The Solo Practice Guide for Ballroom Dancing

For the last year, a virus named COVID has written our story.
It tried to take dance from us, and for many, it felt like the virus succeeded.

Dance is not something that can be taken away.
It lives inside you.

Dance is wherever YOU are, and it's time to reclaim it.

Take your first step at rediscoveryourdance.com

The Champion Dancer Book Set includes just what a dancer needs to take ownership of their dance journey and become the champion they were born to be!

Brassfield

is a country vocal trio based in Nashville, consisting of brothers Bradley and Chadley Brassfield and Chadley's wife, Jessie Rose Brassfield. It's certainly a family affair that makes for airtight three-part harmonies and a stellar vocal blend. Musical roots run deep for all of them.

The brothers were born in Tupelo, Mississippi, where music is undoubtedly a way of life. In the Brassfield bloodline, being a great singer is commonplace, and the boys are no exception to this phenomenon. Growing up, they toured the southern US playing and singing in churches, fell in love with being on stage, and knew that they wanted to continue their career together in Nashville. That's where they met Jessie Rose.

Born and raised in Lexington, Kentucky, Jessie has spent her whole life in a musical bubble. She's been a happy student of music from the start, and her love of music encompasses all genres. She's been singing, playing piano, and writing songs for as long as she can remember. She comes from a long line of professional singers/musicians/writers, her dad being JP Pennington of the country hit-making group Exile. Following in his footsteps, she moved to Nashville to pursue country music, met the boys, the stars aligned, and two important things happened. Jessie and Chadley fell in love, and the trio discovered that their three unique voices came together to form a killer vocal blend. The rest is history.

Brassfield is a popular and in-demand Nashville act. Before the pandemic, they were known for playing shows five to seven days a week in Music City. Credits include being the house band for the famous Opry Backstage Grill and hosting weekly hit songwriter nights that put them on stage with many of country music's most prolific songwriters. All three members of Brassfield are songwriters themselves and are beyond thrilled to have brought their music to life with legendary producer Paul Worley.
