serious upland hunter with a simply beautiful young pedigree, German Wirehaired Pointer, out of Drathar Stock. We have one for you named BART! He is eager to hunt upland birds.

This neutered male is 2.5 years old! So, when I say he will hunt, I mean yes, this dog is going to be perfection in the upland hunting field or the duck boat with the right hunter owner. He quarters at 30 yards and retrieves beautifully to 59 yards already. Bart just needs a bird to point and a firm but loving owner. He is house broken, uses hand signals, and is crate trained. I was impressed at his Go, Go, Go, eager to please disposition too.

Call ASAP for details 585-943-4698. I want the best home for BART. We will interview you and if it's a good fit, you will get a superb dog right away ready to hunt.

Here is BART's photo. Yes, a mother could love him too!

German Wirehaired Pointers are intensely devoted to their people. If they're raised in a one-person household, they're likely to become one-person dogs, but those raised in a human family will bond to the whole clan, although they still might pick a favorite. They will be happiest if they can spend a lot of time with their humans.
