Happy New Year

Dear Pastors, Church Friends, and Family

The Lord Blessed me yesterday evening with the best update, that I get to share with you. We have been praying for our youngest child James Parker and his salvation. He's been asking questions for quite some time now. He would say things like I don't want my parents to die, because they get to go to heaven, but I don't. He has always maintained that he is not a sinner. He would acknowledge that he has done wrong but would hold to the fact that he is a good boy. Friday January 8th at 5pm Little J.P. for the first time acknowledge that he was a sinner. I asked him if he was ready to ask God to forgive him and he said he was. What a blessing it is to be able to go straight to Gods word and KNOW for a fact that if "You confess with your mouth and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved!"

God has truly blessed me and my family this week. My first week of deputation. Transitioning to part time with my current job and spending the rest of my time booking appointments and working on our ministry. He allowed me to make a lot of new contacts this week. He even allowed us to book a few appointments including a Missions Conference in March. I was able to spend some sweet much needed time with the Lord this week also. Then he closed out the first full week of deputation with the Salvation of my son. Oh my, how Good God is to us!!

Please continue to pray for us as we continue making contacts with pastors and churches. Continue to pray for wisdom in booking appointments. Would you pray most of all for New York city? Specifically, the area of Jamaica Queens. Our Country needs Bible Preaching and Believing churches more now than ever before. Perhaps you would pray about the Lord using you in the BIMI Reseeding America division and going and planting a church in one of our countries much needed Metropolitan cities.

In Christ
